Student Voice Reporter Interviews Artists

"Artists are born, not made." This axiom has been exemplified by Helen Rogers, harpist, and Leta May, coloratura soprano, who appeared with the Kryl Symphonic Band in the college auditorium November 29.

Miss Rogers began at the age of nine to play the harp which was a birthday gift from her father, who, even as a young boy, had determined that should he ever have a daughter, she should play the harp. In telling about this first harp, she said, "I just sat down to it and began to pick out my little school songs. It seemed the most natural thing in the world for me to play the harp."

A native of Chicago, Miss Rogers studied there where she also began her career which includes appearances with the Women's Symphony of that city, the University of Wisconsin Symphony, and the orchestras of the Individual gift bags containing fruit, nuts and candies will be sent again to the people at the Pierce county poor farm near Ellsworth.

Agnes Klep, chairman of the social service committee of the Y. W., is assisted by the following college women: Eleanore Laurent, Lois Espeseth, Emma Sabby, Ruby Olson, Muriel Norrish, Maxine Larson, Nina Jorstad, Gladys Peterson, Ruth Stockdale, Frances Johnson, Mary Vandenberg, and Gertrude Kirschmeir.

Cast Begins Rehearsal for "The Successful Calamity"

Rehearsals have begun for "The Successful Calamity" to be presented after the Christmas vacation by the Masquers for the benefit of the Agrifallian Society.

The cast includes Wayne Wilcox, Claude Tait, Ophelia White, Al Hocking, Vernon Peroutky, Paul Davee, Elinor Bly, William Lover, Anthony Runte, Harold Rasumssen, Mariann Wakefield, and Joyce Heidbrink.

Roxy and Paramount Theatres of New York and of McVicker's Theatre of Chicago.

Leta May also started on her career at an early age. Her first public appearances were recitations that she began to give when she was only three. A few years later the exceptional quality of her voice was discovered by a piano teacher who asked her to sing the song she was playing for a lesson. Her interests and efforts then turned to vocal studies which she later pursued at the Chicago Musical College from which she received three medals for outstanding ability. When she began to prepare for operatic roles, she spent two and a half years in Italy learning the language. Her successful career as a member of the Chicago Opera Company has brought this artist much praise and many admirers.

Administration Selects Cowles As Head Coach

Coach Cowles' Team Meets Macalaster and St. Olaf to Open Basketball Season

Osborne Cowles, formerly coach at Carleton, was selected by the college administration from a large field of candidates to take over immediately the duties of coaching and physical education.

Mr. Cowles takes over the coaching work of local teams after a wide and varied experience as player and coach. During his college days at Carleton, he starred in both football and basketball for three seasons.

After graduation he coached at the Rochester high school, Cedar Falls Teachers college, and at Carleton as head basketball coach in 1924. The records of his teams is well known in the Northwest. As stated in the Minneapolis Journal, "Cowles started the Carls on their present great victory string."

While at Carleton he did most of the scouting for the football games and was rated by Athletic Director Hunt as his right-hand man on the athletic staff. He was freshman football coach for five years.

Coach Cowles will meet the Macalaster team at St. Paul Thursday evening and will clash with St. Olaf, another strong team of the Minnesota conference, the following evening in the River Falls gym.

College Faculty Gives Dinner

Farewell Party Given for Mr. and Mrs. Klandrud In South Hall Social Room

An informal 6:30 dinner was given by members of the faculty of the college, Wednesday evening, November 30, in the Social Room, South Hall, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Klandrud.

Seventy guests were present at this farewell party for the Klandruds before their departure for Wisconsin Rapids where Mr. Klandrud will assume the duties of high school athletic director.

Mrs. Jeanette Hogue prepared the two course dinner which was served by college girls.

Mrs. J. M. May and A. C. Vogeles were awarded honors at bridge which followed the dinner.

The faculty presented Mr. Klandrud with a regulation "R" sweater. The committee in charge of the arrangements included the Misses Nelle Schlosser and Edith Weberg, W. D. Wyman and Arthur Johnson.

President of Honor Society Announces Meeting Soon

Two years ago a society was established at River Falls designated for students that make a certain scholastic achievement.

Those students who averaged 2.5 honor points per credit hour during any term in school are entitled to a neat silver "R" pin and membership in the Honor Society.

A meeting will be held in the near future according to an announcement by President John Dzubay.

Physical Education Director Shoots Deer

What a thrill to shoot an eight point, 250 pound buck when you had not actually planned to go deer hunting!

That was Miss Mary Louise Branstad's big thrill over the Thanksgiving recess.

Accompanied by Miss Alberta Greene, she left Wednesday evening for Ted Moody's camp, Hayward, to spend the weekend.

Miss Branstad has hunted ducks and rabbits, but never went in for "big game" before. In fact, she says, she hadn't planned to go deer hunting, and was "chased" into it.

Lettermen Elect Simpson 1933 Grid Captain

"R" Club Presents Retiring Coach Klandrud Token of Appreciation at Meeting

Omer Simpson, Phelps, was elected captain of the 1933 Falcon football team at the "R" club annual football banquet held Monday evening, Nov. 28, in the college cafeteria.

Seventeen lettermen, four guests of honor, thirteen faculty men and eight "R" club members were present.

Ole Claflin '33, presided as toastmaster.

Carl Klandrud, coach at the college for the past five years was presented with a red blanket by the "R" club. A huge white "R" graces the center of the blanket surrounded by five stars, symbolic of his years as coach, and his name, Coach Klandrud, is placed across one corner.

Mr. Klandrud responded with a short talk in which he expressed his appreciation of the support all athletes had given him in carrying out his athletic program.

Pres. J. H. Ames introduced Osborne Cowles, new athletic director to the group. Coach Cowles expressed his willingness and aim to keep up the splendid athletic record established by Klandrud and all former coaches at the college.

Guests of honor included former Coach Klandrud, Coach Cowles, Dr. Chalmer Davee and Leon Dean.

The following lettermen of the '32 football season were present: Capt. Braun, McChesney, Morrow, Panzenhagen, Maack, Woodward, Simpson, Voskuil, Paynter, Peterson, Mack, Nolde, Kotleski, McPherson, Kuss, Brickner, Johnson, and football manager Swesey.

The eight veteran "R" club members are: LaDusire, Claflin, Warwick, Helixon, Gerhardt, Mattson, Haberman and Junchen.

Former Football Guard Has Leg Amputated

The friends of Edward Casey '22, New Richmond, will be sorry to learn that he is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, St. Paul, following a leg amputation on November 29.

"Ed" played guard on the football teams in '22 and '23 and was a member of the state championship debate team in '22 as well as the squads in '21 and '23.

Following his graduation he taught three years at Hammond and at New Richmond. His debaters at New Richmond reached the state high school debate finals two successive years.

He studied law in the office of W. T. Doar, New Richmond, passing his state bar examination in 1931.

The college and his many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Needless to say, Miss Branstad is still thrilled over her accomplishment as are her friends.

The Branstad-Greene household and their friends are enjoying venison steaks, chops and roasts these days.

The Students Own Problem

TERM TESTS are here once more and with them comes the problems of digging up old tests, of stealing new ones and of properly designing camouflaged ponies. There is no need to deny the fact that such a condition will exist. It has never failed to exist in the past and will continue to do so in the future until the students of the school feel the need of suppressing the evil.

Cheating is a condition which can be eliminated only by the earnest and conscientious cooperation of all the students. Of course it must be granted that the cooperation of the professors is desired and needed but it must also be remembered that it is their duty to teach. They were not hired to act as detectives.

The students have come here with the objective of becoming teachers of the young generation which is coming on. But, how can they teach honesty to these youngsters when they themselves utterly fail to promote honesty among their fellow students or are so negligent as not to even raise their voice in protest.

What then, you may say, should we do about it? Each one try to be honest, help others do so and finally launch a drive to discourage all cheating among all of the students.

Whether or not this is done depends upon the student body as a whole. And, it can be repeated, that the problem of dishonesty is a challenge to all future teachers. D. P.

Conservation of Our Forests

DID YOU EVER run around in the woods on a summer or fall day? Perhaps playing a game of hide and seek with the whole 40 or 80 acre forest as a hiding place. Perhaps just wondering aimlessly around. Perhaps running down a squirrel. Or maybe you just sat under the towering oaks and pines and marveled at the solitude. These are the things that make life worth living. I get a bigger kick out of a tramp in the woods than I do out of the best moving picture show, out of the most thrilling game of cards, or from reading the most absorbing book or magazine.

Many people regard the woods or forest as just a part of the landscape, as a place where trees are grown so that they may have a supply of timber, or as just a place where they can go and have a picnic on some nice day. The forest does give us these things but many more as well. They are the home of most wild animals and birds and serve as a sanctuary for many others. It serves as a hiding place for lonely souls. It beautifies the landscape and, most important of all, it tends to hold the soil in place and hold the moisture in that soil.

Ten years ago it was not an uncommon sight to see a 40 or 80 acre tract of woods but now they are becoming uncommon. If the people wish to continue to have a beautiful state, if they wish to continue to have wild animal and bird life, if they wish to prevent soil erosion and leaching away of valuable minerals, and if they wish to have plenty of moisture in the soil, they must preserve the forests. Equality of Men and Women

FUNDAMENTALLY are women different than men? Stuart Chase implies that women are not inferior, intellectually or otherwise; neither are they superior, spiritually or morally. Our experimenting psychology teacher James I. Malott, has come to the conclusion that men vary more widely than women in mental ability. Therefore it is probable that superior man is superior to superior woman; but inferior man is inferior to inferior woman. If the law of averages holds true, may we not in general accept the mental equality of the sexes?

Dr. George A. Dorsey, who has made investigations on the comparison of the physical strength of the sexes, arrived at the conclusion that the possibility of woman being as strong as man was evident, for among the savages where working conditions are extremely primitive, the physical strength of the men and women is balanced in proportion to size.

Is not our judgment of the seemingly inferiority of women due to their environment or adaptation? According to evolution, if it is "unwomanly" for girls to throw stones and run races, it will be unnatural for them later to be expected to compete with men on equal terms. Hence should any field be denied women even though custom makes some fields absurd for women to attempt. D. E. T.

Student Opinion

Sports are essential for recreation in everyone's life.

Is everyone given the privilege of partaking in some active diversion at college? In most instances the only ones who share in the activities of the sports during their college years are those who are "good" by nature in either football, basketball, or baseball. Everyone of course cannot enjoy these to the utmost; however are there not also sports like skating, skiing, swimming, hiking, and hunting in which some may find delightful exercise? Ask Jack Oakie what makes one's eyes dull or what makes one feel sluggish, and if I'm correct I think he'd say, "too much dissipation and not enough exercise". D.E.T.

It has been suggested that the Student Voice be managed by an entirely new system. This would indeed be a good idea. Probably more would partake in contributing to its pages. Wouldn't a class assigned to meet at a definite time for the purpose of gathering all the news be more satisfactory than the present system of receiving "write ups" on only the very conspicuous happenings at college. Of course if a class period was spent for the purpose of school publications and for the benefit of the publicity of the school, wouldn't it be only proper that those who did work at that time be given credit for journalism? Then too would not some of the students be given a better opportunity to enter the field of journalism?

Judging from the effect on the eyes and the color of the water in the swimming pool in comparison with the effect on the eyes and the color of the water in other indoor pools, there is too much chlorine in the water of our pool. No wonder the pool is not full of energetic swimmers when the results of a period's swimming are burning eyes, headaches, and irritated noses. It would meet the approval of many students to be more economical with the chlorine. S. L.

The library should be open on one night a week from seven until nine. It would give more people a chance to use the books on reserve. Many times it is impossible to get a reserve book at four o'clock. One copy at least should be left so as one could study from four until five. People taking practice find it impossible to be in the library at 4:05 and by the time they get there the reserve books are all gone.

Many term themes require much reference work and if students had access to the library at night it would give them time to organize references which they are unable to do during the day because of classes.

In some rooming houses it is hard to study at night because of noise and various other reasons, if the library was open one could go to a quiet place where the right books are available and thus bring up their class mark. E. R.

Are you letting your kleptomaniac tendencies overpower your good common sense? Such is an abstract from The College Exponent published by a Mayville, North Dakota, college. It appears that our college is not alone in having these inconsiderates. Not only have students lowered themselves to the swiping of valuable books as the volumes 6 and 23 of the Americana encyclopedia but they also take gym towels, ties and cigar-

New Books Worth Reading

The story of the conquest of Mexico by the Spanish under Cortes is described in the narrative poem, "Conquistador". Bernal Diaz del Castillo, one of the conquerors, tells the story himself. It begins with the first Spanish expedition from Cuba into the unknown Gulf of Mexico. It describes the expedition in 1519 under Cortes, the march westward into the unknown lands, and the violent clash of the Spaniards and the treacherous native tribes.

Stephen Vincent Benet, author of "John Brown's Body" says of this poem: "It is one of the great tales of the world presented as if it came today from the mouth of a living man."

Preparing his material for the writing of "Conquistador", Mr. MacLeish spent the spring and summer of 1929 in the Mexican Sierras. His poetry is solid, alive, real. He writes of the sky, the earth, the air as no one I have ever read before. "Conquistador" is not his first publication, and his subject matter is treated with the ease and sureness that comes only from the pen of one certain of his reception.

ettes, in fact everything that is not under lock and key. This article is not written for the greater portion of the student body but to the kleptomaniac whose heart misses a beat when he reads this article and who may find it advisable to alter his course to more productive studying.

Now that exams are over again, we have had an opportunity to see that cheating in classes has been adopted as a technique by the fellows who are earning A's in some courses and failures in others. These who are getting their grades this way are often managing to keep other consistent students off the honor roll on account of the exceptional amount of faith placed on the normal curve by faculty members. This condition of using "ponies", passing papers, etc., is putting the fellow who has the grades rightfully coming down as a mediocre student and the crook at the head of the class. Something needs to be done immediately, but who's going to start it. E. T.

Have You Read

The entire working world has been shifting slowly toward shorter working hours, especially since 1791. Most laborers are in favor, at the present, of a five-day week plan and it seems to be a good idea. Nothing is entirely good, so this plan has its problems too, both to the employer and the employee. What about wage adjustments? How to dispose of the hours formerly worked on Saturday? Is the five day week practical? Find out for yourself in "Problems Created By The Five-Day Week Plan" in the October Congressional Digest.

How many times have you purchased an article at a bargain only to find faults and defects so serious that the bargain was no bargain at all? Earnest Elmo Calkins' article "False Bargains Betray Us" is worth reading and is also interesting. You will find it in the Atlantic for Dec.

Does Europe and America differ economically? Why? In the November issue of the Contemporary Review Professor R. B. Mowat contrasts the two. This isn't for recreation purpose but of much value to a history or economic student. Professor Mowat knows whereof he speaks.

Bohumir Kryl and his nationally known symphonic band appeared at the LaCrosse college auditorium last Wednesday evening.

The Three Arts

By M. L. W.

The Kryl Symphonic Band under the direction of Bohumir Kryl gave two very satisfactory concerts in the college auditorium, Tuesday, November 29.

The first program consisted of the "Overture" from Wagner's "Tannhauser," "Largo" from Dvorak's "New World Symphony", Tschaikowski's "Marche Slav", and Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody." The solo numbers on this concert were a selected harp solo by Helen Rogers, a soprano solo, "Caro Nome" from Verdi's "Rigoletto" by Leta May, and a cornet solo "Carnival de Venice" by Bohumir Kryl.

Although this first appearance was much appreciated, comment seems to indicate that the second concert, presenting a new repertoire, was even more enjoyable. At any rate, the band was well received not only by the students but also by the community as a whole, and a return engagement would undoubtedly be most welcome.

Coach Cowles Impressed With River Falls Spirit

Coach Sees Possibilities of A Good Team Though Still In Formative Stage

A brunette, five feet nine inches tall, with a wholesome physical appearance and a pleasing personality---

This is a verbal description and introduction to Osborne Cowles, new athletic director and coach at the college, who succeeds Carl Klandrud in that capacity following his resignation to assume his duties at the Wisconsin Rapids high school.

"Saw More Than He Expected"

Mr. Cowles stated in an interview with a Voice reporter that he "saw more when he got here than he had expected."

He likes River Falls very much and is impressed with the fine spirit shown on the campus and in the city.

"I think everybody in River Falls contributes to that indomitable River Falls spirit that is so well known throughout the state and in the Minnesota college conference," Mr. Cowles stated. "I am under the impression that River Falls teams, even though their opponents may be superior in technique, often make up their deficiency through fight and spirit which is admirable."

Member of Carleton Cage Quint

Memories of this spirit are still fresh in his mind when he was a member of the Carleton college basketball team in '19 and they played the Falls winning the spectacular game by a score of 34-24.

The fellows he has met have made a fine impression on him, he states. They are purposeful, enthusiastic and show themselves to be good sports.

Team Still in Formative Stage

"Although the team is still in the formative stages," Coach Cowles admits, "it certainly shows possibilities of developing into a fine ball club."

During his college career at Carleton, he was a star on the football and basketball teams, being recognized as one of the outstanding players in the conference.

Coached Rochester Champion Team

He coached three years at the Rochester, Minn., high school, where he produced a state championship football team. The following three years he coached at the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, State Teachers College, returning to Carleton in '24 as head basketball coach and assistant football coach under C. J. Hunt, finally assuming the duties of freshman coach for five years.

The college student body and faculty, 100 per cent, will be backing the new coach and his teams, win or lose, for that is the traditional River Falls spirit.

Good luck, Coach Cowles!

Ed Johnson Former Falcon Star Elected Cage Captain

Ed Johnson, Staples, and star center of the Hamline University basketball team was chosen captain of the 1932-33 team at a meeting of the Piper lettermen held recently.

Johnson started his college basketball career under Coach Klandrud in 1929. He played on the varsity squad at center and guard here.

Johnson was selected on most of the all-state fives of Minnesota in 1932. He was a member of the Hamline championship team of 1931-32.

Boy, were those exams ever tough! But as one fellow remarked, "They are all tough when you don't know anything." Wotta Life! Wotta Life!

Morrow, Braun, McChesney Receive Positions on Conference Team

Laurin McChesney

Three members of the Falcon football team of '32 were selected by state teacher college coaches for the places on the all-state conference football team.

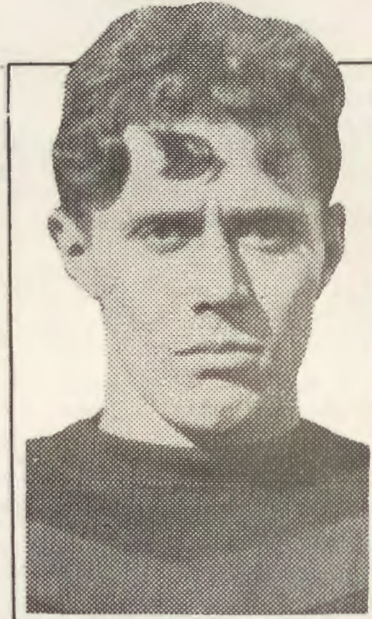

They are: Glenn Morrow, Mazomanie, center; Laurin McChesney, Turtle Lake, end; and Joe Braun, Algoma, half back.

Following is the complete all-conference lineup:

Ends: McChesney, River Falls; Janisek, Whitewater. Tackles: Havind, La Crosse, Phillips, Whitewater. Guards: Powers, Milwaukee; Bahu, La Crosse. Center, Morrow, River Falls. Quarterback: Galandt, Oshkosh. Halfbacks: Croft, Superior; Braun, River Falls. Fullback, Boll, Milwaukee.

At a meeting of the coaches Saturday, December 3, at Eau Claire it was decided to abide by the new basketball rules for 1932-33.

The loss on the state track meet last year was prorated, and the conference football schedule for 1933 was discussed and arrangements are now under way for its completion and adoption.

Joe Braun

In Shots By Vern

Osborne Cowles, the new coach, is sure a sticker on fundamentals. If you don't believe it ask any of the boys who are out for basketball. He believes that there is always room for improvement and that the men out for practice here are no exception. Coach Cowles' teams are noted for their ability at ball handling and defensive work.

Coach Cowles will not have much time to develop or pick a team before his first game which happens to be December 8.

Sore feet are bothering a few of the boys and this is one thing that should be guarded against as there is nothing more harmful to a basketball player's game than to be hindered by ailing feet. Cowles realizes this, and is repeatedly warning the men not to continue practicing if their feet start to burn or hurt.

Did you know that Omar Simpson, football captain-elect, is trying out for manager of the basketball team.

From all reports the basketball men came through with good marks? If there is anything that's disheartening to a coach it is to start a season with his best men inelegible.

Braun, Morrow, and McChesney all made all-state honors. Congratulations boys, and River Falls, by the way, was the only school to have a majority on the first team.

Stout defeated St. Paul Luther 34 to 31 last Saturday which means that the Blue Devils are going to be a lot tougher this year than they were last year and were they ever tough then. Stout has their entire team back with the exception of Burros, last year's captain.

Does the team ever look nice in those nice new black shoes. "How come Morrow hasn't any?" you ask. Well, the coach just doesn't happen to have his size in hand, but a pair is being shipped here by freight. Oh, oh! Are his feet ever immense. Well, any way you look at it, Morrow, everyone knows you have a good understanding.

The conference has adapted and approved of the new ten-second rule. This means the ball has to be brought up and past the middle of the floor in ten seconds and kept there until either an opponent touches the ball or a shot is taken at the basket. Violation of the rule gives the ball to the opposing team out of bounds at the point of violation.

My Daily Diary

November 19--

I was up early and immediately began work on a new set of storm windows. That only makes about the fortieth ones this fall. It's going to help a lot when old man winter approaches. Did my best to get help, but soon found out unemployment difficulties hadn't reached this far yet. They claim to wait until the work's all done this fall.

November 21--

Back to school again after a week-end vacation. Busy like a mining slave day to his dungeon. Worked hard all day looking for something to do. When my studies were finished I began looking for rest. Did I find it? I'll say not. Had to indulge in reading Alice in Wonderland.

November 23--

Spent the day at school, anxiously waiting my chance to meander home. Spent lots of time thinking about how to spend the next day. Journeyed home at top speed, missed three arterials, and beat two Model T's. Raced with a train to a crossing. It wasn't a tie--thank goodness

November 24--

Oh Boy! I don't want to eat another meal like I did today. Chicken galore. No turkey for me. Hunted for venison, but got a deer instead. Spent most of day groaning and playing bridge.

November 28--

Vacation for four days, but now back to school again. It's good to be back again, but how I hated to leave my home sweet home--even someone and so on into the night. It being the first, I took my regular monthly bath. Didn't need it, but it's just a habit. Being thoroughly worn down by the grindstone of life, I journeyed off to slumberland.

December 1--

Writing exams, reviewing, writing more tests, and so the story goes on. Now is the time for all good students to come to the aid of their school--

Falcons Meet Macs and Oles In First Games

Team Travels to St. Paul to Meet Macs; Oles to Play Here Friday Evening

The newly organized Falcons under the tutelage of Coach Cowles will open the 1932 season on Thursday and Friday of this week when they meet the Macalaster college five at St. Paul and St. Olaf at River Falls in successive games.

Coach Cowles has had but a week in which to install the fundamentals of his system of playing basketball. Too much can not be expected of the team against such formidable foes as Macalaster and St. Olaf. These two teams are always leading contenders for honors in the Minnesota conference and are always represented by high class basketball teams. Last season the Falcons broke even in their games with these two schools, winning both at-home games by very close margins and losing both games away from home.

Coach Cowles has been mainly concerned during the week that he has been here with building up a strong defense. He has been working Haberman and Woodward at the guard positions left open by Captain Helixon and LaDusire. Morrow has been working steadily at center with Kuss and Mattson at forwards. This combination will probably bear the brunt of duty in these first two games.

The Inquiring Reporter

What need do you think the Men's Union and the Women's Social Room satisfies?

The Men's Union is just a place for loafers to spend their spare time. They do not go there to read books or magazines, but to waste their time which should be used to better advantage. The Men's Union is a breeder of low grades in my estimation. Of course it has its advantages. It is nice to go there on a Friday afternoon and forget about all of the studying you have to do over the weekend, but as a rule, it is not all it was intended to be.

—Bill Kulstad

Aside from being a place for girls to get together to talk, read or listen to the radio, the Social Room has become a study room. This is unfortunate since there are many girls who would like to have access to one room where studies can be forgotten temporarily. Certainly it was meant to afford just such a place, was it not?

—Elaine Brunner

The Men's Union is a great asset to our school life. It serves as a place to spend our leisure moments, rather than loitering around the halls. It serves a recreational purpose through the radio, book shelf and games provided.

—Raymond Swanson

The Women's Social Room provides a place to discuss school matters. It is also a place where one may become acquainted with other girls of the college, with literature, and with the outer world through the radio.

—Marguerite Oberding

The Men's Union is well equipped to provide recreational opportunities that the men of the college did not have before. Because it does this, I think it satisfies the need for such a room.

—"Boots" Christensen

The Social Room is an ideal room for rest and recreation. It is certainly a pleasant place for outside reading and to spend one's leisure. The radio is both recreational and educational. I wish that the Social Room might be kept as it was originally intended to be, and not degenerate into a buzzing study room.

—Evelyn Volla.

Ladies, do not pass by this column. It has passed the approval of Thorvald Thoreson who claims "It is fit to be read in front of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet".

It appears that since the Congregational church burned, there has been a rapid increase in the number of Congregationalists among the student body.

Alvin Jepsen claims he must be a Scotchman because he was born in this country to save the cost of transportation.

The rumor is that Terpstra and Voskuil are going to leave us. They have received a bid from Hollywood to enter a contest for the best-dressed men in the United States.

The depression has brought many complaints of the high cost of living but the latest was registered by one of our students. He claims it isn't the high cost of living but that it is the high cost of dying; moonshine is sixteen dollars a quart.

Henry Sather, after much research, announces that no matter how healthy a bow-legged girl is, she is always in bad shape.

Take it from the man who knows. Royal Anderson claims that it is better to have loved a fat girl than never to have loved at all.

From the City Pulpits

The Congregational services are at the college auditorium. Worship at 10:30, the subject being "Giving Jesus a Chance".

The church school will meet at 11:45 in the north hall of the college. The college class directed by Prof. Jacobson will meet in his laboratory room.

The young people will meet Sunday evening at 5 o'clock for the social hour at the home of James Rock, 521 S Main St. The lunch at 6:00 and devotions at 6:30 follow. The book "The Young Revolutionist" will be finished.

The young people will give a waffle supper at the parsonage December 14, beginning at 5:15. The price is 25c. for the supper.

The young people of the Methodist church are beginning a new study unit entitled "The Progress Toward Brotherhood" next Sunday. Newell Youngren will lead the discussion.

The discussion hour is preceded by a social and lunch beginning at 5:00 each Sunday evening.

The subject for the Sunday morning sermon at 10:30 will be "The Church and the Community".

Beginning the new term is a good time to begin attending your class in the church. Our college classes are led by Dr. Karges and Mrs. Weed.

Paging Sherlock Holmes! Where did the cigarette butts in the yellow vase in the girls' social room come from? I want to know!

Our professors are becoming efficient in the art of administering not only the third but the tenth degree! What for?

These people who went to Stillwater must have liked it pretty well, several went to a private prison here in town, Monday night.
