

Faculty Attends Conference Meet on Education of Teachers

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Dakota Colleges Were Represented

President J. H. Ames and Professors Russell Johnston, E. J. Prucha, J. I. Malott, O. M. Hanna, and Justin Williams were among those who attended the annual meeting of the Conference on Education of Teachers in the lounge room of the Minnesota Union, Friday, January 25.

Six Wisconsin teachers colleges, together with teachers and liberal arts colleges in Minnesota, Iowa, and the Dakotas, were represented at this meeting sponsored by the college of education of the University of Minnesota.

The morning session, under the direction of Professors August C. Krey and Edgar B. Wesley of the department of history and the college of education, consisted of a discussion of the problem, "Can and shall the teacher control, shall he anticipate, or shall he merely try to explain social trends through elementary, secondary and higher education respectively? What is the function of a teacher in a changing order?"

At the noon luncheon meeting, Assistant Dean Harold Benjamin of the college of education talked on "The Education of Teachers in Chile."

The topic for the afternoon session was "What are the values and possibilities of apprentice teaching in teacher education? If the idea has merit, how can it be promoted?"

Agrifallians Hear Albert Howalt at Meeting Thursday

"Profit is an unearned increment" according to Mr. Albert Howalt of the Midland Cooperative Oil Association who spoke on the consumer's cooperative movement at the regular meeting of the Agrifallian Society Thursday evening, January 24.

Mr. Howalt, who is a former River Falls student, has had a great deal of experience in the cooperative field. He has spent some time studying cooperation in Denmark, whose leadership in the cooperative field is unchallenged. Three years of experience with a producer's cooperative convinced him that the problem of distribution would never be solved by the producer alone. He stated that the farmer's problem is one of consumption.

The consumer is more important than the producer according to Mr. Howalt. He emphasized the fact that a person is able to produce only during a part of his life, possibly a span of forty years or more. On the other hand, a person is a consumer during his entire life-time. He played our present capitalistic system which held "profits" as the ultimate goal and has caused our under-consumption.

During the business meeting, Alfred Nelson '35 was elected president of the society for the remainder of the year. Other officers elected were: Roy Eide, vice-president; Cecil Scribner, secretary; and Albert Berg, treasurer.

Wyman To Discuss TV A at History Club

Professor Walker D. Wyman will speak on the "Tennessee Valley Authority" before the History Club Thursday, January 31, at seven o'clock in the Men's Union.

Co-eds Appear as Kids at Girl's Party Saturday

Farrell, Panzenhagen, and Beard Are Committee Chairmen

River Falls co-eds will have an opportunity to "turn Time backward in his flight" next Saturday evening, February 2, at 7:30 o'clock, when a girls' "kid" party will be held in the South Hall gym. Every girl in college is invited and urged to appear in kid's clothes. One may come as either a little girl or a little boy or even as an infant. It is even rumored that the Dionne quintuplets will attend in person.

The following committees are planning to make the party a happy one for the kiddies:

Entertainment—Imelda Farrell, chairman, Eileen Mau, Dora Mae Hocking, Zona Gale Martin, Marian Williamson, Mae Nelson, Lauraine Isaacson.

Refreshments—Rachel Beard, chairman, Mary Helen Kay, Lucille Zahradka, Audrey Batty, Delores Dunbar, Irma Radtke.

Publicity—Dorothea Panzenhagen, chairman, Emma Lou Tubbs, Jayne O'Regan.

An admission charge of five cents will be made for each guest.

Although this is a new affair on the social calendar, if successful, it may become as much of an annual event as the boys' stag party.

Faculty Dinner Party to Honor President's Birthday

The first social event of the year for the members of the faculty will be in the form of a dinner party to be held in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday, Wednesday evening, January 30, at 6:15 o'clock.

The guests will be served in the cafeteria, after which the party will play bridge in the Social Room.

Marlowe Michelson is chairman of the committee on arrangements. A short program will be given and various athletic games will be played.

The guests are requested to wear old clothes and rubber-soled shoes. Each one is to appear with a large bowl and spoon for "Prof Jake's" traditional bean soup.

Falcon Debaters To Enter Luther College Tourney

Two River Falls teams will be entered in a debate tournament which is to be held at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, on Saturday, February 2.

The Falcon debaters who will participate in the tournament are: Daniel Dykstra, Philip Chase, Roman Zorn, and Rolf Ordal. Both teams will debate on both the affirmative and negative sides of the munitions question.

Coach Wyman and the two teams will leave River Falls on Friday morning.

On Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the Falcon teams will have a dual debate with the Winona State Teachers College at Winona, Minnesota.

Clyde Dopkins, a student of River Falls in 1912 and a local resident, miraculously escaped death when his car was struck by a train near Hersey. Mr. Dopkins was thrown clear of the wreck, which probably saved his life.

Eighty-three Per Cent of Students Share in Extra Curricular Work

Honor Society Party Will Be Thursday

The Honor Society will hold a party Thursday evening, January 31, at 8 o'clock.

Junior-Frosh Party Will Be Friday Evening

New Members of Faculty To Be Guests; St. Paul Orchestra Plays

The junior and freshman classes will hold a dancing party in the South Hall gymnasium at 8:30 o'clock Friday evening, February 1.

New entertainment will be presented at the party. The frolicers will dance to the music of Johnnie Green and his orchestra of St. Paul. A floor show will be given by a group of students. Punch will be served.

The party will be chaperoned by Dr. Justin Williams and Miss L. Lucille Haddow.

Each freshman and junior may invite a partner.

There will be an admission charge of 15 cents for every junior and 15 cents for every freshman who has not paid his dues. However, the 15 cents paid by a freshman will be applied on his dues.

The general committee for the party consists of Anna Mae Halls, Everal Sherburne, Le Roy Brown, and Eleanor Ohman. The punch committee consists of Zona Gale Martin, chairman, Mildred Chelgren, Eddie Cass and Robert Devereaux.

Party for Honor Society To Be Held Thursday

The Honor Society will hold an informal party for the members in the South Hall social room beginning at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, January 31.

A committee consisting of Peter Vig, Carol Hovde, Rolf Ordal, Doris Shella, Ophelia White, and Alfred Nelson has prepared a program of varied entertainment consisting of games, stunts, and cards.

Class Representation Is Uniform; 299 in Two Or More Activities

Eighty-three per cent of all students enrolled in the River Falls State Teachers College during the year 1933-1934 participated in extra-curricular activities according to a survey just completed by President J. H. Ames.

The survey shows that 469 of the enrollment of 565 students participated in some activity and belonged to some organization or club. Only 96, or 17 per cent of the students, did not belong to any organization and failed to take part in any activity so far as the records revealed.

Among the four classes, participation was found to be fairly uniform. 81 per cent of the freshmen, 86 per cent of the sophomores, 83 per cent of the juniors, and 83 per cent of the seniors took part in some activity.

The number of students participating in only one activity was 170; while 299, or 53 per cent of the whole student body, participated in two or more activities.

A grouping of the activities into major fields shows some interesting results. The Y.W. and Y.M. Christian Associations show the greatest number of participants with 46.5 per cent of the total number of participants. Sports and athletics came next with 39 per cent; while publications ranked last with nine per cent.

A tabulation showing the number of participants in each activity and the per cent of the total number of participants showed the following results:

Y.M. and Y.W. ....	219	46.5%
Sports and athletics ..	184	39
Professional clubs ...	117	25
Musical organizations ..	112	24

Y.W.-Y.M. Groups Attend Conference In Minneapolis

Miss Marie Klugow, president of the Y.W.C.A. and member of the Minnesota and northern Wisconsin Area committee, Miss Helen Kotts, representative of the area on the inter-area committee of the Y. W., Mr. Harley Borgen, president of the Y. M., and Prof. J. P. Jacobsen, adviser of the Y. M. attended a meeting of the Lake Independence Planning Committee at the University Y.M.C.A. in Minneapolis last Saturday, January 26.

The planning committee is made up of three girls and three boys from the area and the secretaries of both the Y.W. and Y.M.

The date for the annual Spring conference at Lake Independence in Minnesota is set for May 5 and 6. The objectives and themes for the conference were discussed.

Further plans for the conference were put into the hands of the representatives who are located in the Twin Cities.

"It Might Have Been Worse"

Has anyone noticed an atmosphere of nervousness around school lately? Or has anyone seen strange persons who could scare a perfectly sensible man into doing strange things? Oh has anyone noticed anything at all which might upset our honorable school doctor to the extent that he might not notice where he was going?

Of any of these things, the nervous theory seems the most probable. However, even if a man has a nervous disposition, which isn't the case this time, there must be some reason for such excessive tendencies. Dr.

Davee couldn't have drunk too much black coffee, because we all know that a doctor knows better than that. A bad dream couldn't have made him that nervous either. He might accidentally have eaten something that didn't agree with him, but even that doesn't seem to be enough to put him in a state in which he would run into the college milk sled. He couldn't have a grudge against the milk, either. Don't all doctors tell us to drink at least a quart a day?

The fact remains, however, that on one certain night, January 23 to be exact, he did run into the milk sled, and milk was spilled. One theory remains as to why he did, and we might term it the "nervous papa" theory. Somehow he must have been still under the influence of the news that he was the proud parent of a new son. In his excitement, he probably went out and accidentally tipped the milk wagon a bit. All that remains for us to do is to congratulate him because he didn't tip it more. A more excitable person might have completely ruined it, but Dr. Davee can still proclaim, "It might have been worse."

Students Will Gain Advantages

The question is often asked: "Would our college really be benefited by membership in the North Central Association?"

Yes, the benefits of membership are two-fold. In the first place, most prominent high schools belong to the association. These schools will not hire teachers from colleges who are not members.

In the second place, it is difficult, if not impossible, for out-of-the-state teachers to secure licenses in such states as Michigan, North Dakota, and Montana unless these teachers are graduates of a college belonging to the North Central Association. Our membership would also make it easier for Smith-Hughes graduates to secure positions outside of the state.

Looking at the question from this standpoint, the student may easily see that it is to his advantage personally to cooperate with the faculty in keeping River Falls State Teachers college up to the standards set for association members.

Leaders in Thought Needed Today

The peace poll now being conducted by the Literary Digest and the Association of College Editors, is something that deserves the attention of every intelligent student. 325,000 students in 100 colleges are being asked questions such as "Do you believe the U. S. could stay out of another great war? If the borders of the U. S. were invaded, would you bear arms in defense of your country? Would you bear arms for the U. S. in the invasion of the borders of another country? Do you advocate government control of armaments and munition industries?"

Every student who does not consider college merely a place to keep warm ought to give a little thought to these questions. If, as is supposed to be the case, college students are to hold a position of leadership in the community, they ought to form the habit of acquiring pertinent information, and forming logical conclusions based on facts.

Your answer to a question like "Do you believe the U. S. could stay out of the next war?" will be determined by such factors as your knowledge of the reasons for the U. S. entering the last war, of the 8 per cent of the people who want war, the economic causes of war, and the effect on the individual and on society of an attempt at race suicide such as took place in 1914-1918.

Since authorities seem to agree that the battle front of the next war (if there is one) will be the entire extent of the countries at war, it is advisable to think about the proposition.

Those interested will find weekly reports of the poll in the Literary Digest.

Adherence to World Court Seen

Adherence of the U. S. to the World Court is up again for ratification by the U. S. Senate. For over a decade it has been hanging fire. It faces a stiff fight on the floor this week. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has reported favorably on it and the President by special message has urged its ratification. It has the support of many of the important groups of public opinion in the country such as the state legislatures, 1,357 daily newspapers, the American Federation of Labor, the American Bar Association, and the National Education Association.

The controversy pro and con rests on the contention of a few senators that the sovereignty and perfect freedom of action of the United States would be impaired if it had to deliver an advisory opinion in some political dispute before the League of Nations. The assumption seems to be that the U. S. cannot cooperate with other nations without endangering its security and exposing itself to victimization.

In view of the fact that practically all members of the World Court have agreed that the United States has the right of automatic withdrawal from the Court if the League insists on an advisory opinion, there seems really no argument left for the "antis". This provision sounds like an absolute safe-guard.

At any rate the function of giving advisory opinions is an insignificant part of the World Court's work. Its real purpose is the settling of international legal disputes.

President Roosevelt made it clear in a special message that world peace hangs in the balance; that senate consent (which is necessary for official ratification of the protocol) should be given so that we may throw the entire weight of this country's influence upon the scale in favor of peace.

A Challenge to Student Thought

The petition which appeared on the bulletin board in South Hall recently, requesting that the library be kept open three nights a week, seems quite unreasonable and unnecessary. Furthermore it demonstrates that petition signers are often more congenial than they are sincere.

In response to what seemed a rather popular request, the administration and the librarians kindly consented to keep the library open on Monday nights. The idea seemed to be worthwhile for a large number of students availed themselves of the privilege to study on the first evening. But, immediately after this privilege had been granted a petition appeared demanding that the library be kept open three nights a week.

The arguments presented by the leaders of this movement do not appear to be very substantial. Reason number one seemed to be the fact that some of the students are unfortunately located in rooming houses with a dozen or thirteen colleagues which makes home study nearly impossible. Then, too, the cold weather often left cold radiators in a few of the rooming houses.

The objections to the proposed plan and the arguments of the petitioners are quite worthy of consideration. In the first place no books can be drawn at four o'clock if they are to be available for the evening. This would handicap many students who drive from home every day. If the ruling were made that the regular reserve books could instead be drawn out at four o'clock there would be no need of keeping the library open. Certainly our famous four o'clock lines are proof enough that the over-night books are the ones most commonly used.

It would then resolve itself into a sort of "emergency housing" measure. The cost of operating a battery of 300 watt lights three nights a week is not a small item. It is doubtful whether the reference work done with bound volumes and periodicals would warrant this.

The fact that some students have no other satisfactory place to study is pathetic but quite unnecessary. The deans have not been making a practice of recommending rooms where there were so many students that they couldn't study. Besides most people need to study more than three nights a week. There are enough rooms for rent in this city so that anyone who pays his room-rent regularly doesn't have to contend with cold radiators all winter.

The sad thing about it all is the fact that students abuse the privilege of petitioning by signing things that have little or no value to them. College students should be leaders in thought—not followers of any new fad. Unless we are willing to consider our decisions carefully and then back them with our actions we shall abuse one of democracy's greatest privileges—the right to petition.

Three Arts

When an actor comes up to a mere scribe with the intimidating utterance: "Now see here, oaf (we must preserve our classicism), we've only had a week in which to rehearse this play", your scribe is not only flattered, but prepared to hear and see a sketchy performance. We experienced the first reaction, but were rather agreeably disappointed in the latter.

After we had listened to the brogue of "The Ragged Man" for a few moments, we leaned back in our seat with relief, sighing "thank the muses! it isn't going to be overdone." Nor was it. If anything, it was a little underdone, "The Ragged Man" having some difficulty in sustaining the illusion. This fault, which we are tempted to applaud in comparison with its opposite, can be easily condoned in the light of the available rehearsal time.

We believe, too, that the emotional conflict on the part of both of the principals might have been more effectively developed. This should be smoothly, cumulatively done, as is the chain of physical events. The climactic moment will then come naturally and easily, without the forced, unreal quality of an emotional outburst that is obscurely motivated.

Policemen X and B were appropriately wooden. To have been anything else would have been to detract from the play.

Though we have mentioned what we consider to be salient faults, we found much to be commended. "The Ragged Man" captured much of Irish whimsy and poesy, besides showing a certain grace in movement on the stage. The Sergeant was convincingly bluff, and his disclosures of fear were done in a manner that showed his keen appreciation of the humor of the play. We should like to see both of these actors again, under circumstances more favorable to them.

We hesitate at an exact classification of "Overtures". Satire or caricature? Both, probably, and rather skilfully blended. As literature, it is inferior to "The Rising of the Moon" but, if we may paraphrase Dr. Owens this symbolism of the inner self, though not new, is always effective. Certainly it is shrewd comment on the stupidity of some of the social "amenities".

The Misses Chelgren and Ohman glibly chit-chatted, and the undertones, Miss Farrell and Miss Larson, vehemently interpreted and advised. Indeed, in one or two instances, this vehemence approached hysteria. On the whole, however, the play was well done. If the two "visible" ladies were a little colorless, it is not wholly their fault but that of their roles as foils to the undertones. The latter were probably more effective because of their anonymity, for their black, hooded state allowed one to concentrate on voices and meanings.

In spite of one or two faltering moments, we think the "pick-ups" here were good. However effective this device, one can readily see where it would become jerky and disconnected unless everyone was alert.

ing every day for the new semester. It is expected that the enrollment will be nearer 700 than 600 by next spring.

World Affairs

Last week Japan attacked the Chinese border province of Chahar. Possession of this strip of border land is desired by Japan to serve as a buffer state against Outer Mongolia, where Soviet Russia's influence is increasing rapidly.

Benito Mussolini began his spring housecleaning early with the discharge of six cabinet officials. The reason is that there were other Fascists whom Mussolini wanted to reward with seats in the cabinet.

Democracy seems to be gaining ground in the Balkans. Prince Paul, regent of Yugoslavia, has adopted the policy of attempting to hold together the Serbs, Croats, and Slavenes by reason rather than by force. The muzzle was removed from the press during the week.

Great Britain is working hard to undermine the increasing power of Japan in the Orient. 25,000 Englishmen have been placed in the Malay peninsula to put pressure on the French and Siamese to prevent the building of a strategic canal which the Japanese have planned.

What Type of Assembly Program Do You Prefer?

I like talks about travel and experiences of foreign people such as those given by Mr. Douglas and Mr. Nayphi.

Marie Rivard

For assembly programs I prefer those of a musical or dramatic nature.

Mildred Chelgren

I like an assembly program that is interesting as well as educational. I would enjoy seeing more programs by college organizations and less lecturing on heavy subjects which are of little interest.

Vaughn Smith

Since our college advocates the general application of music, why shouldn't we be favored with this type of program?

George Mullen

I have no adverse criticism to offer on the type of assembly programs that have been offered this year. But in addition, I should like to see some good magicians or a "slap-stick" comedian entertain us. An hour of relaxation and entertainment is quite desirable, although high class programs should be encouraged at all times.

Falcons Down Jamestown in Close Tilt Here

Visitors Lead 14 to 20 at Half, Herkal and Kulas Lead in Scoring

River Falls staged a spectacular second half rally to defeat Jamestown, North Dakota, college by a score of 44 to 40 here last Monday night, January 28.

Herkal, who led his team in offense with 13 points, started the scoring with a free throw. Blank sank a basket to put River Falls in the scoring. A barrage of field goals put the Jimmies in a substantial lead, Hall accounting for 10 points during the first half. Herkal kept River Falls within striking distance by sinking a basket and six free throws. The half ended 14 to 20 in favor of Jamestown.

The visitors chalked up nine field goals against the Falcons' three during the first half, while the Falcons made eight of their nine free shots count.

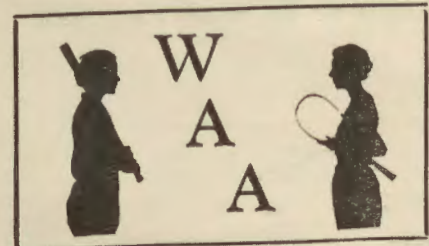

Herkal opened the Falcon attack in the second half with two field goals. Kulas broke through his guard for a basket to tie the score at 20. Lampson added two free throws. Blank sank a long shot from the middle of the floor to give the Falcons ten points before Jamestown countered with a free throw. River Falls, led by Kulas and Herkal, held the lead during most of the remainder of the game. Kulas sank four field goals and two free throws to lead the second period scoring.

Herkal was leading scorer with four field goals and eight free shots, missing only one chance from the free throw line. Kulas of River Falls and Hall, Jamestown center, each garnered 13 points with five field goals and three charity shots.

The game was officiated by Getchell of St. Paul, who is also a Big Ten official.

Four members of the W.A.A. with Miss Charlotte Flint, adviser, have been invited to attend the River Falls high school play day, which is to be held at the high school February 9.

The members who were chosen to attend are: Mildred Pederson, Elizabeth Hilyar, Helen Case, and Elizabeth Bonney. Skating and basketball will be the two most important events of the day.

Only one game of the basketball tournament has been played. That game was fast and close; it ended in a tie at 12 all.

Intra-Mural Schedule Opened Last Thursday

The college intra-mural basketball teams opened their annual schedule last Thursday night, January 24, with two games in the North Hall gym.

Bergner's cagers defeated Paul Anderson's team by a score of 18 to 15. Dean Johnson and his squad came out ahead in the fast overtime game with Bill Dougherty's quintet, winning by a score of 10 to 9.

A preliminary game will be played before the River Falls-Superior game next Monday night, February 4, between the sophomores and freshmen. This will be the first preliminary game of the season.

FLADAGER and Zimmerman had the boys in the dark up at Hamline. They had the old groove well greased up there and they knew where it was. Thirty-two points between them is a large evenings work in any ball game.

LOSING "Nooky" against Jamestown may be pretty costly. That trick knee can carry one man O. K. but when somebody wants a pick-a-back, it refuses. Everybody sure hopes it'll be carrying "Nooky" again in a few days.

COHN and company of Mac seem to be going to town in the Minnesota conference. With four wins it looks pretty fair for Mac to give Hamline a co-title holder. Too bad they don't meet this year. That would be a game to see.

OUR own boxing team is all set to meet their first opponents. Although we hope they come through without colors on them, Bill Dougherty and I are all set to put in some work on Woody and Eddie Lyons. Oh, Mr. Woodward, do boxers get punch drunk from one or two fights?

NOW we're glad nobody took those suggestions about the rope on the flagpole seriously because it's doing some good. Joe Jackelen uses it as a weather vane. It would be better if it had a luminous "sock" on it. That would make it easy "landing" for these campus high-fliers.

ST. THOMAS, with Ben Bilski scoring 17 points, made Superior step to beat them 35 to 31. Bilski, ineligible during the first semester, will make the Tommy outfit a corker to beat. Avis and Haugen (as usual) scored most of Superior's points. They had 28 between them.

Falcons Lose to Hamline on Piper's Court

Fladager, Zimmerman and Herkal Are High Scorers

In a wide open scoring contest the Hamline University basketball team downed the River Falls cagers 52 to 40 to make it 29 straight wins for Hamline on its home floor.

Paced by Fladager, Hamline started with a scoring spurt to lead 29 to 14 at the half. River Falls, mainly through accurate shooting by Walt Herkal and Don Anderson's defensive play, was kept in the running and made it a close match.

Near the end of the second half the Falcons scored freely on the Hamline second team which was on the floor during the last five minutes of play. Throughout the game a simple block play which worked at an advantage in Hamline's diminutive gym baffled the River Falls defense.

Fladager, guard, caged 17 points to become the high-scorer of the game. He was closely followed by Zimmerman with 14, Herkal with 13, and Blank who made 10 points.

Campus Chatter

One member of the cast for the Masquer's plays was left out of the list in last week's Student Voice. Newell Younggren was the cymbal crasher in the first play.

Last Saturday must have been pay day for the professors. Every prof in school was down at the bank cashing his check and their wives were already checking out the money. Motto—never teach a woman to write.

I didn't have any idea there were so many Lutherans in school—not until the Lutheran church gave that free supper last Sunday.

The politicians are worried because out of sixty million electors only forty-seven million vote. We aren't bothered that way here. Last year a sophomore class of ninety cast a vote of one hundred and twenty.

Zornmen Defeat Stout Cagers 33-22

Eau Claire scored its first victory over a conference opponent by defeating Stout Institute 33 to 22 at Menomonie last Friday night. Stout has been unable to chalk up a victory in her three conference tilts.

The Superior Yellowjackets wrestled a 35 to 31 decision from the St. Thomas cagers in a non-conference battle at Superior Monday night. Art Avs, stellar Yellowjacket guard, accounted for 16 of his team's 35 points. This game marked the fifth straight victory for Superior over a Minnesota conference team.

The conference standings may receive a shake-up when the smoke clears away from the games scheduled for this week-end. Eau Claire will be invaded by the La Crosse Maroons Friday night while the River Falls-Superior battle has been postponed until Monday night, Feb. 4.

River Falls To Meet Superior Next Monday

Fourth Conference Game for Falcons, Second for Yellowjackets

Basketball fans are assured of a battle royal when the fast-traveling Superior Yellowjackets invade the Falcon court with the Northern Conference lead at stake next Monday night, February 4.

River Falls with three victories and no defeats and Superior, who has won her only conference tilt, are tied for the lead in the conference race. This will undoubtedly be the hardest home game of the season for the Falcons.

Superior will present one of the tallest basketball teams ever seen on the local floor. Art Avis, whose height is five foot ten, is the shortest of the regulars. Among the giants from the north appear Ole Haugen, six foot five, Ned McGrath, six foot four, Pete Schultz, six foot three, Ace Mathews, six foot one, and Capt. Jack Barkell, six foot one.

The Yellowjackets, who were conference champions last year, have already taken La Crosse into camp by a 33 to 20 score in their first conference game. They were also able to hold the University of Minnesota to a 33 to 22 score.

Standing room will be at a premium when the opening tip-off comes in North Hall gym next Monday evening.

W. J. Breckenridge Speaks on Wild Life In Northern Canada

Mr. W. J. Breckenridge of the natural history museum at the University of Minnesota lectured on the experiences of a party of scientists, headed by Dr. Robert Greene of the University of Minnesota, in the Hudson Bay region, in the auditorium last Thursday night.

Motion pictures and slides were shown to illustrate the study made by the party. Special emphasis of the research were made on the investigation of the disease of grouse and rabbits which has a destructive cycle appearing every eight or ten years.

The party secured the ticks from the bodies of the grouse and rodents and sent them back to the laboratories for a complete analysis. Out of the 30 or 45 specimens which were examined two cases were definitely isolated as the common tularemia of this section of the country. This fact established the prevalence of the disease throughout many areas.

The college orchestra and the Kinnickinnic chorus opened the program with several musical selections.

Presidents of Teachers Colleges Guests Here

The River Falls State Teachers College had as its guests Thursday, January 24, the presidents from all of the state teachers colleges except Platteville.

Matters of business were transacted and an inspection of the school was made.

They were served a luncheon at the college cafeteria. Regent J. H. Grimm of River Falls was also present at the luncheon.

YMCA Activities

A committee consisting of Y. M. and Y.W.C.A. members has outlined a program for the February series of joint discussion groups.

Members of the planning committee are Le Roy Brown, Joan Smith, Harry Guinn, Helen Kotts, Marie Klugow, and Harley Borgen.

The theme of this series is "Let Us Be Intelligent", and the discussion groups will be divided as follows:

1. In Our Thinking—Harley Borgen, chairman, Joan Smith, secretary
2. In Our Pastimes—Marie Klugow, chairman, Donald May and Eleanor Ohman, secretaries
3. In Our Social Activities—Helen Kotts, chairman, Thorvald Thoreson, secretary
4. In Our Campus Life—Vaughn Smith, chairman, Nell Frels, secretary

Details of the program will appear in the next issue of the Voice with adult leadership indicated.

At the joint meeting of the Y.M. and Y.W. in the auditorium last Monday night, members of both organizations presented the play "I Pledge Allegiance" by Siss Wefer.

Members of the cast were as follows:

- Richard Baker ---- LeRoy Brown
- Lucy Baker ---- Betty Cutsforth
- Richard Baker, Jr. -- Wm. Kulstad
- Gus ---- Roland Hunsader

Richard Baker, Jr. has been suspended from college on account of his refusal to take military training. His father, being an ex-service man, will not tolerate this refusal and will not furnish him with funds to change schools. His mother, however, is in direct sympathy with the boy. When he persists in his refusal to return to school and give up his pacifist ideas, his father tells him to leave home and not return. As the play closes, the father is still unforgiving, even though he feels badly about his estrangement from his son.

Maurice Shepard Has Magazine Article Accepted

Maurice Shepard, a sophomore from River Falls, won recognition recently as an amateur photographer when one of his scenic snapshots was accepted by the Hunting and Fishing magazine for publication in the current issue.

The picture, named "The Will To Live", shows a stunted tree overhanging Lost Lake, stubbornly persisting to grow from a seemingly impossible location.

Mr. Shepard took the picture while on a pleasure trip to the lake. Later, thinking it might be of interest to others, he wrote a short article about it and sent it to the magazine.

All-School Dance Has Good Attendance

Approximately 70 couple danced to the music of Arnie Kuss' band at the all-school dance sponsored by the student social committee in South Hall gym, Friday evening, January 25.

Arrangements made to have the cafeteria open proved to be very popular, as a large number of the guests were served refreshments during the intermission. Dancing continued until one o'clock.

Chaperons for the evening were Miss Vera Moss and Miss Rita Sammon of the training school.

The enthusiasm and spirit of the crowd marked this as one of the most successful dances of the school year.

Plays Presented to Students at Assembly

The Masquers upheld their reputation for putting on good plays in the presentation of two plays, "Overtones" and "Rising of the Moon" in the assembly hour, January 24.

"Overtones" by Alice Gerstenberg was unusual in that it portrayed the "undertones" or true thoughts and feelings of two modern young women having tea. Although there was little direct action in the play itself, the interest of the audience was held tense by the emotional undercurrent thus shown.
