Council Refuses to Grant Parade Route

The River Falls City Council refused last Tuesday to grant permission for the Annual Homecoming Parade to be held on Main Street as has been customary.

The Council instead proposed an alternate route would take the parade from the Greenwood School west down Division Street to Second, then south on Locust where the procession would travel several blocks on South Main and then enter and move east on Cascade.

The council maintained that some downtown merchants feared that blocking traffic for the parade would hurt business. Police officials also objected to the congestion the parade would cause on Main Street.

City officials broke the news to Sharon Seilback, Andy Anton and Jon Graham, members of the Homecoming Committee, during last Tuesday's council meeting. The WSU-RF students had come to the meeting to request official permission. The refusal apparently came as quite a surprise.

During the course of the meeting, Mayor Maynard (Spike) Hoffman raised the question of "serious situations that came up the last homecoming parade. The mayor alluded to eggs and beer thrown at the crowds and other participants by one unit in the parade.

"We were washing eggs and yokes and cleaning beer off of clothes on kids and other spectators," Hoffman said. He also indicated that several high school groups that participated in last year's parade would not be back this year because of the treatment they received from this same unit.

Miss Seilback assured the council that the group in question, the "Dirty Dozen," would not cause trouble this year. She said the group had been contacted and that "It won't happen again." (For an insight into the "Dirty Dozen" see the

The council action has resulted in the following:

* The homecoming committee is considering the re-routing of the parade. (See story on page 1.)

* The Student Senate has discussed the possibility of a boycott of downtown merchants in protest. The boycott would involve the bussing of students into Hudson for shopping. (See story on page 1.)

* Certain of the downtown merchants including an official of the Chamber of Commerce object to the stand of the City Council. (See story on page 1.) For editorial comment, see page five.

Police Chief Defends 2nd Street Route

River Falls Police Chief Perry Larson defended the city's position of the parade route by producing a letter from the state highway commission's office at Eau Claire.

Chief Larson had written to Eau Claire to request a permit to detour traffic off of Main St. during the parade. The answer read as follows:

"As you are already aware from our previous letter, we are not permitting highway closures for purposes other than construction or maintenance activities due to the increase in vehicular travel. The inconvenience caused to the motorists, who have no interest in the occasion and consequential use of the highway for this purpose, had reached a point where the denials have become necessary. In view of this situation, we have been asking the cooperation of the municipalities in holding the parades, or other like occasions on a street removed from the State Trunk Highway system thereby permitting the higher volumes of traffic to move through freely."

At this point, it could be mentioned that in another interview with a city councilman, it was explained that there would be no immediate action taken against the city if this letter was not obeyed. This letter is a request for cooperation not an order.

Larson went on to outline the proposed parade route shown on the map in this issue. He also suggested that this route would have some advantages. It would be a longer parade route, enabling more people to comfortably see it and the patients at St. Josephs Hospital would also be able to see it as it turned on to Second St.

Parade Route Questioned

All of the merchants of River Falls are not in favor of the proposed parade re-route and at least some of them haven't heard about it.

Mike Kimmey, retail chairman for the river Falls Chamber of Commerce, said that he wasn't in favor of the change and hadn't been aware that there was one until interviewed by a Voice reporter. He expressed the opinion that many of the other merchants would have doubts, too.

According to Kimmey, the Chamber of Commerce had drafted a letter and sent it to the City Council suggesting an alteration in procedure but not in route.

The Chamber had proposed that two-thirds of Main St. be blocked to traffic and used for the parade. This would have allowed slow moving, one way traffic and some parking on one side of the street.

The merchant's only complaint had been that the traffic, in previous years had been banned from Main St. for at least four hours. Kimmey thought that the Chamber's suggestion would have been beneficial to both the city and the University.

Kimmey said that he felt the majority of the merchants would not be happy having all of the people watching the parade over on Second St.

Dirty Dozen 'Has Changed'

One of the members of the WSU-River Falls faculty has had his past exposed. He was a member of the original "Dirty Dozen."

Robert Krueger is an associate professor and the Audio-Visual Director of the University. He is also a member of the original 1946 edition of the "Dirty Dozen."

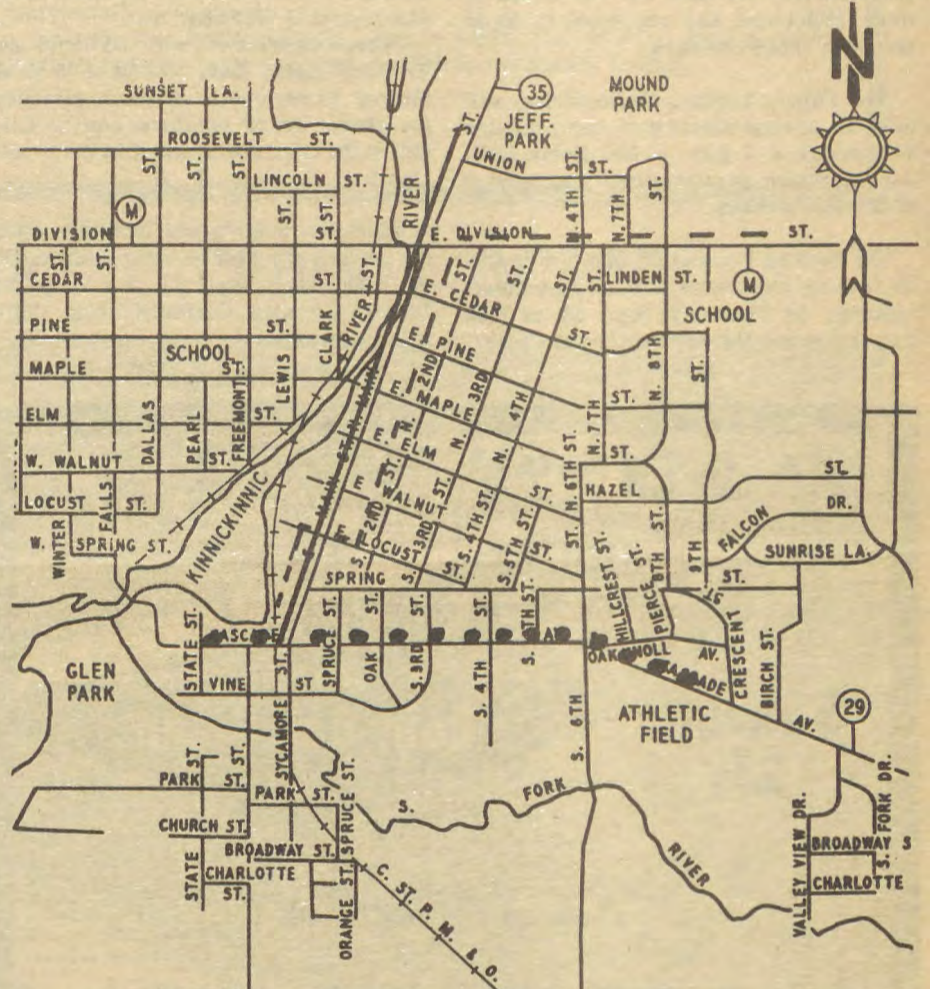

According to Krueger, the original "Dozen" were a group of Vets that got together to do their part for the Homecoming spirit of the University. He said, however, that there was a great difference between the "Dirty Dozen" of yesteryear and those of the present.

Krueger described the original bunch as "slapstick rather than filthy." They had no vulgar theme songs or emblems and there was no attempt at hidden identification. He said that, "They were just a bunch of guys having fun."

He recalls that one of their first stunts had been to release one or two sacks of chickens in North Hall Auditorium during the skits and it really got laughs. They also had a man take a running jump out of one of the windows in the Auditorium. This brought gasps from the crowd, but the performer landed safely on a nearby roof.

Krueger illustrated the changed roles of the "Dirty Dozen" by mentioning that President E. H. Kliempell had been invited to attend one of their reunions and that he had. Today's "Dozen" are certainly not on those terms with the present administration.

He expressed the desire that all of the original "Dozen" be invited to participate in Homecoming activities next year to explain what their purpose had been and to clear the name of an old tradition.

Homecoming Committee Changes Route

This year's WSU-RF Homecoming Parade may move only along the street immediately adjacent to the University.

Andy Anton, co-chairman of the Homecoming Committee, announced that the committee had been considering the route along Cascade Ave. since it was informed of the change in the traditional route.

The route under consideration would be nearly as long as the Main St. route (see map page 1). The parade units would assemble and jump off from the parking area just east of Crabtree Hall. The parade would proceed directly down the five blocks of Cascade Ave. that border on University property and disband in front of May Hall. The floats could proceed from there out to Ramer Field and the marching units could move one block farther west to their buses.

Anton said that this new route would be intended to cut the city of River Falls off from any Homecoming participation.

Response to Council

The Student Senate at WSU-River Falls acted quickly when informed of the controversial Homecoming Parade reroute proposal.

On Wednesday, Sept. 20, the Senate moved and passed a resolution and specified that it be sent to the River Falls City Council.

The resolution reads:

WHEREAS, the WSU-RF Student Senate expresses extreme concern over the City Council's refusal to allow the Homecoming Parade on Main Street, and

by La Verne Herberg

What is lacking on our campus? This is a question that I have asked myself many times since coming to River Falls last September, and it is a question that I'm sure has crossed your mind at one time or another, too. Something is definitely missing when you can walk through the student center on a Friday night and are lucky to see three other people. Something is definitely wrong when a nationally-known singing group appears on campus on a weekend and the chairs in Karges aren't even filled, to say nothing of the bleachers. And something is most definitely amiss when these same students who run home every Friday, complain that there is nothing to do when they are unfortunate enough to be "stuck" on campus some weekend. Even if there was nothing to do, these students have no right to complain, for they would be the cause of the very thing they are complaining about. It's a vicious circle, and it's about time some of the students around here start waking up.

What organization in their right mind is going to sponsor any activity on the weekend, knowing that the attendance will probably not cover expenses? How many students are going to stay on campus if there is nothing for them to do? I hope you're beginning to see what I'm driving at, as YOU are the only one who can stop this vicious circle.

I'm tired of being disappointed by the students at this University. I'm tired of telling people back home that River Falls is great, but having to admit that it's deader than a doornail on the weekends. I probably don't have to tell you what a sinking feeling it is to go down to the Cage, which is usually jumping with excitement, on a Friday night and finding that you're the only one down there! Is this your idea of a University campus? Well, it certainly isn't mine. I want to be proud of our school and proud of the students who are a part of it. I don't want to have to say "River Falls is great, but..."

This year Freshman Initiation was deliberately planned over a weekend, hoping to keep kids on campus. A lot of time and money went into initiation this year, and we almost went bankrupt in the process! Where is your school spirit? (or is "spirit" a dirty word these days?) Where is your sense of responsibility to help improve and support this University? (or is "responsibility" another unmentionable word?) Where is your interest? Where is your enthusiasm? I sure wish someone would answer these questions for me, as maybe then I could begin to understand the mass exodus that takes place around here every weekend. Some students have jobs at home on the weekends, and this I can understand. But going home just to get your laundry done or to get a home-cooked meal, are no excuses in my opinion. Maybe Ace food isn't the greatest, but then why don't you see what can be done about the situation instead of just "griping" about it? The point is that when you start college, you are considered to be an adult and are expected to act like one. Along with adulthood, comes responsibility--responsibility to others and to your self. There is an old saying that "there's no place like home." This is true, but while we go to school here we must think of River Falls as our home too, not just a place to exist for five days. To put it bluntly, we have to cut the apron strings!

If this whole column sounds like I'm just letting off steam, I am. I'm sure you've heard everything I've said a million times before and will probably hear it another million times before the year is over. Sometimes I think that the kids around here would just as soon leave everything exactly as it is, just so that they have something to talk about!

This fall, students have come to River Falls State University from all parts of the globe. However, coming together is not enough. We must stick together, but even more important, we must work together. Henry Ford put it this way:

"Coming together is a beginning
Keeping together is progress
Working together is success."

Parade Problems Told to Senate

Homecoming Committee representative, Andy Anton, reported at the Student Senate meeting Wednesday, Sept. 20, that the schedule of events for the 1967 Homecoming is complete except for some difficulty obtaining a parade permit for the march down main street scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 7.

Anton said that conferences have been held with River Falls Mayor Hoffman and that upcoming negotiations with the city council, the chief of police, and President Delorite will give the answers to where and if the parade will be held.

The controversy about the discriminatory clause in the Newman Club constitution will be brought before the student body as a free spirit forum because of a resolution passed by the Council on Religious Organizations (CRO) suggesting the CRO and the Student Senate co-sponsor the debate. John Harter and Gordon Fleury were appointed to organize the forum.

The Senate discussed a meeting between Dr. Munns, Daniel Parker, and the Interdorm Council which is being scheduled for the purpose of re-drafting the present dormitory regulations.

Gordon Fleury reported for the Legislative Action Committee (LAC) that they are considering a future free spirit forum involving two students from the University of Minnesota who will speak on Pro-Castroism.

Representatives from the German Club requested a Senate allocation of about $50 for films for the club and other interested students. Also requested was $50 for Spring Festival sponsored by the club.

The Senate also passed an amendment to their by-laws disbanding the Student Activities Committee (SAC) which has been inactive for the past two years.

Meletean May Day

"May day! May day!" is the cry of the Meletean staff members as they prepare for a general staff meeting at 7 p.m. tomorrow (Tuesday).

Editor Jerry Frigo, senior from Gile, explained that the password has a double meaning. Looking at "May day" as a distress signal, the significance of the password is that the Meletean staff needs help, Frigo said. He hopes to make all staff assignments at tomorrow night's meeting.

The password also illustrates the staff's determination that the 1968 yearbook will be distributed in May. "We are out to break a tradition of late yearbooks," Frigo said.

Tomorrow night's meeting, open to anyone interested in working on the yearbook, will be in the Publications Office, 209 Student Center.

Newman Club to Build New Center

The River Falls Planning Commission last Monday night gave the Newman Club conditional approval to build a new club center on the corner of 5th and Cascade.

According to Father Higgins, the advisor to the club, the building will be 58 feet wide and 92 feet long. It will also connect to an existing building on the proposed lot. Off-street parking will be provided in the rear of the building on the adjacent lot.

Construction of the building will begin as soon as the plans are approved by the State Industrial Commission. The project will take three or four months, according to Father Higgins.

The present Newman Club building on the corner of 3rd and Cascade was sold to the State for University use and is scheduled to be vacated by December 1. An extension of time was asked for because there is a possibility that the new building will not be completed by that time.--

Chamber of Commerce Student-Faculty Night Wednesday Sept. 27

The River Falls Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Student-Faculty Hospitality Night on Wednesday, September 27.

The stores participating will stay open from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday night. Some stores will offer specials and refreshments.

Mike Kimmey, Retail Chairman of the River Falls Chamber of Commerce, announced a special drawing that will provide an WSU-RF student with a quarter's free tuition.

Students may register for the drawing at any of the participating stores on Wednesday night.

The drawing will be done by Barb Petricka, Miss River Falls immediately after closing.

According to Kimmey, the purpose of the event is to acquaint the students with the downtown business area and improve relations.

Main Street or Bust

It looks like the annual Homecoming Parade won't be held on Main Street this year as has been the custom for who knows how many years. The concrete reasoning the city council gave to the University for refusing a permit was - - well - - there wasn't any. As a matter of fact the city didn't even consult the University before denying the traditional parade route.

What are some of the reasons the city has given for banning the parade from Main Street? The first thing the University was told was that downtown merchants feared the parade would adversely affect business. Come on now! Since when do thousands of people roaming around the central business district adversely affect business?

Then the University was told that the State has been discouraging use of public highways as parade routes because of the congestion they cause. Come on now! Take a look at the newly proposed parade route. Does it or does it not make use of public Highway 35 and 29? What makes this route any better than the old one? Will the town of River Falls be any less congested this October 7 if the new route is followed? Certainly not! Not only will the new route cause as much or even more congestion, the parade will pass and block the fire station on Second Street.

Ask yourself what will happen should the alarm sound and the city's volunteer firemen have to fight their way through the parade to get to their equipment?

It is obvious that city officials mistakenly take the University's students, faculty and administration for being complete nitwits. If they think that any of us believe the "reasons" they given for their actions, they couldn't be more deluded.

We know why they've elected to modify this traditional "happening" - - one of the few traditions maintained by the University. The "Dirty Dozen" incident which took place last year is at the bottom of the business.

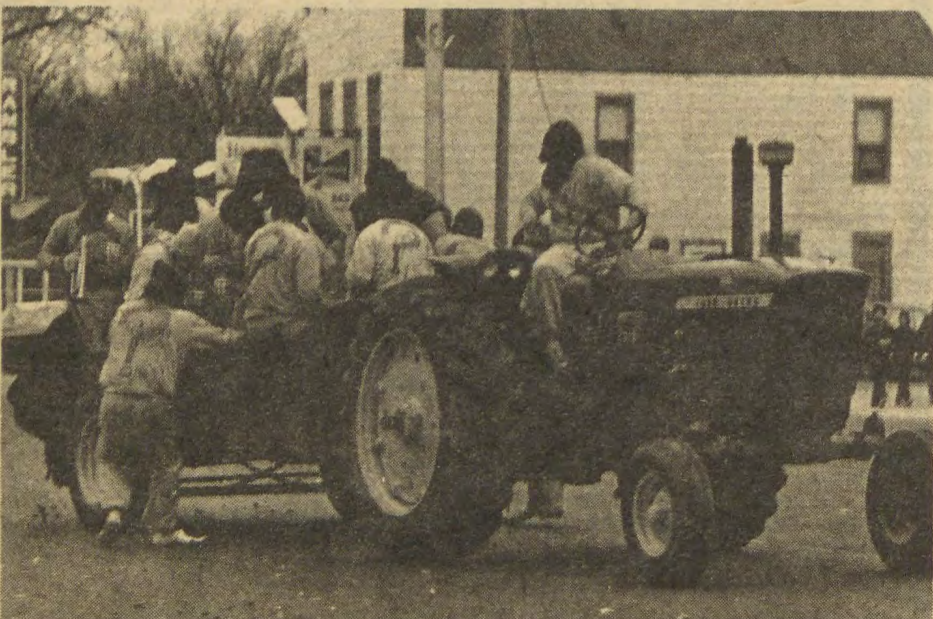

The funny thing is - - everybody on campus (with the obvious exception of the "grimy twelve" themselves) agrees that the actions of the group during the last Homecoming parade were despicable. What we object to most strenuously, however, is the fact that the City elected to make their move without giving the University a chance to correct the problem on its own.

Anyway, where were the River Falls Police during last year's parade when the "Dozen did their dirty work. Were the Police so engrossed in the parade that they failed to see what was going on. The group must have broken a fist-full of laws. Why weren't they arrested? Did the Police think anybody at the University would have objected? Well, nobody would have.

Should the Homecoming Committee decide to cancel this year's parade in protest - - we will support the cancellation. Should the student senate go ahead with its boycott of downtown merchants - - we will support that too.

That this University is not composed of a bunch of nitwits must be brought forcibly home to the people "downtown."

Are They the Reason?

The Dirty Dozen in action.

The Ferret

By Michael Brecke

Currently a man in the state of Wisconsin is causing a great amount of controversy. That man is Father James Groppi. This clergy man is presently waging a war against something which should not exist in Wisconsin, that is segregation.

Many people in Wisconsin feel that Groppi is "going about this the wrong way." Friends and neighbors he is doing something and against the record of the rest of the people in this state his action looks very good.

Some how northern people constantly seem to think that they are the great "civil rights saviors" and that they are free from prejudice. Father Groppi is confronting people with this myth.

The whole question of civil rights today has taken on a new view since the advent of "black power." Just for the sake of discussion let me ask this question, would the White Anglo Saxon population of the United States believe in "white power," if they were suppressed? It is my opinion that they would very positively believe in "white power." Now all you White Anglo Saxon's will say, "but gee whiz, the Negro in America isn't suppressed, he's free." It ain't so. The Negroes in America are a suppressed group. He can't live where he wants too. He can't eat where he wants too. He has a difficult time getting an education in the great and free U.S.A. And then we have the gaul to criticize a man like Father James Groppi for stepping into the twentieth century.

On the assumption that the University is a center for progressive ideas, why doesn't some group like the campus Newman Club step into the twentieth century and support one of the leading Wisconsin Catholics?

Passive resistance is one of the greatest tools of the twentieth century man. Father Groppi is using this tool to its ultimate effectiveness. For this he should be applauded, supported and helped. He can't do it alone.

Did Freshmen Initiation accomplish anything?

Kurt Kleinhans, Senior, Plymouth, Wis.
"I've never seen that it's done much good as far as acquainting the Freshman with the Sophomores. The school's too large for it to be effective."

Dr. Curtis Larson, Assistant Professor of Physics
"General harrassment of students contributes very little."

Jeanne Andrews, Freshman, St. Paul, Minn.
"The Freshman got to know the upper classmen, but the Sophomores took advantage of the Freshmen. A couple of girls had to climb a tree and chirp like a bird; it was kind of mean and unnecessary."

Joe Edlin, Freshman, Pepin, Wis.
"It probably satisfied the Sophomores for what they had to go through last year."

Art Schneider, Senior, Milwaukee, Wis.
"No. It disrupts their studying. It was only two days and didn't accomplish anything."

"It helped us to know the Sophomores and the Freshmen on campus."

Free Spirit

To the editor
In response to the article printed in the Student Voice I would like to suggest to all of the readers of the Student Voice a reasonable definition of the words, "FREE SPIRIT." After consulting with a reliable dictionary, the meaning of the University should consider might be as follows: Free meaning permitted to seek the truth and spirit meaning the mind, thereby resulting in the definition of "FREE SPIRIT" as permitting the mind to seek the truth. The Wisconsin State University at River Falls seems to be setting this as their ultimate goal to separate it from the other Universities in Wisconsin and other states.

Hats off to Pressley

To the Editor and Alan Murray:
There are those on this campus who believe Student Senators should be formed with a cookie cutter; the product being one of white shirts, striped ties, and sliderules in the back pocket. They receive a ready-made personality consisting of "sophistication," "snobbery", and most important lack of being "oneself."

An exception to this "ideal" our Student Senator, Ron Pressley, possesses the distinction of being friendly and down-right-natural. It's not every Senator who familiarizes himself with all aspects of student life, as well as the students themselves. There are some of us who can easily admire a person who is himself at all times without catering to public opinion.

It seems questionable as to whether such a petty act as "throwing" a freshman girl into a fountain is an adequate basis for criticisms from his fellow students. There should be more concern over the absurd actions of initiation participants in May Hall last Thursday. We are referring to such stunts as walking through trays of food and making-out on table tops. More emphasis should be placed upon a Senator's policies than on his personal behavior.

Hats off to Mr. Pressley for being himself.

Hal's Lowdown

by Robert Halverson
Sports Editor

Except for the unfortunate first quarter, the Falcons played good football in their 27-20 loss to Superior Saturday night. Their ability to fight back against a big first quarter lead is indicative of a winning spirit and the Falcons may surprise some conference teams. Brian Kreibich, Falcon footballer, was edged out for WSUC Player-of-The-Week by Jim Osborn, the Superior quarterback. Osborn, a senior from Augusta, completed 15 of 30 passes for 234 yards in leading the Yellowjackets to a 27-21 victory over Stout last week. Kreibich intercepted three passes and returned one for 60 yards setting up the winning touchdown in the Falcons 13-12 win over the Pioneers of Platteville. Last week's prediction came true for the score part anyway, fans, unfortunately the crystal ball errored on just who should have 27 points. However in the baseball department, the Minnesota Twins are 1/2 game out in front of the torrid AL pennant race just where the Lowdown told you they would be.

What a tragedy--Despite increasingly brilliant prospects for a great season the future looks darker and darker for the Falcon hockey team. Hockey's position on this campus is still up in the air as we wait for a coaches meeting which will decide hockey's fate at RF. As I told you last week this school could be the hockey powerhouse of Wisconsin. A roster of hockey greats presently enrolled at RF looks like a Who's Who of Minnesota hockey talent. The list of St. Paul and Suburban greats includes: Jerry Trooien, All-City 3 years at St. Paul Harding and High School All-American 2 years; Orice Abrahamson, All-City, Harding; Dennis Sullivan, All-City Catholic Conference, St. Paul Hill; Pete Boelter, All-City, Harding; Jack Anderson, All-City, Harding; Jerry Coe, All-Suburban Conference, North St. Paul;

Terry Waslich, All-Suburban, North St. Paul; Arnie Bauer, All-Suburban, North St. Paul; Andy Krieger, All-Suburban, North St. Paul. These guys are all unrecruited and anxious to play hockey for RF. All they need is some minor assistance such as equipment to play with and a rink to play on !!!!! There are no problems so insurmountable that the athletic department can not put this talented bunch of skaters on the ice and come up with a winning team. As far as the lack of a coach goes, Tom Youngmans, a graduate student at RF and a former regular at tough St. John's University has offered to coach the Falcon Icemen for free . . . Let's get on the "stick" and push for collegiate hockey on this campus. The 1966-67 team compiled a record of 8 wins and 8 losses, so it is not a losing effort.

The word is thru the grapevine that the terrible, traditional twelve the dasdardly Dirty Dozen will somewhat temper their annual appearance at RF due to city and administrative pressure and also to improve on last year's performance which some say marred the 20 year tradition of the humorous Homecoming hobgoblins.

Falcons Fall to Superior

The Superior Yellowjackets eked out a close 27-20 decision against the Falcons last Saturday night, scoring three touchdowns in the first quarter. The loss was the first in conference play for the Falcons while the Yellowjackets remained undefeated and tied for first place with the Oshkosh Titans.

The Falcons started out fast as sophomore quarterback Jerry Trooien hit Harold Blank, La Crosse junior, on a 66 yard scoring play on the first play from scrimmage.

The Yellowjackets came right back and jolted the Falcons scoring three quick TD's, the first coming on a recovered fumble in the Falcon end zone. Quarterback Jim Osborne then connected on two scoring plays and the score was 20-6 still in the first quarter.

Mike Danielson, River Falls junior fullback, rambled 66 yards off tackle in the second quarter pulling the Falcons to within seven points. Danielson was once again the Falcon workhorse as he hit the line 24 times while picking up 131 yards.

Both teams scored in the third period, the Falcons countering when St. Paul freshman John O'Neill went over from 17 yards out. Osborne threw another TD pass, his third of the game; this one for 10 yards and a 27-20 victory.

The Falcons grounded out 184 yards rushing, 110 of those coming in the first half, while picking up 102 yards through the air. Trooien again went all the way at quarterback for the Falcons. The Yellowjackets picked up 237 yards on the ground and Osborne passed for 137 yards.

The Falcons have an open date this week and their next action will be against conference co-leader Oshkosh in the Falcons homecoming on Oct. 7.

Wyman Dared Alumni to Make R F Great

Dr. Walker Wyman lectures to history class.

Feature Editor's Note: In a speech to the alumni chapter in Eau Claire in 1960 Dr. Walker D. Wyman, distinguished professor of history, expressed the following views on the free spirit of the River Falls campus. Because the bronze plaque which grew out of his speech will be dedicated in a few days we, the Voice, would like to share these views with you.

Dr. Wyman dared the alumni to make River Falls "great" as a college "Where the Free Spirit Prevails".

To the alumni he said, "advise talented young people to seek an education 'where the free spirit prevails.' Help establish scholarship funds to enable promising students to attend River Falls."

Wyman said that if each alumnus contributed one dollar a month that in a few years we could have the "bulk of the bright young people in this vast upper region of the nation", and we could have faculty turning out books under an Alumni Research Grant.

To give us a "symbol of purpose" and a "worthy goal" he suggested that the words "River Falls--A College Where the Free Spirit Prevails" attributed to William T. Evjue of the Madison Capital Times be cast in bronze and "bolted to the door of North Hall."

Wyman also proposed that the staff we now have could further distinguish themselves, the college, and the alumni if "they could have lighter teaching loads some quarters" to "enable them to think more creatively than is now possible with the teaching load imposed by State appropriations."

"If the alumni could help the College over some of these humps, they could give the College ample reason to call itself great," said Wyman, leaving it up to the River Falls Alumni to make the college great.

In pointing out why the University of Wisconsin is called great and taking his suggestions for River Falls from these, he said that the University "has had its share of great minds who have contributed new ideas" and "it has always fought for a goal" and "it has found a way to enrich education beyond what the state of Wisconsin will do in appropriations."

To point up these assumptions Wyman listed several outstanding men who were once part of the University and who established the reputation of the university as a place where fine minds were welcome.

In explaining the goal of the University he told the story of the bronze plaque at the front entrance of Bascom Hall. In 1894 the board of regents sat for three nights discussing the case of Professor Richard Ely who was charged with encouraging strikes in two Madison printing shops and teaching socialism in his classroom. The regents came up with a declaration of the freedom to teach. It reads "Whatever may be the limitations which trammel inquiry elsewhere, we believe that the great state university of Wisconsin should ever encourage that continual and fearless sifting and winnowing by which alone the truth can be found."

Wyman said, of the University's third reason for greatness, that gifts of alumni and income from the Wisconsin Foundation made "it possible for the university to attract many young people who lack funds."

To the alumni he asked two questions. "What does River Falls mean to you? What do you mean to the College?"

Replying to his own questions Wyman stated, "It is what the College means to you that determines what you mean to the College."

He said that the alumni is more the State College than the student body, the faculty, and the "collection of brick and concrete."

The college is reflected in you, the alumni.

Members of Family 'haunted' Says Playwright

by George Spellvin

(This article is the first of a six-part series discussing the forthcoming University Theatre production of Eugene O'Neill's Long Day's Journey into Night.

Each of the characters in O'Neill's autobiographical drama closely parallel the members of the playwright's own family. They are, as he suggests in his dedication, "haunted," Each, in his own way, is a victim of the fatal environment which encircled all of them--eventually causing their destruction.

Mary Tyrone, O'Neill's representation of his mother, will be played by Miss Jeanne Wall, a senior from River Falls, Wisconsin.

Mary is the victim of a twenty-three year addiction to morphine caused by a "quack doctor" who prescribed large amounts of the drug to relieve her pain following the birth of her youngest son, Edmund. As the play opens, Mary has just returned from a sanatorium. She has apparently solved her addiction problem. However, the family's mistrust and suspicion of her, coupled with her concern over Edmund's illness are turning her back to the escape from reality that she once found in her addiction.

It is Mary who takes the "journey into night." Near the close of the play, as the fog settles around the Tyrone home, she takes enough morphine to make herself unaware of the present and to revert her thoughts to happier days. She concludes the play with her reflections:

"then in the spring something happened to me...I married James Tyrone, and was so happy for a time."

Of the play, Miss Wall says: "It is a play in which there is simultaneously, love and hate. It makes comments on alcoholism, drug addiction, and most of all what people, unknowingly, can do to each other. It may seem as if these people have extreme problems, or that their cases are overstated. I do not feel that this is true. They are all victims of circumstance. It makes me think... "There, but for a stroke of fate, go I."

RIVER FALLS

RF Has Special Task Says Regents Booklet

Wisconsin State University at River Falls is described as "dedicated to a special task and a special mission. Its task is education and its special mission task is education and its special mission is the search for truth" in the WSU 1967 system Yearbook currently being mailed to guidance counselors and principals of all Wisconsin high schools.

The booklet further describes the educational program at River Falls as "student centered" with a faculty striving to create the best possible environment for learning while helping him develop his potential and giving him the opportunity to discover new ideas and paths to learning.

Costs are listed for fees, board and room at the state universities and in connection with this area the financial assistance "package program" of scholarships, part-time employment, loans and federal work-study funds is explained and an estimate of the required spending money is given. Counselors have a current figure of $450.00 per year as the median amount of personal expense.

The handbook also recounts the University's pioneer program for the superior student, offering the "advantages of an honors program, test-out program and independent study to students of exceptional academic talent." The counseling and tutoring programs are tagged as helpful when faced with academic problems.

To encourage the search for truth a spirit of inquiry is promoted to aid the student in his exploration of new paths. He is given the opportunity to mingle with others from different backgrounds and cultures and hears conflicting viewpoints and new opinions.

The booklet continues in its explanations of the advantages of the River Falls branch by further describing the programs for study and extracurricular activities at the University. The variety of courses "ranging from anthropology and art through literature and mathematics to zoology" and the way in which these courses form the basis for more than thirty different majors and minors in addition to more than a dozen pre-professional programs is also discussed.

Facilities for student leisure activities and the slate of annual events are listed and described as "calling for creativity and enthusiasm."

In concluding the article the publication formulates the main goal of the University to be: "to help the student prepare for a profession, explore new ideas, examine new ways, try his skills and develop his talents."

1513--Vasco Nunez de Balboa, Spanish explorer, crosses the Isthmus of Panama and discovers the Pacific Ocean, becoming the first European to set eyes on that body of water.

1690--Public Occurrences, the first newspaper to be published in America, is printed in Boston. (No second issue ever appeared, however, because the publisher incurred the displeasure of the royal governor.)

1926--The Ford Motor Company established an eight-hour day and a five-day week.

1936--The Reverend Charles Couslin, the controversial head of the National for Social Justice and bitterly opposed to a second term of office for President Franklin D. Roosevelt, charges in Cincinnati that the President is "anti-God" and advocates using bullets when an "upstart dictator in the United States succeeds in making a one-party government and when the ballot is useless.

1957--Under guard of 300 U. S. Army troops, armed with rifles and bayonets, the nine Negro children who have thus far been unable to study at white schools are escorted into Central High School in Little Rock, Arkansas.

1961--President John F. Kennedy addresses the General Assembly of the United Nations and tells the delegates that the West is ready to defend its obligations in West Berlin. "We shall," says the President, "be remembered either as the generation that turned this planet into a flaming pyre or as the generation that met its vow to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war."

Kleinpell Takes Position At Nova University

Former WSU-RF president E. H. Kleinpell has accepted a position as assistant to the president of Nova University, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Kleinpell who resigned effective Sept. 1 of this year was president at WSU-RF for 21 years.

Nova, a new Florida university was established in 1964, and will enroll its first class today with 21 students and 22 faculty members.

Dr. Abram Sacher, president of Brandeis University and a member of Nova's advisory board, said of it: "a university cannot be created in these times without a great idea--and you have a great idea.

Work at the University is offered at the doctoral level only. Of the 21 students enrolled for this fall, nine are working toward doctorates in physical science, and four toward doctoral degrees in oceanography.

Dr. Kleinpell will be concerned with the university's institutional affairs in his new position.

"I did not resign at River Falls to accept another position," Dr. Kleinpell said, "but the idea behind this new institution is so challenging and intriguing that I found it impossible to refuse."

Dr. and Mrs. Kleinpell will leave this week for Ft. Lauderdale, but will maintain their home in River Falls. "I understand it gets kind of warm in the summer in Florida," Dr. Kleinpell said.

Dr. Kleinpell

treme breach in University City relations,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the Student Senate of WSU-RF urge the City Council and the City Police Department to reconsider their past action in the matter.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the LAC (Legislative Action Committee) of WSU-RF investigate the legal aspects of this situation.

Student Senate President Bob Rasmussen was asked to comment on the Senate's position in this action. Pres. Rasmussen responded:

"Basically, I feel that it's about time that the City of River Falls comes to realize that a very major portion of this City's economic welfare hinges upon good relations and cooperation between the people of this City and the University student body.

The position of the City Council and the lack of cooperation which they have given WSU-RF students in staging their Homecoming Parade can do nothing but hamper good relations between these two groups in the future."

Years Ago

April 18, 1916. The layout isn't of the highest quality. Advertisements are mixed in with a running account of local news quips.

The editorial was titled "Will the Student Voice Pay?" How about it? Do you think it does?

The next issue on file is dated the next year, May 25, 1917. The Voice still had only four pages, but the pages have grown to a full eight by 11 inches.

The big topic then seemed to be about a Lieutenant Brill from Madison who was in charge of military drilling of male student here at River Falls Normal. The boys were encouraged to participate in the drills as a worthwhile thing.

"We want drill and all need it," said the Voice. Boys were asked to practice saluting at all times by saluting "professors, officers, and president."

And believe it or not the Miletean came out on time.

RF Enrollment Ninth out of Nine

According to the Board of Regents, for the nine state universities, WSU-RF ranks ninth out of nine in increased enrollment for the 67-68 school year. The Regents report which came out last week showed Whitewater having the largest increase with 22 percent. Following a close second was Eau Claire with 19 percent. The largest member of the system, Oshkosh, had an increase of 13 percent.

The Regents report showed a total enrollment of 51,000 students attending the nine Wisconsin State Universities and its two branch campuses.

Eugene R. McPhee, director of state universities says that this is 6,645 or 15 percent more than last fall's official count. McPhee added that this within one percent of the estimated figure of 51,385 which was used to compute the 67-68 budget.

Of the students enrolled more than 16,000 are freshmen.

Oshkosh remains the largest state University with an official count of 9,363, a 13 percent increase over last year. Whitewater second in size, with 8,525 students, recorded the greatest increase with 1,521 students more than last fall. Eau Claire is third in size with 6,320.
