WISCONSIN STATE COLLEGE VOLUME XLIII - NUMBER 25

"WHAT IS IT, a homemade lemon squeezer?" asks Duanne Johnson during the Foundation Week "Auction Barn" in North Hall gym Thursday evening. Mr. Johnson, chairman of the week, found out later that the object is a saw filing clamp.

Johnson Announces Profit Of $270 for Foundation

The sale of such things as the president's office and pies that came complete with permission to smash them in anyone's face, along with other Foundation Week activities, brought in a total of about $270 according to Duanne Johnson, chairman of the annual event.

Pres. E. H. Kleinpell will trade places some morning this week with Neil McClellan, a junior from Menomonie. He will attend the student's classes, while Mr. McClellan takes over the president's office.

This was only one of the unusual things to go on the block during the "Auction Barn" Thursday night in North Hall gym. Another of the items sold, to two men students, was a night in the guest room of Hathorn Hall.

A "do it yourself" intelligence test was put up for sale by the psychology department.

According to Chairman Johnson, baked goods, especially pies, were popular sale items. However, Louie Johnson, who was one of the auctioneers, got a pie back from one of his customers—right in the face.

Proceeds from the auction and other events during the week will be used for a campus directory. Any surplus will go toward furnishings for the Student Union to be constructed on campus soon.

Fair Draws Crowd of 400

More than 300 high school pupils, and an additional 100 visitors attended the first annual Science Fair at RFSC last Thursday. Approximately 40 educational exhibits were presented from many fields in science and math with entries ranging all the way from a study of plant life to a small electric brain. Half a dozen high schools from the surrounding area entered exhibits which were supplemented by math and science projects.

The day began with registration at 9:30 a.m., with the official opening at 10 a.m., and lasting until 3 p.m. Exhibits were housed on all floors of North Hall, and on the first and second floor of South Hall. Most of the high school exhibits were displayed in South Hall Gym.

The highlights of the fair were Louis Beer, glass blower for the 3-M Co., in St. Paul, Minn., who blew such designs as horses and bowls in a matter of seconds, and Dr. C. G. Stratton, former geology teacher, lecturer and cartoonist.

The math and science departments plan to make the fair an annual event.

The annual High School Play-Day sponsored by the WRA will be Saturday, April 13, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the North and South Hall Gyms. Girls from high schools in this area have been invited to attend.

The main event is the volleyball tournament, with the winning team taking home the traveling trophy. Individual awards will also be given in bowling and ping pong. Other activities in the program include an archery exhibition and a tumbling and trampoline demonstration by the fifth and sixth grade campus school girls. Open swimming will also be on the program.

Natalie Vandehoof, Salley Haltenberger and Barbara Rohl are in charge of this year's Play-Day.

RECORD ATTENDANCE SEEN FOR FESTIVAL

The largest number of high school students to visit the River Falls campus so far this year will arrive Thursday, April 11, for the 33rd Annual District Solo and Ensemble Music festival.

An increase of 200 people over the attendance last year will bring the number of participants to about 1200.

Nearly 1000 solo and ensemble events are scheduled for the day. In addition to both gyms, the third floor of South Hall, the Little Theatre, the lounges in Hathorn Hall and South Hall will be used for the festival.

Judging will begin at 8 a.m. and continue until 5:30 p.m. Thirteen judges, eight from Minnesota colleges including the University of Minnesota, St. Thomas, Augsburg, and Hamline, and five from Wisconsin, will participate in the festival. College music students will assist the judges as room chairmen.

Nicholas Jadinak, who has managed the festival for the past five years, is asking full cooperation of the faculty and students in helping the visitors to find rooms and in giving additional aid.

School Administrators Here Tomorrow For Address by Dean Ernest Melby

Dr. Ernest O. Melby, visiting professor in the College of Education at Michigan State University, will be guest speaker at a meeting of school administrators here tomorrow.

Officials of schools in Barron, Burnett, Dunn, Pepin, Pierce Polk and St. Croix counties will hear Dr. Melby at a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. in the college cafeteria.

Dr. Melby served as professor and dean of education from 1945 to 1956 at New York University. He joined the faculty at Michigan State in 1956.

He received his B.A. degree at St. Olaf and the M.A. and Ph. D. degrees at the university of Minnesota.

While in New York Dr. Melby took an active part in civic affairs. He served as chairman of Mayor Wagner's Advisory Committee on Education, was president of the New York Citizens' Council, was a member on the board of the National Child Labor committee of New York City, and a board member of the Public Education Association of New York City.

Convocation to Feature Photos of Art Treasures

by Mark Wyman

"To travel right is actually harder than getting a college education. However, it is really a much more pleasant pastime."

ROUB

These words sum up the philosophy on travel of Gail Roub, a new student at RFSC this quarter, who will present slides of his trips to an all-school convocation Wednesday, April 10, at 10 a.m.

The program is based on his two-year visit to Europe and the Near East. While the majority of the pictures shown will be concerned with art treasures of the Mediterranean region, Mr. Roub will also show slides of the people in the areas covered.

Following service in Manila at the end of the Second World War, he started college at Northwestern, where he was graduated in 1951 with a degree in journalism. He then worked two years for Montgomery Ward in Chicago. He left there to work as a civilian on the construction of the U. S. air base at Thule, Greenland. Savings made there helped make possible his long-dreamed of trip to Europe.

At River Falls, Mr. Roub will take courses leading to history and English teaching on the secondary level. While still very interested in travel, he reports that no extensive trips are planned in the near future.

His program in North Hall Auditorium Wednesday will be drawn from the more than 1,000 slides he has of museums, ruins, and scenes in Cairo, Jerusalem, Rome, and Spain.

Freedom in Peril, Publisher Warns

by Gary Madson

"Freedom becomes a casualty, when conformity has reduced people to a common level", William T. Evjue, editor and publisher of the Madison Capital Times, warned in his speech concluding the conformity conference here Tuesday evening.

Mr. Evjue said that our representative form of government is defeated when the people accept without question what is being done. People are too eager to agree with the majority, he said, adding that they should be more critical of what is going on, and not simply accept someone else's idea.

"To accomplish this goal, Mr. Evjue pointed out, "we need to bring the two-party system into the mass media of communications, the press, radio, and TV." Today we have a "one-party press," he charged, which makes it easy for just one side of the news to be presented.

He said, "Too often fear and hysteria take the place of sanity and reason".

Mr. Evjue has a long career in the newspaper field since 1905, when he became editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel. In 1911 he became editor of the Wisconsin State Journal, at Madison, and, in 1917, along with two other men, founded the Madison Capital Times.

Mr. Evjue's address climaxed a day of discussion of "Conformity in American Life." Sponsored by the Social Science department of the college, the conference included panel discussions of "Conformity in Education" and "The Mass Media and Conformity" during the afternoon session.

Debaters Plan Dakota Trip

A group of students from RFSC local Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary speech fraternity, will attend the Pi Kappa Delta Nationals in Brookings, South Dakota, April 14-20.

Representing RFSC will be Arlen Christenson, president of the local chapter, and Mary Lou Jensen. Both will enter debate and extemporaneous speak. Two other debaters, one man and one woman, are yet to be chosen. Richard Doetkott will also probably be going to enter discussion says Walter Simonson, debate coach.

This bi-annual tournament will represent Pi Kappa Delta chapters from all over the country.

Following this debate, will be one at the University of Minnesota. This debate has been postponed to April 26-27.

The last planned debate of the season will be with the New York State University at Oswego, N. Y., on May 4. According to Mr. Simonson, transportation and registration expense will be paid—providing the budget allows—but the students will be expected to pay other personal expenses. Being an audience debate, the debaters will have a good chance to debate with students from that area, from Ohio State, Cornell University, and other universities.

Several possible debates may be given in front of the local high schools to round up the season.

Ten Members Named To Concert Committee

Five faculty members and five students have been named by President Kleinpell to assist chairman Leslie McKeen with the duties of the 1957-58 Concert and Lecture Committee.

Faculty members are Blake Anderson, Richard Darr, Martin Laakso, Louis Kollmeyer and Nick Jadinak.

Student representatives are Verlys Hicok, New Richmond; Dixie Prine, Ellsworth; Harry Elzinga, Sheldon; Jerry Best, Woodville; and Gordon Lee, Elroy.

CHAPTER BY STONE IN RECENT BOOK

Dr. L. G. Stone, director of the Division of Education and Placement, is the author of the chapter "The Development of Fifth Year and In-Service Programs" in the book "Improving Teacher Education Through Inter-College Cooperation."

The book has recently been published by William C. Brown Publishers, and is divided into eight chapters, with a total of 250 pages.

RFSC participated in the nine year study made by the Subcommittee on Research and Service of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, making this report possible. Members of the faculty who participated were Dr. Stone, 1948; Miss Vera Moss, 1949-50; Miss Ann Dubbe, 1951; James McLaughlin, 1953; Miss Opal Knox, 1954; and Marvin Thompson, 1956.

The Editor Speaks

The recent "Conference on Conformity in American Life" on campus dealt with the problem of the relationship between our educational system and the kind of "standardized" product developed.

American education has been accused of "spoon feeding" students so that individuality does not appear. One phase of this "spoon feeding" is requiring attendance at classes.

This differs from college and university life in other parts of the world where the student may appear at class as frequently or infrequently as he chooses. To pass the course he needs only to pass a stiff examination at the end of it.

How successfully would this system work in American colleges? Must our students have someone to tell them what to do for their own good? It would seem that for a person attending college with the proper attitude this wouldn't be necessary. Would the student develop more of a sense of responsibility if he realized that courses in college are designed to give him a well-rounded education and that there are certain basic skills he must master, but that the way he chose to attain this goal was up to him?

A slight step in this direction has been taken by the social science department in its policy of excusing students from the "Contemporary Civilization" course when they can pass a proficiency test covering the subject matter of the course. It's a small step, however, for the student is then required to take another course within the department.

Is it true that a student cuts classes merely because they are "compusory" and he wants to show his independence? Can students on occasion use their space time more profitably by working independently?

Certainly after college there are times when no one will force the graduate to do what he needs to do. There will be no one to make a decision for him. Would a system of "optional" class attendance help develop the necessary trait of self-discipline?

It's been said that the American student wants to get his full value from everything except the money he pays for his education. If this be true, then a system of non-compulsory class attendance would never work. And, in our imagination, we can hear the bellowing, as of a wounded bull, from the student who has skipped class most of the quarter and fails the examination. The plaint would be, "Why didn't you tell me I wasn't doing so well?"

But, with the expected increase in college enrollment and the consequent overcrowding, might an experiment with "optional" class attendance be worth while?

We wouldn't paraphrase Karl Marx to the extent of saying "Students arise, you have nothing to lose by a change," but it would be all right to examine the possibilities of doing something a little differently than it has been done traditionally.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

"THE HOUSEMOTHER THINKS IT'S NICE OF YOU BOYS TO TAKE AN INTEREST IN OUR YARD."

POINT OF VIEW

HAGESTAD

—Erratum—

There is a J. Harold Oppenheimer who is a bricklayer in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. (he lays a good, straight row of bricks); there is a J. Harold Oppenheimer who is a captain of a tug boat in San Francisco Bay (he runs a decent tug); and, there is a J. Harold Oppenheimer who is night elevator man in the third tallest building in Leslie, Kansas (he runs a steady elevator), but I was not writing about these people in this column last week, straight, decent and steady though their rows of bricks, tugs, and elevators may be.

In this column last week, I was writing about J. Robert Oppenheimer, the noted American nuclear physicist. Now Dr. Oppenheimer may have a brother, or some other relative whose name is J. Harold Oppenheimer, but I was not writing about him last week either. It was a typographical error—this Harold in place of Robert—and it was understandably not caught in the bustle of newspaper affairs. I am indeed sorry if this error excited the bricklayer in Poughkeepsie, the tug boat captain in San Francisco Bay, or the night elevator man in Leslie.

The Conference on Conformity
The Conference on Conformity in American Life, held here last Tuesday, was a great success in many respects. In some few respects, it was less a success than it could have been. I should like to open the question of how future conferences of this sort might be improved.

Truly, even well-meaning people have a tendency to become quite wrapped up in themselves. This is especially true of people associated with academic places, people thinking more or less "academic" thoughts. "Academic places" are not "market places" in the Baconian sense of the word. They are, at best, "intellectual market places," where the questions, "Will it work?" and, "Is it practicable?" are too seldom asked.

The Conference on Conformity's second panel (Mass Communications and Conformity), I think very nicely brought together these Baconian and intellectual "market places." This rubbing-together of the practical and idealistic was somewhat lacking in the first panel (The School and Conformity); Mr. Evjue, in the evening, demonstrated a rather good fusion of the ideal and the practical.

I think this meeting of the ideal and the practical, accomplished by the Conference, served a very good purpose. In "academic places"—intellectual "market places"—the thinking done very often lacks certain qualifications—certain "restraints". These qualifications and "restraints" notably come from the Baconian "market place". It is a "wrapping-up" process that attends this well-meaning, but unrestrained and "unqualified" academic thinking. The Baconian "market place" delivered its qualifications and "restraints" to well-meaning, but somewhat "wrapped-up" academic thinking last Tuesday—and, subsequently this thinking became somewhat "unwrapped".

The St. Croix Valley Barber Shop Chorus, a member of the SPEBQSA (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America) will present a program entitled the "Parade of Harmony" in North Hall Auditorium Saturday, April 13, at 8 p.m.

Featured quartets at this show will be the Atomic Bums from Minneapolis and the For-Mor quartet from Madison.

The Atomic Bums were well received at a similar show in Hudson earlier this year. The For-Mor quartet, while somewhat new in this area, is reportedly a very fine, entertaining group.

Admission for the show is 75 cents for students and $1.00 for adults. Tickets are being sold at the present time by several local people.

Ed Phelan from Menomonie will be Master of Ceremonies for the show.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

USF - WESLEY

A new Lenten devotional activity, a Last Supper, is being planned by members of the Methodist Wesley Foundation and the Congregational United Fellowship for Tuesday, April 16.

The observance, scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. in the Methodist Church, will center around worship and a meal composed of foods that might have been eaten at the Last Supper of Jesus. Alternate music and readings will be presented during the meal to help attain a suitable atmosphere.

Tickets for the supper, priced at 50 cents, are being sold only in advance and are available from Donna Williams and Betty Weber. Faculty members of both churches have been invited to attend.

NEWMAN CLUB

Concluding the present series on Courtship and Marriage the Newman Club meeting Tuesday, April 9, will feature Fr. Rivard from Somerset, who will speak on marriage.

A question box will be passed around for written questions on any aspect of courtship and marriage which will be answered by Fr. Rivard.

Discussion on the acquisition of a Newman Hall will be held. Officers urge attendance at this discussion which, they say, is very important as it affects each and every Newmanite on campus.

GERMAN CLUB

The German Club will meet in the Knotty Pine Room at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 11. A picture for the Meletean will be taken at this time.

WESLEY

The Wesley Foundation will hold its regular Sunday night supper meeting April 14. Officers will be elected for next year at this meeting.

Letters to the Editor...

Dear Editor:

May I take this opportunity to thank those of the student body, faculty, and townspeople who supported me as a write-in candidate for alderman of the fifth ward. Dear to me is the confidence and enthusiasm which was exhibited by approximately twenty persons who worked with me.

To the people of the City of River Falls who are interested, let this vote be taken as an expression of our interest in community affairs.

May I announce to all that as an outgrowth of the elections a new and what should prove to be an interesting group is evolving on campus. This group will be a non-partisan committee of study and action in local government with an eye to future elections.

Thank you,
Don Patin

Intramural Spring Sports Underway After Slow Start

All intramural baseball teams must be turned in to the athletic office by Monday, April 15 at 5 p.m. These teams will be scheduled into leagues with play to begin immediately following Spring vacation, if weather permits.

Intramural volleyball will continue next week after a slow two week start. Play has been limited due to conflicts in the Auditorium and Foundation week. The present placings are all quite even, with no outstanding team.

Sports in a Nutshell

by Lewie

"Thumpin'" Theodore Williams, who has come to be known as baseball's best hitter and worst diplomat, is dominating the sports pages again. Of course this is nothing new to the sports public. Ever since donning a beantown uniform the splendid sprinter has been making verbal blasts mixed in with a few extractions from his salivary glands. But all of these blasts have been aimed at sportscribes, baseball heads, or the fans. However, last week we saw Williams stepping outside his beefing periphery and unleashing an outburst against the U. S. government concerning Joe Louis and his tax problem. This is going a bit too far, say the sportswriters, and they promptly greeted him with a blast similar to what the junior senator from Wisconsin might receive in the MADISON CAPITAL TIMES... On many former such incidents, some scribes have sided with Williams but it appears this time that they have joined against him en masse.

I mentioned two weeks ago in this department that the main weakness of the Falcon baseball team is the pitching department. A schedule that includes something like ten games in fifteen days further emphasizes this weakness. It looks as though Jim Turnquist may absorb some of the hurling duties. Jim, a freshman from Greenwood, possesses a good side arm fast ball that could be quite effective. If his control is consistent he has a job cinched. Coach Solley says he is looking for boys who can throw strikes. He feels mediocre, non-erratic pitching coupled with excellent defensive and hitting potential will produce a winner.

Weather Prompts Workouts in Gym For Trackmen and Baseball Players

Although the heavy snow last week put a white, wet damper on the spring fever for outdoor athletics, baseball and track were still very much in the air with the athletes continuing their regular workouts in shifts in the North Hall gym.

FIRING TOWARD an imaginary home plate in indoor pitching practice for the Falcon diamond team last week was Ron Thompson, a member of the RFSC mound corps.

It also offered the coaches a good opportunity to sit down and do some adding and subtracting to see just where the strengths and weaknesses lie on the two squads.

The outlook for success in the immediate track season has taken a more rosy appearance, Coach Fran Polsfoot admitted. The main reason for the favorable reddish tinge has been the spirited showing of the sprinters, along with the addition of badly-needed help in other track and field departments.

Dashmen Gain Strength

The dashmen, originally considered to be the weakest point of the entire '57 squad, have gained strength and several boys have been working hard to remove the undesirable appraisal. Among them are Frank Sprenger, Ray Meyer, Mick Lauber, John Rassbach, Dick Coen, and Wayne Hausalter.

Assistance has also appeared in the high jump division in Dale Henning and Lauber. Del Motz has already shown great promise in this event through his performances last spring.

According to the coach, Aaron Burchell has been throwing the discus with great gusto, while a newcomer to the distance field, Wilbert Herman, has been looked upon with favor. Dick Shimel is expected to help Wayne Suckow considerably in the hurdles.

Schedule Changes Made

Two schedule changes have been made. An additional meet has been scheduled for April 30 at St. Thomas, with Gustavus Adolphus, the Tommies, and RF participating. The Bi-State meet set for May 18 at St. Cloud has been changed to River Falls. Winona, St. Cloud, Mankato, Eau Claire, and River Falls will be competing.

Solley Optimistic

Coach Bill Solley is also optimistic about his squad of ball-players, saying that regardless of the snow, he feels the team will need only two more practice sessions in order to be ready for the season opener with Hamline here this Friday at 3 p.m.

Solley believes his pitching staff, Louie Johnson, Dick Fischer, Gordy Hoff Jim Turnquist, and John Steffen, is ready to go, and he has been favorably impressed with the consistent hitting of the club.

A real battle is being waged between Howie Madsen and Jim Anderson for the top catching job. Both are assured of seeing considerable action this season.

FALCON FANFARE

Rog Gundlach

This week Falcon Fanfare pays tribute to the men behind the fine college teams—the coaches.

The senior member of the River Falls coaching staff is Phil Belfiori, who marks his sixth season with the school. Arriving in 1951, he immediately took over the reins as head football coach and assistant basketball coach. Since then he has served in the capacity of head basketball coach and became athletic director in 1952.

Coach Belfiori was graduated in 1939 from the U. of Minnesota, where he played varsity football during his sophomore, junior and senior years. He received his M. E. from Minnesota in 1940 and served five years as football coach at the high school in Stillwater, Minnesota, where his teams won three Suburban Conference titles. Prior to coming to River Falls, Phil coached for six years at Central high in Sheboygan.

During his half-dozen years here at RF, Coach Phil has notched an impressive record. He has piloted the gridiron teams to a total of 31 victories, 12 defeats, and three ties. His best record was in 1955, when the Falcons compiled a 7-1 mark. The 1954 and 1956 squads follow closely with identical 6-2 records.

Dr. William Solley has been at River Falls for five years, and during this time has carried the duties and responsibilities of head baseball coach and assistant football coach.

Coach Solley holds the B. S. and M. A. degrees from Western Kentucky State College at Bowling Green, receiving them in 1947 and 1948. He also holds a Pe. D. from Indiana University, which he received in 1951.

Solley

Coach Solley's coaching and phy. ed. experience includes a year at Gordo, Alabama, high school, two years as a graduate assistant at Indiana University, and one year at the University of Kansas City.

His college athletics consisted of football and basketball at Howard College in Birmingham, Alabama, as well as playing guard and quarterback on the Western Kentucky varsity gridiron squad.

The newest member of the Falcon coaching staff is Fran Polsfoot, who joined the college faculty in 1954 as assistant coach in football and basketball and head coach of track and field. He took over as head basketball coach this season, finishing with a 10-10 season mark.

Polsfoot Hailing from Montesana, Washington, coach Polsfoot saw four years of action in the National Football League. He played offensive end for three years with the Chicago Cardinals and one year with the Washington Redskins.

The track program under the direction of Mr. Polsfoot has steadily advanced in popularity, as well as in athletic records, over the past couple of years. Regardless of the fact that the northern climate permits only a lim-

Infield Needs Practice

The infielders need fore practice and experience in working together, but no fewer than five men may be depended upon besides first base, where Dick Hoffman is a mainstay. At second base, either George Holland or Steffen is available. The short-stop duties will be divided between Holland and Joe Burgoyne and third is up for grabs between Al Suezaki and Don Swanson.

The outfield is the most undecided part of the team, with Rog Roeffler the only candidate most strongly considered for a regular job.

GOLFERS ASKED TO REPORT

All those interested in forming a college golf team must report to the coaches' office, North Hall, at 3 p.m., Tuesday. If cooperation from golfers is not received, the plans for organizing a team will be dropped.

Nominations Needed For New AWS Board

At the all-college convocation at 10 a.m., Wednesday, April 10, women students may make additional nominations on the forms distributed at the time fore the 1957-58 AWS Board. Two nominations for the same person will be regarded as a "second" to the first nomination. The final slate of candidates will then be drawn up by the present Board and posted prior to elections. (Nominees must have a minimum grade average of C plus, show qualities of leadership which will help promote the objectives of the Association.)

In view of the discussion concerning the proposed changes to the Constitution the AWS Board will again review the matter at its meeting on April 12. (Interested members are welcome to attend this meeting.) Following revision, an open meeting will again be held for discussion by all members of the Association later this month. A vote will be taken at the time of elections.

All members of AWS are urged to express their opinions regarding corrections or additions to any members of the Board: Elvera Peterson, Julia Kaminski, Phyllis Anderson, Marie Forman, Diane Shay, Phyllis Benjamin, Anita Carew, Virginia Novak, Patty Ross and Georgia Thompson.

LUTHERAN BANQUET SET FOR APRIL 9

Samil Ishmir, an Arab Christian from Pakistan attending the Lutheran Theological Seminary, will be the guest speaker at the LSA Spring banquet. The banquet will be at 6 p.m., April 9 in the Lutheran Church.

The installation of the 1957-58 officers and several musical selections will climax the banquet.

Drs. Darr and Smith To Attend Convention

Dr. Richard Darr and Dr. Gilbert Smith of the River Falls Economics department will attend the convention of the Midwest Economics Association in Milwaukee this week-end.

The three-day meet is scheduled for April 11, 12 and 13. It is the 21st annual meeting of the Association.

Four RFSC Seniors Will Receive University Chemistry Assistantships

Three River Falls seniors have accepted University assistantships in chemistry for the following year. Another has yet to make his final choice of schools, according to Theodore Setterquist, head of the Chemistry Department.

The four, all chemistry majors, are George Klein, Ernest Johnson, Fred Beede, and Marvin Olson. The assistantships are designed to aid in work toward a Ph.D. in Chemistry.

Mr. Klein will begin next fall as a graduate teaching assistant year. Mr. Johnson, who will graduate also with a physics minor, will assist in research at I.S.U.
