College to Host Student Teaching Conference

Deadline This Week For Test-Out Plans

Students who are interested in testing out of certain courses to be offered next quarter were reminded today that arrangements must be made this week with the instructor of the course.

According to an announcement by the committee in charge of the "Program for the Superior Student," those planning to take the test-out examinations must make application no later than the fifth week of the quarter to the instructor who will be teaching the course.

Regulations adopted by the faculty last spring provide that students making grades of "A" or "B" on the test will be excused from taking the course. Those who make a grade of "A" will receive credit for the course while those who make a grade of "B" may substitute another course in the same area. A student may not use more than two courses in any one department for testing out nor may he receive more than 16 hours of "test-out" credit.

The test-out program is part of a plan for the superior student which also includes an independent study program and an honors program.

Students interested in the latter two programs may obtain additional information by talking with the chairman of the department in which they are majoring or with a member of the committee administering the program.

Members of the committee are Wayne Wolfe, assistant to the president; James J. McLaughlin, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences; L. G. Stone, dean of the School of Education; Richard J. Delorit, dean of the School of Agriculture; Miss Vera Moss, professor of English; Richard A. Cooklock, head librarian, and Edward N. Peterson, professor of history.

Parent's Day Football Foe Is Milwaukee

The parents of River Falls State College students have been invited by the Student Senate to spend Saturday afternoon on the campus and to watch the Falcons play Milwaukee that night in a football game at Ramer Field.

The annual event formerly was called Dads' Day, but the Student Senate has changed the name because of its desire to entertain both the mothers and fathers of the students.

Registration in Hagestad Student Center is scheduled for 2 p.m. and will be followed by a coffee hour with the River Falls faculty.

Students will conduct their parents on campus tours at 3 p.m. At 4, the fathers will watch a football movie while mothers attend a reception in Hathorn Hall.

Dinner is scheduled for 5 p.m. in the Student Center. At 6:45 the parents will participate in a torchlight parade to Ramer Field.

Introductions of the fathers of football players will be made at 7:15 and the Wisconsin State College Conference game against the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee is set for 7:30.

Fran O'Connell, junior from Baldwin, is chairman of the Senate committee which is planning the event.

Frosh Initiation To Take Place October 21-23

The annual freshmen initiation week is scheduled for the days and nights of October 21-23. All freshmen are required to have purchased a beanie from the sophomore class, which plans to sell them in the Student Center during the week previous to initiation.

As in years past, the "kangaroo court" will be in session at the end of this week to punish those freshmen who flaunt the laws and regulations which the sophomore class deems necessary for the mutual good of all concerned.

Details concerning the laws and regulations will be given in a later issue of the Student Voice. They will be given far enough in advance so the freshmen will have enough time to familiarize themselves with said laws and regulations.

This traditional freshmen initiation week is used mainly to welcome the incoming class into the close knit college life which prevails here at River Falls.

Prof to Instruct Nursing Students Over Television

Dr. Josephine Paterek of the English faculty began video taping communications classes for student nurses Sept. 27. This is the first televised project of its kind in the country.

The program is being sponsored by five Twin Cities area hospitals. It was instituted because of the lack of qualified teachers of English available to the schools of nursing.

The classes will be televised winter and spring quarters on KTCA, Channel 2. The course is similar to Communications 11 and 12 at Wisconsin State College at River Falls. The first class will consist of approximately 250 freshman nursing students.

Dr. Paterek's weekly schedule will include two half-hour televised lectures and a one-hour lecture at each of the five hospitals. She will continue to teach half-time at River Falls.

The success of the program is being watched closely by industrial concerns because of possible application to executive training programs.

Organization Presidents Requested to Fill Out Forms for Meletean

Organization Presidents are asked to please stop in the Student Voice office this week and fill out organization information sheets. This must be done in order for your organization to appear in Meletean this year.

FSA to Give Talent Show Next Monday

"Around the World in '62" is the theme for the Foreign Student's Association talent show which will be held on Monday, Oct. 8, at North Hall Auditorium at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The foreign students, who come from various walks of life, have pooled talents under the guidance of their advisor, Miss Marion Hawkins, to put on the show.

Songs from Africa, Iran, Panama, Hong Kong and Korea; dances from Austria and Hawaii; narrations from Thailand, Germany, Malaya — all make up the colorful and musical talent show. Authentic costumes and music add variety to the show.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Association for fifty cents. Proceeds of the show will go toward a scholarship.

Faculty Attends 2nd Annual Tea Given by Prucha

"Getting to Know You" was the theme of the evening as Prucha Hall held its Second Annual Faculty Tea last Thursday. The program consisted of escorted tours of the Prucha facilities followed by a coffee hour in the basement lounge.

Prucha Council President, Floyd Woolson rated the event as "highly successful" for several reasons besides that of increased attendance over last year. Woolson said, "It is a rare opportunity, indeed, when a student can converse with his instructor on something other than the subject matter. Although suits and ties were the attire, the conversation tonight was anything but formal. We are deeply appreciative to the faculty who did more than their part to make this a highly enjoyable evening for all concerned."

The men of Prucha Hall also took advantage of the opportunity to introduce Kathy Finn, their homecoming queen candidate.

Hathorn Hall Elects Officers for Year

Editorials

Suitcase Situation Again

Just about one year ago to the week, our predecessor wrote a highly satirical editorial criticizing the so-called "suitcase students." A suitcase student, as everyone knows, is one who heads for home every Friday afternoon just as soon as his classes for the day are over, and sometimes sooner.

It was that editor's purpose, perhaps, to shame some students into staying in River Falls for the weekend. This attempt failed, as has every other one that every other editor has tried for many years back.

Now, it is true that the editor must stay here weekends, for that is the time when the paper is put together for the next Monday. Is his purpose for wanting people to stay on campus due to the fact that he is lonely? Does he just wish to wreak a fate on other people which he himself is subjected to? We feel that his aim is loftier than that.

Every one of the editors we have known since we have been in school has been motivated by sincere desire to be of benefit to the school. They were proud of it, and wanted it to become more than just a five-day institution.

There is little to add, pro or con. However some reiteration might be in order. The social committee does have activities planned for the weekend, with emphasis on time for study, which should require not a little of the student's time.

We might add that we, too, are in favor of having more people stay on campus for weekends. River Falls State College does operate on weekends, and we feel that the more people here for weekend activities, the more and better these activities are bound to become.

No News Is Bad News

An incident happened last week that showed that the Student Voice is read, at least in some quarters. For this bit of news, anyway, we are thankful.

The incident itself, however, leaves little for us to be thankful for. It concerns a club on campus that had submitted a story for publication in last week's paper.

That story did not get published; although the club's meeting time was in the organization calendar. There were technical reasons for this, and certainly not any personal vindictiveness on our part, and we are sorry that the story did not get into print.

The club members were understandably upset, and we don't blame them for this. We can understand one of their numbers coming into the office and complaining, even though he gave us no chance to explain our position. But when the club's faculty adviser comes in and begins to berate us for leaving the story out, then that is carrying matters to an extreme.

We have a responsibility to discharge to the College and to the students. We will continue to discharge that responsibility, to the best of our ability. If we occasionally need reminders as to those responsibilities, well and good, but let them come from someone with a legitimate complaint.

College Is No Longer an Island; Outside Groups Bring Influences

Today it is rare for a college or university to be "an island entirely unto" itself, for each institution is strongly influenced by organizations outside its normal channels of control.

It is taken for granted that a typical Wisconsin State College would operate within boundaries established by the Board of Regents of State Colleges, the Legislature, and the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

It is also to be expected that the development path followed by the typical College would be attuned to the diverse needs of the geographic area it served, and that within the established framework it would endeavor to provide a program valuable to its publics.

But in this developmental process, the college also must take into consideration the interests and strictures of agencies and organizations outside the normal control pattern. In most instances this is good because it tends to force an institution to view a proposed change or innovation in terms of its relationship to the entire college, and not as an isolated incident.

Among the other "outside" organizations and agencies which a college must consider are the State Department of Public Instruction; the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which is its regional accrediting agency; the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE), if it is engaged in the process of training elementary and secondary school teachers; and other professional accrediting bodies if it offers work in specialized fields supervised by these professional groups.

Because numerous outside units are involved, and each is naturally interested in advancing its own point of view, difficulties can arise. If a college, for example, were to decide to offer a 34-hour major in history, it might find that it had satisfied the requirements of the Department of Public Instruction for certification of history teachers; that the North Central Association wasn't concerned because it tends to accredit whole institutions, not departments (although it would be a different matter if the college wanted to do this on the graduate level); but the NCATE complained because of some procedural changes, as did another professional body which felt it would be valuable for its students to have the history major, but thought 34 hours too much because it wanted breadth in other areas.

In proposing a budget of $62,400,000 for the 1963-65 biennium, the Wisconsin State Colleges are attempting to catch up with the enrollment increases which have already taken place on the nine campuses and be prepared for the deluge of students expected in the near future.

Eugene R. McPhee, director of state colleges, pointed out that in the fall of 1958 the Wisconsin State Colleges enrolled 13,686 students. By the fall of 1964, the last year of the next biennium, the total enrollment is expected to reach 27,831.

"Not only must we be prepared for an additional 6,654 students during the next two years," he continued, "but we are also faced with the task of reconquering ground lost last fall when we were given an appropriation adequate for the 1,500 new students expected, but received 3,000 young men and women instead."

Despite its size, the proposed budget for 1962-63 actually seeks an increase of $16,000,000 over the 1961-63 budget from tax funds, while an additional $6,000,000 will come from self-sustaining operations in the nine State Colleges — student fees and rentals.

And the main emphasis in the increased request is on staffing the institutions so that they can handle the 27,000 young men and women of Wisconsin who will be enrolled by 1964.

Discussing the increase, McPhee pointed out that $1,300,000 was a deficiency request to enable the colleges to employ 88 additional teachers who, actually, should have been secured to take care of the enrollment increase in 1961, as well as to bolster libraries and secure clerical help.

Three hundred and sixty-eight new faculty also will be needed to cope with the enrollment increase of 6,654 students during the next two years and, with additional and much-needed support for the library facilities, and clerical help, there is a request for $6,315,000. Bringing faculty salaries up to a point where they are competitive accounts for $3,625,000, while another $3,300,000 is budgeted for the instructional improvement programs. Increases in fixed costs, such as utilities and the operation of new buildings, come to $1,300,000.

Final Action On Budgets Due Tonight

Faculty representatives of various organizations attended the weekly Student Senate meeting last Monday to discuss their budget allotments.

The Senate discussed tentative budgets. Senate President Robert Richardson and members Larry Feltes and Fran O'Connell were chosen to discuss final budget plans with the President. Final action on the budget is to be taken at tonight's meeting.

In other action, Larry Feltes reported that the Social Committee is planning to add several cartoons and short subjects to the movie schedule for the coming year. He also announced that the Committee would like to start a permanent record collection for school use. Further action on this matter will be taken by the Social Committee.

Chisholm Accomplishments Told

by Pat Henneman

Since 1945 Dr. F. P. Chisholm has been on the faculty of River Falls in the division of arts and sciences. He received his B.A. from Cornell University, his M.A. and Ph.D., from Syracuse University, both of which are located in New York.

In recognition of his work in editing publications of council work on the new state curriculum in English, he received the Distinguished Service Award of the Wisconsin Council of Teachers of English. He is also chairman of the committee on junior memberships for the National Teachers of English and a Past President of the International Society for General Semantics.

This summer's activity for Dr. Chisholm included a position as consultant at a workshop in August at Terre Haute, Ind., where he discoursed on semantics in relation to English. His primary aim in this field is "trying to improve the maturity of the judgement the student shows in his use of the language."

Thirty-five of these special courses in thirty different cities, offered in a similar manner, have been conducted by Dr. Chisholm through the years. Columbia, Occidental College, and Southern Methodist are a few of the various sponsors who have engaged him.

Korenbaum Attends Meets At Congress of Sociologists

Dr. Myrtle Korenbaum of the social science department at WSCRF, attended meetings of the American Sociological Association and the 5th World Congress of Sociologists this past summer. The conventions were held in the Shoreham Hotel in Washington, D.C. At the meetings, the top sociologists in the country gathered and presented papers on various aspects of the field.

The theme of this year's congress centered on the "Uses of sociology". Because the association has grown from under 3,000 members in 1949 to 7,300 this year, there has been a move to develop sections which deal with specialized areas. Some of these areas are criminology, medical sociology, psychology, and sociology of education. By listening to the sociologists present their papers, members of the association learn what research is being conducted. They also have the chance to meet and to exchange ideas with other persons engaged in the same field.

Dr. Korenbaum stated that the meetings stimulate a participant to a "point of accomplishing more." "A person wants to discover new areas on his own." A sidelight of the meetings is the huge display of new materials and textbooks presented by publishers.

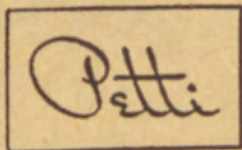

The international meeting met this year in the United States for the first time. Sessions were conducted in French and English. Dr. Korenbaum felt quite fortunate in being able to understand both languages. The themes of this meeting were the sociology of development — helping and understanding underdeveloped nations. The second was the nature and problems of sociological theory. Because the session lasted until September 8th, Dr. Korenbaum had to miss the last part of it.

There were no hard feelings toward the Russians because, "In the sociology field, we can have discussions that cut across political lines." The Russian sociologists have a higher status than do those in free nations, but do not have the power to explore very many new fields.

Carlton Beck Earns Ph. D. At Minnesota

Dr. Carlton E. Beck, assistant professor of education at River Falls, finished his work toward his doctor's degree this summer at the University of Minnesota. The subject of his doctoral dissertation is "Guidance: Its Philosophical Presuppositions."

Dr. Beck, who will officially receive his doctorate at the end of this quarter, taught at the University of Minnesota this summer and for two years before he came to River Falls in 1960.

After earning his B.S. degree in social studies and English in 1952 at Ohio University, he began work on his M.Ed. degree in school administration and guidance, which he completed in 1954.

He also was in the Navy from 1952 to 1954, and was stationed in Washington, D.C. His work was connected with cryptography, which is the act or art of writing secret characters.

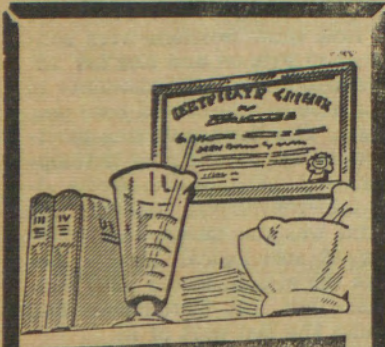

During the four following years, he taught English at Parama High School in Cleveland, Ohio.

Dr. Beck majored in the history and philosophy of education while at the University of Minnesota and minored in educational psychology.

Besides teaching several education courses here, Dr. Beck also supervises student teachers in secondary education with emphasis in the field of English.

Professor Notes Education Lag

"The technological achievements of 1962 will not reach college students until 1982. Modern education is 20 years behind modern technology." These statements were made by Gerald Ahlquist, new Professor Associate of physical science at River Falls.

To try to improve this situation, Prof. Ahlquist is conducting an experiment to see if future teachers can grasp the newest technological developments. He plans to use this experiment as the subject of his doctoral thesis.

The educational lag, asserts Mr. Ahlquist, is caused by two factors. Most scientists who make discoveries are unable to translate their technical terms into everyday language; and many teachers are either ignorant of new scientific developments or have only a fragmentary knowledge of science and do not understand the new achievements.

Mr. Ahlquist has divided freshmen elementary education majors into four sections of Man and the Physical Universe, each equivalent academically to the others. Two of his four sections are being taught with conventional methods, the other two with Mr. Ahlquist's experimental process.

Technical terminology, Mr. Ahlquist believes, can best be explained by demonstrations rather than by complex definitions. He also contends that modern textbooks have placed too much emphasis on gaining scientific knowledge by reading rather than by observing natural phenomena.

"The best students", Prof. Ahlquist states, "will make the most mistakes; but they won't make the same mistakes twice."

He explains that the better students will observe and experiment more and consequently make more errors.

It was probably this statement that caused one of Mr. Ahlquist's discouraged students to exclaim, "He says we'll fail 1,000 times before we succeed! I'll flunk!!" To support his statement Mr. Ahlquist paraphrases Thomas Edison: "Success is 99 per cent perspiration and one per cent inspiration."

This experiment will have various side effects, Prof. Ahlquist believes. It will help his students learn the nature of educational research. They will learn to look for flaws in reasoning and should constantly be asking Mr. Ahlquist what he is doing and why.

"Students in my two experimental classes," says Mr. Ahlquist,

"can be sure that they are getting the best technological information in the field."

If, as Prof Ahlquist hopes, the students of his two experimental classes progress more rapidly than those of his other two sections, he will put a correction factor in the grades, so that grades will be comparable.

"I was loaded with new information and blasted off at the start of this quarter, losing many students on the way," Mr. Ahlquist said. But, he adds, he is picking them up now, one by one.

Prof. Ahlquist encourages his students to keep trying, expecting to make many mistakes.

Before coming to River Falls, Prof Ahlquist taught at St. Cloud State College in Minnesota and received his B.S. and M.A. degrees at the University of Minnesota.

Mr. Ahlquist

Student Senate Invites Applicants To Committees

All students interested in a position on faculty committees are invited to attend the Oct. 1 meeting of the Student Senate in Room 200 of the Student Center.

The faculty committees which have openings for students are:

- Personnel Committee,
- Library Committee,
- Development Committee,
- Athletic Committee.

Students holding positions on any of these faculty committees would have a vote equal to that of the faculty members.

WSC Instructors Tell Polk-Burnett Teachers Of Education Advances

Miss Ann Dubbe, Mrs. Naunda Tietz and Miss Emogene Nelson served as consultants for the Polk-Burnett Counties Fall Conference for School Teachers, Supervisors and Administrators. This conference was held recently at Unity High School. The areas they represented were reading, arithmetic and physical education.

Topics discussed in the various groups were individualizing the reading program, new trends in arithmetic and physical education in the elementary school.

Dr. Ethel Thompson, N.E.A. consultant, addressed elementary and high school groups with the topic "Teaching in 1963."

Mr. Leo H. Burdette served as chairman for the conference.

Eau Claire Edges Falcons in Thriller

Van Gordon Paces Blugolds In Key Conference Victory

River Falls dropped its second straight conference football game Saturday, this time at the hands of the Blugolds of Eau Claire by the score of 21-12. The loss drops the Falcons season record to 1-3 and brings their conference below the .500 mark at 1-2. Eau Claire tied with River Falls, with a 1-2 mark going in to the game extended its seasons record to 2-2 and their conference mark to two wins against only one loss.

River Falls drew first blood in the second quarter of the contest. The Falcons started their touchdown drive on their own 32 yard line. Ed Vick capped the drive with a one yard plunge for the TD. The conversion attempt failed when a bad pass from center sailed out of reach of quarterback Tom Everson, who was holding for the attempt.

Eau Claire came back with a little over three minutes remaining in the first half to score on a one yard plunge by quarterback, Jim Van Gordon. The extra point attempt was good and the Blugolds left the field at intermission with a slim 7-6 lead.

Midway through the third quarter Van Gordon sparked a Blugold drive that started from their own five yard line (by way of a fine Everson punt) and eventually led to the second Eau Claire touchdown. Van Gordon personally had a hand in every play of the 95 yard drive with the exception of the plunge for the TD. He ran the ball eight times and completed three straight passes, to put the ball on the Falcon one yard line where Larry Domer carried it over for the score.

Late in the third quarter Eau Claire punted to River Falls from their own 22 yard line. Senior halfback, Larry Lloyd, fielded the ball on his own 22 yard line and skirted the left sidelines all the way for what appeared to be a beautiful 78 yard touchdown run. River Falls, however, was detected clipping on the play and the ball was brought back.

After an exchange of punts and goals for the quarter break Eau Claire scored their third and final touchdown of the evening on a 26 yard sweep by reserve quarterback, Tom Zastrow. The conversion attempt was good and the score stood at 21-6 in favor of Eau Claire with about six minutes remaining in the game.

River Falls took over possession on the kickoff and started another drive. With the ball on their own 26 yard line quarterback Bob Pritchard tossed a short screen pass to Porky Lloyd. Lloyd took the ball five yards behind the line of scrimmage and raced down the sidelines untouched for a 74 yard scamper and six points. Once again the conversion attempt failed and the score stood at 21-12.

The Falcons attempted an on-side kick on the ensuing kick off but Eau Claire recovered the ball and ran out the clock to end the game.

Eau Claire picked apart the thought-to-be strong River Falls defense for over 300 yards. In the battle of statistics, however the game was very close. River Falls had 12 first downs to Eau Claire's 8, they attempted 16 passes and completed 4 for 111 yards while the Blugolds attempted 18 aeriels for a total of 107 yards. Eau Claire out rushed the Falcons 201 yards to 178, and each team intercepted two passes.

Falcons To Face UWM On Dad's Day

River Falls will play host to the waukee on the eve of the annual University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee's Dad's Day festivities here on campus.

This will mark the first time in recent years that the UWM has made the long trip to River Falls. The Cardinals have split their two conference games to date and are even with a record of 1-1. The only mutual foe that these two teams have faced this season has been Oshkosh, and the results couldn't have been any closer as both River Falls and UWM defeated the Titans by the score of 7-6.

Heading For Open Spaces is Larry "Porky" Lloyd in Saturday's game with Eau Claire. Lloyd scored on a 74 yard screen pass from quarterback Bob Pritchard in the fourth quarter and had a 78 yard punt return called back on a penalty. The Blugolds downed River Falls 21-12.

Thinclads Down Bethel In Opener

The River Falls cross country team won its first meet of the season last Friday by downing Bethel 23-32. The meet was held at Como Park in St. Paul, Minn. The weather conditions were good for the three and a half mile course, but wet ground from a rain the night before hampered attempts for outstanding times.

Fred Purcell won the race for Bethel with a time of 19:08. Second, third, fourth, and fifth places were garnered by the Falcons. Dave Madison finished second with a time of 20:45, followed by, Oscar Skog, 20:49; Jerry Sturn, 21:02; and Chuck Wolwode 21:21. Bethel captured sixth, seventh, and eighth places. River Falls ninth and Bethel tenth for the final team scores, in matches where low score wins.

The outstanding showing by the Falcon thinclads should be some indication of an improvement over last years record of only two wins for the season.

Dad's Day Changed to Parent's Day

For the first time in this school's history the annual event where athlete's fathers have been honored with their sons will be called Parent's Day, instead of the old, well known name "Dad's Day". This was done to encourage participation by both the mother and father of the athlete.

This year's festivities will begin with registration at 2:00, a football game for the fathers and a tour for the mothers at 4:00 and will be climaxed for both at the game with UWM. The "Student Voice" wishes to extend the heartiest greetings to all parents.

Liston - Patterson Fight

In last Tuesday night's heavyweight championship fight at Comiskey Park challenger Sonny Liston stunned the boxing world when he knocked out Floyd Patterson in 2:06 of the first round.

Liston, although favored by the professional oddsmakers was definitely not the favorite with the majority of the sports writers. This writer feels that for the most part many of these pseudo-journalists favored Patterson, not because of his potential to win but because of Liston's now not so unfamiliar background.

Patterson, although never really considered a great champion, was one of the most popular champions with the sports writers. Patterson was more or less an idolized champion, having risen through the ranks of golden-gloves and olympic championships to become the heavyweight champion.

Liston said in effect after the fight that if the public would forget his past he could become a great champion. But, nearly all of the sports pages the next morning carried detailed reports of his police records and sprinkled past, along with the fight story itself.

From this corner it appears that the biggest fight that challenges Liston in the coming months is that of public acceptance.

Robinson Comeback Shattered

Sugar Ray Robinson, at 42, and five times holder of the middleweight crown, took another step down the ladder of his declining career last Tuesday night in London. Robinson probably the most admired boxer in his heyday lost his second straight decision to Terry Downes of England.

Cage Tournery

In the well it's about time department comes this item. The WIAA (Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association) has finally devised a system of speeding up the state high school basketball tournament. They have narrowed the pre-state tournament down from three weeks to two weeks. Under the new system, which is to start in 1963, the sub-district play will be eliminated. Regional play will start for some teams on February 25 and it will be finished on March 1-2. The surviving schools, 64 strong, will engage in a sub-sectional playoff on March 4, with the 32 winners advancing to the sectionals March 8-9. The eight remaining teams will open the state finals the following week.

I M Action Slows Down

Intramural touch football, formerly one of the more popular sports on campus, has been straggling along for the past two weeks amid a maze of confusion and forfeits. Athletic Director Ben Bergsrud has said that several teams may be dropped from the league if the forfeiting continues. If the teams still forfeit, the league will be disbanded all together.

In spite of the fact that over twenty games were scheduled, only nine were played. Here are the results of those games:

- Key's 6, Post Grads 6
- Rogues 6, 69'ers 0
- Post Grads 21, Prucha 3d Floor 6
- Gorgers 14, 3d Floor 0

19th, 20th Birthdays Spent in POW Camp

By Alice Lewerenz

Room 26 of South Hall is now the office of a man born in the heart of Germany 36 years ago; a man who marched with Hitler's forces in World War II; a man who spent his nineteenth and twentieth birthdays as a prisoner-of-war in Russian work camps.

This is the same man who, as holder of the World Champion title in Kayak, Slalom, accepted the invitation of the American Canoe Association to visit the United States in 1955. (Kayak-slalom is a rugged sport involving a swift river with rapids and a one-man water craft like a tiny canoe only completely decked, the covering being laced about the paddler.)

Walter Kirschbaum returned to the United States in March of 1957, this time to stay. When asked why he made this decision he replied, "I was curious to live in, and raise a family in, greater personal freedom." Thus the son of a restaurant owner in Furth, Germany began proceedings for citizenship which were completed this year.

Mr. Kirschbaum is an assistant-professor in the foreign language department and instructs in both German and French classes. His present ambition is to "develop methods of teaching foreign languages." To some people this may seem a bit tame for the man who was the first to run all the canyons of the Colorado River, including the Grand Canyon, without portage in a 19 inch wide kayak.

According to Mr. Kirshbaum, being with his family is his greatest happiness. He has a wife, Ruth, and two sons, Christian, 3, and Fredric, 1. He said he met his wife, "By asking if she would carry my pumpernickel sandwiches in her purse." (She agreed...) He explained that they both happened to be on a public hike to an old mission while he was attending Friedrich Alexander University in Germany.

In reply to a question regarding Nazi influence on his life, Mr. Kirschbaum made the following statements:

"Having lived under both fascism and communism, I have learned to treasure personal freedom, my own and that of others, probably more than anyone who has never been exposed to totalitarianism. I have since developed a watchful eye for such tendencies, and will never be a blind follower of anything."

I am very careful in taking for granted what is called "public opinion" or "mass movement."
"Relatives of my family have died in concentration camps or had to flee Germany, but I cannot claim that, as a child, I realized the significance of these tragedies. The "Hitler-Youth" impressed me no more than the Boy Scouts' outdoors activities impress the youngster today, no more than the high school brass band gets him carried away."

These ideas seem to reflect the experience of this man who entered a Russian POW camp weighing 165 pounds and was released 16 months later weighing 92 pounds. But Mr. Kirschbaum says these things are all behind him now and seem far away. He proceeded to tell of his acquaintance with Vjacheslav Molotov who then (in 1955) was Foreign Minister of Russia. They met by chance on the ship "Queen Elizabeth" on the way back to Europe and discussed "mostly philosophical topics".

Mr. Kirschbaum spends his spare time white-water kayaking and designing and building his own kayaks. He indicated in this interview that he also likes to listen to classical music such as that by Bach and Beethoven. When asked his impressions of the River Falls campus and its students, Mr. Kirschbaum answered, "There seems to be attractive atmosphere here and the students are open-minded, interested, young people."

Prucha Hall Dorm Council

Residence Halls Elect Officers For This Year

Stratton Hall, Prucha Hall and Hathorn Hall have elected their officers for the coming year.

In Stratton Hall, the presidency was won by Pat Denison. Mr. Denison is a math major from Birchwood. Vince DiSalvo, a speech major from Cudahy is the treasurer. The new secretary is Tom Vest, sophomore from St. Paul, Minn. The vice-president's office is temporarily vacant.

Sophomore Floyd Woolson, a biology major from St. Croix Falls, holds the office of president in Prucha Hall. Vice-president is Mike Bieck, a sophomore from Edgerton. Larry Baker, a freshman, is the secretary, and Dave Forrest, sophomore from Dresser, is the treasurer.

In addition to the officers, both Stratton Hall and Prucha Hall have elected dorm councils, which consists of two representatives from each wing on all floors, making a total of twelve on the councils.

In Hathorn Hall, Maren Thoreson, a junior from Roberts is the president. Glenda Sheldon, sophomore from Lawrenceburg, Ind., is the vice-president. The secretary's post is filled by Chris Laska, junior from Hayward, and the treasurer is Cathy Linden, sophomore from Amery.

Hathorn Hall will hold their dorm council election in October.
