Choir's 'Christmas Music Festival' Tonight

STUDENTS TO OPEN HUNGARIAN SCHOLARSHIP DRIVE AT ASSEMBLY THURSDAY

Dance to Follow In N.H. Gym With Falconaires

An all-school Christmas party and pep fest, featuring skits, musical numbers, and dance, will launch the campus-wide drive to bring a Hungarian refugee student to River Falls. Planned for next Thursday in the North Hall aud. and gym, the party will start at 2 p.m., with an assembly in the auditorium. Afternoon classes will be dismissed with the starting of activities.

The drive's goal is to raise $4,000 for an all-expense scholarship that would enable one of the approximately 1500 refugee students now entering the U. S. to complete his education.

The hour-long assembly will get underway with a brief verbal sketch of current conditions and attitudes in Hungary by Anna Szedlak. Now a freshman at RFSC, Miss Szedlak fled from her Hungarian home in 1946 to avoid Communist oppression.

The first skit on Thursday afternoon's program has been written by Edward Peterson of the social science department.

The humorous presentation will show first a "typical" Russian classroom, to be followed by a portrayal of the "normal" American classroom as pictured in the mind of a Communist.

Dick Doetkott and Arlin Albrecht, juniors from River Falls and Chippewa Falls respectively, are also scheduled to present a skit for the convocation.

The story of a college recruiting bulletin entitled the "Halls of River Falls" will be told by Jim Crane, of the art department, and Wayne Wolfe, of the journalism department. The act features cartoons by Mr. Crane and narration by Mr. Wolfe.

Music-wise, Wednesday's assembly will include a community carol sing and trumpet solo by Jerry Best, freshman from Woodville.

Concluding the program will be Mike Fleming, sophomore from Frederic, with a short talk outlining objectives and proposed (Continued on Page 2)

Religious Carols Set for Program In North Hall

The College Choir will present its 11th annual Christmas program under director C. B. King tonight at 8 p.m. in North Hall auditorium. The program, entitled "Christmas Music Festival," will present a variety of folk carols. Mr. King pointed out that although the music "is festive in nature, it is entirely religious and centers about the fundamental meaning of Christmas." He also brought out the fact that this is not a "Formal Concert, but that the stress will be on sincerity, simplicity, and meaning."

Adding variety to the program will be a vocal ensemble. Members of this group are Beatrice DeGidio, Shelby King, Marge Olson, Elaine Solum, James Johnson, Harry Elzinga, Richard Meulemans, and Edward Thompson. Accompanist for the ensemble is Mariys Olson.

The Festival will be the choir's first appearance of the season. Other events scheduled for this year's 40-voice choir are the annual Spring Concert and tour. Officers of the group are Bob Uhrig, president; James Johnson, business manager; Mary Olson, secretary and Carol Nalberg, librarian. Dixie Prine accompanies the choir.

The program follows: "O, Come, O Come, Emmanuel," Plain song - Lenel

"Song of Adoration," Traditional - Luvaas
"A Spotless Rose," Herbert Howells.

"Lo, How a Rose E're Blooming," Praetorius

"Angels We Have Heard on High," French Carol - Paul Christiansen.

"Praise Ye the Lord of Hosts," Saint - Saens

Offertory
"Ave Maria," Arcadelt - Davis
"The Friendly Beasts," English - Howorth

"The Carol of the Owl," Morten J. Luvaas
"Shepherds, Awake!," Katherine K. Davis

WINTER ENROLLMENT SETS ALL-TIME HIGH WITH 1038 STUDENTS

Setting a new all-time high of 1,038 students, the enrollment this quarter marks the first time since 1952 that the winter term total has been higher than in the fall.

River Falls had its largest enrollment in history last term with 1,033 persons taking courses on campus. This term's new high should even further exceed the old record within the next two school weeks.

Registrar E. J. Prucha says that from five to 15 new students will be enrolling following their discharge from the armed services next week. Mr. Prucha said that he has received letters from about 25 servicemen indicating interest in entering school here this quarter if they are discharged within a short period of time.

An additional three students are planning to transfer to RF for the winter term from the University of Minnesota, according to the Registrar.

DORMITORY WOMEN 'MOVE UP IN WORLD' AS NEW STORY OPENS

Last Wednesday was moving day at Hathorn Hall. About 50 women from the dorm's first two floors moved into the newly added third story.

Before the move, the 100 women students in the dorm were living with three and four persons in a room. The addition of the third floor eliminated all but six triple-rooms in the building.

The 25 new rooms are similar to those on the original two levels. The only difference is in the placing of closets to form separating walls. Two double rooms on the third floor are in fact, one large room divided by closets.

Hathorn Hall was designed to enable additions to be made without major structural changes. The dorm, identical to several others in the Wisconsin State College System, was originally planned by Schubert and Sorenson of La Crosse.

Notre Dame to Debate RF

Teams from the River Falls debate squad, now the nation's largest with 55 members, and the University of Notre Dame, last year rated as second high in the U. S. will meet here in an audience debate Wednesday, Jan. 9.

Scheduled for the North Hall auditorium at 8 p.m., the debate will be on this year's national high school topic, "Resolved that Basic Agricultural Crops Should be Supported by 90 per cent Parity." Debating for RFSC will be Mary Lou Jensen, junior from Hudson, and Dick Waak, junior from Eau Claire.

River Falls wound up in a three-way tie with Notre Dame and Central Michigan State College at a Freshman-Sophomore debate tournament in Chicago, December 8. Walter Simonson, debate coach, says that a different team will represent Notre Dame for the debate here. Winning at least 25 debates and losing not more than five, last year's Notre Dame squad, according to Mr. Simonson, placed second in the nation behind West Point. He calls them, "Tops in the country during the last 10 years with an overall record of about 80 per cent wins."

A debate magazine, The Gavel, published by Delta Sigma Rho, a national debate fraternity, lists Notre Dame's budget for last year at $10,000. The River Falls squad has been allocated $1,675 for this season's expenses.

Students will be admitted to the audience debate by presenting their activity cards. An admission of 25 cents will be charged to all other persons attending.

With the addition of 10 new members to the forensics squad this quarter, it became the country's largest. The following persons have joined the squad since (Continued on Page 2)

'Defense' Next Convo Topic

George Fielding Eliot, a nationally known analyst of current affairs will speak in the North Hall auditorium Thursday, Jan. 10 at 10 a.m.

An authority on the United States' military and foreign policy, his topic for the convocation, sponsored by the Concert and Lecture Committee is entitled, "How is Your Home Town Defended?"

According to recent releases, his clarity of expression and real understanding of the basic issues involved, enable him to present a sound analysis of the critical world situation.

Mr. Eliot was the first American correspondent to predict the triumph of Israel over the Arab invaders. He also foresaw that the fall of Beria would mean a rise of the Marshals of the Communist Army to a place of power in the Kremlin's councils.

His wide knowledge of the men who direct the policies of the U. S. and her Allies provides (Continued on Page Six)

GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

The Editor Speaks . . .

Has TV changed the pattern of what audiences want? This is one of the theories advanced for the pitifully small audience at last Wednesday's evening convocation. A total of $300 was spent from the Student Activity Fund to bring a musical program here for an audience of approximately 60 persons. This figures out at $5 a person, a rather uneconomical program.

If the TV theory is correct, perhaps the whole concept of the convocation should be changed. Perhaps, in fact, the entire idea should be discarded.

This theory holds that students no longer are interested in "live" performers. That they can go to the lounge or watch their home TV sets and see "top-quality" programs. As Samuel Goldwyn is reported to have remarked about TV's effect on the film industry, "Why should people go to the movies when they can stay home and see nothing worse?"

Daytime convocations have been more successful so far, possibly because classes have interfered with students following the "soap operas." Along these same lines, the acceptance of this theory would mean scheduling forthcoming all-school assemblies so as not to conflict with the wrestling matches or Elvis Presley.

The Concert and Lecture Committee spends a great deal of time each year trying to work out a balanced series of events. It must have been embarrassing to them, as it was to the audience, to have only a handful for a group that had made a special trip from Chicago to appear on campus. If there are some suggested solutions to this problem the committee and The Student Voice would be interested in hearing them.

Personally, we're sufficiently tradition-bound to think that there is no substitute for live programs and that those who stayed away last Tuesday missed something worthwhile. But if the recent convocation is to be the pattern of things to come maybe we should take the money now spent to bring artists here and use it exclusively for a type of program that cannot be seen on TV. Failing that, perhaps we should just use the money to by subscriptions to the "TV Guide" for each student.

CRITICS CORNER —

by Harry Elzinga

The Chicago Lyric Trio presented a well-balanced program last Tuesday evening to the smallest audience at a convocation this year.

The two vocalists, June Browne and Henri Noel, presented an operatic aria and several ballads. The concert was rounded out with several duets from Broadway light operas and musical comedies.

June Browne, lyric coloratura soprano, failed to make a favorable impression with this reviewer. Her interpretations were dull and did not "live." Her voice lacked a uniform quality and was rather harsh in the upper register, while it appeared throaty in the lower register.

The baritone, Henri Noel, more than made up for what Miss Browne lacked in interpretation and voice quality. His tremendous voice and vivid interpretations should have thrilled all his listeners. Especially outstanding was his version of Ole Man River.

Janice Harbison, piano accompanist, played two Chopin valzes which were quite well executed, considering the poor condition of her instrument.

The audience, composed of a small representation from the faculty and student body, appeared to enjoy the program which was sponsored by the Concert and Lecture Series.

activities for the fund-raising drive.

A Christmas dance in the gym is planned to immediately follow activities in the auditorium. Mr. Kollmeyer, of the art department, and one of his classes have charge of the decorations.

Lapel tag tickets for the dance will be given to all students donating to the scholarship drive beginning on campus Wednesday afternoon. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Getting a head start with donations to the refugee fund, members of the Falconaires have offered to provide music for the dance as their contribution.

The band took its audience on an entertaining and successful "New York Holiday" during a concert performance in North Hall auditorium last Thursday evening. Directed by B. J. Rozehnal, the outstanding work in the first half of the program was a fine and tasteful interpretation of Slaughter on Tenth Avenue. Harry Elzinga, turned in a performance no less than excellent, balancing his piano part well with the band. The entire group showed a blend and balance just right for this composition.

In Park Avenue Fantasy the trumpet solo work was notable. The trumpets were outstanding in many instances with regard to tone quality and technique.

The thrilling beginning and interesting harmonies of From Africa to Harlem and the wide range of dynamic contrast in the band's performance of it, made the selection a near perfect addition to the program. Especially memorable in this number was a brilliant clarinet solo by Marlys Olson.

The trombone section played its difficult passages with remarkable precision in the March of the Slide Trombones.

The difficult job of balancing voices and band was well handled by Mr. Rozehnal in the selections from Oklahoma and The Desert Song. The beautiful individual quality of Shelby King's voice and the nicely blending voices of the Choraliers as a group added a professional quality to this part of the concert.

The feeling and mood of music from Damn Yankee seemed almost natural with the band.

The evening's last selection, Midnight Matinee, along with the marches played demonstrated fine rhythmic precision.

The newly-formed male choir directed by Nicholas Jadinak gave a top-notch performance. They had a good blend and a certain dynamic feeling for The Whiffenpoof Song and gave an excellent barbershop-style performance of Winter Song.

Mr. Jadinak is to be congratulated for his organizational work and for stimulating interest in an all-male vocal group on campus. It has proved itself a worthy addition to campus music.

Glen Gill was graduated from River Falls last year at the end of fall term. He is currently teaching music at the high school in Independence.

—SO TIRED TODAY I ALMOST FELL ASLEEP IN CLASS!

GAD BOOKS!

HAGESTAD

Billed variously as " . . . a group portrait of the Existentialist clique," " . . . an intellectual idyll," etc., Simone De Beauvoir's latest book, The Mandarins (World, 610 pages, $6, tr. by Leonard M. Friedman) is all these and more. It is something of a post-war French intellectual history, a rather thin-aided love story, and a very interesting struggle (also on an intellectual plane).

It is evident from the beginning that Mme. De Beauvoir is going to write about Existentialists in a more or less Existentialist manner. This is a large book in several respects: large in its scope, in its purpose, and in its magnanimity toward French Existentialists.

THIS IS THE STORY of intellectuals in post-war France who have fought valiantly in the resistance; they are all intelligent and knowing people. They have fought a war, and now, strangely, face the "semi-horror" of that war's end. This "fear" of a post-war life" the intellectuals feel is not right. This is the situation author De Beauvoir attempts to resolve in her book.

The problem facing this author's characters is this: these people have geared themselves to resisting Nazism. Now that the war is over they find themselves in clear air with a chance to walk respectfully in the market place with their intellectualism. They can do this now for they have as their credentials the fight they put up against the Nazis in the resistance.

However, these people suffer defeat after defeat, are forced to fall back on dearer and dearer "credentials:" a resistance newspaper, "Le Espoir," the word of a wise old revolutionary, etc., finally, they must seek the financial help of a capitalist loathsome to all of them.

This series of reverses for these French intellectuals poses the dilemma: "What are we fighting for now?" It is their cause that these people are brought to examine and it is here that the book as intellectual history begins.

THE PROBLEM of these people seems to be the same sort of problem that sincere social and political malcontents have always faced. "What are we trying to do?" "Have we really got a cause, or are we crackpots, opportunists?" "What are we fighting?" "Are we really fighting something within ourselves?" "Are we a case of 'Doctor Cure First Thyself?'" It is in questions like these that author De Beauvoir's import lies. That import is couched in a wearying mass of padding and verbiage . . .

There are other "stories" in this book. Author De Beauvoir has "dug in her own garden" and come up with a story of herself and American author, Nelson Algren. She has revealed French intellectual ideas toward Communism, America and Russia, etc.; but it is her examination of this struggle or dilemma in the French intellectual mind that is the most important thing about her book. It is a dilemma not entirely removed from the same dilemma that faces France herself and it is this aspect of Mme. Beauvoir's book that recommends it to U. S. readers.

EVENTS IN THE NEWS AT OTHER COLLEGES

by Donna Williams

In keeping with the holiday season, an independent group of students at Oshkosh are rehearsing for a presentation of Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol." With River Falls being no exception, most of the State Colleges are in the rush of preparation for Christmas formals, concerts, etc.

A portion of "The Messiah" will be presented at Whitewater before vacation.

Junior and senior students at Milwaukee now have the opportunity to purchase class rings. Made of 10 karat gold with a synthetic rubystone center, the rings also feature a reproduction of the UMW insignia, the cardinal.

The newly-constructed women's dorm at Menomonie, Bertha Tainter Hall, was recently opened formally. The new building's rooms are similar to those in Hawthorn Hall. Its residents can enjoy such features as a dining area, tea room, and a lounge overlooking Lake Menomin. The lounge opens on a terrace also with a view of the lake.

Whitewater State's Vets Club is sponsoring a series of foreign movies in a "Film Festival." Included are some movies shown in previous years on the RF campus. For example, the Russian picture, "Sadko," and "Bicycle Thief," made in Italy, are part of the new movie program.

The annual campaign to find the "Ugliest Man," was recently touched off at Oshkosh. With proceeds going toward Christmas gifts for needy persons in the area, a poll tax of one cent a vote is collected from all students participating. The winner receives a traveling trophy and symbolic key.

A point of interest on the Stout campus has been a marble sundial that was erected recently. The curiosity is a gift from the 1956 graduating class as a monument from the class that was the first to graduate after Stout was made a State College.

Boilers Cause of 'Bomb Scare' in '20s

by Bill Finlan

Among other things during its history, the college boiler room has been called a place where students and faculty could "let off steam" and was once credited with what was taken to be a German bombing raid.

One of the school's long-time workers, Joe Kahut, chief engineer recalls the "bombing" incident that happened in 1922 shortly before he came to River Falls. The unique experience involves a small upright boiler that was located in the dairy building near the barns.

A farm helper, Harvey Ward, fired the boiler and then left to complete his other work. He neglected to note that the boiler was nearly out of water and building up a tremendous amount of steam pressure.

The boiler exploded, completely demolishing the dairy building. It must have risen to fantastic heights because it traveled all the way to the Julia Morse home on Vine Street. Just getting out of bed, Miss Morse was, needless to say, surprised to see part of the boiler come tearing through the roof and land in the bed that she had only a moment before vacated.

Because thoughts of the recently-ended World War were still fresh in her mind, Miss Morse's first impression was "bomb!" After calling the police, her fright was ended when they found out about the demolished boiler and dairy building.

Until recent years, no smoking was allowed on campus or in the buildings with the exception of a small smoking lounge and the boiler room. Students and faculty frequently picked up a cup of coffee from the cafeteria and went down to the heating plant for a cigarette break.

There probably was a much closer relationship between students and faculty, especially those who smoked. According to Mr. Kahut, many heated discussions on issues of the day developed in the dark, musty surroundings of the boiler room.

Presently, four men keep the boilers going 24 hours a day, all year long. The persons who keep the boilers stoked and cleaned are Neil Barrow, who has been here for 15 years; Knute Pettersen, now in his 15th year at the college; Ray Mayers, who started after World War II; and a part-time employee with six years experience, Gordon Hanvelt.

Two new boilers, replacing old Hawley down draft types, were installed in 1952. Before installation of the new Keeler water proof models, all coal had to be hand fed. The new units feature automatic stokers.

The Keeler boilers produce 12,500 pounds of steam pressure every hour. This is equivalent to about 190 horse power. The two units are alternately used every 12 weeks, while the other is being cleaned and completely overhauled. This includes checking the steam gaskets and a hypostatic test to detect leaks. The one operating boiler supplies heat and steam for the entire campus.

Consuming approximately 1200 gallons of water a day, the boiler uses about 17,000 pounds of coal every 24 hours.

LOCAL AWSCF HOST TO STATE LEGISLATORS

The local chapter of the Association of Wisconsin State College Faculties was host Monday evening to two state senators, an assemblyman, and their wives at a dinner in the college cafeteria.

Present were Senator and Mrs. Robert Knowles, Senator and Mrs. William Clark, and Assemblyman and Mrs. William Ward.

Following a short program which included a talk by Pres. E. H. Kleinpell, the legislators and their wives watched the River Falls-Bethel basketball game.

FACULTY MEMBER AND student (Mr. and Mrs. Thorvald Thoreson) dance together at the annual Faculty Christmas party in South Hall gymnasium. Fortunately, the college has no "non-fraternization" rules.

Christmas Pageant At Campus School Set for Tuesday

The entire enrollment of the Wisconsin State College campus school, about 200 pupils, will present a Christmas pageant entitled, "A Little Child," next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the North Hall auditorium.

Based on the Christmas story from the Annunciation to Jesus' talk with the Wisemen in the temple, the scenes will be presented in pantomime by the school's kindergarten group. Providing a background for enactment of the Biblical account will be Christmas songs and choral readings by pupils from other grades in the Campus School.

Taken from the book, "A Little Child," by Elizabeth Orton Jones, the pageant will include the following scenes:

1. The angel Gabriel appears before Mary.
2. Jesus in the manger.
3. The angels and the shepherds.
4. The nativity scene.
5. Appearance of the Wisemen.
6. The flight into Egypt.
7. Jesus in the temple.

Nicholas Jadinak, in charge of music for the program, said there will be several duets from the upper grades and numbers by a string ensemble, brass quartet, and girls' sextet composed of junior high pupils.

SCIENCE FAIR PLANNED HERE IN SPRING

A Science Fair, to be held on campus April 4, was planned at a meeting of faculty members from the math, chemistry, geology, geography, physics, and biology departments with area high school instructors last Tuesday.

Designed to show students what can be accomplished in science on the high school and college levels, and encourage them to seek higher education in the fields of science, the fair will feature demonstrations, exhibits, and lectures.

According to Gerald Bisbey, chairman of the project's coordinating committee made up of Catharine Lieneman, Ted Setterquist, and Richard Swensen, about 75 high schools from the surrounding region are expected to participate in the program.

Although the fair will be set up primarily for student benefit, according to Mr. Bisbey, it should also present ideas that can be used in the classroom by secondary teachers.

All campus organizations have requested the Senate for regular meeting times and places. Calvin Martell and Roger Hanson were appointed to begin work on revision of the present meeting schedule immediately.

Winter Carnival

After a lengthy discussion, the Senate decided to schedule this year's Winter Carnival for February 14, 15, 16 and 17. The final motion on the matter was made by Louie Johnson.

Factors in favor of these dates include two basketball games planned for February 15 and 16. In addition, the Senate feels that this period in February is usually relatively free from other all-school activities.

River Falls Cagers Divide Pair of Non-conference Tilts

—RF 86, Bethel 62—

by Rog Gundlach

A wild scoring splurge during the first few minutes of the second half which netted River Falls 30 points to eight for the visiting Bethel college cagers spelled the margin of victory in the Falcon's second non-conference win of the young season.

Although leading by just two points at the end of the first half, 36-34, the RF squad came back to widen the gap by 62-40 with less than 10 minutes gone in the second half and went on to triumph, 86-62. At one point in the game, Coach Fran Polsfoot's men tallied for 16 points in a row.

Leading the victor's attack was 6-5 center Dave Herum with 32 points on 13 field goals and 6 gift tosses. He collected a similar total against Augsburg in the season-opener. The rangy pivotman didn't score until 10 minutes had elapsed in the first half, going on to account for 17 in the next 10 minutes of play and a dozen more in the first half of the second period before he was called to the bench.

Mick Lauber, a freshman playing at guard in his first college game, took second place scoring honors with 13 points, followed closely by guard Dick Fischer, who garnered 12.

Inability to rebound throughout the first half is the only apparent reason for the Falcons' low point total compared to their second stanza play. They were especially weak on clearing the ball from the defensive boards, but this fault was quickly corrected as the second half got under way. Tom Marshall led the Falcons with 13 rebounds, while Herum grabbed nine off the boards and John Steffen accounted for seven.

With Bethel's two top scorers, forward Howie Rekstad and guard Bill Conrad, held to just six and 11 points, respectively, center Glen Westin jumped into the scoring limelight with 23 markers. The inability of Rekstad and Conrad to compile more impressive scoring figures pays tribute to the home team's alert defense. At times the Royal's stocky forward seemed completely frustrated as he failed to make a single field goal attempt, while Dan Corcoran and Lauber forced the diminutive guard to shoot from long range.

The first few minutes of play saw a closely-matched game, but Bethel pulled away to a 13-6 lead with 12:03 minutes left in the half. River Falls staged an offensive spurt to tie it up at 13-all with 10:00 left.

The teams continued to exchange the lead until, with 5:00 minutes left in the half, the Falcons pulled into a one-point lead, 24-23, and were never behind for the rest of the contest.

Both squads hit for about one-third of their shots during the first half of play, but in the second period the RF quintet netted approximately 50 per cent of their attempts. This once again emphasizes the remarkable second-half play improvement by the Falcons.

Coach Polsfoot substituted freely throughout the game, with his entire squad seeing action and ten members breaking into the scoring column.

River Falls' record now stands at 2-0 in as many games, while Bethel's mark fell to one win against five losses.

RF Still on Road; To Face Mankato, Stout This Week

THE SECOND GAME of the current Falcon pre-holiday road series is scheduled for this evening when River Falls visits the Mankato State Indians in the Minnesota school's gym. The contest will be the fourth and final non-conference tilt for coach Polsfoot's cagers before they start "playing for keeps" when they face Stout Thursday night.

Pre-season information revealed that the Indians' new Coach, William Morris, who comes to Mankato State from Kearney, Nebraska, is not expected to have a powerful hardwood squad. However, he does have nine lettermen returning from the 1955-56 squad which finished with a 15-10 season record and copped the conference crown.

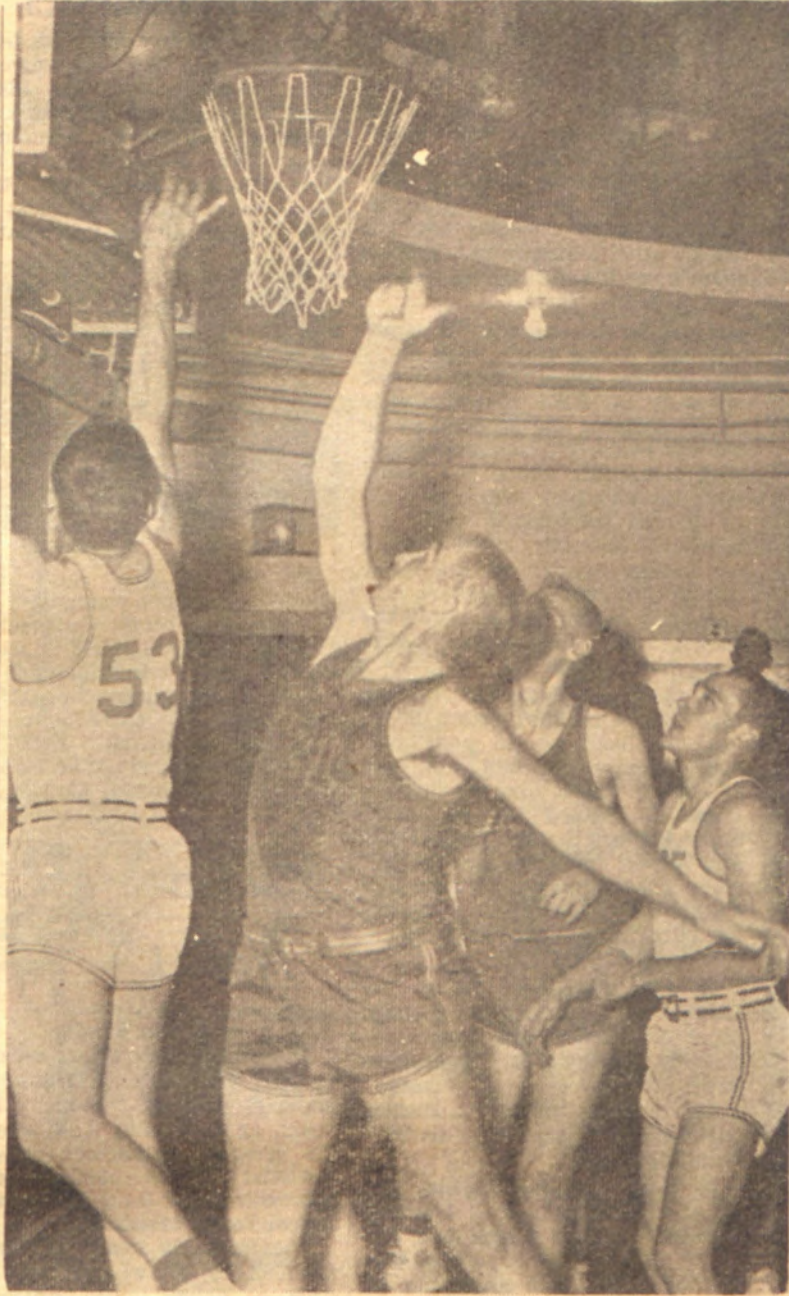

All-conference forward Wayne Deden and guard Wendall Jahnke (co-captains) are expected to provide the spark for this year's team. Deden stands 6-5 and Jahnke measures six feet. Jerry Bodelson, the other returning starter from last year's championship squad, is slated to fill in at the other guard slot.

OTHER RETURNEES who lettered last year are Jan Sanders (6-7), Herb Whitmore (6-4), Bill Bradley (6-2), Dick Wiebusch (6-3), Bruce Owens (6-0), and Jim Klassen (6-0). John Lightly, a 6-6 transfer student, will also add height to the squad which averages about 6-2.

Since the new coach is unfamiliar with the conference and the school's opponents, Morris has declined to predict where his club will place in the final standings. However, he issues warning that the Mankato team will be a good scrappy outfit with fair balance.

COMPLETING the pre-Christmas schedule will be the Falcons' opening conference game with the Stout Bluedevils at Menomonie next Thursday. Although little is known about their squad, early-season Stout games have shown that the Bluedevils are a team to be reckoned with. They have shown great scoring ability. The Bluedevils have dropped only one of their first six contests.

January 7 will find River Falls facing Carleton College on the Hudson gym floor. The first home conference game will follow on Saturday, Jan. 12, when the Eau Claire Bluegolfs, considered to be a conference power again this year, invade the Falcon court.

TRYING TO NUDGE IN a layup attempt in the last few minutes of the Bethel game on Dec. 10 is Falcon reserve center Tom Shield, guarded by Howie Rekstad. Coming in for the rebound are Bethel's Glen Westin and River Falls' Phil Kuss. The Falcons won, 86-62.

WSC Conference Meet Votes To Form Baseball League

The league meeting of the Wisconsin State College conference at Stevens Point on Nov. 15 acted on several other important matters in addition to selecting an all-conference football team.

Three chief matters of business were settled:

1. The formation of a WSC baseball conference.
2. The decision to have attending physicians at athletic contests.
3. A revision of the football schedule.

The motion for the formation of a baseball conference, a move long advocated by RF baseball coach Bill Solley, was passed unanimously. A six-game schedule divided into northern and southern leagues, with a three-game playoff between each section's winner, was decided upon. The baseball plan includes every conference school except Superior. The Falcons formerly were members of the Bi-State baseball conference.

It was also unanimously voted to have a doctor on the bench during all football games and recommended his presence at basketball games.

The league voted to return to a six-game conference football schedule, in addition. At present all schools play five games, with the option of playing seven. The new system will go into effect for the 1958 season.

Representing RF at the meeting were Phil Belfiori, athletic director and head football coach, and Fran Polsfoot, head basketball and track coach.

I-M Ten Pin Standings

by Ed Schlumpf

In A league bowling action last week, team 5 won three points to increase its league leading total to eight, while the rest of the league began to fall by the wayside. Team 9 moved into undisputed second place as team 2 could only pick up one point against team 7.

Dave Angley of team 3 had the highest single game score of the week with a 188. Jim Saugestad of team 2 posted a 173, Emery Sobottka and Tom Wiseman both rolled games of 172. The standings:

A LEAGUE		B LEAGUE

6	5	8	7
4	3	4	3
8	3	5	2
7	3	3	2
1	2	1	1

Four teams are tied for first place in the B league as teams 2, 6, 7 and 8 each have a total of seven points.

Ray Franda of team 8 rolled almost identical games of 178 and 177 to cop individual scoring honors for the week. Dennis Briggs, LaVern Sonsalla, and Charles Webster all turned in scores of 169. Standings for the B league are as indicated above.

—St. Cloud 87, RF 82—

Traveling to St. Cloud Saturday night, the River Falls Falcons made a poor first half showing in making just nine field goals in 43 attempts and gathering very few rebounds to loose at the Minnesota school, 87-82.

The RF cagers trailed by 44-

However, the determined Falcons never gave up all through the game. They bounced back in second half play, but a late offensive rally coupled with a pressing style of defense fell short. 32 at halftime, but showed marked improvement during the last half by almost doubling their shooting accuracy and getting more rebounds. The victors hit on 30 of 80 attempts from the field, a cool 37.5 per cent, while tossing in 27 gift shots.

Falcon Coach Fran Polsfoot showed great disappointment over his team's first half play. The coach countered by saying that he liked the way they kept hustling during the second half, even up to the last minute of play. "Don't worry about them," he commented, "If they keep hustling they'll make their own breaks and cash in on them. The season hasn't really begun yet."

Forward Johnny Steffen bounced back to his usual shooting form, pouring in 19 points to lead the Falcons. Teammate Dave Herum was held to 16 counters, while guard Dan Corcoran and forward Tom Marshall, who showed up well throughout the game, each hit for 11.

 A trio of St. Cloud players hit the charmed 20-point figures — guards Ed Miller and Ted Grams tallied for 24 and 23, respectively, while forward Jack Kelly garnered 20 points.

Sports in a Nutshell

by Louie Johnson

To the ardent sport fan, the box score is an important part of the sport page. It tells at a glance the achievements of each individual player. Or does it? In baseball, the answer might be yes, but in basketball it's more likely no. The personal foul column has little importance to the reader. How about dedicating this space to rebounds instead? This is as large a part of basketball as the actual scoring and the players that shine in this particular department deserve equal credit.

For example, let's look at the boxscore of the game with Bethel. We see that Tom Marshall had five points and four fouls. However, if you were to insert a column indicating individual rebounds it would show that he was a leader in that department and give him the credit deserved.

Jim Lau, sports editor for the River Falls Journal is somewhat of an exception to the rule as he frequently recognizes the points mentioned here. During the grid-season he kept records of the tackles made by each player and now in basketball includes the rebounds gathered in by each team member.

FALCON FANFARE

by Rog Gunlach

IF TWO GAMES are any indication of things to come, Falcon center Dave Herum is headed for a season even more outstanding than last year. During the 1955-56 season, the 6-5 pivotman lead his team in total points with 455 and averaged 22.8 points per game for 20 games.

In conference play, he excelled all other scorers by totalling 257 points in 12 league contests to average 21.5 per game. His season high for one game was 41 points against St. Cloud. This remarkable record earned him a spot on the WSCC all-conference squad.

The Falcon captain has, in two non-conference games, (St. Cloud game results not included) tallied for 32 points against both Augsburg and Bethel, Twin Cities' college teams. The total of 64 markers was based on 22 field goals and 20 free throws. He also has snared 23 rebounds off the boards. Possessing a sure pair of hands, he also has the unique sense of always knowing just where the basket is. Most of his field goals are made on his well-known jump-turn style.

"BIRDIE," as his friends call him because of his bird dog-like loping gait when running the length of the floor, never had his hands on a basketball until he was a junior at the River Falls high school. Work on his farm eight miles east of town left him no time to go out for sports until then. His spare time is still restricted because of the farmwork.

But once he started basketball there was no stopping him. He worked hard at the sport in high school, lettering both his junior and senior years. As a freshman on the college squad, the rangy center continued to improve and earned himself a place on the varsity five next year, averaging 12.5 points per game.

Dave is enrolled in secondary education with a major in math and minors in biology and physical education. He lists the "R" Club as his after-hours activity.

AS FOR THE PROSPECTS of this year's team compared to the 1955-56 squad, Birdie predicts, "If we keep working hard, we'll be greatly improved over last year. All in all, I think the conference will be pretty even, so we should have a good chance although we don't have an especially outstanding team." The team of 1954-55, Wells, Williams, & Co., is rated as his favorite of the three squads he has played on.

Looking out toward a scrimmage session then underway, Herum reminisced, "there're four guys out there that I've played with the better part of four years, Rick Fischer, John Steffen, Phil Kuss, and Ken Thomas, and it has been a lot of fun."

Then, looking toward the future, he predicted, "The freshman group this year is pretty good. I think we'll continue to have fine ball clubs here for a couple of years, anyway."

Hailing from New York City, Tom Marshall, the likeable forward-center on this year's basketball squad, is counted upon quite heavily to fit into coach Fran Polsfoot's double-post type offensive patterns. The 6-3, 160-pounder has a "sure" pair of hands, a good shooting eye, a basketball-thinking mind, and is smooth and agile in his movements on the floor.

Rated by the coach as "a strong offensive player and a good addition to the team," Tom showed up well in RF's season-opener with Augsburg. He chipped in 10 points, snared 14 rebounds, and gave numerous assists to teammate Dave Herum, who tallied for 32 points. Marshall's fine rebounding strength comes from his ability to get off the floor quickly and with ease. Tom admits that he can reach inside the basket ring when going up to clear the boards.

A graduate of DeWitt Clinton high school in Manhattan, N. Y., in 1953, Tom played very little prep school basketball, not even enough to merit him receiving a letter. He joined the Air Force upon his graduation from DWC and served for three and a half years maintaining the duties of clerk and typist while stationed in Texas and the continent of Africa.

It was while he was in the USAF that he gained most of his court experience and cage tricks that he displays. His teammates have nicknamed him "Goose," after Goose Tatum of the Harlem Globetrotters, because of his ball-handling skills.

It was also during his term of Air Force duty that Marshall became acquainted with Bob Williams of past River Falls basketball fame. Tom gives his Air Force buddy the credit for convincing him that this was the school to attend.

Tom is majoring in social science and is working for a minor in sociology. In addition to his basketball activities, he has also found time to join the Newman Club.

SIMONSON TAKES PART IN DEFENSE WORKSHOP

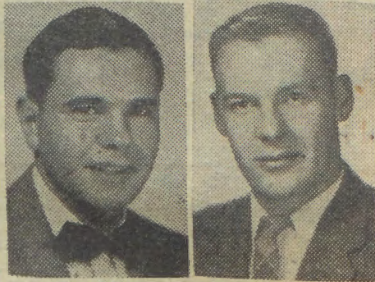

Walter Simonson, of the speech department, took part last Thursday in the Continental Air Defense Command's annual Air Intelligence Workshop at Wold Chamberlain Field in Minneapolis, Minn.

Sponsored by the 31st Air Division, the meeting was attended by representatives from all over the nation and several advanced outposts around the U. S.

The day-long program of information exchange included a tour of air defense facilities in the area. Mr. Simonson is a member of the Marine Reserves based at Wold Chamberlain.

Two Fall Grads Get Placements

Two of the five students being graduated last term, have already found work through the Placement Bureau. Dr. L. G. Stone, director of the bureau, announced today that Richard Dodge and Dave Poulton, both from River Falls, have signed contracts for jobs to begin almost immediately.

Poulton Dodge

Mr. Dodge, this fall's only graduate in upper elementary education, has accepted a teaching position at Minong. He is scheduled to start work January 2.

Graduating from the agriculture education curriculum, Mr. Poulton has signed with the State Soil Conservation Service. He will be located in Medford.

Music Notes

by Glenn Sandve

Those of you who watched Jackie Gleason's "Tribute to Tommy Dorsey" about three weeks ago probably saw one of the greatest gatherings of professional dance band leaders, jazz musicians, and vocalists to appear on television.

The untimely death of Dorsey was felt by all who enjoyed his style of dance music—especially by many of the present-day entertainers who got their start with the early Dorsey bands.

Word is out that an album of Tommy Dorsey favorites will be released shortly. No doubt some of the tunes such as "Marie," "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You," and many of the others will be included in this album.

All in all, the show was a very appropriate and touching tribute to the "Sentimental Gentleman of Swing."

Dr. Graham Accepts University Summer Job

Dr. Charles Graham of the social science department has accepted a position on the staff of the University of Wisconsin for this coming summer.

At the University Dr. Graham will teach two courses, American Political Parties and Public Opinion. He will teach during an eight-week session beginning June 28. Dr. Graham will be a member of the department of political science of which Dr. William H. Young is chairman.

RF Graduate Named Governor's Secretary

LeRoy Luberg, a graduate of River Falls in 1930, has been named executive secretary to Governor-elect Vernon Thomson.

Mr. Luberg leaves his post of assistant to Pres. E. B. Fred of the University of Wisconsin to assume his new duties. He received his master's degree from the University in 1932 and became principal of Madison West junior high school, a position he held until the war.

Her Honor, Homecoming Queen

... at the Wisconsin State Colleges

The Homecoming Queens at the Wisconsin State Colleges and University of Wisconsin—Milwaukee this fall have more things in common than beauty.

The ten campus Queens are good students (A and B grades), belong to three or more campus organizations, and pick swimming, bowling, and tennis as their favorite sports. None of the girls is married or engaged, but six are "going steady."

There is a blonde and a red head, but the others are brunettes whose average height is 5'4" and weight is 118 pounds. One queen comes from Hawaii but the others live in Wisconsin, usually on a farm or in a town of less than 5,000. Their average age is 20.

Although the queens have an average of three dates a week they find time to study an average of 15 hours weekly. Half of the girls share expenses of dates occasionally but the other half let Joe College bear the expense of the evening out. Average cost of a date is $2.70 but it may range from 25c to $10.

Popularity among men has nothing to do with spending money, bulging biceps, or shiny new convertibles, think Homecoming Queens. Good looks are a help, but personality, consideration, and a sense of humor are most important. Girls are popular because of a pleasing personality, poise, and intelligence. "A girl admires looks in college males at first," says one Queen. "But she soon searches for desirable character traits and looks become less important."

All of the Queens enjoy dancing but they don't agree on a favorite type. Some like square dancing, some like waltzing, and some like Rock 'N Roll.

About Rock 'N Roll there is disagreement ranging from, "No!" to, "Good in moderation."
