FARM DEDICATION HIGHLIGHTS RURAL LIFE CONFERENCE

Regional Art Day Will Be Thursday

Robert Hodgell, formerly art director of Editorial and Communications Services of the Extension Division of the University of Wisconsin and now a free lance artist, will be guest critic for Regional Art Day, Thursday, Oct. 27 on the campus of Wisconsin State College at River Falls.

An exhibition of regional amateur art, sponsored by the college, is a part of the school's Rural Life conference. Art show dates are Oct. 23 through 29. Amateur artists from western Wisconsin and eastern Minnesota are invited to present their work for show and criticism by Mr. Hodgell.

The guest artist is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and spent three years at the Des Moines Art Center as instructor and resident artist. He also studied and painted in Mexico and was chief illustrator for "Our Wonderful World" encyclopedia.

Mr. Hodgell, who has been exhibiting prints and paintings for 25 years, has had more than 20 one-man shows. His color work is in the Library of Congress, Metropolitan Museum of Arts, Des Moines Art Center, Mid-America Art Association, Joslyn Museum, Wisconsin Union, Kansas State College and Kansas State Teachers College.

PLACEMENT BUREAU PLANS MEETING FOR LIBERAL ARTS SENIORS

The placement bureau will conduct a meeting in the Little Theatre Oct. 27 at 11 a. m. in the interest of placing liberal arts seniors.

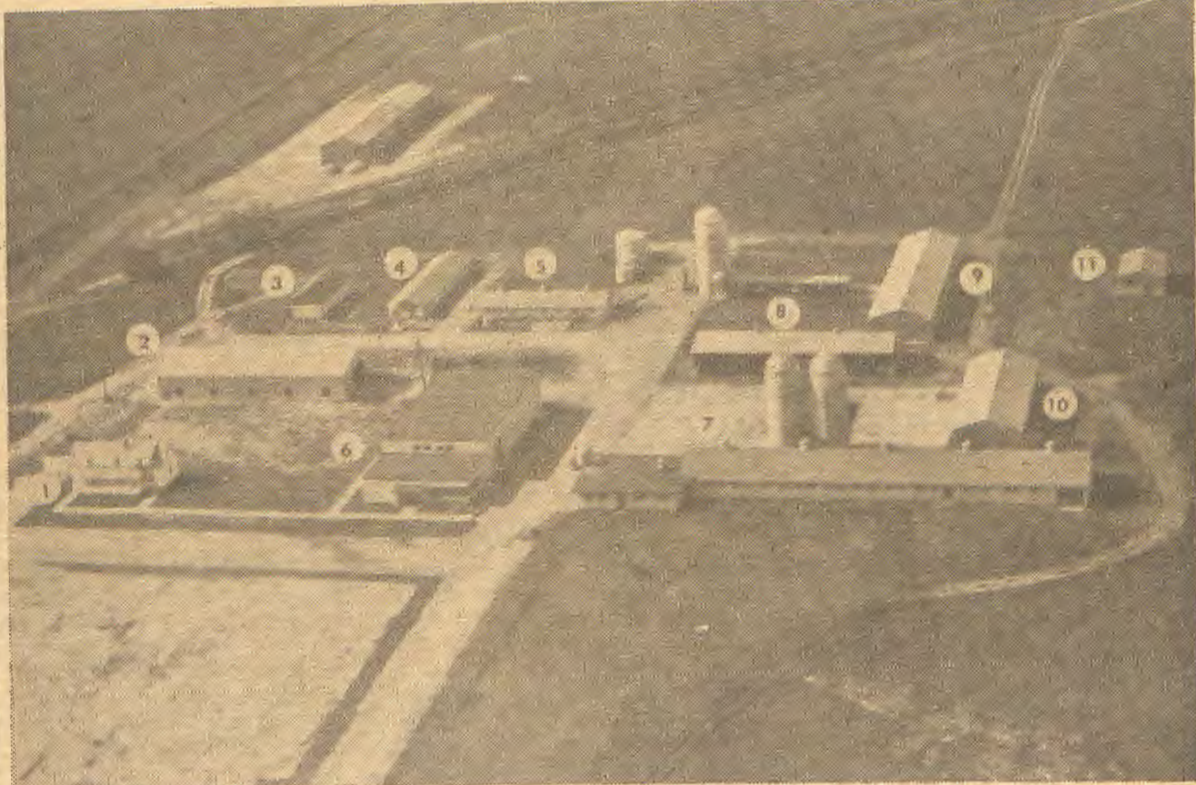

Dr. L. G. Stone, dean of education and director of placements, said of the meeting that it is extremely important that all liberal arts seniors attend, since it will deal with their professional plans following graduation.

All attending this meeting will receive registration forms, along with complete filling instructions. Each senior will also be presented a copy of the 1961 College Placement Annual which, Dr. Stone said, contains worthwhile information on employment possibilities in the United States.

Liberal arts students who are planning to enter the military service, graduate school, or other work should still attend this meeting, it was stressed, since their file will be held on an inactive status until the necessary information needed is obtained.

Students who wish further information should either contact Dr. Stone or Jim Durning, Ron Skone, or Neil Tollander, co-chairmen of the student placement committee.

Any students enrolled in education who wish to attend this meeting are welcome, Dr. Stone added.

Dedicated at ceremonies Saturday, Oct. 29, will be a new $240,000 Laboratory and Demonstration Farm at the College. Wiring on the farm was installed through a grant of $15,000 from the Wisconsin Electric Cooperatives which will use it as a model where interested farm groups may see ideal electrical installations. The buildings are: (1) manager's residence, (2) machine shed and farm shop, (3) brooder house, (4) poultry house (5) swine barn, (6) pavilion, (7) stall barn and milking room, (8) loose-housing dairy cattle barn, (9) beef, non-milking dairy stock and bull barn, (10) hay storage building, and (11) sheep barn. Seen in the background is the hanger of the River Falls airport. (Voice Photo by Harmann)

Theatre Group Gets Ready For 'Look Homeward, Angel'

"Look Homeward, Angel," a three-act comedy-drama, will be presented in the Little Theatre on November 2, 3 and 4. The production will be under the direction of Dr. Blanche Davis, head of the speech and drama department, with technical work and scene construction being supervised by Dr. Richard Borchardt, a new member of the drama faculty.

"Look Homeward, Angel", originally a novel by Thomas Wolfe, was adapted for the stage by Ketti Frings in 1956. It won the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Critics Award in 1958 after a successful stand on Broadway in the season of 1957-58.

Thomas Clayton Wolfe was born in North Carolina in 1900, and was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1920. His great ambition was to become a playwright, and the University dramatic society encouraged him by producing his one-act play, "The Return of Buck Gavin."

He earned his M. A. degree from Harvard in 1922, and then accepted a position teaching English in the Washington Square College of New York University. He taught there intermittently until 1930, during which time he wrote his first novel.

"Look Homeward, Angel" is a sprawling, autobiographical book, recreated from Thomas Wolfe's life through the period of his graduation from college. He described his family with extraordinary detail, giving them the fictitious surname of Gant. As a group, they emerged as a people of considerable violence, especially the mother, Eliza Gant.

Wolfe died in 1938 after publication of "Of Time and the River" (1935) followed by "From Death to Morning" (1935) and "The Story of a Novel" (1936). Several of his works were published posthumously, including "The Hills Beyond" (1941).

Schaezner, agricultural engineer for the Rural Electrification Administration, and Forrest McCue, chairman of the state public relations committee of the Wisconsin Electric Cooperatives, will make addresses at the ceremonies.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served after the dedication ceremonies, followed by tours of the Farm.

During the Saturday morning session of the conference, A. C. Heine, supervisor of the Rosemount Experiment Station at the University of Minnesota will talk on dairy cattle housing; Carl Nietzsche, assistant director of the farm division of the National Safety Council, will speak on farm safety; and a panel of staff members of the School of Agriculture of River Falls State College will discuss the College Laboratory Farm.

Friday has been set aside as Wisconsin Resources Development Day. Speakers and their topics are Earl M. Hildebrand of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture "New Horizons in Agriculture"; David Carley, director of the Wisconsin Department of Resource Development, "Wisconsin Faces a Critical Decade"; Sherman W. Weiss, northern area development section of the Wisconsin Department of Resource Development, "The Resources of Northern Wisconsin"; and G. F. The Editor Speaks . . .

Although an editorial column is perhaps not the place to bare one's soul we'd like to use it to make a confession. When we used the story of the Student Foundation Committee's adoption of a project for the purchase of a bronze falcon for the R. A. Karges Physical Education and Recreation Center in The Student Voice last week, we had some doubt about the wisdom of the undertaking.

After all, the sum involved in its purchase is a sizeable one. But during the week we've had a little time to think about it, to ask questions, and to see the "mock-up" of the sculpture in the entrance of the Student Center. As a result, we've come to the conclusion that the Foundation Committee is to be applauded for its ambitious undertaking.

While it's true that $4,500 is not peanuts, we've convinced that this is a good investment. Most objects costing comparable amounts have, in ten years' time, lost much of their value. This is not true of a work of art. Rather than depreciating, it often increases in value. In this case, the reputation of the sculptor, John Rood, would indicate that the monetary value of the work might certainly become even greater as years go by. Mr. Rood has gained recognition throughout the world. He has been commissioned to do sculptures for various public buildings and his work has been widely exhibited.

In our investigation, we found that because of the actual cost of materials to be used in the falcon and the length of time it will take to fashion it, the artist probably will get a lower rate of pay per hour than the men who laid the bricks for the wall.

It's impossible to reproduce the effect of a sculptured form in a photograph and the engraving used in the newspaper could not capture the real feeling of the work. Although the mock-up now on display in the Center more nearly approximates what the finished work will resemble, it is, of course, not the detailed design. Much of the small detail is absent and the impact of size is missing. The sculpture will be approximately 20 feet in diameter.

We're now of the opinion that this project will give the present student body a real opportunity to make a lasting contribution. Mr. Rood's design seems to capture the feeling of momentum and motion which, we believe, is a mark of this college.

His work, displayed on a college building, will attract visitors from considerable distances. As a by-product, we'll have the pleasure of watching a famous artist at work right on the campus.

Eight hundred and seventy-one degrees and diplomas were awarded by the nine Wisconsin State Colleges at the termination of the 1960 summer session.

As is generally the case at summer commencements, women outnumbered men with 559 awards to 312.

Most of the degrees were awarded to persons who completed work in the field of education. Bachelor of Education degrees went to 145 persons, while 573 earned Bachelor of Science degrees in fields of education. Master of Science in education degrees were bestowed upon 108 persons, and 16 individuals—all women—were given two or three year diplomas in rural education.

Seventy-eight persons—62 men and 16 women—earned either Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degrees in the field of liberal arts. This program was started within the State College system in 1951 and its enrollment has grown steadily. Last fall, one out every four students on the campuses was pursuing work in this area.

Most of the degrees in education went to persons specializing in elementary education, where a pronounced teacher shortage exists. Three hundred and seventy-six persons received Bachelor of Science degrees in elementary education, while 118 earned Bachelor of Education degrees in this field.

Wisconsin State College at Eau Claire granted 11 two-year diplomas and 59 bachelor's degrees; La Crosse, 75 bachelor's degrees and 8 master's; Oshkosh 121 bachelor's degrees; Platteville, 130 bachelor's degrees; River Falls, 68 bachelor's degrees; Stevens Point 119 bachelor's degrees; Superior, five rural diplomas, 54 bachelor's degrees and 40 master's degrees; Stout, 18 bachelor's and 60 master's; Whitewater, 103 bachelor's degrees.

River Falls Grid Squad Set to Invade Point

by Curt Thurston

This Thursday the River Falls grid team travels to Stevens Point to close out their conference schedule.

Coach Duaine Counsell's team will be seeking revenge for last year's 13-7 defeat at the hands of the Falcons. The Pointers finished fifth in the conference last season with three wins, three losses and a tie.

Counsell has 12 returning lettermen on this year's squad which has won two and dropped three games in conference play so far this season.

In their season opener against Eau Claire the Pointers defeated the Blugolds 13-6. Halfback Mike Liebenstein scored the first TD for the Pointers.

The Pointers defeated Lakeland, a member of the Badger-Gopher conference, 19-0 as Liebenstein scored two touchdowns and quarterback Bill Kuse sneaked across for the third.

The big line of the Whitewater Warhawks outmaneuvered Point and went on to win 39-28. Dick Newton and Liebenstein each scored touchdowns in the first half. In the second half Kuse and halfback Jack Bush combined for 65 yards and the latter for 75 yards. A week later they dropped a 13-7 decision to Oshkosh.

A week ago Liebenstein scored three touchdowns on runs of 3, 8 and 12 yards, and Kuse and Bush combined on two aerial completions for 8 and 63 yards as Point routed Milwaukee 45-7.

In last year's game the Falcons dumped Stevens Point 13-7 in their conference opener. River Falls scored late in the second period when Larry Julien recovered a fumble on the 50. Jim Hallen completed four straight passes and the scoring drive was capped when he hit John Lauber in the end zone.

The Pointers only score of the evening came when Bill Kuse lofted a pass to Jack Bush, who dashed 38 yards for the TD midway through the third period. Dick Ryskowski added the extra point kick.

The Falcons clinched the game with a 68 yard scoring drive in the fourth quarter. Hallen hit Mick Lauber for 13 and 30 yard pass completions before Mick plunged across from the one for the score.

Two years ago Stevens Point finished second with a 5-0-1 record. That was the year the Falcons took the championship, but played Stevens Point in a non-conference game and lost 12-2.

Fired-up Falcons Humiliate Stout 13-6, Quench Bluedevils Championship Hopes

by Warren Rogers

The fired-up River Falls Falcons scoring in the opening minutes of Saturday's homecoming game at Menomonie, quenched Stout's championship hopes and dampened the fall activities with a 13-6 win.

Playing a major role in Saturday's first conference win was Coach Polsfoot's rejuvenated defensive unit which was responsible for the back-breaking opening tally and twice stopped the Bluedevils' running attack within the 15 yard line. They also picked up two loose balls and one aerial.

The Falcons, unable to break through one of the best lines in the conference (less than 50 yards rushing), relied on the dependable arm of Bobby Dawson to keep the Devils guessing. Leading the "hero squad" were end Duane Tollefson and freshman linebacker Gary Burke.

River Falls fans first saw the indication of inspired football on the sixth play from scrimmage when Tollefson smothered Bill Stark's attempted punt. Alert Ed Vick picked up the loose ball and scampered 20 yards for the stripped end zone. Mick Lauber's placement attempt was wide, and the Falcons had a 6-0 lead with only 2:21 gone in the initial period.

After the kickoff Stout's powerful running outfit punched for a first down on their own 46. Willie Hester moved it to the mid-stripe where on the next play Duane Jensen stopped the drive with a recovered fumble on the RF 41.

The next time the Bluedevils gained possession they again suffered anxieties and Hester's loose ball was gathered in by Larry Julien.

An Al Peckham-Glen Harke pass combination, good for 40 yards and a first down on the RF 35, instilled some life in the hopeful Stout eleven. It was short lived, however, as after Stout's H-boys had pounded the Falcon line for a first down on the 12, the drive ended on the four with an incomplete pass.

The "Red and White" clincher came midway through the third quarter as Dawson found Jensen in the open three times for a total of 87 yards. The final combination was good for 20 yards and the touchdown. Lauber's conversion this time was good and the Falcons had their sweetest victory of the season.

Stout gave the hometown fans a chance to blow their noise makers early in the final period as Starks found Fred Seggelink alone in the end zone for a 16 yard scoring play.

The loss spoiled Stout's unblemished record and dropped them to second place in the conference with a 4-1 record. The Falcons now stand 1-3-1 in the conference and have a 2-4-1 record overall.

TYPICAL of the roughhouse treatment that River Falls gave Stout is this scene from fourth quarter action. An unidentified Stout player is swarmed under by a host of Falcon tackles. Participating in the melee were Pete Hubin (37) Gary Burke (26) Duane Jensen (foreground) John Lauber (47) John Rassbach (42) and an unidentified Falcon making the initial stop. As the last strains of "Happy Homecoming to You" and "The Old Red Goblet" faded in the distance, the Falcons' loyal "Raunchy Staunchy" trooped homeward after watching David slay Goliath in the biggest upset of the season Saturday at Nelson Field in Menomonie.

The last-place Falcons spoiled the unbeaten Bluedevils' hopes for a conference championship and ruined things for hundreds of returning alumni besides. Victory was never so sweet because victory never looked so distant at the game's outset.

River Falls has suffered one crippling injury after another this season and Saturday's game found two players starting who had been third and fourth stringers when the campaign began. The pair, end Dennie Louks and guard Mike Wiskerchen, both played outstanding games. Others that performed exceptionally well were end Duane Tollefson and tackle John Lynch.

A free-for-all erupted in the final period as tempers flashed in the intensely fought struggle. Players and fans from both sides streamed onto the field and it was several minutes before the officials could restore order and escort quarterback Bobby Dawson off the field. But the departure of the gutty little signal-caller only further inspired the River Falls defensive crew and the hard-charging line smothered play after play as the hapless Bluedevil backs ran out of steam. As 'Devil quarterback Bill Starks commented after the game, "It was the hardest I've been hit all year."

Now Coach Fran Polsfoot's squad sets itself for Thursday night's game at Stevens Point and the "Raunchy Staunchy" have promised to back the boys to the hilt. Over 100 faithful followers have signed up for three chartered busses that will leave for the 190-mile trip Thursday noon.

Reliable sources tell us that Point authorities scheduled the game for Thursday night so that enough students would show up to watch. Everyone goes home there on the weekends. They'll get an eyeful when the "Raunchy Staunchy" blow in.

Our crystal ball was really cracked last week but we're back with some daring selections again.

State Colleges Start Intercollegiate Bowling

Seven state colleges including Marquette have indicated that they are interested in starting an intercollegiate bowling program this year on a mail basis. The teams will bowl on their own alleys and then send the scores to the LaCrosse State College, to be tallied against an opposing team which is scheduled in advance. At the end of the season, the team with the most wins will receive a trophy and will host a face to face match with the top four teams participating. The trophy is a traveling one, meaning the winners next year would get the same trophy for a year.

There will be a scratch league consisting of teams being made up of five men with substitutes. The first week's action starts November 13.

Anyone interested in trying out for the team, that is not a member of some intramural team should contact Mr. Bergsrud or Ron Zirbel as soon as possible. Ron may be reached by calling HA 5-5669.

A meeting of all students considering trying out will be held later this week. Watch for time and place in the Daily Supplement.

Undefeated Lumber Pilers Are Intramural Champs

This year's intramural football champions are the Lumber Pilers, who finished the season undefeated. The Lumber Pilers replace last year's champions, the Stool Bums, who finished this season with a 3-5 mark.

One of the biggest reasons for decline of the Stool Bums this year was the absence of their ace quarterback, Hank Lauber. In last year's action, Lauber's rifle-like arm was a decisive factor in the Bums winning the championship.

The Suburbanites finished in second place with seven consecutive wins. Their only loss came at the hands of the Lumber Pilers in the opening game of the season. Intramural director Ben Bergsrud announced that a total of 121

Drama Dept. Set for Production of 'Angel'

Stage Adaption of Novel Becomes Broadway Success

Ketti Frings' stage adaptation of Thomas Wolfe's "Look Homeward, Angel" was the first American play of distinction to reach Broadway during the 1957 season. It was Thomas Wolfe's earliest novel, as well as Mrs. Frings' first success under the world's brightest theatre spotlight.

"Look Homeward, Angel" was a smash hit. In 1958 it won the New York Critics Award and the Pulitzer Prize.

The December 26, 1957 issue of the Reporter said of the play after it became a Broadway hit:

"The miracle of 'Look Homeward, Angel' is that Ketti Frings has been able to translate Thomas Wolfe into theatre, for no writer was ever less amenable to the disciplines of time and space. But she has brought it off with little loss of Wolfe, and on the contrary, a distinct gain in clarity through the cutting of wordy underbrush. The terrible Gants, the frowzy boarders, the white marble angel, the fearful rages, the agonized boy Eugene, that monstrosity of a boarding house, Dixieland, and the poetic stonecutting year of the Father Gant—a graveyard, indeed of aspirations—all are there."

On December 9, 1957, Newsweek made the following remarks about the production:

"Mrs. Frings, better known as a screen writer of fifteen years of experience in Hollywood, has solved the problem of telescoping Wolfe's infinity of words into theatrical focus by taking for her material only a small segment of the book, in which the 17-year-old Eugene Gant recollects his mother's gingerbread Victorian boarding house, the death of his beloved brother, the bravura of his mountebank father, who carved tombstones for pleasure, the possessive love of a mother who really loved property more, and his own first love for an older woman of 23. The best play of the season."

The Saturday Review of Literature, on November 23, 1957, evaluated "Look Homeward Angel" as follows:

"Mrs. Frings feels that some of the author's intention is revealed in the book's subtitle, 'A Story of the Buried Life.' The stonecutter's Angel represents the lost beauty in Gant's life, and in the play Mrs. Frings intimates that it also stands for Grover, who died as a child. However, the Angel has a special significance to writers. To Wolfe himself it must have symbolized the frustration that came when the written word fell short of the author's intention.

"Mrs. Frings has had great success in the tough mill of Hollywood, and is perhaps best remembered for her screenplay of 'Come Back, Little Sheba.' It may be that her self-knowledge and practical sense, coupled with her sympathy with but lack of awe for Thomas Wolfe, are the ingredients that Wolfe himself needed for the theatre that he never conquered."

It has been said that "Look Homeward, Angel" has some of the "qualities of a Brueghel painting: the strong pulse of life, so real yet so often on the edge of caricature, the interlocking movements, the presence of demons, the saturnalian spirit, and composing, it, the implacable pattern which is, in Wolfe's case, his tragic destiny."

Danforth Foundation Invites Applications For Assistantships

The Danforth Foundation, an educational foundation located in St. Louis, Missouri, invites applications for the tenth class (1961) of Danforth Graduate Fellows from college senior men and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1961, for their first year of graduate study. The Foundation welcomes applicants from the areas of Natural and Biological Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

President E. H. Kleinpell has named B. J. Rozehnal, Dean of Students, as the Liaison Officer to nominate to the Danforth Foundation two or not to exceed three candidates for these 1961 fellowships. These appointments are fundamentally "a relationship of encouragement" throughout the years of graduate study, carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as there may be need. The maximum annual grant for single Fellows is $1500 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students; for married Fellows, $2000 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students with an additional stipend of $500 for each child. Students with or without financial need are invited to apply.

A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry other scholarship appointments such as Rhodes, Fulbright, Woodrow Wilson, Marshall, etc., concurrently with his Danforth Fellowship, and applicants for these appointments are cordially invited to apply at the same time for a Danforth Fellowship. If a man receives the Danforth Appointment together with the Rhodes Scholarship, Fulbright Scholarship, or Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, he becomes a Danforth Fellow without stipend, until these other relationships are completed.

The qualifications of the candidates as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are: men of outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, and integrity and character, including serious inquiry within the Christian tradition.

All applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by January 15, 1961. Any student wishing further information should get in touch with Dr. Rozehnal.
