Board of Regents OK's New Majors at College

Two new majors, art and political science, were approved for River Falls State College by the Board of Regents of State Colleges on Nov. 14.

The college will offer the art major with emphasis in either art education or liberal arts. With the addition of this major, several new courses will be available in the art subject field.

The political science major will be offered as a liberal arts major to undergraduate students. For the graduates it is a vocational field to some extent at the Master's degree and to full extent for the Ph.D. degree. A major will require 36 credit hours.

One of the vocational fields where political scientists are labelled as such, is college teaching. Several River Falls graduates with political science minors are now doing graduate work in political science. This year three such students have fellowships or assistantships at the University of Wisconsin, University of Illinois, and Northern Illinois State University.

Further information on either of these new majors is available in the respective departments, and will be published in a later issue of the Student Voice.

Garnett Funeral Services Held Friday Afternoon

Funeral services were held for Dr. Raymond L. Garnett Friday at 2 p.m. at the Congregational Church. Dr. Garnett, who was Director of Secondary Student Teaching, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at his home last Tuesday evening.

Dr. Garnett joined the RFSC faculty in 1949 as Director of the Two-Year Elementary Program. At the college he was advisor to the Future Teachers of America (now the Junior N. E. A.) since its beginning and served as advisor to the Rural Life Club.

DR. GARNETT

Dr. Garnett came to River Falls nine years ago from Lindenwood College at St. Charles, Mo., where he had served as chairman of the department of Education. He was born in Emden, Mo., in 1900 and began his teaching career in 1919 in a rural school at Shelby in Marion County, Mo.

From 1923-24 he taught high school at Emden and from 1926-

Honors Seminar Open To Winter Applicants

Students who like to read challenging books and discuss them may apply for the Honors Seminar.

Each quarter, three or four books of contemporary significance are examined. Completion of three quarters of seminar participation will give the student three quarter hours of elective credit.

Those students who are interested are asked to fill out application sheets obtainable from Miss Vera Moss in the English office, or at the Library desk. These sheets must be returned no later than Friday, Dec. 5, so that the seminar can begin.

29 taught at Arkansas State Teachers College. He served from 1931-35 as director of certification surveys for the Missouri State Department of Public Schools before joining the staff at Lindenwood College in 1936.

He received the A.A. degree from La Grange Missouri Junior College in 1923 and his B.S. degree in 1925 from the University of Missouri. It was there he also received his M.A. degree in 1926 and his Ph.D. degree in 1931.

Deeply interested in politics, Dr. Garnett served as secretary of the Pierce County Democratic Committee from 1955-57.

He also was interested in church affairs and was an active member of the Congregational Church.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucy Larr Garnett; a son, James, at home, and two daughters, Mrs. Richard Anderson of Maynard, Mass., and Mrs. Don Weiss of Woodville. Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Wallace D. Holmes of Lewiston, Idaho, and two grandchildren, John Garnett Anderson and Melissa Jane Weiss.

Burial was at Greenwood Cemetery after the funeral services with Rev. John Merner officiating.

J. A. Phillips to Direct Ibsen Play Presented in Little Theatre Tonight

"Ghosts," a play by Henrik Ibsen, will be presented in the Little Theatre Monday, Nov. 17, at 8 p.m. J. A. Phillips, senior from Milwaukee, is the director of the production.

Ora Fast, a junior from River Falls, plays the part of Mrs. Alving, a woman torn by the conflict of the individual versus society. In the end she finds that every thing she tried to do right was wrong. She attempts to put a mask over her past life but the mask is later destroyed.

Reverend Manders, whom Mrs. Alving consults for advice on her marital and social problems, is played by Don Negard, a sophomore from New Richmond. The part of Oswald, Mrs. Alving's son, is played by Paul Kelly, a freshman from River Falls. Oswald suffers from an incurable disease and pleads for a mercy killing.

Mr. Engstrand, a carpenter, is played by Jerome Rodewald, a freshman from River Falls. The girl he claims as his daughter, Regina, is played by Georgeann Younggren, another River Falls freshman.

"Ghosts" is considered one of Ibsen's greatest classics. The play was written in 1881 and was once banned in England and the Scandinavian countries. Admission to the performance will be fifty cents.

College Group To Take Part In Model UN

River Falls Wesleyites will attend the First Session of the Wis. Methodist Student Movement Model United Nations, Nov. 21-23, at La Crosse. The Wesley Foundation of Wisconsin State College at La Crosse will host the event. River Falls students will be representing two countries: United States and the Philippines. Dr. Charles Graham, of the political science department and local Wesley advisor, will be the adult advisor to the Security Council.

Davies Suggests Goals

Three goals for educators were discussed by Donald Davies, Director of Student Teaching at the University of Minnesota, at an all-school American Education Week convocation last Tuesday.

The problems facing our country are complex and numerous and we must prepare citizens to face these problems," Mr. Davies said.

To meet this challenge educators today can set up three goals.

The first goal concerns the development of the individual's responsibility for the general welfare. He said we need to emphasize the duties of citizens as well as the rights and privileges. "Talk is not enough. We must provide opportunities for young people to participate in things that do count."

The teaching of value judgment and critical thinking based on careful observations and conclusions is a second aim. Mr. Davies stressed the importance of building opportunities to use this type of thinking into school curriculums.

As a third goal he named creating interest in intellectual pursuits, which would involve an "intellectual renaissance."

He pointed out that elementary teachers can make a special contribution to an intellectual renaissance because they are among (Continued on Page 4)

The Editor Speaks . . .

A TRIBUTE TO DR. RAY GARNETT
"To be loved, love and be lovable."

These words might well have always been in the mind of one whom we shall all miss greatly on our campus. For Dr. Ray Garnett was a man who lived these words each day of his life with his many friends at our school. His unexpected death causes us to feel we have lost a man who was always deeply devoted to his work, which much of the time concerned our work.

Dr. Garnett was always ready to lend a helping hand to anyone who asked his help. No hour of his was ever so full that a minute could not be spared for guidance and help. Those who never called on him for help could still find his smiling face and warm, kind personality characteristics to be developed in themselves.

He was a man who knew there is a perfume called happiness which we cannot give to others without getting some on ourselves.

Those of us in the field of education who knew him best found purpose in our lives and our work after seeing how dedicated one man could be to others.

Not only was Dr. Garnett interested in the formal education of his fellow man, but also in sharing his deep sense of appreciation of the beauty of life. Only a man whose back is bent low by love for others is stooped enough to see the beauty of the tiniest wild flower. He was such a man. The fairest flowers in his lovely garden were of humbleness as well as confidence.

Though we mourn the loss of one whom we loved, his life, like ours, will be remembered by the kind of fruit it bore. Let's use the memory of his life as our guide in realizing anyone can give without loving, but no one can love without giving.

Critics Corner —

by Michael Cotter

In what manner should a review or criticism be accepted? A criticism is one person's opinion.

Otra Primavera was presented and reviewed Monday night, Nov. 10, with an attendance of about 100. The audience was presented with an inconsistent performance by a relatively inexperienced cast.

Lani (AMELIA) Wolodko, despite her inexperience (this being her first role and a big one) which caused an obvious reserve, several times allowed the audience to glimpse the dutiful wife, who let no obstacle stand between her and her love for her husband.

Among her most convincing portrayals were those when refusing to separate herself from her husband and accede to the wishes of her family, and the scene where she makes her daughter - in - law realize the meaning of love. Onstage, Miss Wolodko spoke with too-perfect diction, too precise to be portraying any character. She was too rigid in poise, not varied in her speaking manner, and aside from the instances mentioned above, kept a reserve which gave the impression that she was trying to retain a perpetual smile and that the script was still before her. Her uneasiness will disappear with experience.

Bill (ARTURO) Clark, her husband, was appropriately dynamic in portraying a life-long businessman, but one who had not grown hard in sentiment through his business-world association. His persecution complex was not greater than his love for his wife, for although his business was stimulated by both, he forsook his business to be with her. The breakdown at the discovery of the sale of the hacienda was the high point of his meaningful acting.

The stage belonged to Taloa (BERTHA) Starr. Her manner was above criticism; she sat at ease, without fidgeting (she should give lessons in sitting, she never moved aimlessly, dawdling her fingers on a chair, nor using furniture as a crutch when standing, but always with a purpose. She portrayed a young woman who knows only romantic love; innocent of possible complications in her marital life, and unwilling to accept possible real hardship.

Bernie (RAUL) Brohaugh, in his first serious role, was like his mother, duty-bound. Each put the welfare of the spouse first, with the two-centuries-old estate of the family next. Mr. Brohaugh's curtness has been exceeded by his humor (witness the Reader's Theatre last spring), but he showed an ambitious son.

"Acid" is the explanation of Ron (ALBERTO) Perrier's role as the younger brother who made snide comments without offering constructive suggestions. His outward cynicism, although he still retained the manner of an 18-year old rather than a man in his 20's kept to the front of his personality. In Act II, where Amelia and her sons are discussing ARTURO, Mr. Perrier comes on as if he has been dawdling backstage when he asks his mother, "Where is your usual clear mind?" and coming after her believable speech about ARTURO, this suddenly lent a bubbly atmosphere to the scene.

Michael (XAVIER) Dodge made a couple of mistakes in his speaking parts and confused the reviewer with his nervousness, which was hard to understand. His performance as the family physician who had eyes for the wife, but who could not manifest his love, was convincing. During her moments of questioning him, he was appropriately nervous, but should not have been fussing with the back of the love-seat during the scene. His gravity when confessing his love to AMELIA and the fatherly tweak

Student Senate Minutes

November 10, 1958

The meeting was called to order by President Clarence Dulek. After the minutes were accepted with correction, the treasurer reported $608.39 in the Student Senate account, $636.62 in the vending machine account and $81.06 in the River Falls account.

Phyllis Anderson, Carol Korsmo and Gwen Schlough, members of the Winter Carnival Committee, were present to discuss plans for this year's event. The Senate unanimously approved an appropriation of up to $125 to reserve a ski resort for the Friday afternoon of the Carnival. A discussion of whether to elect a chairwoman from the three members of the Committee was followed by the suggestion that the king election be held earlier and the king be given more responsibility in the celebration.

Basketball Opener on TV

Out On A Limb

by Jim Laue

It's been a while since this member of the Voice sports staff has gone "Out on a Limb", but the ridiculousness of recent murmurings from about 180 miles to the east of River Falls has reached such a point, that a call to verbal action is needed.

As you may have guessed we're referring to complaints from Stevens Point about the Falcons winning the Wisconsin State College conference title after their Pointers "handily whipped" (to quote one source) River Falls 12-2 in a non-conference game on Sept. 18. RF then went on to win six straight in the conference, while Point was tied by Platteville and relegated to second place with a 5-0-1 mark. Point publicity pitchers have a legitimate (if academic) beef.

But the extremes to which they go!

The Stevens Point college newspaper, under a column appropriately headed "Nosing Around," referred to an all-conference team picked by a local sportswriter. The Stevens Point penman placed eight Stevens Pointers on the first two teams. This is still all right, but when the "Nose" goes on to say, "This was quite an accomplishment for Coach Duane Counsell's team, for River Falls' 'conference champions' only placed seven men on the first two teams," the article has gone from journalism to who knows what. How can any school refer to getting more men than any other team on an

Grapplers to Face Winona

by Ed Schlumpf

Coach Ben Bergsrud's grappling squad continues to hold two hour workouts every afternoon in the North Hall wrestling room in preparation for the season's first meet Friday, Dec. 5 at Winona.

One promising newcomer has dropped from the team but several others have shown considerable promise. Dick O'Mera won't be returning to school next term and thus will not be competing in the 147-lb. class. Freshman Pat Mrotek has looked very good in the division however. Pat is a former Golden Glove boxer from Loyal. Another Loyal lad, Jerome Braun, is the smallest man on the team at 123.

Two newcomers boasting plenty of high school experience are Jim Drummy and Arvid Flanum. Drummy wrestled three years at Waupun High School and went to the state tournament twice. Flanum wrestled two seasons at Amery High School in the 167-lb. class.

Others cited by Bergsrud as showing signs of making the squad are Ron Durand, Ron LeGrand, and John Gregorich. Durand is a freshman, LeGrand a sophomore, and Gregorich a junior. Only LeGrand with a year on the Marshfield High School team, has had any previous experience.

I-M Cage Rosters To Be Turned In

All captains of intramural basketball teams should turn in their complete team rosters to Mr. Bergsrud at the Athletic Office. The rosters are to include the full name of each player plus the team nickname. The teams should be limited to ten players. League play will begin after Thanksgiving vacation.

Beatrice (MERCEDES) DeGidio, although an outwardly hard old maid, who, in AMELIA'S mind, did not deserve forgiveness, showed the scars of a 30-year old selfishness, multiplied by time. Beverly (MARTA) Ramacier deserves special mention. For a person to do a role with one day's rehearsal is a strenuous undertaking, especially with this play, as it was opening night. Miss Ramacier surprised the audience on Monday night with her command of the situation and the character.

Male Additions Made To Faculty Families

If students noticed difficulty on the part of two teachers in keeping strictly to lecture notes today, there was a reason . . . or rather, two reasons.

A new male member joined the family of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Bohn. The boy was born Saturday at Hudson hospital.

Saturday night at 10:30 p.m., a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Ammerman. The boy named Stephen John, weighed nine pounds, 11 ounces. He was born in the Hudson hospital.

An AP-circulated story with a Stevens Point dateline lambasted conference scheduling, without cause, we think. True, the scheduling has been poor in the past, but for the first time in many years, every team played an equal number of games (six). To play every team in the conference (the only solution to this article's complaint) would mean nine games for each school, thus ruling out any non-conference competition. To top it all off, it was Point that originally lined up the game for 1958. After the 1957 fracas, won by RF 18-14, the Point coaches asked Falcon Coach Fran Polsfoot if he would like to fill the open date. Fran complied, and both coaches knew it would be a non-league game, as is the one set for Sept. 19, 1959 at River Falls, barring any action at the WSC league meeting this weekend.

One final note: There is no doubt that Stevens Point beat River Falls 12-2 (in a non-conference game) as the Point papers say. There is also no doubt that the Pointers legitimately tied Platteville 14-14, the very next week, after trailing 14-0 in a league game. Maybe the week before was too much. And there is also no doubt that River Falls beat this same Platteville team, 28-26. That's life.
