Debaters Take First, Third In 'B' Tournament Here

Teams from River Falls won the first and third places in the annual "B" debate tournament here Saturday. The team of Sonja Rasmussen, freshman from Chippewa Falls, and Lewis Schoenwetter, freshman from Emerald, compiled the meet's highest total to take first place. A St. Olaf team, Roger Olein and Thomas Stolen won second place. Placing third was the team of Honey Berg, sophomore from Elmwood, and Noel Falkofske, senior from Ellsworth.

Fry's Satirical Comedy of Witchcraft To Be Student Production Jan. 23

Christopher Fry's poetic comedy, The Lady's Not for Burning, will be presented next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre. The all-student production is directed by Noel Falkofske, senior from Ellsworth.

FRY FRAMES his satirical comedy in the house of a mayor in a sleepy medieval village where the townspeople are the most orthodox of the orthodox, bigoted, and self-satisfied.

Playing the heroine and hero who raise a fury of excitement in the town are Sara Garnett, sophomore from River Falls, and Henri Elzinga, junior from Sheldon.

Jennet, the heroine, is the lady who is not for burning. The young woman is relatively innocent of the witchery attributed to her. The hero, Thomas, is a worldly-wise and slightly bored traveling soldier. He tries to save Jennet from the villagers' wrath by claiming he is the guilty person.

A love triangle involving three young persons from the village, Alizon and two brothers, Nicholas and Humphrey, is broken up when the brothers start courting the alluring "witch."

THE MAYOR'S clerk, Richard, takes pity on the neglected Alizon and falls deeply in love with her.

Margaret, the mayor's sister and mother of Nicholas and Humphrey, becomes completely perplexed by the unusual behaviour of her two sons. Adding to the confusion, the Mayor, Hebble Tyson, and his helper, Justice Tappercorn, are trying to decide who is guilty of witchcraft, Jennet or Thomas.

Old Skipp is the actual cause of all the trouble because he likes to "float in the heaven of grape." However, through his actions the play resolves into a happy conclusion.

The complete cast, in order of appearance, follows:

- Richard -----Greg Griffin
- Thomas -----Henri Elzinga
- Alizon -----Ramona Robelia
- Nicholas -----Alex Romanowski
- Margaret -----Ora Fast
- Humphrey -----Jerry Smith
- Tyson -----Al Krause
- Jennet -----Sara Garnett
- Tappercorn -----John Kestell
- Skipp -----Gerald Mielke

DEADLINE WEDNESDAY FOR KING PETITIONS

Election of the King and Chairwoman have been scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 6, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. in the cafeteria. Presentation of Chairwoman candidates, Dianne Shay, Sally Hallenberger, and Marilyn Carlson, will be during an all-school assembly in the North Hall auditorium at 10 a.m. on Monday, Feb. 4.

Nominating papers for King candidates must bear the signatures of 50 students. The prospective kings will also be presented at the Monday assembly.

THE TOP TEAM in Saturday's "B" debate tournament here, Sonja Rasmussen and Lewis Schoenwetter, poses with Coach Walter Simonson just after the results have been announced. The two debaters were undefeated in five rounds. The trophy won by the team can be seen in the background.

Movies of Art and Drama Will Be Shown Thursday

The Concert and Lecture Committee's film series, co-sponsored by Atelier, will present two color movies in the Little Theatre next Thursday at 4, 6, and 8 p.m. The double feature includes "Picasso," and "The Stratford Adventure."

Opening the program will be "Picasso," a documentary film on the work, technique, and life of Pablo Picasso. Beginning with family sketches drawn by Picasso during his teens in Spain, the movie uses 477 of the artist's works to trace his career from 1896 to the present.

Most critics agree that no other present-day artist has displayed the vitality and sheer virtuosity of Picasso. His drawings range from perplexing abstraction to classical beauty.

A master of all phases of the plastic arts, Picasso is noted for his painting, print making, sculpture, rugs, textiles, and ceramics. His work is distinctive in its expressive power and decorative grandeur.

This film provides both a review of the controversial Picasso's work and the art of our time. "The Stratford Adventure" describes how Stratford, a small Canadian city, realized the visions of one of its sons. The project led to the creation of a theatre especially suited for staging Shakespearean drama.

Alec Guinness and Irene Worth are featured in the color production.

The film tells how the idea grew, how a famous British director, internationally known stars and Canadian talent were recruited, and how the Stratford Shakespearean Festival finally became a reality.

Showing the Festival project and scenes from two plays, "All's Well that Ends Well," and "Richard III," the movie also records

TEACHER FROM INDIA HERE ON FORD GRANT

A former faculty member from Noinital Teachers College in India, N. K. Sanyal, will arrive at River Falls State next Monday to study general science.

Mr. Sanyal is sponsored by a Ford Foundation program. His main objective in coming to the U. S. is to learn how American instructors teach science to meet general education objectives.

The experimental program is sending 40 students from India abroad. Wisconsin, because of full cooperation from the universities, state colleges, and high schools, will receive twenty of these students. Twelve of the remaining 20 will go to England and eight to Canada.

Mr. Sanyal, author of four general science textbooks, will practice teach in ninth grade science at Hudson High School. A member of the Hindu religion, he is married and holds an M. S. degree.

The three top teams each had a record of five wins and no losses for the day.

Individual top-scorers who were named to an all-tournament team include Thomas Mastali of Wisconsin State College at Oshkosh, Sonja Rasmussen and Mike Dodge of Wisconsin State College at River Falls, Iris Hanney of Wartburg College in Waverly, Ia.; Roger Olein of St. Olaf at Northfield, Minn.; and Gretchen Solie of Wisconsin State College at Eau Claire.

Winning first place in after-dinner speaking was James Johnson of Eau Claire. RFSC student, Richard Doetkott, junior from River Falls, won second place. In third place was Richard Schneider of Northwestern College in Minneapolis.

Topic for the after-dinner speaking contest was "Why Do I Do These Things?"

More than 125 forensics students from colleges in Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin participated in the tournament. The "B" meet is limited to students who have not taken part in more than three inter-collegiate tournaments.

According to Coach Walter Simonson the eight River Falls teams competing Saturday won about 75 percent of their debates.

A total of 59 debate teams and 15 after-dinner speakers took part in the tournament.

SUE BOWERS OMITTED FROM HONOR ROLL

Sue Bowers was omitted from the honor roll published in last week's Student Voice. Mrs. Bowers is a senior from River Falls enrolled in the liberal arts curriculum.

Scholarship Pledges May Be Paid Tuesday

The first date for redeeming pledges to the Hungarian Scholarship Fund has been set for tomorrow in the cafeteria. Pledges made at the drive's kickoff assembly can be paid in part or in full during the noon and evening meals and throughout the afternoon.

Cards will be available at the collection table for students who have not yet had an opportunity to contribute toward the four-year scholarship for a Hungarian refugee.

Slightly more than $850 in cash and pledges has been raised by the students and faculty, with the final goal set at $4,000.

'Agricultural Education in Egypt' To Be Topic of FFA Banquet Speaker

All students enrolled in agriculture are invited to attend a banquet sponsored by the FFA next Thursday at the Charbell. The main speaker, M. L. Sasman, State Supervisor of Vocational Agriculture has chosen "Agricultural Education in Egypt" as his topic.

The meal will be served at 6:30 p.m.

Other speakers on the program include: Pres. E. H. Kleinpell; John Clemons, senior from Chippewa Falls; Robert Heebink, vocational ag teacher from New Richmond; and E. E. Anderson, county agricultural agent from Baldwin.

The FFA quartet and the River Falls Girls quartet are scheduled to sing several numbers following the banquet.

"IF YOU'RE SO AFRAID OF WATER, I'll put my tears away" says Jennet, played by Sara Garnett, to Thomas, played by Henri Elzinga, in a scene from "The Lady's Not for Burning." The comedy by Christopher Fry will be presented in the Little Theatre next Wednesday evening under the direction of Noel Falkofske.

The Editor Speaks . . .

Finishing last Saturday's "B" debate tournament with teams in first and third place, in addition to having one student on the all-tournament team, the River Falls forensics squad deserves to be congratulated for its showing. The group's future looks bright in view of the fact that all the tournament's participants were relatively inexperienced. The "B" meet is open to students who have taken part in not more than three previous tournaments. Only three of the 16 River Falls debaters had been in actual competition before. Saturday's victory marked the fourth consecutive tournament win for River Falls.

Listening in on a few of the rounds Saturday we found debate to be as stimulating to the spectator as it is to the participants. One of the more beneficial extra-curricular activities, it trains students to use logic and adapt to meet varying situations. With each team debating alternately for and against a proposal, the activity's most important feature is demonstrating that there are two sides to every question—a fact that's often forgotten in everyday life.

An interesting sidelight on the tournament is that for the first time since Homecoming there were students here other than those who have play rehearsals or basketball practice. It was a refreshing relief to see the campus "alive" on Saturday. The day provided a vivid contrast to the tomb-like quiet that prevails on most week-ends.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

AND THE SECOND THING YOU SHOULD LEARN TO DO IS TO TAKE CRITICISM

GAD BOOKS!

In this last of two articles on the late Welsh writer, Dylan Thomas, I should like to consider his stories and essays. These, unlike his poetry, are characterized by a realism, i.e., no apparent flinching at things as they are, no outspoken desire to see things different, and a disposal toward "living with" or tolerating institutions and all types of human beings. These, outwardly, are the characteristics of Thomas' essays and short stories. Though a realism is the final, overwhelming picture of the prose, it is, I believe, essentially a non-realism—a romanticism in fact—that is behind Thomas and causes him to write realistically.

It must be said that this romanticism is what I believe is implied by Thomas' writings—he nowhere says that this is his outlook. I would seem to be splitting hairs; that is, however, not what I intend to do. I believe that an attitude like Thomas', especially in this age, is important, it gives a very pointed comment on life—human existence especially. (I assume that the value of such comment is a favorable, foregone conclusion).

Romantics are dead—romanticism is no longer in fashion; if anybody started out as one, he is, says Will Durant, now most likely a pessimist. The mistake that these men made—and it was their reputed "exuberance" that most likely caused them to make it—was a belief in external forces or agents, changes of heart and the like.

Thomas does not believe in these things, though his attitude remains essentially romantic. He does not make the same mistake that the historical romantics made, and thus, as an incidental, redefines romanticism. One could say that the historical romantics had just enough romanticism in them to coin a term, and Thomas stands as a further development of romantic tradition.

Thomas' rejection of external agents, changes of heart, etc., is important. This is essentially the reason for his realism and seeming acceptance of a realistic attitude. Yet what still makes Thomas a romantic, and what difference does it make?

The realists, who are just that, who portray stark, raw life—and have nothing else to offer—succeed insofar as realism is concerned. But Thomas does not fit into the same category as Mark Twain, O'Henry or DeVoto, etc. Thomas' is a greater and more effective voice than the others' because he is motivated by that "hybrid" romanticism.

As an answer to the question above, I should like to speak of the efficacy of this distinct quality of Thomas'. (He is, as far as I know, the only possessor of just such a combination.) Just what does this combination do? How does the possession of it cause him to comment so uniquely on human existence?

Reflected in Thomas' essays and short stories, even his poems, is the idea that things are quietly, intensely eternal; the classic "The more things change the more they are the same," but not quite: Thomas says that his particular realistic "slice of life" is just a variation on an eternal theme—it is now obvious why the mere existence of Thomas' works is an unfavorable comment on this age.

Vardis Fisher, in his God or Caesar? speaks of the history of man in terms of his search for atonement, at-one-ment—the Biblical theme, the heart of Buddha, Nirvana, the crutch upon which the now hobbling doctrine of original sin gets about—this search is one of the world's greatest causes of anxiety. Thomas' attitude is an answer to this condition. By the romantic Thomas' belief in the eternal continuance of things, he poses the antithesis to this idea that has plagued man ever since he first looked up.

Why is what Thomas says—this answer he gives to atonement—so important? Attitudes like his, I believe, give man some reason (Continued on Page 4)

Falcons Bow to Platteville 85-68; Lauber Scores 26 Points

League leading Stevens Point Hands River Falls Cagers 70-60 Defeat

An effective fast break and the long-range sniping of Stevens Point guard Jim Marko combined to spark a 70-60 victory for the Pointers over River Falls Friday evening in the first game of the Falcons' annual southern road trip.

The triumph made the host club 3-0 in league play. They scored another victory in Saturday's action to retain the Wisconsin State College conference lead with a 4-0 record. The Falcons were 1-2 after the defeat by Point.

Absent from the River Falls lineup was regular Falcon forward Tom Marshall, who had been the team's second high rebounder and third high scorer in the season's first seven games. Marshall has dropped basketball for the year because of financial reasons.

Inability to control their share of the rebounds cost the Falcons the game as a short but scrappy Point club, led by center Verne Luebstorff battled to a victory on the boards. Marko led the scoring for the winners with 20 points, while Luebstorff had 13 and Jack Krull 12.

Stevens Point broke a 34-34 halftime tie and led most of the way in the second half by a small margin. A Falcon press in the final minutes gave way to several easy Point baskets to boost the final margin to 10 points.

Dave Herum led the game's scoring with 23 points. Mick Lauber chipped in 14 for the Falcons and John Steffen had 11.

Herum Hikes Average To 25.6 Points a Game

Dave Herum, 6-5 Falcon center who led WSC conference scorers last season with a 21.6 point average for 12 loop games, seems destined to have another good year in the scoring column.

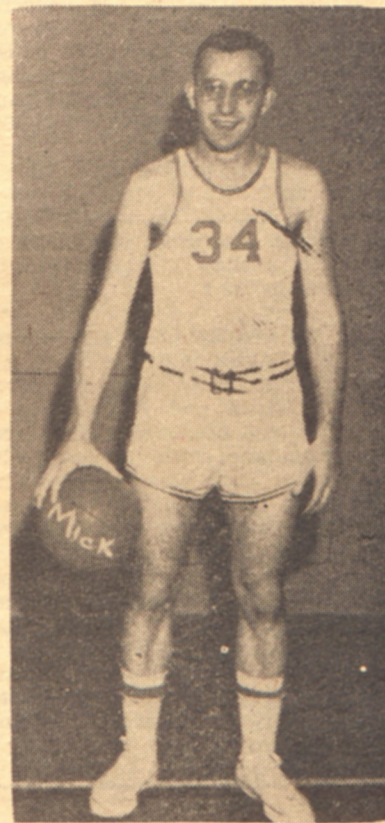

Statistics for the first seven games of the 1956-57 season showed the big pivotman leading all River Falls cagers with 179 points for an average of 25.6 points per contest, placing him among the top scorers in the nation.

DAVE'S TOP point total in those first seven games came on 55 field goals in 118 attempts (45 per cent) and 69 free throws for 107 tries (64 per cent). Herum's two shooting percentages placed him third in squad individual offensive standings. He also was the pace-setter in the rebound department with 88 loose basketballs grabbed off the boards.

Following Herum in Falcon scoring is forward Johnny Steffen, who is averaging 14.6 points per game—45 field goals and 12 gift tosses. Last year he played at a 12.1 points per. However, Stef currently is sporting the top shooting percentage figure—52 per cent—on the team. Also playing in all seven River Falls games preceding the Stevens Point game, Johnny was third in rebounds with 54.

Tom Marshall, freshman forward from New York City, ranks second to teammate Herum in rebounds with 71 and is hitting at a 12.0 point per game clip. But Tom takes a back seat to no one when he toes the free throw line as his top mark of 76 per cent shows.

ROUNDING OUT the five who have seen the most work so far this season are the guards, Mick Lauber and Dick Fischer. Lauber, freshman from Glenwood City, tallied for 12.1 points in each of six games he has played, while gathering a total of 41 rebounds. Fischer averaged 7.1 counters for seven tilts and pulled down 32 rebounds. Mick was also second in free throw shooting percentages, carrying a mark of 68 per cent.

LEADING SCORERS for the Falcons on the week-end road trip were senior center Dave Herum, left, and freshman guard Mick Lauber. Herum poured in 23 points against Stevens Point Friday evening and finished with 20 against Platteville Saturday. Lauber hit 14 in Friday's game, then scored 26 to lead the point-makers in the contest Saturday.

Falcons to Face Superior In Away Game Saturday

by Rog Gundlach

Following on the heels of last week-end's trip south, Fran Polsfoot's Falcon five will travel to the northern extreme of the WSC conference when they go up to Superior to face the Yellowjackets next Saturday.

The 'Jackets have an experienced first five this year, with four of them being regulars throughout the 1955-56 season. Returning from the last year's squad which placed fourth in the conference with an 8-4 league record while going 13-8 for the season are Ray Birch (5-9) and Ron Schultz (5-10) at guards, 6-5 forward Tom Larsen, and George Nelson, the 6-6 center and team captain. Backing up these starters are guard Jack Start and forwards Bernie Tomzak, Tack Evans and Jim Isabella.

Last year Superior handed River Falls a pair of defeats by the scores of 82-68 and 98-78. In these games, scoring totals show that the guards tallied for 69 points (Birch 14 and 14, Schultz 19 and 22), while Larsen tallied for 26 and 8 points and Nelson scored 16 and 13.

Barring injuries or other changes, Coach Polsfoot plans to start the same five he has been working with most of the season—Dave Herum at center, Tom Marshall and Johnny Steffen at forwards, and Dick Fischer and Mick Lauber at guards.

An added goal in this game for each team is an advantage in the 10-year game summary. Both teams have 10 wins and 10 losses to their credit over the past decade.

I-M Ten Pin Standings

by Ed Schlumpf

With only three weeks remaining until playoff time, a real battle is developing in the A league for the four playoff positions. Team 5 with 15 points appears to have cinched first place. Runner-up team 7 has a total of 10 points. However, the next six teams are so plenty of spirited action is expected before the playoffs.

Don Hendrickson rolled a 204 for high individual honors last week. Other high games included 190's by Tom Wiseman and Chuck Redmond. Dick Coen turned in a 188.

The B league also features a close race between five teams fighting for the four playoff berths. Team 7 is still out in front with 14 points but teams 2 and 6 are close behind with 13 points each. Teams 5 and 8 both have 10 points.

Sports in a Nutshell

by Lewie

The basketball race is on in the most balanced of all conferences, the Big Ten. Illinois was picked by the experts to win the crown, but was quickly dumped by the Gophers. Minnesota, who was considered a darkhorse, then stepped into the predicted-winner's circle.

However, a week-end southern trip that included stops at Iowa City, Ia., and Columbus, Ohio, quickly produced defeats and dumped the Gophers into the second division. Illinois and Minnesota are now eliminated temporarily and a couple of supposedly mediocre teams, Michigan and Ohio State, are on top of the heap.

WEATHER IT BE football or basketball, the Big Ten is always full of surprises. Few persons thought that Iowa would go to the Rose Bowl.

Inconsistent rebounding plagued the River Falls State Falcons for the second night in a row as they dropped the second half of the week-end double header 85-68 at Platteville. The defeat marked the eighth for northern half schools in the 10 games played at schools in the WSCC's southern half Friday and Saturday.

Platteville's league record is now 3-1, good enough for third place, while the Falcons finished the week-end jaunt with a 1-3 mark and a tie for eighth position in the conference.

Uncanny shooting by Falcon guard Mick Lauber helped keep River Falls in the game most of the way as the freshman from Glenwood City hit 13 field goals for 26 points to lead the contest's scorers. Lauber connected from out front and both corners, sinking most of his shots from within 15-30 feet of the basket. Dave Herum had 20 points and John Steffen 14.

Platteville led by a scant 43-42 at halftime, but pulled away midway through the second half mainly through the scoring and rebounding efforts of Ralph Smedema, Roger Sandmire and Jerry Krusche. Their tip-ins and generally outstanding work on the offensive boards were the deciding factors in the second half. Smedema led five Pioneers in double-figure scoring with 19 points.

Gotz Sets New Mark In Intramural Scoring

FALCON FANFARE

by Ed Schlumpf

In the words of Falcon head Coach, Fran Polsfoot, "Dan Corcoran has one of the most important roles to play of any member of this year's team. With our scoring attack centered around Dave Herum, it is Danny's job to get the ball in to 'Birdie' so he can score. As witnessed from the success that Herum has been having this season, it can be said that Danny has been doing an excellent job."

To this, the 6'1" sophomore guard readily replies, "I enjoy playing the part of a 'feeder'. It doesn't matter to me who scores as long as we win."

Danny's teammates admire him as a fine defensive player as well as a cool-headed "floor general." The smoothness with which he runs plays from his front court position caused forward Tom Marshall to say, "Dan is a terrific ball handler and a great asset to our team."

Dan hails from Stillwater, Minnesota, where he played forward for three seasons on Stillwater High School's basketball squad. In his senior year at Stillwater Danny was awarded the "Honor Athlete Award" for his outstanding work as a student, athlete, and citizen.

Now in his second year with the Falcon five, Danny is looking forward to this year's Wisconsin State College Conference race with enthusiasm. "Eau Claire, Superior, and Stevens Point all will be tough," admits Dan. "But with a little bit of luck, I think we can finish right up near the

Regent Donates Magazines In Engineering to Library

River Falls Regent Herman T. Hagestad has given the library bound and unbound volumes of several magazines, including Architectural Record, The Journal of Sewage and Industrial Wastes, and Surveying and Mapping. The magazines contain material of interest to students in these and related fields.

Architectural Record, while devoted largely to historic and contemporary design, has articles on modern house and business furnishings. Most issues of this magazine also feature articles dealing with the incorporation of modern art in building.

The Journal of Sewage and Industrial Wastes is a monthly magazine dealing with residential and industrial waste disposal problems. Each issue contains a number of articles on the bacteriological aspects of waste disposal and public health.

Surveying and Mapping, a relatively new magazine published by the American Congress on Surveying and Mapping deals with problems and techniques of land survey. Each publication discusses new mapping and surveying methods and instruments.

Newman Club Banquet Scheduled for Feb. 4

The annual Newman Day Banquet is scheduled for Feb. 4. The program will consist of a mass congregation of the Newman Club members for the 7:30 o'clock mass at St. Bridget's. Stone to Have Chapter In Forthcoming Book

Dr. L. G. Stone, campus school director, is the author of a chapter on "Fifth Year and In-Service Education" which will be published in March as part of a report entitled "Improving Teacher Education Through Inter-College Cooperation."

The report will be published in book form by the William C. Brown Publishers. It will be a volume of approximately 350 pages divided into eight chapters. The report comes as the result of studies by the sub-committee on Institutions for Teacher Education of the North Central Association.

Iowa State University seldom has anything to cheer about as far as athletics are concerned. However, a week ago they really made headlines as they pulled a miraculous upset over Kansas University and its highly publicized center Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain.

A tight defense that kept the seven-foot-plus giant out of the hole proved to be the deciding factor. The score was 39-37 with Wilt getting 17. (He's been averaging 32.)

IT LOOKS LIKE the Minneapolis Lakers may be moving to Chicago. Ever since the heydays of Mikan and Pollard the mill city club has been having trouble attendance-wise. Chicago looks like a good place to go with its three million people and a stadium that will hold up to twenty thousand spectators.

Fort Wayne is having similar trouble and is planning to move to Detroit, a city tagged as being the most sports-minded in the United States. The papers have it that the Red Wings hockey team heartily disapproves of the move for fear it will hurt their attendance.

"WHY DO I DO THESE THINGS?" asks Richard Doetkott, second place winner in after-dinner speaking during Saturday's debate tournament. He went on to describe his feelings as a drama person participating in debate.

for hope, it frees him of the shackles of the compulsion to seek atonement — that compulsion which has most certainly engendered those things history has seen so much of: greed, violence, irrationality and the rest. Thomas permits hope; that is why I believe what he has to say is so important—that is why I believe he is a successful romantic.

Any pessimism is an answer to man's compulsion to seek atonement, one might argue. But no pessimism is beautiful; sage and witty, perhaps, but not beautiful, as Thomas' answer to atonement is.

Those works of Thomas' that will best show this attitude I believe he has, are his prose-poem-drama, Under Milk Wood, the essay, "Quite Early One Morning", and the protracted short story, "Adventures in the Skin Trade." These are all works of rare beauty—and they have something to say to man.

The tragedy of Dylan Thomas—and perhaps the tragedy of the historical romantics—is that he speaks to this age of men in language that it cannot understand—gentleness is out of fashion too, this is an age of brawn and swagger, an age when the voice crying in the wilderness is not heard.

Other Colleges —

by Donna Williams

A "Campus Catastrophe" is being planned for March at White-water State. It's a follow-up on last year's "Campus Chaos." The event gives exponents of the "squared circle" a chance to display their talents in a boxing and wrestling show.

During Stout's recent Printing Education Week the print shop offered a crisp new five-dollar bill to everyone attending its open house. The bill was of little value however. It was a reproduction of Continental Currency used in the United States during the late 18th century.

Four new majors were recently added to the curricula at La Crosse. Included are economics, sociology, mathematics, and biology.

Plans for news buildings and other improvements at Milwaukee are included in a $27,000,000 budget request by the University of Wisconsin. A total of $5,000,000 is earmarked for UW-M. The money is to go mainly for construction of three buildings housing science labs, and fine arts and all-purpose classrooms.

The entire improvement program has recently become tentative, however. An investigation has been started on the possibility of building an entire new campus on the outskirts of Milwaukee.
