

'Lacerate LaCrosse' Is Homecoming Slogan

Featured this year at the Homecoming Dance is the band of Russ Carlyle with vocalist Patty Clayton. Carlyle has recorded for ABC-Paramount, Mercury and Regis Records.

"Lacerate La Crosse" is the slogan for this year's homecoming game with the La Crosse Indians. Homecoming activities start next Monday with the kickoff convocation at 8 p.m. The highlight of the convocation will be the introduction of the Homecoming Queen candidates.

Organizations competing in the window decoration and lawn decoration contests must have their entries finished by noon Wednesday. Judging of the window decorations will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday evening at 8, the R Club will sponsor a dance to be held in the tunnel between Karges and the Student Center.

Students will be able to vote for Homecoming Queen all day on Thursday. At 5 p.m. there will be a pancake eating contest in the Student Center cafeteria. In the afternoon the freshmen will lime the RF that overlooks Ramer Field. At 8 the sophomores will hold their annual Kangaroo Kourt as the climax of freshman initiation week.

Classes will be dismissed at 1:20

Friday to work on lawn decorations and other preparations for Homecoming. At 2 the freshmen and sophomores will have their tug-of-war behind the women's dorm, over the south branch of the Kinnickinnic. Judging of the lawn decorations will take place at 4. All afternoon the freshmen will be gathering material for the bonfire. A pepfest will be the highlight of Friday evening's activities. Held at Ramer Field, it will feature the coronation of the Homecoming Queen, introduction of the football team by Coach Gwynn Christenson, a bonfire, and the lighting of the RF mound. After a snake dance, a record hop will end the evening's entertainment.

A downtown parade, the game and the annual Homecoming dance with Russ Carlyle and his orchestra furnishing the music will be the main attractions Saturday.

The parade through downtown River Falls will start at 10 a.m. Then at 1:30 p.m. at Ramer Field, the Falcon football team will play host to La Crosse, one of the powers in the Wisconsin State College Conference. The senior class will entertain alumni in Hagestad Student Center after the game.

That night, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. the Russ Carlyle orchestra will play for the Homecoming dance in Karges Center. The musical group has recorded for ABC-Paramount, Mercury and Regis and has played at night clubs throughout the country.

21 Women Join Sigma This Year

Sigma Chi Sigma has announced the names of these girls which are joining this year. They are: Stephanie Baker, Kathleen Bixby, Jean Chelmo, Sharon Cook, Judy Christensen, Pat Cotter, Janet Cox, Diane Fansler, Virginia Frietag, Mavis Grover, Mary Hartwig, Rose Anne Johnson, Cathy Linden, Karen Haddow, Cathy Suennen, Maren Thoreson, Gail Vollert, Barb Korsmo, Linda Nelson, Judy Osen and Marjorie Ruesch.

In order to be eligible to join Sigma Chi Sigma, women must have at least a 3.5 grade point as sophomores, 3.2 grade point as juniors and a 3.0 grade point as seniors.

Sigma Chi Sigma is a local honorary women's society. It has a threefold purpose of service, culture, and sociability. According to a member of the society, they plan to place more emphasis on the service aspect of their program than they have in the past. The sponsoring of movies at the local theater will be part of the increase in service.

Brass Ensemble To Give Concert Thursday Night

The College Brass Ensemble will present a concert next Thursday evening at 8, according to Conrad De Jong, director. There will be no charge, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Playing in the concert will be: trumpet, Jeff Burnham, Ken Dado, Gene Haas, Kathy Schaffer, Ray Soper, Warren Wolfe; trombone, Barbara Beine, Roxann Gunvalson, Dale Larson, James Michaels, Albin Peterson; French horn, Muriel Hanson, Bob Kowalczyk; tuba, Richard Alton, Don Trudell; baritone, Gene Arnst, Donald Johnson; tympani, Bob Altmann.

Art From Yugoslavia On Display at College

"Contemporary Prints from Yugoslavia," part of the international art exchange exhibit program, currently is being shown in Room 1 of the Student Center. The program is sponsored by the Memorial Union at Oregon State College.

The 100 prints have been divided into three shows, each of which will be displayed for 10 days. Represented in the collection are 32 different Yugoslavian artists.

Robert Brock, Student Center manager, arranged for the Yugoslavian prints to be exhibited here. The exhibit is directed by Prof. Gordon W. Gilkey, head of the art department at Oregon State College.

"We at Oregon State College," says Edward C. Allworth, manager of the Memorial Union, "believe that this activity has helped to acquaint wide audiences on several continents with the best of contemporary graphic expression."

Thus far, Oregon State College has sponsored exhibits from Italy, Great Britain, Norway, Yugoslavia, Germany and Holland.

Future plans include prints from Belgium, Greece, South Korea, Ja-

Sociology Club to Hold Organizational Meeting At 8 o'clock Tonight

The first meeting of a club for sociology students is planned for Monday, Oct. 15, at 8 p.m. in the Student Center. This will be an organizational meeting at which the program for the year will be planned.

Tentative plans for future programs include informal discussions, panels, speakers, field trips and "just plain fun."

All sociology majors are urged to attend.

Attorney General Reynolds Here Wednesday

Attorney general John Reynolds, the Democratic candidate for Governor, spoke to a convocation in the Little Theatre last Wednesday.

In commenting on the issues at stake in the election, Mr. Reynolds stated that he believed that the role of the extreme right was the basic issue in the election.

"Wisconsin Republicans are the most conservative in the nation," he stated, "The whole nation is looking at this election to determine the role of the extreme right as a political power." Mr. Reynolds also explained his stand on some of the issues in the election.

Mr. Reynolds ate lunch here with members of the social science department before traveling to Eau Claire to appear on television there.

Kangaroo Kourt Will Terminate Frosh Initiation

Plans for freshman initiation are well under way, according to members of the sophomore class. Initiation activities will begin Oct. 20 and will culminate with Kangaroo Kourt on Thursday night, Oct. 24.

The 30 worst rule offenders during the week will be required to perform stunts. Diane Fansler, co-chairman along with Barb Rasmussen and Hampton Wilnot, stated that the stunt emphasis will be on "funny ones instead of mean ones." Joe Long, sophomore vice-president, is co-ordinator for the affair.

Sophomore class representatives will speak to the freshmen at the next orientation meeting and will brief the newcomers on the initiation rules. So far, it is revealed that freshmen will be required to buy red and white beanies for 40 cents, and will be asked to put their names on the beanies in one inch block letters. The sophomores will wear ribbons. Upon seeing sophomores, the freshmen will have to "button" and recite a short four-line poem.

Co-chairman Fansler listed the purposes of initiation as getting to know the new college students, adding to school spirit and providing extra spark for River Falls Homecoming Week.

Attorney General John Reynolds shakes hands with James Lukas, Y-Dem chairman, as Dr. Charles Graham looks on. Mr. Reynolds appeared on campus last Wednesday.

'Paul Light' to Be Speaker At Publications Conference

Roy Dunlap, "Paul Light" columnist for the St. Paul Pioneer Press, will be the luncheon speaker Oct. 20 at the annual High School Publications Conference at Wisconsin State College at River Falls.

The conference will mark Mr. Dunlap's last appearance as Paul Light, since he will become the Pioneer Press' managing editor on Nov. 1.

High school students from western Wisconsin and the Twin Cities area will have their choice of two programs — one for those interested in school newspapers and one concerning yearbooks.

Other professional newspapermen on the program will be Palmer Sondreal, editor of the Amery Free Press, who will talk on "Why an Editorial Page?" and Arlin Albrecht, managing editor of the Red Wing Daily Republican Eagle, whose topic will be "Finding the Feature."

Also on the newspaper program will be two members of the River Falls State College journalism staff, Donald Brod, who will discuss "How to Say It," and Wayne Wolfe, speaking on "Writing the Headline."

On the yearbook program, Donald Terpstra of Inter-Collegiate Press will show a film on yearbook layout; and two student photographers at the College, Mike Lukowicz and John Bergene, will discuss "Photography in the Annual."

Two River Falls faculty members also will be on the yearbook program. James Harless of the journalism staff will speak on "The Purpose of the Yearbook" and Kurt Wild of the art department will talk on "Yearbook Design."

The program begins at 9:30 a.m. and ends with a coke hour at 3 p.m. All the sessions, including the luncheon, will be held in Hagestad Student Center.

Student Senate Fills Vacancies On Committees

Action on committees and choice of candidates for Who's Who occupied the time of the Student Senate last week.

Several committee appointments were made. They were: Rich Zuke, Dave Frazer, Larry Feltes and Jeff Rudell to subcommittees of the development committee; Curt Thurston, Jim Stolzman and Don Koepnick to the Athletic committee; and Earl Burton and Wayne Hendrickson to the library committee.

The disciplinary committee was discussed and it was decided that at least one member of the Student Senate should act as liaison between the Student Senate and that committee.

Editorials

The Free Spirit

For the past few weeks, some people have been trying to stir up a little enthusiasm and school spirit, especially for football games. Without disparaging them, or condemning their efforts, we would venture that they are not meeting with too much success.

This certainly is not their fault. The fault, we believe, lies with the student body in general. Enthusiasm at football games certainly is not high. We would like to see this remedied, especially in time for Homecoming.

This apathy is not confined to school spirit. It is reflected throughout the whole school. No one seems inclined to exercise his rights or even his duties.

The percentages on elections have gone down. Nobody seems to want to raise a controversy. Everyone seems satisfied with the status quo.

This is not the attitude a school "where the free spirit prevails" should have. Learning and progress are based on controversy and individualism. Acceptance of the status quo is intellectual stagnation, and the downfall of society.

How about a little more spirit?

Students' Checks Late; Requirements Not Met

Student assistant checks for September will be very late, according to the College Business Office, because of the failure to meet the payroll requirements by department supervisors and students themselves.

In order to avoid delays in future payrolls, the Business Office recommends that supervisors and students have work permits on file in the Personnel Office and state and federal withholding forms on file in the Business Office.

The Business Office pointed out that failure on the part of one department, or even one student, to have the necessary forms on file can delay processing of the entire payroll.

The Inter-Collegiate team has received a subsidy of $200 from the Student Center Governing Board. This will help to pay many expenses, that in the past, had to come directly out of the bowler's pocket.

a dozen bowling balls, and twelve pairs of shoes provided the action. The setting was Collin's Lanes and the event was the Inter-Collegiate bowling try-outs. A war was being waged against ten defenseless pins located some sixty feet from the bowler.

I would like to express a hardy "thank you" to the Student Center Governing Board, from the entire bowling team, for this much needed $200 grant. I would also like to "tip my hat" to last year's bowling team who spent so much time, money, and effort in starting, organizing and building this team. This year, as a sophomore entry in the traveling league, I predict that we will be a first-division contender led by Vic "The 300 Game" Londo.

The Inter-Collegiate team will hold weekly practices every Tuesday at 4 p.m. The team will consist of the eight members whose roll-off results were as follows:

Reno Rizzo

R. F. Gridder Hurt; May Be Lost for Season

River Falls lost the services of sophomore guard Reno Rizzo for four weeks, when he suffered a broken hand in the Eau Claire game.

Rizzo, a sophomore from Lafayette, Indiana, is majoring in political science. He broke into the starting lineup last season as a freshman and did an outstanding job. The six foot, 190 pound lineman has been described by coaches to be aggressive and quick to learn. His loss may hurt the Falcon's chances this season, especially since his running mate at the other guard, Mike Wiskerchen, junior from Plum iCty, has just returned to action after nursing a knee injury and is not ready for fulltime action.

Tapping The Sports Line

By Curt Thurston

Nearly every writer at some time or another gets the urge to expand his scope into a different realm from what he is accustomed to. Probably the most profound topic he can choose is history.

There have been many great historical dissertations written in the past. The most successful of these written documents have been the ones with a theme based on the rise and fall of something or another. Probably the most notable of these attempts has been the "The Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire." More recent contributions to this department have been "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" and "The Rise and the Fall of Practically Everybody."

This week then as the last cries from the 1962 World Series fade into the distance, closing out another season of baseball I think it is only appropriate to write on "The Rise and Fall of the Milwaukee Braves."

Just ten years ago the Boston Braves played an entire baseball season and drew only 281,278 fans through the turnstiles as they were mired deep in the midst of the second division.

In the spring of 1953 a young baseball executive named Lou Perini, asked for and received permission to transfer his team from Boston to Milwaukee. It was the first switch of a baseball franchise in 50 years. Milwaukee went into a period of jubilation and wild frenzy. During that first season in Milwaukee the Braves drew 1,826,397 fans for a National League record. In return for his gratitude Perini placed a bronze plaque in County Stadium on September 20, 1953. The words inscribed on the plaque read "To the finest fans in all baseball."

To recall the type of atmosphere that existed in Milwaukee in 1953 one needs only to be reminded of the thousands of fans who just went out to County Stadium to eat picnic lunches and stare at the field while their team was in spring training.

Milwaukee really rolled out the red carpet when the team finally arrived from spring training. A crowd of 15,000 greeted them at the depot and then the team paraded through the streets in open cars.

During the next four years the attendance continued to climb hitting two million each season. Each of these years the Braves were in the thick of the pennant drive. In 1957 when they won a pennant and a World Series the attendance hit 2,215,404.

It was during this period while the attendance was swelling to new records that the little town of Cedarburg, Wis., with a population of 2,500 ordered 3,000 tickets for one game and filled every seat.

Players were swamped with gifts. They got everything from beer to new cars. Groups of fans began giving players days. Among these was a day for Pitcher Max Surkont, given by a polish group. They gave him a year's supply of kielbasa, Polish sausage. (Surkont's record was 9-1 at the time, but ate too many Polish sausages and only won two more games in season).

Since 1957 the attendance has been on a decline. Even when they won their second straight pennant in 1958 the attendance slipped under the two million mark. It shrank to 1,700,000 the next year, dropped again in 1960 to 1,400,000 and last year dropped to 1,101,441. This past season the attendance took another nosedive, down to 767,221, which was a decline of 334,220. This decline was bigger than the total attendance the Braves had in Boston in 1952.

Platteville Drops River Falls 13-7 On Blocked Kick

River Falls dropped below the 500 mark in conference play at Platteville Saturday, when they were defeated in the last minute of play by the Pioneers 13-7.

Platteville set up their final score by blocking a Falcon kick (the second River Falls kick blocked in the game). Ralph scored the winning touchdown on a three yard run.

The Pioneers had taken an early lead in the first quarter when Royce Movay hit paydirt from six yards out.

Larry Lloyd scored the River Falls tally in the second after taking a screen pass from quarterback Tom Everson and running 45 yards for the score.

The game was a frustrating one for the Falcons as they could not penetrate the Pioneer goal after the pass to Lloyd. Penalties and the lack of them stopped the Big Red eleven time after time.

The win was the first of the season for the Pioneers and leaves them with a 1-4 conference record, while the loss dropped River Falls to a 2-3 conference mark and a 2-4 over-all.

Former Head of Art Dept. Looks Over New Facilities

Miss Alberta Greene, 83-year-old retired faculty member of River Falls State College and former head of the art department from 1923 until 1945, returned to River Falls last week for a brief visit "to the finest art department in the area."

Last spring, Miss Greene was honored with the dedication of the Alberta Greene Art Studios in South Hall.

Alberta Greene was born in Wayne, Mich., and moved to Nebraska shortly after her birth. Upon the death of her parents while she was in high school, Miss Greene returned to Michigan to live with her brother. After finishing high school, Miss Greene attended the St. Thomas School of Art in Michigan.

The high school at Pipestone, Minn., was Miss Greene's first job as a teacher in 1906. Later, she went to Lewiston, Mont., where she taught for six years.

During World War I, Miss Greene went to New York City and joined the U. S. Army as an occupational therapist. She was in the Army for one year, working in two veterans' hospitals in the state of New York. After her service in the Army, Miss Greene attended Columbia University.

In the summer of 1923, Miss Greene, coming from her previous teaching position at Walla Walla, Wash., taught summer school at River Falls State College, and upon the invitation of former President J. H. Ames, stayed at the college until 1945.

One special aspect of River Falls that left a vivid impression on Miss Greene was the natural beauty of the town, which is much like that of the one in which she grew up. She also liked the size of the College. Miss Greene knew all the faculty and most of the students by their first names.

As head of the River Falls department, Miss Greene made a point of displaying one exhibit throughout the surrounding area each term. She also took a class on a trip (such as to the Walker Art Center in Minneapolis) every two terms.

In the summer of 1925, Miss Greene journeyed to England where she attended the University of London and took a course in English cathedrals. She visited the many cathedrals as she studied them.

During the summers of 1932 and 1934, Alberta Greene attended a painting colony in Provincetown, Mass.

The most noticeable change on campus, said Miss Greene, is its physical growth. The buildings were practically the same when she left in 1945 as when she came in 1923.

After her retirement, Miss Greene took residence at the Walker Methodist Rest Home in Minneapolis.

Miss Greene, who tries to walk 20 blocks a day, is far from inactive. She is a charter member of AAUW and P.E.O. Not neglecting her art, she also does some sketching and work in ceramics; she tries to visit Walker Art Center every few weeks.

This fall, Miss Greene is attending the Minneapolis Art Institute, taking a course entitled Art and the Natural Sciences. Nine other persons from her home are accompanying Miss Greene.

Miss Greene is very satisfied with her many years as an art instructor. "Most importantly," she says of her work, "I feel as though I've really done something to help create a better general attitude toward art."
