Wednesday's Results Invalid

Senate Holds Re-elections

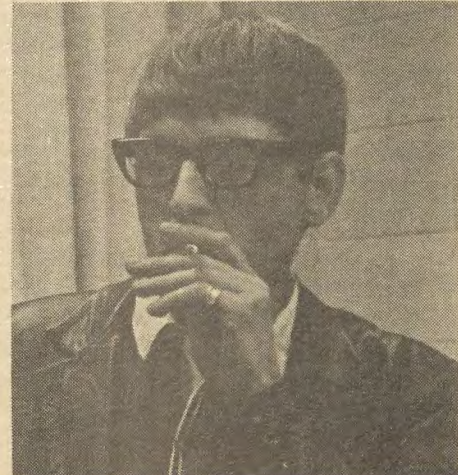

The election committee did not have the authority to change the ballot as they did, which made it legal to have the election called off. -- Joe Koutney.

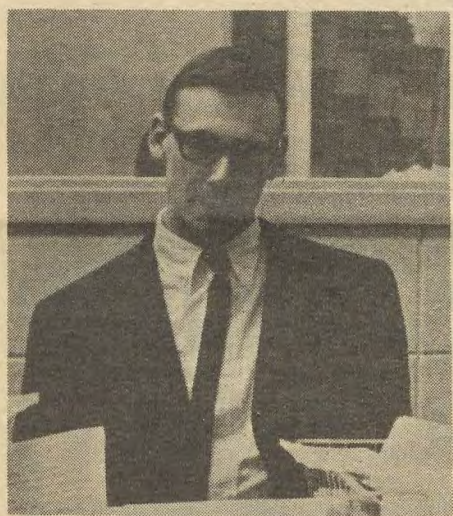

I think that it is the right thing to do. A subcommittee of Senate made a mistake. I don't think that Senate could cover the first mistake with a second. -- Linda Graves.

It was a good move because the ballot held Wednesday did not give certain individuals the right to vote as they wanted. -- David Torkko.

I don't like it at all. By postponing again the student body is going to lose more interest in and respect for Senate and other committees. -- Victor Pernell.

This is the only way that the students can gain confidence in their Student Senate, when it is big enough to admit to its own mistakes.--James Ochiltree.

I suggested that the Student Senate send a formal apology to the student body for the mistakes in procedure and they turned this down. The Student Senate should not have been concerned with their image but with the disservice that they did to the student body.-- Richard Feldman.

Editor's Note: The six candidates were asked to respond to the question, "How do you feel about the election being postponed?"

The Student Senate voted last Wednesday night to hold a special election Tuesday, Feb. 6, to fill its two empty seats.

Results from this second election will replace the first balloting last Wednesday because the original ballot had stated that a voter must vote for two candidates. The Senate decided that this requirement was not valid.

As of last Wednesday night all campaigning was to have ceased and all signs were to be taken down.

Some students had complained that making them vote for two candidates violated their rights. As Senator Wayne Weiss pointed out, "They have a right to abstain from voting for two."

The referendum concerning religious organizations on campus was passed in the election. The count was 603 voting "yes," and 113 "no" votes.

The Senate considered allowing the results of the first election to be valid with written agreement of the six candidates. A motion was passed to this effect.

However, President Bob Rasmussen claimed that the election was not valid.

The Senate groped for a way of ending the matter. Discussion on an original motion to count the returns was limited to 15 minutes. However, discussion was later reopened. Rasmussen told the Senate, "I challenge the Senate to find a solution to this and not beat around the bush anymore."

Senator Chuck Feltes made a motion that new elections be held on Feb. 6.

President Rasmussen said the large amount of committee work which was needed at this time, and being short-handed complicates matters. The motion was passed.

A motion was passed to contract a band for next year's Homecoming. An $8,000 limit is to be used in contracting the band.

The Senate must approve the band before it is contracted.

Senator Feltes objected saying that the price was too high and might put Senate in debt for the entire year.

Chudy, who made the motion said that if the name is big enough, Senate might make money on such a program. He also said that any money left over from this year could be used.

Weiss objected to this, asking if Senate would have to scrimp and save just for the band. Rasmussen reassured him saying "Definitely, this Senate will not scrimp and save."

Senator Steve Ortman pointed out that a big name entertainment might be used as a "drawing card for recruiting."

Senator Clay Halverson reported that the telephone committee had met with three Bell telephone men from Madison that morning.

He told Senate that phones could be installed in some rooms under the present system at a cost of $2 per month.

This would involve adding more switching equipment and operators to the present system. Halverson also described a phone check by Bell during December. This check showed a large amount of busy signals at 8-9 p.m., and less, but still many, busy signals from 2-3 p.m. Halverson also mentioned that when 11 of the 14 trunk lines on our system are being used, Bell suggests having more than one operator on duty.

An all Wisconsin line, in which a call could be placed to anywhere in Wisconsin for a flat rate of $600 per month is not feasible at this time. Wisconsin calls from the University now average between $420 and $450 per month.

A direct line to the Twin Cities would cost the University $122.25 per month. Calls to the cities now cost close to $100 per month, so such a line might be feasible, Halverson said.

The Senate voted unanimously to "go on record as giving its whole-hearted support to the Kleinpell carrillon tribute."

The tribute, as described by Alumni Director Bill Sperling, is a cooperative project with the Alumni, the Student Foundation Committee, the people, and the town of River Falls.

The carrillon will have a 74-bell range and will be heard for three to four miles. It will rest temporarily on North Hall. It will then be placed in a bell tower.

The bells will play various songs at various times of the day. Installation and cost of the bells will be $49,375. Sperling said he hopes to see them installed by the time of this year's graduation.

The Senate asked Sperling how he planned to raise the money in such a short time. Sperling said he had already contacted two millionaires who are graduates of River Falls. He also noted that the cooperative aspect of the project will aid in obtaining the money. Sperling told Senate that the South Fork project had not been neglected. He said that the fact

Bell Tower Planned Honors Former President Kleinpell

Music from a new carillon will drift across the Wisconsin State University-River Falls campus for the first time Sunday, May 26, Commencement Day.

Planned as a tribute to Dr. E. H. Kleinpell, president of the University for 21 years, the carillon will first ring out from the top of North Hall. Eventually plans call for a tower that will be the focal point in a future mall development in the South Hall area.

The 74-bell Kleinpell carillon will boast 37 Flemish bells and 37 harp bells.

Kleinpell, who saw River Falls grow from a state teachers college to a state college to a university, often expressed the wish for a carillon on the campus. On each Commencement day he arranged for carillon tapes to be played from North Hall.

Kick-off date for "Tintinnabulation '68," the Kleinpell carillon fund drive, is Thursday, Feb. 13. The campaign will be conducted by alumni and other volunteers working through the River Falls State University Foundation.

Heading the central committee as general chairman will be Louis M. Daniel, River Falls alumnus and a member of the Foundation. He is agency supervisor for Equitable of Iowa in St. Paul.

E. S. Davison, vice-president of the River Falls State Bank, will serve as chairman of the community committee. Dr. Marion Hawkins, an alumnus who joined the River Falls faculty in the same year as Kleinpell, will be in charge of the University faculty and staff com-

Hoppe Speaks

by Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

Suffering acute pain from a persistently ingrowing toenail, I dropped in on my kindly old family physician, Dr. Calvin Caligari. After a pleasant few days in his waiting room, I was admitted to his small surgery. And what a dramatic scene:

"Sponge!" Dr. Caligari snapped grimly.

"Sponge," said the nurse.

"Pancake makeup!"

"Pancake makeup."

"Silver threads for the temples!"

"Silver threads."

"There. What do you think, nurse?"

"You look more distinguished than ever, doctor."

"Fine, call in the tee-vee cameras," said Dr. Caligari happily. And turning his kindly old eyes to me, he said benevolently, "Don't worry, young man, we'll have you as fit as a fiddle as soon as we install your new gall bladder."

"Gosh, doctor," I said, "It's not my gall bladder. It's this persistently ingrowing toenail that..."

"Tut, tut, son. Just you leave yourself in my hands. Now, let's see, we'll schedule the operation for prime time and let's not forget about post-operative care. There's always residuals, you know."

"Residuals?"

"Yes, one of the great dangers in these transplants is rejection. You know these network executives. So I'd prescribe signing this contract here which will suture them up through the summer re-runs. You'll be famous, son."

"Famous?"

"I can see the banner headlines, now. 'BLADDER MAN DOING FINE.'"

I said firmly that I just wasn't in the market for a new bladder.

"Oh," said Dr. Caligari disappointedly. "Say! What about a new liver, then? I'm having a special on liver today."

"No. And no kidneys, either, thank you."

"Another transplant rejection," he said with a sigh. "Will we ever lick this problem? Don't you realize you're standing in the way of progress? Think of that tremendous breakthrough in South Africa when a colored man donated his heart to a white dentist. There was a historic first."

"That wasn't the first heart transplant."

"No, but it was the first time a colored man ever got into that hospital. It shows you the value of the human heart. Speaking of that, how's the old ticker, son?"

"Just fine, doctor," I said hastily. "Absolutely top notch. Just swell. Never better."

"Hmmm, let's have a listen with the stethoscope. Say, that is a booming, healthy heart you've got there. How much do you want for it?"

"Now hold on, doctor," I cried, "I'm not through with it yet!"

"All right, young man, be selfish. But I don't see how the public can ever expect us to lick this vital problem of organ rejection if all we get to work on is a bunch of sick people."

Well, I finally escaped from the clutches of Dr. Caligari after a brief transplant operation. He was optimistic. But I'm worried about rejection.

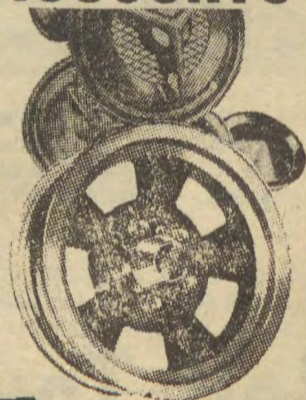

Will my friends accept me for what I now am--The Toenail Man?

Phi Sigma Epsilon Squeaks Past Vets Club

Phi Sigma Epsilon, formerly Kappa Theta, squeaked by a strong Vets Club to win the men's Winter Carnival competition by one-half of a point. Phi Sigma Epsilon scored 42 and one-half points to the Vets Club's 42 points.

Kappa Delta Psi sorority defeated its nearest opponent Phi Delta Theta, by eight points to win the women's competition.

Following Phi Sigma Epsilon and the Vets Club in the men's competition were Alpha Gamma Rho, 29 points; Sigma Tau Epsilon, 24 points; and Sigma Rho, 22 and one-half points.

In the women's competition, Kappa Delta Psi scored 36 points; Phi Delta Theta, 28; Delta Iota Chi, 21; and WRA, 14 points. Also included under the women's organizations was the Rodeo Club with eight points. The club competed co-ed.

SIGMA RHO LEADS

Sigma Rho jumped off to an early lead by winning the Supper Bowl last Monday night. Phi Sigma Epsilon and the Vets Club split the second and third place points. WRA was the only women's organization to get any points at the eating contest.

At the Frigid Frolics games that night, the Vets Club edged past Sigma Rho by winning the 10 first-place points. Sigma Rho stayed within a half of a point by taking second place and Alpha Gamma Rho got into the scoring with the six third-place points. The Vets Club led Sigma Rho, 13 and one-half to 13 points. Alpha Gamma Rho was third with six.

In the women's race, WRA held on to first place by getting the six third-place points for a total of 11. Kappa Delta Psi took first and Phi Delta Theta placed second.

KING CONTEST

Phi Sigma Epsilon took the lead away from the Vets Club when its King candidate, Steve Gustafson was crowned Tuesday night and gave them 15 points. Sigma Tau Epsilon's Wayne Schrubbe placed second and Alpha Gamma Rho's Keith Hobson took third. Tuesday night saw Phi Sigma in the lead with 18 and one-half points. Alpha Gamma Rho followed with 15 points and a close race for third was being fought by the Vets Club, 13 and one-half; Sigma Rho, 13; and Sigma Tau Epsilon, 12 points.

Wednesday's Beard Judging contest put the top four men's organizations within one point of each other. The Vets Club and Sigma Rho split the nine points for first and second place and Alpha Gamma Rho took the three third-place points. Phi Sigma Epsilon held on to a half point lead with 18 and one-half points. The Vets Club and Alpha Gamma Rho followed with 18 points apiece and Sigma Rho stayed close with 17 and one-half points.

Kappa Delta Psi's contestant placed first in the women's division of the Beard Judging competition. The five points gave the sorority the lead which it never relinquished. Delta Iota Chi took second and Phi Delta Theta placed third.

OLYMPICS TRIMS FIELD

The Winter Olympics on Saturday finally spread the points out and made it a race between the Vets Club and Phi Sigma Epsilon. The Vets Club moved into the lead by winning two of the four events in the Olympics. It took firsts in the Speed Skating Relay and in Log Chopping. It also placed second in the Slalom Skating. Phi Sigma Epsilon and Sigma Tau Epsilon split the points for second and third places. The Vets Club now led with 28 points. Phi Sigma Epsilon was second with 25 and one-half and Sigma Tau Epsilon trailed with 19.

Kappa Delta Psi took the 10 first-place points in the women's Olympics to all but sew up its lead. The Rodeo Club got its only eight points here and Phi Delta Theta and WRA split the third place points. Kappa Delta Psi led with 25 points. Phi Delta Theta and WRA followed with 14 points apiece.

ICE SCULPTURES DECIDE

With 12 points riding on the judging of the ice sculptures, all of the men's organizations were statistically in the race. Phi Sigma Epsilon was awarded first place to bring its total to 37 and one-half points. The Vets Club took second raising its score to 37 points and Alpha Gamma Rho placed third bringing its total to 29 points. Each of the men's organizations were awarded five bonus points for participating in all of the events to raise the totals to the final scores.

Delta Iota Chi took first place in the women's ice sculptures to put it ahead of both WRA and the Rodeo Club. Phi Delta Theta placed second and, by placing third, Kappa Delta Psi compiled the highest total score. The three sororities were each awarded five bonus points for participating in all events.

Affairs Committee Discusses AGR Fraternity's Request

The Student Affairs committee spent the majority of the time at its last meeting considering Alpha Gamma Rho's request to go national with the parent organization of the same name.

Discussion revolved around the fact that the national constitution proved much more restrictive than the committee had been led to believe. Dr. Richard Gray, assistant professor of animal science, and advisor to the local organization, had informed them that anyone who "merely had an interest in agriculture" could pledge the fraternity. Yet, at the meeting it was disclosed that to become a member of the national it was necessary to be enrolled in an agriculture curriculum or at least in an ag course at the time.

This restrictive clause in the national constitution runs contrary to a bias clause issued by the Faculty Senate to the Student Affairs committee for dealing with fraternity application to go national.

The Affairs committee provisionally granted AGR's request for national colonization while awaiting approval from Faculty Senate on the bias clause.

The committee didn't get into a discussion of the Prologue, as such, but did speak with Richard Souigny who led the walkout in Frederick Rusch's literature 252 class. They were protesting Lysistrata as obscenity in protest of the administration's rejection of the Prologue. Souigny explained to the committee the reasons for the demonstration saying he "wanted to see the Prologue come out. If it doesn't come out, we can throw out everything." He was asked to come to the next meeting and discuss the Prologue issue with the committee.

A recent action by Dean Knaak and Mrs. Lomnes, resident counselor at McMillan Hall, prompted Phyllis Tousey to appear before the committee. Mrs. Lomnes told her to remove a number of her paintings left in the floor lounge. The entire floor signed a petition stating they liked the paintings and asked permission to keep them there. The request was denied because "the paintings were too large." When it was taken to Dean Knaak she indicated "there was no room for discussion or compromise."

Work on library hours is moving along well, according to Herbert Cederberg. The committee was impressed with the cooperation of Richard Cooklock, director of the library. He is willing to ask custodians to leave the building open for study. However, the book area would be closed. Cederberg said Cooklock was "working toward keeping the library building and the stacks area open as much as possible" while staying within the library budget.

Y-Dems Hear U.S. Senator

Senator Gaylord Nelson, Dem. from Wis., spoke to a group of about 100 people Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. in Rooms 101-102-103 of the Student Center.

Nelson spoke on the problems of pollution in our streams and on the problem of Vietnam.

Nelson stated that Lake Michigan and all of the great lakes are in great danger unless controls are placed on the sources of pollution. He stated that a major source of pollution is pesticides and herbicides used in agriculture.

About the Vietnam war Nelson said that we can not be a world police force. He added that economic aid does not give us the obligation to enter into a war every time the recipient of our aid loses in a revolutionary cause.

Nelson also stated that everyone felt that the war would be a short one. This was a tragic mistake, "50,000 troops did not bring Ho Chi Minh to the peace table.

Nelson was accompanied by his northern secretary, J. Louis Hanson, former state Democratic Chairman.

Nelson's visit and talk was sponsored by the Y-Dems.

AWS On The Move

In last week's Student Voice an article stated that the AWS was making progress in revising their constitution bringing it back under Student Senate's jurisdiction. We want to encourage this action by the AWS.

AWS has shown a new willingness to become a truly representative body of the women students at River Falls. If such progressiveness continues AWS may soon be able to function as a meaningful part of the university community.

It was also reported that AWS was considering allowing married women the option of joining the organization. We also endorse this move.

This indication of renewal should be applauded by all segments of the university.

There is a movement afoot to start a publications board. The question to date has been whether to have the board act before or after publication.

My opinion is that first the publications board should assume the responsibility that the president now has, that is be the official publisher of the campus publications. Secondly the publications board should not do anything concerning these publications until after that publication has been printed and distributed.

If this is to be truly an educational institution then students must have an opportunity to "see their material in print," and to discuss that material in the light of publication.

Education is not a public relations media. If the Prologue is to be a publications media then those people on campus who are concerned with public relations should be that magazines editors.

If then we are to have such a division between PR and student publications then the President should be in control of the PR material and the publications board should be in control of the student publications. The latter of these two should operate on the basis of a view after the publication has been printed.

Censorship in any form is wrong. Censorship on a university campus is a direct contradiction of what a university is supposed to be.

Let us hope that the publications board can act after the publications have been published and that if we are to have PR material then let the administration handle it.

UAB Swings Out

North Hall has never swung so much as it did last Tuesday and Wednesday when the Winter Carnival committee provided this campus with some top notch performers during the International Talent Preview.

The UAB and the Winter Carnival Committee are to be congratulated! The entertainers were top notch and the North Hall auditorium was filled almost to capacity during each performance.

The sound of the First Edition and the satire of the Little Theatre on the Side brought new vigor to that aged building. We sincerely hope that UAB continues to provide us with this kind of good entertainment.

Joke of the Week

State Senator Gordon Roseleip (R-Darlington) commended the State University Board of Regents recently for what he termed, "a responsible and realistic attitude in meeting their statutory obligations to adopt a no-nonsense code of student ethics."

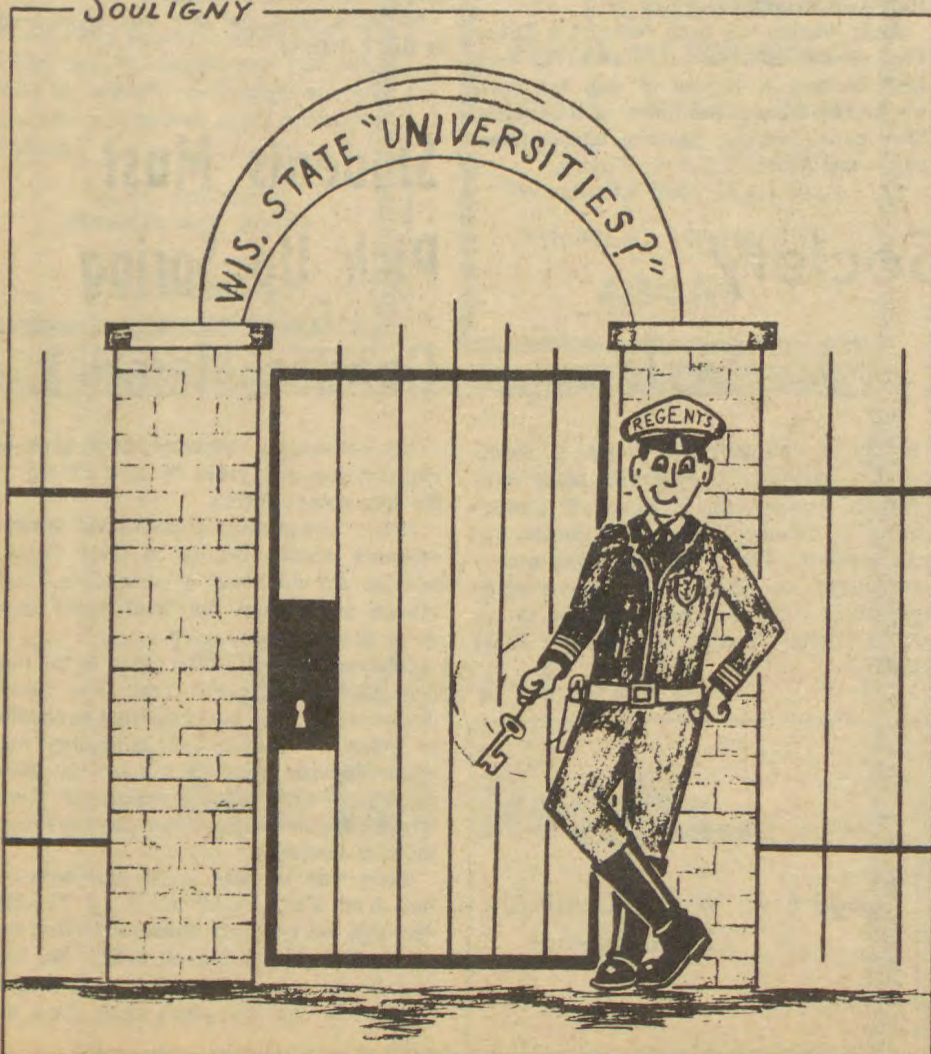

In letters to Eugene W. Murphy, President of the State University Regents and Eugene McFee, Secretary and Director, Roseleip said the code recently adopted by the governing Board protects the interests of the taxpayers and rights of residents in the communities where state universities are located, without impairing student rights for lawful expression of opinion.

"The teaching of respect for law and order and the rights of others in a free society is more properly a function of higher education than the encouragement of civil disobedience and mob rule under the guise of academic freedom or free speech," Roseleip said.

The maintenance of reasonable discipline through a straight forward code of student conduct is an essential part of higher education." "The people of my district have been dismayed by the manner in which administrators at the University of Wisconsin have been "terrorized" by student power slogans and demands by a minority of academic misfits and professional Communist-front agitators," he continued.

"It is gratifying to know that the State University Regents, at least, are capable of distinguishing between healthy academic controversy and unlawful academic anarchy." Roseleip added, "The people of Wisconsin owe a debt of gratitude to the State University Regents for their firm and courageous attitude in insisting students learn that the rights of adulthood carry with them the responsibility of respect for law and order as well as the rights of others."

Too Much Work

To the Editor:

Two weeks ago a letter appeared in the Student Voice concerning the quantity and quality of education students of RF are receiving from the college experience. I honestly believe that instructors require their students to handle too many assignments for each course without time enough for doing them in a twelve-week period.

The instructors should not pile on so much outside classwork because the average student needs time to relax to some extent without feeling he is going to flunk out of school. As I see the situation, most students are put under too much pressure to do well and get themselves through school for any number of reasons.

When a student carries a heavy academic load and belongs to a number of student organizations that participate in special weeks of activities such as homecoming, Foundation Week, and Winter Carnival, most of these students are asked to volunteer to put in some amount of time for these. As a result a student can easily fall behind in classes. If the student cares at all about his courses, he may feel guilty for spending too much time on his other interests. I would suggest that the average student should not be allowed to take any more than 15 credit hours every term of school, and no less than 11 or 12 credits. In this way the student can participate in the other activities without the awful fear of flunking. This kind of program can be spread out over a five year period, rather than cramming all one's courses into a three or four-year period, which is too much to take for some students in wear and tear and mental breakdowns, etc.

I feel that everyone who wants an education and can buy one should buy one because it is naturally becoming required more and more for the better jobs. Some jobs go begging because there are not enough graduates in important fields of teaching, sciences and mathematics, and foreign languages. I think the main reason for this lack of people to fill the jobs is because of too much cramming in of all the requirements in short periods of time, and also lack of enough funds available for those students who really have the talent and drive to get a college education. It may be because of this that students rebel and take on poor study habits and poor health habits also, plus marriage or some form or promiscuous activity because they feel rejected or insecure. I feel that some of these problems could be alleviated if the student of average or above intelligence would take a lighter load or else the profs better change outside papers and reading, or whatever else may be involved. Some say that a student should learn to organize his time, but one never knows when an emergency will arise and cause a conflict.

Keep Dow Away

To the Editor:

Whereas Dow Chemicals manufacturers Napalm which is used indiscriminately and immorally against civilians and children.

And whereas the Campus Committee to End the War in Vietnam and Channing Club believe in free speech and would gladly see Dow Chemicals represented in a "Free Spirit Forum."

And whereas the Campus Committee to End the War in Vietnam and Channing Club do not feel that freedom of speech can be extended to complicity between the University and Dow Chemicals in the manufacture of Napalm.

Be it therefore resolved that the Campus Committee to End the War in Vietnam and Channing Club request the cancellation of the Feb. 14 Dow Chemical recruitment campaign.

And be it further resolved that Dow Chemicals not be allowed to recruit on campus until such time as their production of Napalm stops.

Dear Editor:

It appears that the Student Senate is locked in a competition with itself to strive to new heights of foolishness each week. We have seen the Senate battle for their rights to determine who will represent the student body. We have seen them suddenly give up the battle and bow to the administration. Then we watch them try as hard as possible not to fill the vacancies. The first election was scheduled for January 23. This was postponed so that the election could be held with the Winter Carnival election. Then because the election committee slipped up on follow the election rules they themselves set up; they postponed the election again to January 31, defeating their original purpose. Then the Senate goofed again, printing an improper ballot causing the whole election to be thrown out. What stupidity! Well, I'm sick of it and I think the student body is also. The student senate needs serious reforms if it is to exist at all. To start these reforms I suggest that on Tuesday, Feb. 6, when you vote you write in Alan Tronrud, a candidate who will get something done. Show the senate and the administration you want action, not more stupidity, write in Alan Tronrud.

Alan Tronrud

It Will Get Done

Letter to the Voice:

It has been three years since any visible work has been done on the amphitheatre, and we the Student Foundation Committee feel that the students have a right to question what is being done towards its completion.

Although no visible progress has been made, there has been continual work "behind the scenes." The work completed at this time has been possible through each individual Foundation Week and extra projects. Our next step is the shell, which includes dressing rooms as well as the main acoustical structure, of which estimates range from $30 to $40 thousand.

Recently we received two artist's sketches of possible designs for the shell. Also, Dr. Delorit has been instrumental in presenting plans to Madison. However, it takes a minimum of two years after either plans or funds have been approved for direct action to begin.

If it were only from the money collected from Foundation Weeks and other projects, it would take at least another ten years to obtain the appropriate funds for the amphitheatre's completion. Therefore, we have been actively seeking other financial sources. These include, along with Foundation Weeks and other fund

by Robert Halverson
Sports Editor

Hal's Lowdown will not appear this week to allow room for the following special article to appear. The feature is written by Harley O'Brion, rising young Voice sports reporter. The Lowdown will appear again next week. I hope you can wait!!

Byron James, the stocky-built wrestling coach in 113K is a great asset to the WSU-RF athletic department. He not only has put together some great squads, but has pride and prestige in the wrestlers and fellow students and teachers.

James, who possesses a ready smile, hails from Great Emmetsburg, Iowa where he attended high school. Surprisingly, he never wrestled in high school, because Great Emmetsburg has wrestling for the first time this year.

He attended Iowa State Teachers College (Univ. of Northern Iowa) and graduated on the Deans list in three years with a physical education major. Here is some encouragement to those who feel they cannot make it in college wrestling. James wrestled in the first match he ever saw. He shyly stated that he lost 18-0! Well, you can't win them all! James later tried out for the American Olympic Wrestling Team in 1948.

He has been the past president of the Wyoming High School Wrestling Coaches Association in 1957. In 1963 James was voted forth in the nation as the outstanding wrestling coach and was named NAIA District 14 Outstanding Coach-Of the Year, 1964. He was a former member of the National Executive Wrestling Committee and is a present member of the National Amateur Athletic Union which picks the members of the olympic teams.

James came to River Falls for the 1959-60 school year and began in a winning way. His total squad of 13 wrestlers compiled a 10-2-1 record and brought home the first conference championship under the new coach. Their record was amazing because of the "original 13", only three had high school wrestling experience!

The "original 13" not only possessed wrestling class, but classroom intelligence. "Of the "13," boasts James, two are Doctors of Philosophy; two are Doctors of Veterinary Medicine; a First Lieutenant, an elementary school principal and three wrestling coaches!"

The grapplers repeated as conference champs in 1962 and 1963.

During the 1963 campaign, River Falls placed the highest (7th) in the national tournament of any RF team and four of the squad were of the "original 13." James has had seven teams in the top twenty!

He took a leave of absence in 1964, but returned to coach his way to another conference title and national tournament birth.

The effectiveness of his coaching is astounding.

He has had eight national place winners and three had never wrestled in high school! His teams have compiled a 90-28-2 dual meet record and are presently 3-4 with four conference titles in seven years.

According to James, Steve Schmidt will be back next year, after a years absence from the campus. Schmidt, a freshman standout last year, was River Falls' national place winner (3rd).

The coach starts from scratch with all wrestlers, teaching them the fundamentals. He shuffles his grapplers so they gain experience early in the season, and works for a good team in March. The team has had some disappointments this year, however, James blames himself for some of the losses sustained in meets this season.

"We didn't practice on some of the moves," said James.

If you have attended any wrestling match this year (by all means do), you hardly notice the River Falls' coach. While the match is in session, he may be getting water or showing the last wrestler a hold. He may be biting his nails on the side or moving about behind the bench. Furthermore he may be wrapping an ankle or on one knee observing the match at hand.

He seldom yells at the grapplers, because "they are too busy to worry about the coach."

"Once, James recalls, I motioned for a side-roll; the wrestler rolled and he won!"

As for the success of the 1967-68 wrestling squad, "someone has to win it, (conference title), it may as well be us." -----James.

Gymnasts Split

The Falcon gymnast's split a triangular meet beating Superior and losing to Iowa state. The score was River Falls 84.25, Superior 74.70, and Iowa 92.80.

On the sidehorse Wayne Schrubbe, the falcons captain took a 1st, and Larry Cipov took 3rd place. On the high bar Andy Barret, freshman from Minnetonka, Minn., placed 1st, and Larry Cipov placed 3rd. Cipov is the all-around man for the Falcons and is 12th in state. Cipov's final effort on long horse vaulting gave him 2nd place. Jim Neuman, senior from Milwaukee took a 1st on the still rings.

The most improved gymnast's would have to be Steve Guggomos and Steve Ortman, each gymnast showed all-around improvement in form and skill. The other performing gymnasts are, David Voeltz, Perry Karl, and Greg Zwaldo. The Falcons now have a 2-6 record.

Pointers Show The Way 89-72

Falcon Five Falls For 3rd Straight

The River Falls Falcons dropped their third straight conference basketball game by to Stevens Point 89-72 there Saturday night.

The Falcons, out to avenge an earlier loss to the pointers, surprised the much taller pointers with fast breaking and vicious rebounding. The only lead of the night River Falls enjoyed was at 1-0 with Steve Gustafson's free throw. Gary Christenson tied it up, 5-5, with 16:05 showing on the clock, but Point took command thereafter.

Stevens Point, led by Mike Hughes, 19 points in the first half, held only a slim lead through the first 18 minutes and lengthened it to a 41-29 at the half.

Bill Van Dyke scored six straight points for the Falcons to narrow the margin at 25-21 with 6:15 left. Two minutes later

Paul Kulig and Pete Palmer scored short jumpers to pull within four points again at 29-25. Stevens Point ended the half by outscoring RF 12-4 and the 41-29 lead.

Benson's Boys came on strong in the second half, flipping in 12 points compared to Point's four. Gustafson opened with a layup, then Van Dyke ripped the net from the side and slapped in a picturesque tip. George Voss added a layup, a jumper, and a nice behind-the-back pass to Christenson who layed it in from underneath, but RF still trailed 45-41.

Denny Burich and Gustafson scored goals with 13:00 remaining in the game to again cut the lead by four, 49-45. Stevens Point's Ken Ritzenthaler and Ken Ziegahn then took command and Point was not pressured the rest of the way.

Coach Newman Benson received good rebounding from his men, as the Falcons took 92 shots during the game. River Falls, who have had their problems of making the ball stay in the hoop, made only 29 baskets.

Much credit must be given to the Falcons for going high on the boards, as the Pointers played nine men over 6'3".

Hughes led all scorers with 27 points; Ken Ritzenthaler contributed 19, Ziegahn 11, and Clements 11 for Point. Van Dyke pace River Falls with 24; Gustafson had 12 and Glomski 10.

The Falcons are due to break loose. Prepare for a Falcon kill this week!

Play 5 Games This Week

Falcons Six Routs Mankato 5-0

In a warmup for this week's hectic schedule, the Falcon skaters travelled to Mankato Saturday morning to wreck the giant Minnesota six 5-0.

Jerry Trooien opened Falcon scoring with an unassisted goal in the first period. The Falcons failed to score in the middle period despite constant pressure on their Canadian-bred goalie, who repeatedly withstood Falcon rushes.

The torrid third period produced four Falcon goals. Joe Broneak scored with an assist from linemate Duane Selander, the third member of the Million Dollar Line, Dennis Vogland, also scored with an assist from Broneak. The whole line teamed up on a picture play to score Selander, from Broneak and Vogland. Trooien, the former Harding and Gopher ace finished Falcon scoring with his second unassisted goal.

The Falcons face a tough schedule this week. Both games scheduled for last Tuesday and Wednesday have been postponed. Mankato returns here Tuesday for a return bout at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday the Falcons travel to St. Thomas for a 3 p.m. contest. Friday the locals travel to Macalester for a 3 p.m. game, and return home on Saturday to entertain the St. Norbert's College sextet in a 3 p.m. Saturday game and a 10:30 a.m. Sunday contest.

Hathorn Women Become Mothers

Constantinos Koursoumis, a 10-year-old boy in Greece, is the new foster child of the Hathorn Hall women. Constantinos lives in a tiny mountain village near Messolongi in western Greece.

The $8 monthly payments which the Hathorn women pay from their treasury provides this child with new clothes, school supplies, special medical care and the assurance of an education.

Constantinos has two older sisters and an older brother. The father of the family has a serious heart condition which has left him unable to work. The family income of $36.84 is reaped from a small piece of land for growing wheat, 50 olive trees and 20 goats.

The family lives in an old two-room house with a floor of beaten earth, improvised sanitary facilities and no heat. Light is provided from a kerosene lamp and water is brought from the public fountain.

Constantinos, a fourth-grader, likes school and hopes to become a teacher. He is active in school games and sports and is an excellent student.

The idea of adopting a foster child originated at a Hathorn Hall dorm council meeting last spring.

University Vets Recieve Invitation To Mankato State

Veterans attending this University are invited to attend a meeting at Mankato State College on Memorial Day to organize a national collegiate veterans organization and to discuss the policies on the war in Vietnam.

The purpose of the national organization is to provide a structure for discussion of national issues and also to provide special benefits for veterans in colleges all over the United States.

The Mankato State Veterans Club has sent invitations to nationally prominent figures, both those supporting and those criticizing the present administrative policies. These people will discuss with the veteran delegates the issue "Administrative and Alternative Policy Positions on Vietnam."

Veteran students from over 700 colleges and universities have been invited to attend the first national convention of college Veterans Clubs which will be held on May 30, 31 and June 1.

A veteran need not be a member of an organized club to attend the convention. All veterans who plan to attend should notify mittee. Representing the student body will be Marguerite Hough of River Falls, a junior at the University and president of the Student Foundation Committee.

Two of River Falls' well-known alumni will serve as co-chairmen of the alumni committee. Nate Delong, a star athlete during his undergraduate days, achieved national recognition in 1949 as the top scoring basketball player in small colleges. He is now principal at Hayward High School. Sen. Robert Knowles, a 1938 graduate, has served as state senator for Wisconsin's tenth district since 1955 and is the brother of Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Dr. Richard Delorit, acting president, will serve with Dr. Wayne Wolfe, administrative vice-president, and Dr. Wilbur Sperling, director of development, as University representatives.

A Bell Ringers Club, for contributors of $100 or more, has been organized by the campaign committee. Each contributor of $1000 or more is eligible for the President's Tintinnabulators Club and may have an individual plaque inscribed with his name or that of a friend or relative, to be mounted on the tower.

"Tintinnabulation '68," the slogan for the carillon campaign, was inspired by a stanza in "The Bells" by Edgar Allen Poe.

raising projects and assistance from the state, alumni contributions and support from private foundations. Bill Sperling, director of public relations, has been contacting foundations such as Hill Family, Bremer, and Cowles in search of assistance.

The donation of the Junior Class has been added to the money in a separate account specifically set aside for the amphitheatre. The committee would also like the student body to note the new directory sign up in front of the Student Center. This is from the Foundation Week of last year. It will soon contain a map of the campus on both sides.

So although it looks as though the amphitheatre has been forgotten, we would like to assure the student body that progress is being made toward the completion of this fitting memorial to Dr. Melvin Wall.

Town and Country

by Paul Dyrstad

Don't feel like the Lone Ranger if you're confused about the strange night parking regulations here in River Falls. I was a little in the dark about it myself until I went down to city hall to check the laws myself.

According to city acting clerk-treasurer-assessor, Lloyd Ostness, there are signs explaining the city winter parking regulations posted on each of the highways coming into River Falls. I you're like me, you probably never saw the signs because you were going too fast to watch for them, let alone the local bounty hunters.

The signs in its entirety is printed below:

Still too much to digest? The essence of the sign is that you should park your car on the even numbered side of the street if that day after midnight is even, and park it on the odd numbered side of the street if the following day is odd. If you're still confused, go down to city hall.

I couldn't help but notice that the entire WSU-RF hockey team hails from Minnesota. The coach, Tom Youngins, (also from Minnesota), is sporting a team made up of students primarily out of St. Paul and suburban schools. Hockey, being the rough hardy sport that it is needs players of likewise characteristics. Not because I'm from Minnesota myself, but it seems that is where most of the great U.S. hockey players come from. What would happen to this team if legislation ever goes through the Wisconsin State Legislature to cut down on out-of-state enrollment even more than it is now? Poof! There goes our new hockey team.

If you're looking for something out of the ordinary to do some afternoon or evening, what about snowmobiling, assuming of course, that we'll be getting more snow and cold weather. Tom Lowe out at Kinnic Valley Riding Stables just five miles Northeast of River Falls on Highway 65 has an inviting set-up. Lowe has a snowmobile trail winding over his ranch that takes about an hour to drive. You can bring your own snowmobile (if you are fortunate to have one) and ride the trail for a reasonable fee or you can rent one of his. If you're not quite so adventurous, there's always hayrides or sleighrides. Lowe has the facilities and invites group parties.

Has anybody else wondered why there aren't any beverage vending machines on campus besides the ones in the union and the dormitories. My friend Roger Hunter brought this question to my attention the other day. Of course if we did have vending machines in other buildings on campus this would mean more work for our already over worked maintenance department. Why? Because we would all naturally litter up our campus grounds with debris from the vending machines. Seriously, the advent of vending machines, particularly coffee, milk and pop machines would be an added service appreciated by all, including the vending machine companies.

Doctor Prin Cecharming Discovers Wonder Cure

Dr. Prin Cecharming may have hit upon a medical breakthrough with the discovery of a cure for sleeping sickness. The revival of two women, one of whom has suffered from a chronic form of the affliction several years, is attributed to Cecharming.

The two women, Miss A. Sleeping Beauty of Castle Drive, who has been bed ridden for several years, and Miss Snow E. White of Midget Lane, recently afflicted, were treated in their respective residences yesterday by Cecharming.

Cecharming said, "We haven't got all the bugs out of it yet but someday it should become a popular cure."

Because of the spread of the disease at Miss Beauty's home, Cecharming had to hack away the brush and brambles that accumulated around her house to reach her.

Cecharming was notified of Miss White's condition several days ago by seven small deformed men with whom she has been living. Apparently she contracted the disease when she ate an apple sold to her by an elderly hook nosed woman.

Miss Beauty's case is similarly linked with an elderly woman.

Both women were on the road to full recovery when each came down early this morning with a mild case of mononucleosis, commonly known as kissing disease.

Anticipating this side effect, Cecharming said he had taken "the necessary precautions" and is assured both will recover completely.

Forensics Union Plans Two Trips

Members of the Forensics Union Plan to take two trips this coming week.

Tomorrow afternoon, Feb. 6, extemporaneous speakers and orators will enter in competition at Macalaster. Six students will be competing in original oratory and four in extemporaneous speaking. Jerry Skrupky, Mike Tillmann, Jan Belisle, Caryl Chambers, Pete Seguin and Mary Ellen Hansen will compete in oratory and Kathy Graham, Margret Kitze, Mike Norman and Paulette Gergen in extemporaneous speaking.

Friday morning, Feb. 9, four members and adviser Mr. Carstens will fly to Chicago and then drive to Lafayette, Indiana for Purdue University's Debate Tournament. They will participate in four rounds of debate on the national question, "Resolved: That the Federal Government should guarantee a minimum annual income to all citizens."

The River Falls team, consisting of Margret Kitze and Kathy Graham as negative and Paulette Gergen and Pete Seguin as affirmative, are attending the tournament as guests, all expenses paid, of Purdue. This invitation is a reciprocal gesture by Purdue in return for River Falls acting as host for the Annual High School Debate Tour in the spring of the year. In addition to providing free registration, the university is also allowing the team to stay at their expense at the hotel on Purdue's campus.

Would Senate Recognition Make AWS More Effective?

The Associated Women Students (AWS) Executive Board heard a report from the AWS Legislative Committee Tuesday night concerning a possible AWS constitution change. The issue under consideration is the question of whether AWS would be a more effective body if recognized by the Student Senate.

AWS President Sue Thielke reported that representatives from the AWS Board had spoken to Dr. William Munns, vice-president of student affairs about the matter. A meeting with University President Dr. R.J. Delorit was planned for the near future. No action was taken on the issue.

The major point of discussion is the legitimacy of the veto power of the AWS adviser, Dr. Nancy Knaak, associate dean of students. AWS President Sue Thielke said that if the girls are being hindered in making decisions, then AWS is "not a democratic form of government."

Mary Lou Cook emphasized another aspect of the problem. She said that maybe "the blame could be within our own group." Miss Cook stated that it was not Dean Knaak's fault if the girls were inactive. Further study will be done before a decision is made.

"It may take a month but we want to look into all aspects of the issue," said Miss Thielke.

Complaints were presented from Hathorn and McMillan Halls about the resident counselors making up rules that are not in the handbook. "It's not fair for a director to make up a rule if its convenient" said Ellie Betz.

A committee will talk to the resident counselors to find out the reasons behind the complaints. "I hate to condemn them without finding out the reasons," Miss Cook said.

The Special Events Committee announced plans for conducting a poll in the near future to find out what kind of AWS sponsored activities the girls would attend. Suggestions from the committee included a box social, a fashion show put on by Daytons, a self-improvement lesson put on by experts, such as from Patricia Stevens Modeling School and guest speakers.

The committee working on the compulsory AWS membership of married women students issue did not present a report. Chairman Carla Wilson resigned and the committee has not met.

"We haven't done a thing" stated committee member Nancy Knoebel.

Alpha Gamma Rho Gets Frat House

The men of River Falls Colony of Alpha Gamma Rho began a new chapter in the history of Wisconsin State University-River Falls, with the establishment of the first organized fraternity house on campus.

The house is located on 1024 East Cascade on a two and one fourth acre tract of land. With its purchase early last fall and the remodeling completed, the house is now in full operation.

At the present time, the house has living quarters for 12 men, modern kitchen, dining room, and living room completely furnished with new country provincial furniture. With these facilities we are able to offer the men of our fraternity a full meal service, prepared by a well-experienced cook, and all the comforts of home, including a house mother.

Since the beginning of the River Falls Colony the men have hoped to obtain national status. With the purchase and establishment of our house we have learned the deeper meaning of brotherhood.

Our affiliation with the National Alpha Gamma Rho has been in existence since 1964, although only recently recognized.

Alpha Gamma Rho with chapters on 41 campuses and new colonies on 7 campuses provided a national dimension to our membership. Being part of a National entitles us to the use of their job placement bureau, the chance for loans and scholarships, the professional ties with men of our interests and activities, but most important the lifelong friendships one develops.

Our hope is that in the near future, River Falls Colony will become a new chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho, and a long-lived chapter in our University's history and in our own organization.

that it has had so much "blood, sweat, and tears" put into it by the students and faculty of River Falls makes it a project which people will be willing to support. State support is being sought.

Maggie Huff, of the Student Foundation Committee, said that the $500 contributed by the junior class for South Fork has been set aside to draw interest until the project is ready for completion.

Sperling said that the building to be erected on South Fork would be a good one, since so much time and effort has already been put into the project. $40,000 is needed to complete the job.

Rasmussen asked Alan Tronrud of LAC to arrange a Free Spirit Forum for Wednesday, Feb. 14. Abram Segel, president of the Wisconsin United Council, will be on campus.

Rasmussen said he wants students exposed to what United Council is. He hopes to see a fund built up by the nine state universities to make United Council a powerful lobbying group in Madison for student rights.

Rasmussen told Senate that the code of conduct approved recently by the Board of Regents is "worse than when Wingert (a lawyer working for the board) started. He said that the students were involved in drawing up the code until the final stages. "Then they ramrodded it through," said Rasmussen.

Senate accepted the resignation of Judy Collins as editor of the Prologue and Jean Larsen of the Student Affairs Committee.

Senator Chudy noted that he would "really like to see the Prologue published, even if I have to do it myself." Rasmussen told Chudy to check on it.

Senator Laverne Herberg reported that GLC has allowed Phi Nu Chi to take their bus on a trip. No dates will be allowed on the bus.

Delta Theta Sigma and Alpha Gamma Rho had their constitutions approved by GLC. Halverson said the constitution committee will have them ready to vote on by next week.

Sophomore Wins $100 Scholarship

Dianna Miller, a sophomore in music education at Wisconsin State University-River Falls, has been selected recipient of the $100 Indianhead Music Service-Edwin H. Shern scholarship. The scholarship is awarded to an outstanding instrumental music major from western Wisconsin by the Indianhead company of Baldwin.

Dianna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller, 112 Oakwood Drive, Durand, has been playing clarinet for eight years. At the University she has participated in the clarinet ensemble, woodwind quintet band and the St. Croix Valley Orchestra.

Upon entering college Miss Miller received the M.E.N.C. music scholarship. Last summer she taught woodwinds in the Durand schools. She hopes to teach instrumental music on the secondary level after graduation.
