Winter Carnival Plans Organized

A five dollar prize will be awarded to the student submitting the winning slogan to be used as the theme for the 1963 Winter Carnival.

Entries for the slogan may be submitted from Tuesday, Dec. 11, through Friday, Dec. 14. A suggestion box will be in the Student Center for these entries.

The winning slogan will be used in the theme for the Winter Carnival buttons which will be designed by a River Falls art student.

Held Jan. 21 through 26, Winter Carnival will include such events as a kick-off convo, beard contest, winter carnival king contest, talent show, all-day ski outing and a semiformal dance.

Registration for the annual Winter Carnival beard contest will be held Friday, Dec. 14 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Student Center.

Any male student attending River Falls State and sponsored by a social organization on campus may enter the contest.

Other rules announced by the carnival committee state that the beard must be on the face and that entrants must be clean shaven at registration.

Categories will include longest heaviest, and most unusual. Judging will take place Wednesday, Jan. 23, at the Talent Show.

Franklin Hobbs Originates Show On RF Campus

"And now from Wisconsin State College at River Falls, here's Franklin!" These words signaled a first for River Falls — A live broadcast direct from the campus.

Franklin Hobbs, late-night disc jockey for WCCO Radio, enabled students at RFSC to see firsthand the production of a radio broadcast, Friday night from 10:30 to midnight. Several students appeared on the program as his guests.

Mr. Hobbs was invited by the Student Foundation Committee to raise money for renovation of the South Fork. The evening netted $216 for the project.

Franklin Hobbs interviews a student at the dance held before his broadcast. The broadcast and dance were sponsored by the Student Foundation Committee.

Smokers Asked to Save Packs

Additional funds for the project of the Student Foundation Committee appeared on the horizon this week with the announcement by Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company that it will donate one cent for each empty cigarette pack from one of its brands.

Larry Feltes, chairman of the Student Foundation Committee, announced today that his organization will award a cup to the group turning in the most packs and a plaque to the group in second place.

Organizations may begin saving empty packs from Chesterfield, L&M and Oasis cigarettes immediately, Mr. Feltes said, and the contest will run until May 15.

"We are hoping that students leaving for the Christmas holidays may make arrangements in their home towns with parents, friends and perhaps even some commercial establishments to help collect empty packages for their organizations," Mr. Feltes said.

"Funds donated by Liggett and Myers under this arrangement will be used for the Foundation's project this year — the beautification of the South Fork — the area south of the dormitories," he added.

After the holidays, Liggett and Myers representatives will also set up collection stations in local drug stores, groceries and restaurants according to Robert Renninger, area representatives for the cigarette firm.

Mr. Renninger made several trips to the campus and a representative of the company met with the Foundation Committee Thursday evening to work out details for the project.

Tentative plans call for registration shortly after the Christmas holidays of all organizations participating in the project with details to be announced at that time. However, Mr. Feltes emphasized the importance of students beginning to collect empty packs immediately to increase the amount of money that the Foundation Committee will receive for its South Fork Beautification Project, a project which Mr. Feltes said, "will add lasting beauty to our already beautiful campus."

Registrar Melvin Germanson helps Dennis Manthe, junior from Madison, complete registration procedure. Registration swelled to 1760 last week, a drop of 50 students from fall quarter.

Winter Quarter Classes Attract 1,760 Students

Registrations for winter quarter to date totals 1760, according to Registrar Melvin Germanson. A probable 20 late registrations are expected, leaving the winter enrollment some 30 to 40 short of the record fall registration.

This "natural drop," explained Mr. Germanson, "can be accounted for by transfers, employment, hardships and marriages."

"By 1964, students attending Wisconsin State College at River Falls may well exceed the 2000 mark," Mr. Germanson stated, "Evidence of an ever-increasing demand for higher education."

Fall quarter figures for 1962 established a new student enrollment record for River Falls State College. A total of 1836 students paid their tuition fees, 23 withdrawing within 3 weeks. The final attendance was 1813, an increase of 133 over the '61-'62 figures.

In '60-'61, fall registration reached 1445, with the expected decline in winter quarter, 1419, and spring, 1365. Enrollment rose again in '61-'62: fall, 1680, with a small drop again in winter quarter, 1638, and spring, 1537.

College Concert Choir Will Present 17th Annual Music Festival Dec. 17

The 17th annual music festival by the Concert Choir will be given this year on Monday, Dec. 17, in North Hall Auditorium at 8 p.m.

A program of sacred Christmas music, comprising Christmas carols from many lands as well as choral compositions by well-known composers, is being planned.

The festival is a traditional presentation by the College Concert Choir under the direction of Chauncey King. For the 17th consecutive year, this festival has been presented on the last Monday before Christmas vacation.

Special features this year will be selections by both the women's and men's sections of the choir.

Also included on the program will be a mixed quartet comprised of the officers of the choir: Ken Fenton, president; Warren Wilson, business manager; Kathy Kilbride, secretary; and Shirley Olson, librarian. The accompanist for the choir is Muriel Hanson.

Admission to the concert is free, however, a free will offering will be taken.

Liberal Arts Seniors Will Meet Wednesday With Placement Bureau

The Placement Bureau has announced that there is a meeting of all seniors in the arts and science curricula at 1:25, Dec. 12, in the Little Theater of the Chalmer Davee Library.

This meeting concerns the affiliation of these senior students with the Placement Bureau and the coming interviews with employment officials.

STAFF MEETING

There will be a Student Voice staff meeting Tuesday night in the Student Voice office at 7. All staff members and anyone else wishing to write for the Voice is requested to attend this meeting.

Editorials

"When is the annual coming out?" This question is asked daily of almost everyone on the Student Voice or Meletean staffs.

We would like to explain the circumstances involved in the delay. To begin with, one of the editors quit in the middle of the year, leaving the burden of work with the other editor. This was further complicated by conflicting practice teaching schedules.

Another reason for the delay can be laid to the state and some of its regulations, which resulted in the editors not even knowing where to send the work until after the first deadline was past.

The biggest reason the Meletean is so late is that once the deadlines were missed the production schedules were entirely missed, and now the work on the yearbook has only secondary priority and is squeezed in whenever possible.

In short, as one professor has stated, "Everything that could go wrong, did."

However, it should be pointed out that last year's mess in no way reflects on the competence of the present editor. Work on this year's annual is progressing satisfactorily and it should be released in the spring. In fact, there is some question as to which yearbook will be out first.

IVS Representative to See Seniors for Overseas Work

Donald Schmidt of the International Voluntary Services will be interviewing seniors in Room 12G at 8 p.m. Dec. 13, and in Room 101A, from 9 a.m. to noon Dec. 4.

The International Voluntary Services is a non-profit organization chartered under laws of the District of Columbia in 1953. It was organized by a group of people committed to the idea that American youth could make an important contribution to international good will by establishing person-to-person contacts with the people of another country through a service program which the people of the host country would want and in which they would participate.

The IVS recruits and sends abroad teams of carefully selected young men and women who are willing to live in remote villages and work directly with the local people. The volunteers work under the general direction and guidance of responsible U. S. technicians and government ministers in an effort to encourage the local people to use more effectively the available assistance from these sources.

The IVS volunteers normally work in the field broadly defined as community development. This includes one or a combination of the following types of activities: agriculture; poultry and animal husbandry; youth activities; resettlement; plant, field crop and horticultural experimentation; plant propagation and distribution; sanitation; home improvement; public health; applied mechanics; road building; well drilling; education — elementary and secondary; carpentry; low cost housing, etc.

Team members are sought who have skills, training and experience that enables them to be helpful to people, usually rural, in a wide range of activity affecting village welfare. In most IVS projects farm background is a key asset in providing such help. Farm background is not a prerequisite for those projects involving educational work.

The candidate must be willing to live in primitive situations and to assist others regardless of color, creed or economic status. He must be above reproach in motivation and conduct and must have good physical and mental health.

IVS personnel are offered a two-year contract. During this period of time they are guaranteed their entire necessary expenses - that is, air transportation to the project and return home, housing, food, a cash clothing allowance, medical care, insurance, an annual thirty day vacation, and a salary of $80.00 per month. Deferment from military service may be secured by approved team members.

Anyone possessing a spirit of service and strong desire to promote international good will and understanding is urged to attend this interview.

The beginning of the term dance was held in the tunnel last Thursday night. Sponsored by the Social Committee, it featured music by the Galaxies.

Kappa Delta Pi Sells Calendars

The 1963 State Historical Society appointment calendars will be sold by the members of Kappa Delta Pi in the Student Center December 13-21. The booklet contains photographs of Wisconsin scenes and makes an excellent Christmas gift for only $1.00.

RETRACTION

On page three is a story concerning the reader theater program. After this page had been printed, we found out that three of the plays, have been cancelled. Also, the program will be put on only one night, Thursday, Dec. 20, not two, as the story states.

Reader Theater Is Dec. 18, 20

The speech department will present reader theater to this campus for the first time this year by presenting two programs of one-act plays by current playwrights. On the evenings of Dec. 18 and 20, three separate plays will be given on the stage of the Little Theatre beginning at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available at the Bookstore and at the door.

Under the direction of Dr. Blanche Davis, this presentation features plays written by outstanding playwrights.

The plays to be presented are: "Hello Out There," by William Sorayon, "Man of Destiny," by George Bernard Shaw, "Sweeney Agonostis," by T. S. Eliot, "Man With A Flower in His Mouth," by Pirandello, "Lament for Ignacio Sanchez Mejias," by Federico Garcia Lorca and "Deeper Than The Atlanta," by Jackson Matthews.

Reader theatre covers a wide scope in style of production though the plays are basically presented as dramatic readings. The programs will feature all-student casts and will display variance in style ranging from the strict formal to the informal.

The formal style of reader theater consists of static position for readers with dialogue addressed to a single point rather than to each other. They remain standing throughout the performance and never acknowledge or interplay reaction with their fellow readers. Facial expression and use of the voice become the tools by which the play is presented.

The informal style of this theater art form employs more freedom of bodily action with the readers changing position and addressing one another. A single reader may also interpret poetry by using this style.

Reader theater is not done widely, but currently enjoying a rebirth. It is an accepted and highly specialized form of theater art. It is often thought by theater patrons to be of less interest than a full-scale production. However, reader theater is a display of theatrical discipline that is rarely equalled. The reader must project his character to a much greater extent to allow the audience to fully "see" the play without the customary scenery, costume and action. The audience is treated to a special clearness of lines that can too often become of secondary importance in another form.

Ag Professor Featured In National Magazine Ad

Dr. Melvin Wall, professor of agronomy at River Falls State College, is featured in a full-page advertisement in the October issue of Crops and Soils, national magazine of the American Society of Agronomy.

The ad, on the back cover of the magazine, is by Northrup King and Company, seed firm with headquarters in Minneapolis.

Editorial material accompanying a half-page photograph of Dr. Wall in the classroom notes that nearly half of all the vocational agriculture teachers in Wisconsin got their training in agronomy from the River Falls faculty member.

The article quotes one of Dr. Wall's guideposts for teaching: "I don't emphasize facts and figures in agronomy. I stick to basic principles. The student may forget statistics, but he will never forget principles."

Besides praising Dr. Wall for his contributions in 26 years of teaching, the advertisement commends him for the part he has played in pasture research. One project of his in the 1940's is credited with helping bring about major changes in pasture development.

NSF Grants $126,000 To School of Agriculture

The National Science Foundation has awarded grants totaling about $126,000 to River Falls State College to finance three consecutive summer institutes conducted by the School of Agriculture.

If funds are available to NSF for the next three years, the College will receive $42,012 for the summer of 1963, then $41,351 for 1964 and $42,560 for 1965, according to Dr. Richard J. Delorit, dean of the School of Agriculture. The College has conducted three previous Ag School institutes — one in the general area of chemistry, one in physiology and one in ecology and genetics. The new three-year sequence provided by NSF will include one summer in each of the three fields.

Designed for ag teachers who also teach science or math, the new series will give first consideration to persons who have attended one of the previous institutes and want to spend two more summers at River Falls studying in the other two fields.

Next summer's institute will be devoted to the physiology area. Plant and animal physiology will be taught by two members of the biology faculty, and two Ag School staff members will teach physiology of reproduction and physiology of agronomic plants.

Sixty persons will participate in next summer's institute — 30 in each of two four-week sessions. The first session will run from June 17 to July 13 and the second from July 15 to Aug. 10.

With the new three-year sequence, NSF will have financed Ag School institutes for six consecutive summers, granting almost a quarter-million dollars to the College.

Foreign Student Registers at RF For 2nd Degree

For Miyeko "Mike" Kawai, 28-year-old freshman from Tokyo, Japan, this fall quarter marked the beginning of a second college career.

Miss Kawai graduated from Keio University in Japan, majoring in political science. She also attended the Keio Girls' School.

Before deciding to come to RFSC, Miss Kawai considered attending a college or university on one of the American coasts. However, an American friend, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, told her of the beauty of this state. She applied for admission to many colleges in this area, but finally chose River Falls because of the "most friendly reply" she received.

There is quite a bit of difference between Japanese and American colleges, Miss Kawai said. In Japan, the professors are less friendly than those in America. Parents, too, are much more strict in Japan. Japanese college girls aren't allowed to date.

Most of the educated Japanese people, who come in contact with the more refined American businessmen in Japan, have a very deep liking for them.

Here, Miss Kawai finds that many Americans know little or nothing of other countries and try to learn little more about them.

Of course, she points out, people in the Midwestern section of the United States do not come in contact with those of other lands as much as do Americans on the east or west coasts.

One big difference that "Mike" notices between the American and Japanese people is that few Americans know much about the fine arts. Most Japanese are well informed about music, art and literature, and they discuss the arts frequently.

However, people of Japan have little knowledge of politics, economics or current social problems. Few Japanese women could say who is leading their nation. Americans, "Mike" discovered, frequently discuss current affairs.

Miyeko is not certain of what she will do after she receives her second college degree. She likes America and would like to stay here as long as possible.

Stone Elected Prexy Of Advisory Committee On Extension Programs

Dr. Gordon Stone, Dean of the School of Education at River Falls State College was elected president of the State Wide Advisory Committee on Extension Programs at a meeting of Extension officials at their annual fall meeting last week at Stevens Point. The committee is responsible for studying the extension programs of the nine state colleges and the Universities at Madison and Milwaukee for the purpose of improving programs and bringing about a greater degree of coordination between institutions. Dr. Stone directs extension at RFSC.

Letter to The Editor

Dear Sir:

We wish to take this opportunity to welcome all students to the cafeteria and the Falcon's Cage and to thank you for the cooperation we have received in presenting the food service to you. It is our desire to provide good service and every effort will be made to provide attractive and appetizing foods to students on campus.

In order to facilitate service we remind you of the following cafeteria meal hours:

- Monday Through Friday
Breakfast: 7:00 A.M. to 8:30 A.M.
- Lunch: 11:00 A.M. to 1:00 P.M.
- Dinner: 5:00 P.M. to 6:30 P.M.
- Saturday and Sunday
Breakfast: 8:30 A.M. to 9:30 A.M.
- Lunch: 11:00 A.M. to 1:00 P.M.
- Dinner: 5:00 P.M. to 6:00 P.M. (Saturday)
- Falcon Cage Meal Hours
Monday Through Friday
7:00 A.M. to 9:30 P.M.
- Saturday
9:00 A.M. to 9:30 P.M.
- Sunday
4:00 P.M. to 9:30 P.M.

If for any reason, you cannot be here at regularly scheduled meal periods because of class schedule or outside work, please let the manager know ahead of time and we will be glad to work out arrangements for you to eat.

Meal Tickets

Your meal ticket is your admittance to the cafeteria, you must bring it to each meal and present it to the checker. If you forget to bring it you will not be admitted. To speed service, please have your ticket out before you get to the checker. Meal tickets are not transferable. Giving a meal ticket to someone else may result in disciplinary action.

As you pass down the food service line, you will be served standard portions of each item on the days menu. Take whatever you like best. After you have eaten, you may wish more - come and get it. Bring your plate back to the server and tell her what you would like, only limitations are one serving of meat and one serving of some desserts. You may have seconds on salads, bread, butter, coffee, vegetables, milk, potatoes, etc. However, don't waste food - eat all you take. Take only one glass of milk at a time and come back for refills with the same glass.

Guests and Non-Contract Students

An ala-carte cafeteria line is available during regular cafeteria hours. All guests and those students who are not on the prepaid line are welcome to pass through this line and enjoy a variety of foods at reasonable prices.

Bussing Dishes

Please when you finish eating, take your tray to the dish room window. The most discouraging part of cafeteria dining is the poor atmosphere caused by unbussed dishes. Even one tray of dishes left on a table creates an undesirable atmosphere for diners at each surrounding table. To make your mealtime more enjoyable, insist on this cooperation from those who inadvertently or deliberately leave their tray.

College Foundation Receives Scholarship and Loan Funds

Two gifts — one establishing an annual scholarship and the other setting up a loan fund — have been made this fall to the River Falls State College Foundation.

Roy H. Sakrison, a 1912 River Falls graduate, has set up an annual $250 scholarship for graduates of New Richmond High School. The amount is the income from $5,000 worth of preferred stock in the Andersen Corp., of Bayport, Minn.

Mr. Sakrison, who retired Aug. 31 as finance vice president and secretary of Andersen Corp. after 36 years with the company, gave half the stock this fall. He had given the other half previously.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sakrison are graduates of New Richmond High School. The scholarship, which will be awarded next spring for the first time, must be used to defray first-year expenses at River Falls.

Mrs. Mary McMillan Burt of St. Petersburg, Fla., has established a $2,000 student loan fund in memory of the late L. H. Clark, long-time head of the mathematics department.

Mrs. Burt, on the math faculty at River Falls from 1914 to 1925, said that Prof. Clark "did much to establish the high standards of work and of scholarship for which the department was recognized." He taught math at River Falls from 1895 to 1920, most of the time as head of the department.

Mathematics students are to be given preference in the use of the loan fund, but if no math students need it, there will be no restriction on its use by others.

Gene Miller Given Grant From AFB

The American Foundation for the Blind announced in New York today that it had awarded a $2000 fellowship to Gene Miller, a graduate of River Falls who is now attending the University of Wisconsin.

Miller is pursuing a program in social work and intends entering this field as a vocational rehabilitation counselor upon completion. One of 25 graduate students who were given fellowships by the AFB, Miller is blind.

Married to the former Marjorie Ann Wallen, the Millers are residents of Darien.

River Falls History Dept, To Host WATCH in Fall

The River Falls State College department of social sciences will host the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Teachers of College History in mid-fall of 1963. Dr. John Lankford, assistant professor of American history at River Falls, announced last week.

The general topic for the WATCH meeting is to be "Grassroots History Comes of Age."

Delegates to the 1963 meeting will have the opportunity to hear and discuss two papers written by River Falls assistant professors of American history: "Trends in the Writing of Wisconsin History: An Overview," by Dr. James T. King, and "The Area Research Center Approach to Wisconsin History,"

Social Science Dept. Will Sponsor Film, 'Ivan the Terrible'

The second in the Social Science Department Film Series will be presented Thursday, December 13, 4:10 in the Little Theater. It will be another Russian film classic, the first part of the historical epic about the "mad" 16th century tsar, commonly known as Ivan the Terrible.

Although it has some remarkable battle scenes it is primarily a study of the efforts of a mentally unbalanced Tsar to maintain his throne in what he regards as a foul plot to destroy central government and the Russian land.
