STUDENT POLL GIVES DEWEY 5-4 EDGE

With election day just about here a recent survey of the students in school, as to their choice for president, indicates that they are in harmony with the thinking of the country. That is a majority of the students not only think that Dewey will win the election but also a majority will or would vote for him if they were of vot-

The following results were obtained in response to the question, "Who will or would you vote for if you were eligible?

Dewey Truman _____ Wallace Don't Know ---

It is interesting to note that Truman rates somewhat higher on this poll than on the national polls. This is somwhat significant in view of the fact that this area is a traditional Republican strong

Included in the "don't know" list are those who have not yet made up their minds and also a few who said they would not vote for any candidate because they believe that none is suitable for the job.

While Dewey holds a considerable margin of votes, a far greater majority believe he will win the election. These results were obtained from the following question, "Who do you think will win the election?"

Dewey ___ 15% Don't Know _____ 10%

Despite the fact that Dewey holds a top-heavy margin in this department it is interesting to note that there are even 15 per cent of the students that favor Truman to win. Every leading poll in the country favors Dewey to win by a comfortable margin.

The foreign policy of each can-didate appears to be the greatest factor in determining the students' preference, despite the fact that the foreign policy was considered one of the least controversial issues of the campaign.

Those voting for Dewey rated better organization and efficiency next to foreign policy as having the greatest influence upon their choice. While foreign policy was also the dominant factor in persuading those voting for Truman, the traditional stand of the Republicant for high hydrogeness. publicans for big business, such as tax reduction, was the reason given as next in importance in persuading the students to vote for Truman.

Of those interviewed who pre-ferred Dewey, 20 per cent could give no reason for doing so. On the other hand, all those interviewed who preferred Truman gave some reason for their choice.

Reasons given by the 5 per cent of the students who will vote for Wallace were his political and economic policies. However, none approved or Wallace's foreign policy but apparently thought that the domestic situation is of greater importance.

Students Can Vote Tomorrow

Students who are 21 and emancipated from their parents may vote in River Falls, November 2. The Wisconsin Constitution says voters must reside in the state for "one year next preceding" the election. They must reside in this election district for 10 days also. By "emancipation" is meant that they do not depend on their parents for the major part of their financial support.

Dr. Dupre To Speak Wednesday

Dr. Huntley Dupre, a member of the faculty at Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., will appear at RFSTC on Wednesday evening, November 3, 1948. Dr. Dupre formerly was the National Director of the World Student Service Fund. He has taught in five universities and one college and in 1945-45 he visited exactly one hundred colleges and had conferhundred colleges and had conferences with students from 104 other colleges.

An article by Dr. Dupre appeared in MOTIVE, the Methodist Student Christian Movember 1947. It contained some observations, alarming, yet authentic, of student life in the United States. This article was a clear and accurate analysis of college life in this country. It was written by a man who says he is a "perfectionist with reference to students and colleges", and many of its state-ments were blunt and challenging.

All are invited and urged to come to the South Hall Social Room at 7:00 p. in. Wednesday evening and listen with open minds to this most informed man on the subject of student life in the United States. You shall be given a chance to challenge his statements and are urged to ask him questions.

This meeting is sponsored by the College YMCA and YWCA.

WEA TO Meet In Milwaukee

On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week the Wisconsin Education Association will meet in Milwaukee. Attending as delegates from River Falls State Teachers College will be Miss Moss, Miss Hawkins, Dr. Akins, and Dr. Karres, who were noming. and Dr. Karges, who were nominated by the faculty at a meeting last Thursday.

Each year a reception is plan-ned for the River Falls alumni. This year the tea will be held at the Wisconsin Hotel, Thursday afternoon, from 3:30 to 5:30. The meeting gives graduates a chance to renew friendships.

The college does not close for the convention, and those faculty members attending the convention make various arrangements for their classes to meet.

Included in the program of the Milwaukee convention is a concert by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. Other parts of the program consist of speeches, sec-tional meetings, luncheons and

SIGMA INITIATES NEW MEMBERS

The seventeen new Sigma Chi Sigma members were entertained at a social hour at their last meeting October 21. At this time the new members were informed regarding their initiation which was to take place the following two weeks. During this time each new pledge had to carry a bowl and spoon equipped with tape for signatures of the old members and also sing an original composition about themselves to "Pop Goes The Wessel". On Wednesday and following Monday each had wear a cotton dress backwards, high heels and anklets, bibs, hair in pin curls, no makeup and they couldn't speak to men. They also carried a pail of candy to feed old members. Further initiation will follow at their next meeting this week.

Plans were discussed of a pow-der room in the basement of south hall. This was put aside until the next meeting when committees will be appointed for this pur-

FACULTY COMBINES WORK AND PLAY

Members of the faculty com-bined work with pleasure this summer and from this combination emerged master carpenters, interior decorators. scholars, and business tourists.

Master Builders!

The carpenters and painters who, after the past summer, are qualified to undertake any type of construction are under the direction of Mr. Spriggs, a licensed engineer, who throughout the summer, worked on the planning and construction of the heating plant in the girl's dormi-tory, the laying of tile in South Hall, and the new addition to the Industrial Arts Building. He will be ably assisted by masters of carpentry Wall, Thoreson, of carpentry Wall, Thom McLaughlin, Setterquist, Schlagenhauf.

Wall, Thoreson, and McLaugh-lin built three homes this summer which display very clearly their abilities as carpenters. Setworked on construction of homes but were not in collaboration with three former carpenters until this imaginary carpentry guild was formed with the start-ing of school this year.

The interior decorating department of this guild is under the able direction of Miss Gib-son. She has just finished painting and decorating her new home at Marine and has, she stated, her shingle out for mastery painting and decorating.

The exterior painter and decorator of the firm is Mr. Mosher tion. He also spent a few days in who has just finished his sum-mer's apprenticeship at Oshkosh; Wisconsin where he painted the stated, "To get back into perfair ground buildings."

Attend Schools

Although some of the faculty resisted the call of books, members gave in to them and atuate work, teaching, and educational meetings.

Dr. Kleinpell attended the meeting of the "American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education which was held at Es-tes Park, Colorado. Miss Howard attended New York State College of Ceramics at Alfred University, Alfred, New York. Miss Hawkins studied Milton and Chaucer at the University of Wisconsin and Miss Moss commuted daily from River Falls to the University of Minnesota. She pursued further study of literature and philosophy. Mr. Rozehnal also commuted daily to the U. of Minn. where he did graduate personnel work. Mr. Kolberg's summer vacation was spent in graduate chemistry study at the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Wyman taught American History to sophomores and History of the American Frontier to seniors at the University of Minnesota during the second session.

OUTSTANDING ASSEMBLIES ARE

SCHEDULED FOR NOVEMBER

Huddie Ledbetter, whom the Saturday Review has called "the greatest living American folk singer", will be presented here in an unusual program of songs. Lead Belly, as he is petter known, will be heard in the college audit-orium at 8:15 p. m., Thursday, November 11.

This is the second Community Concert Series program. Students wil be admitted without charge. Hewever, they must obtain admission tickets before Monday, October 8 from Mr. McKeen, Room 225S or from the Dean of Men's office, Room 212N. To obtain these admission tickets, students must bring their budget tickets to be punched.

Certainly no negro singer has achieved Lead Belly's stature in the field of folk music. The songs he will sing here are songs of the people, their work, their love, their good times and their had times. Many of them are "sinful songs" by the standards of the pictureesque Louisiana country where he grew up and where all singing was "sinnin" unless it was religious singing. Work Songs, Spirituals, Play Party Songs, Blues, Ballads, Hollers and Reels will all be on the bill of fare in the auditorium here.

Few of life's experiences have been denied Lead Belty. He grew up in the rural south, and had his share of cotton picking. To the west of Louisiana are the plains of Texas, Lead Belly is an expert rider as a result of his cowboy days in the western part of that state. There is oil in the south, too, and Lead Belly has been a worker in the oil fields. And in urban areas conviviality sometimes flares into violence Trouble caught up with him and he found himself singing with the work gangs in the state penitne-tiarles of Louisiana and Texas. Lead Belly won his pardons from the governors of both states through a record of hard work, leadership, and obvious musical

Upon gaining his freedom, Lead Belly toured the south with John A. Lomax, curator of the American Folk Song for the Library of Congress, searching out the re-gional music of many obscure sections. As a result of this tour, a vast collection of his recordings are now in federal archives, an inheritance to the people of America. Now an acknowledged master in his field, the variety of his experiences has indeed been great. It is all reflected in his songs, many of which originated in his own experiences, a spontaneous, highly rhythmic and often very amusing expression of his reactions.

ELECTION PANELS BEING HELD

Tomatoes and mud-slinging are banned from the panel discussions on the presidential elec-tion which RFSTC students are conducting today and tomorrow.

Several classes in communication, speech and public discussion are holding panel discussions on the merits and demerits of the presidential candidates and their platforms. Each presidential candidate will be represented on the panel by a student who will discuss his candidate's qualifications and abilities.

After the panel members have presented their views, an open forum will be held in which the class audience will have a chance to question the "campaigners" about their candidate's stands on pertinent issues.

In some classes a straw vote will be taken to see how the group lines up behind the various presidential candidates.

A Stone's Throw

I am sure that all of you will join me in complimenting Harold Shay and his committees on the fine homecoming they staged. People who have lived in River Falls for many years and have seen numerous homecomings say that never was there a bigger or better one than Shay and Company put on. Mr. Chubb of the RIVER FALLS JOURNAL told me that he has never seen such a huge crowd at a facthed grown at Repres Field This state. football game at Ramer Field. This statement alone should attest to the success of the entire week-end

I would like to play a mean trick on one I would like to play a mean trick on one of the other Teachers College papers. From THE EXPONENT, the official paper of the Platteville Teachers College comes a story on teas given by the faculty wives. The story, located on the front page has an error in the headline and reads like this: FAULTY WIVES INVITE FROSH. TO ATTEND TEAS. My apologies to Editor Jack Kindschi, but this one was too good to miss. THE EXPONENT should mind their C's and Q's.

Speaking of papers from other colleges, if any of you are interested in looking them over, contact me and I can get you the ones you want We exchange papers with all the other Teachers Colleges, Roosevelt College of Chicago, St. Thomas and many others. We also have exchange agreements with several high schools of this area. We have tried to persuade the librarians to handle these papers but they don't seem to care too much for the idea. don't seem to care too much for the idea.

A reminder to all of you who are of voting age.....tomorrow is election day so be sure and go to vote. This is an important year, not only because of the presidential election, but because of the situation facing the people in Wisconsin it is also an important year in state politics. Will the people of this state go along (as they have done in the past) and vote the Republican ticket into office, despite the Republican ticket into office, despite the fact that there are unqualified men on it who are there because of a political accident? Even some of the most prominent Republicans in the state are endorsing parts of the Democratic ticket. Among these men is Delbert J. Kenny who has been most prominent in state Republican circles. I won't advise you to vote for any certain candidates (see Harold Shay for that information) but I will advise you to use your head before marking your bal-

Again I have to apologize for the paper's being a day late. This time, however, it is no one's fault due to a change over in equipment at the Journal office where the paper is printed.

LOOKING UP THE PRECIPICE

"Where were you last night? You sometimes are placed right over signs af-weren't at the meeting." Three out of four fecting many more people. times the answer to that question is an-other question, "What meeting?" Not a day passes that this scene isn't re-enacted several times. Half of the time the one being asked honestly didn't know that such a meeting took place.

Why is it that this must happen? In every organization in school, the publicity man is second only to the president in responsibility for the success of the meeting. Many of these people spend hours a week making beautiful artistic signs to tell the other members where and when.

Still, many of the members never see the signs. Why? A few don't bother to read the bulletin boards, but more often the signs are obstructed to the point that they are meaningless. How does this come about? Well, some people in posting signs purposely place their posters so that it partially covers the one beneath. They don't do this because they want to but because of lack of space they have to. Then, too, the bulletin boards are cluttered with scraps of paper announcing the loss of personal articles, meetings of two or three people, etc. They add to the confusion and sometimes are placed right over signs affecting many more people.

A solution to this problem is more permanent bulletin boards properly located and taken care of. At the present, most of the signs are posted on three bulletin boards. They are the ones in South and North halls, the one by the cafeteria step, and the portable one in the main corridor of South hall. These boards are most used because nearly every student can be counbecause nearly every student can be counted on to pass each several times a day.
Yet, some signs are still there weeks after the event has taken place.
The situation could be considerably eased if the large divided bulletin board were cleaned up and had new labels put in each division. Each organization would then have a specific place for its notices. Also, a large bulletin board could be placed on the landing of the South hall stairs or over the radiator where the temporary one is now.

Some schools have a large glass enclosed bulletin board outside by the sidewalks between the main building. We could do that too.. Come, Student Councilmen, let's see some concrete action on this problem.

A CRITIC SPEAKS!

Homecoming has come, had its day, and is gone. It is recorded in history but not in any books that you, I, or our children will ever read. It was just another day that many of us are trying to forget.

Some of us have good reason to want to forget that day because of what we did. We are ashamed of ourselves. Some want to forget the game and blame all misfortune on the officials. It was a hard fought game, RFSTC did get some pretty bad breaks on the field but it wasn't lost there. It was lost on Main street on Friday in the morning to be great. day, in the morning to be exact. That bad break that lost the game was the vigorous snake dance that broke up the 10:00 various downtown establishments and on the way consumed prodigious quantitles of malted and distilled beverages (Johnnie opened five barrels in less than 75 minutes!) Overconfidence was flaunted every ear, and the team members, nodding their amens, lifted their glasses to toast a victory. That they had their share was very evident during the second half on Saturday afternoon. At that time they were too tired to do much more than to hold their own.

Don't blame the team for losing the game, blame yourself; you were there with them, leading them on. Similar scenes have preceded every athletic event they have lost. It's also preceded some that we won with the help of God.

Another disturbing sight at the was the enthusiasm of some of the student spectators. Some students screamed their fool heads off, actually, they worked harder than some of the players. The majority, watching intently gave forth from time to time and generally let the players know they were there and with them.

Then there was a small minority, not-ably cafeteria society and hierarchy, who sat and gossiped making cute remarks and looking down their noses at the over-enthusiastic. It grieves me deeply to know that such social misfits clutter our cam-pus. If they insist on being non-conformists, at least they can honor us with their W. J. Engler absence at our social functions.

Voting Is A Privilege

Voting is a privilege. Despite the tons of words, spoken and written, to prove that the perogative of the vote is an innate right of man, the laws of the most democratic of nations, our United States, has many regulations to assure the nation of a competent franchised body. The individual state has the power of denying or granting the privilege of the vote to or granting the privilege of the vote to you and as a privilege it necessitates a duty, the duty of right use.

Just as the president and the members of the legislative and judicial branches of the government are morally bound to carry out the government of the nation to the best of their ability, so too, is the in-dividual qualified voter morally bound to take part in the government of which he is a member in a democratic country. Especially is this apparent in a general election such as tomorrow's when the possible fate of the individual, nay even the nation and the world, is literally thrown into the hands of you and me.

For the past month and a half we have been listening to and discussing at length our duty.

formally and informally the stand and abilities of the various candidates to be voted upon; we have ascertained in our individual minds the "best" man or, at least, the least "bad" man who has been put forward for us to vote on. One of the candidates will be at the helm of state for the next four years. We must answer as a country for what that man will do. It is therefore for our own projection that is therefore for our own protection that we should vote.

As college students we are most fortunate. It is not impossible nor even inconvenient for us to go to the polls. We have heard these men discussed in the lights of history and moral philosophy by experts in our class. We have weighed them in the balance of reason, and our vote is not to be a haphazard guess. It will be a true representation of our views. Our country representation of our views. Our country needs you and it needs me. We can do our part of self government by casting ballot tomorrow. If we do not take five minutes that voting requires and fail to give that to our country and ourselves, we have no right to expect the rights, privileges, and freedoms if our country is to last, nor will we have the right to gripe and groan. We will just have to been our mouths sput and live with our keep our mouths shut and live with ourselves, telling ourselves we've failed to do

OPEN LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Now that the college homecoming fes-tivities have ceased let us view this 1948 homecoming as to its merits and demerits. On the credit side I wish to say that the students displayed the greatest mount of school spirit that has ever been seen on this camous. The decorations, floats and skits left little to be desired, but that litte that was to be desired was conspicuous by its absence.

Each year the business places are asked to contribute a little to the down-town decorations. They are asked to decorate their windows. We thank the few who responded to our plea this year, but to those who did not decorate we submit this maerial for consideration expected to spend $85,000 for room rent alone. Assuming that the student spends $7.50 per week for his food, will leave another $246,000 to be spent in your places of business. Perhaps a few students get by on $10.00 a week, but I know of none. Excluded from this group of 820 students are the wives and children of the married men, the members of the faculty, and the people who are drawn here by the various activities of the college.

If this total amount of money placed in circulation does not approach the million dollar mark I will glady apologize for bringing this matter up.

This branch is of special value to the farmers in this area. From now on when a new small grain variety is recommended by the university, farmers will be assur-ed that it has been tested under local conditions and its record of performance will be well-known. Also of value wil be the fact that new diseases of small grains in area will be quickly detected and the susceptibility or resistance of each variety will be more quickly determined. Yields of grain will also be more significant for the farmers in this area

From a small start in 1946, the branch has grown until it includes almost all the varieties that are studied at the university. In 1946 the number of varieties of wheat, oats, and barley numbered only 40. This year there were 73--an increase of 55%. A breakdown of varieties shows oats leading with 30, barley 25, and wheat 18 varieties.

The plot of ground used covers about three acres, situated on the east side of the college farm. Although this is not a large tract, a great amount of labor is needed as the planting, cultivating, and harvesting is all done by hand. During the growing season, notes are taken and records are disease resistance, length and stiffness of straw, and maturity. Record keeping becomes involved, especially when different kinds of fertilizers are used and their effect noted.

The seed used here is from stock used at the university and

Falcons To Meet Gusties

The final game of the Falcon's 1948 season will be played against a strong Gustavus team at St. Peter, Minn., on November 4.

After a 20-0 defeat at the hands of Hamline in the only other non-conference game, the outlook for the Falcons is none too bright. Last Saturday the Gusties routed Hamline, 26-0.

Although the Falcons lost to Hamline by 20-0 and Hamline was beaten by the Gusties, 26-0 these scores are no means for comparison. The Falcons have improved a good deal since their first game and are slated to give out with plenty of power in that final game.

Hear Ye, Hear Ye, the Quarterbacks are now in session! The first item on the agenda concerns the planning, operation, and success of the past Homecoming. Let us vote a huge bouquet to Harold Shay and the Dirty Dozen for their great efforts in making our 1948 Homecoming the best in the history of the school. The Dirty Dozen, with their "down to earth" type of humor, lead the festivities throughout the entire week-end. The leadership necessary to insure a celebration's success is hard to get, but in the Dirty Doz-en, we've got it! Their type of stunts and general fun was thought by some to have been rather crude in spots. Yes, perhaps so, but any organization that can get over eight hundred people keyed up, and keep them keyed up to a fever pitch, has my vote of appreciation. People like to talk about school spirit, but to talk about school spirit, but few like to do anything about it. Therefore, even though it might have been better if classes had remained in session until 2:00, the Dirty Dozen took over the reins and started Homecoming off with a bang early Friday morning. We Quarterbacks thank you for a great Homecoming, the best this school has ever seen-Dirty Dozen and Harold Shay, take a Dozen and Harold Shay, take a bow and accept our gratitude. You all know the outcome of our Homecoming game, but I wonder how many actually know wnat took place on the field when Gordy Schock apparently missed that punt which ultimately proved to be the game winning break for Eau Claire? I overheard many people say that it was a case of poor playing on the part of Schock. This isn't so, Gordy does-n't have a "case of poor playing" in his system! The trouble arose on the play before when Schock suffered an injury to his shoul-der. He didn't quite realize how badly he was hurt until he tried to reach for the ball and found that he coudn't lift his arm above his waist! I doubt very much if you will see Gordy back in uniform for the rest of the season. If he does manage to make it for the Gustavus game, I'm afraid he'll play very little.

It is very apparent that basket-ball is just around the corner. Every afternoon you can find a number of basketball men over on the Intramural field getting into shape for the coming season. If the coaching staff is looking for another passer, it might be worth a trip over to watch Benson throw that apple around. Benny is now handling a football as prettily as any first class quar-terback. Henneman is out trying to lose a little weight before the coming season. We even saw "Itchy" loosening up with a few turns around the field. With the boys so eager to get started with their pre-season work outs, I'm sure that we can be safe in looking forward to a good basketball

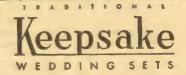

This is all for now, Editor Stone is chewing his nails to the quick and cussing McCardle and Ye Olde Spectator for being so irresponsible. Deadline was eight this morning and here it is twothirty in the afternoon. Cheer up Ed., we love ya!

Here's how YOU can win the Gold Bars of an Army Officer

TWO NEW WAYS TO JOIN THE RANKS OF AMERICA'S YOUNG LEADERS

DIRECT COMMISSION

A commission as second lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps with a 2-year initial tour of active duty is ready for you if you meet these requirements: one year of honorable service in any of the Armed Forces between 7 December 1941 and 30 June 1947; have completed two years at an accredited college or university; U. S. citizenship; AGCT score of 110 or better; not more than 32 years old; physically fit. Once commissioned, you'll be assigned to a 3-month officers' training school, and, on successful completion, you'll be free to compete for a Regular Army Commission if you meet the competitive tour age requirements. Go to your nearest U.S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station for complete details at once.

OCS FOR HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

If you've graduated from high school or can pass an equivalent examination, are between 19 and 28 years old, are a U.S. citizen, and have necessary physical qualifications, apply now for enlistment for Army OCS. After your application is approved, you'll be enlisted as a Sergeant and given basic training if you have not had it already, then sent direct to Officer Candidate School, subject to quotas, of course. Upon graduation, you'll be commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Reserve, and placed on two years of active duty. Top OCS graduates are commissioned in the Regular Army—all others may compete for a Regular Army Commission. Get all the facts about applying for OCS entrance at your nearest U.S. Army and U.S. Air Force Recruiting Station without delay!

The Gusties boast a very about the right of this outburst Falcons and the 1948 season will be over. The Gusties boast a very good team this year having lost only to St. Thomas by a 6-0 score. The only mutual opponent on both teams schedule is Hamline, and Gustavus defeated them 27-O, while the Falcons lost 20-0-Hewever, this game should prove to be another tough battle with the breaks again deciding the Speaking of breaks it's beginning to seem like the officials are as important as either of the opponents. All over the country everyone talks more about officials with the country of loging games than ials winning or losing games than ever before. In hig time such as the Big Nine to small time such as the local high school conference, the cry is the same. There should be a solution for it, but as yet the experts have been unable to find it. A good example of it was in last week's game between the local high school and Spring Valley. The situation there was on a Valley punt being blocked by the Palls and was picked up and the palls and was picked up and the falls and was picked up and ran for a touchdown. The of-ficial ruled that River Falls could not run the ball and the score was nullified. Four days later, the official writes to the River Falls coach and apoligizes for his misinterpretation of the rule. Something like that is very hard on high school boys and I think defeats the purpose of the game. By the way, River Falls lost the game, 13-12.

In our Eau Claire game, couple of instances arose in which the official's interpretations var-ied from those in the rule book. This again probably had no bearing on the final outcome, but it does put more sting in defeat and withdraw some joy of victory. My point is that the least an official can do is know the rules of the game he is officiating.

I'd like to compliment the student body on their fine Home-coming spirit. It's hard for a team to lose with spirit like that behind them. I doubt if any student body felt defeat as bitterly as ours did.

Too bad they don't keep a rec-ord of a school's morale, as River Falls would stand on a perfect

I forgot to mention in the last issue an incident that bears repeating that occured in the Platteville game Early in the final quarter, Platteville was trying desperately to get the ball. One of them tackled the ball before Wilson had centered and it caused a pileup in the middle of the line. Bobbie disliked this treatment and "pushed" the Platteville play er away. The official expelled Wilson from the game, but before

Gi insurance Still Offered

G. I. insurance is still available to World War II veterans who served between October 8, 1940, and September 2, 1945, even though they failed to take it out while in service, Veterans Administration said.

All that is necessary to apply for new insurance is the comple-tion of a physical examination and the payment of one monthly premium. These veterans may select any of the six permanent plans of insurance that may be applied for ranges from $1,000 to $10,000 in multiples of $500.

Application for a free insurance medical examination may be made at any VA facility where a full-time physician is employed If more convenient, any duly li-censed physician can be employ-ed to complete the medical exammation at the veteran's own ex-

"One of the most important things for ex-servicemen to do about their National Service Life Insurance is the naming of a beneficiary or beneficiaries of their policies, the Veterans Administration said.

Unless a veteran gives this matter thoughtful consideration, he may fail to get the most out of his insurance. For instance, if no beneficiary is named, the policy-holder may be risking a financial loss to his heirs. Up to August 1, 1946, it was not absolutely neces-sary for the veteran to name pri-mary and contingent beneficiaries because the law provided for payment of the insurance to legal heirs in a specified order. Now, however, if the veteran dies without naming a beneficiary, or if the beneficiary should die before the policyholder, the insur-ance will be paid in a lump sum

If this happens, and the insurance becomes part of an estate, it is subject to all laws governing estates, including claims of creditors, administrators' fees and court expenses. Thus the veteran's heirs might easily lose some of the insurance money they might otherwise have receiv-
