STOUT RINGERS CHECKED

The basket-ball fans were greatly disappointed at the failure to secure the special train for the Stout game and feared that in such a gymnasium the Normal team needed all the assistance the rooters could give them to win. When the news that River Falls had won by the score of 23 to 9 came over the wire, the fans were heard to say, "They didn't need us to beat Stout."

Members of the team have expressed their gratitude for the fine treatment received by them while at Menomonie. We are glad to have a real friendly feeling return to the two schools' relationship.

The first half opened with fast playing, neither team having any advantage. Niles, left forward, scored the first field basket for Stout. River Falls scored three points on free-throws. At the end of nine minutes of play the teams were tied 3 to 3. At this point Chinnock was left free a fraction of a second too long and River Falls was credited with a field basket. Stout failed to gain any points except by the free-throw route during the half, while Gurnoe and Ziebell made three baskets for the Falls. The half ended with the score 13 to 5.

Stout began the second half by scoring on MacDonald's field basket, but were unable to maintain a pace equal to that set by the Red and White. Olson went out on personals. Coach Miller began sending in substitutes in hopes of affecting a score combination but to no avail. MacDonald annexed but one more field goal. Stout failed to make a free throw during this period. The defensive game played by Field, Chinnock and Clafin kept the Stout team from getting near enough to score except on long shots. Gurnoe and Ziebell scoring four field baskets and each added one point by free throws. Bergman was sent in to replace Zie-

TO PLAY ST. MARY'S

Friday evening St. Mary's will meet the River Falls' basket ball team at Winona. Each year these teams have met and the victories have been with our boys. This year St. Mary's has a very strong team having defeated Macalster after their victory over Minnesota University.

NORTHERN TRIANGLE

DEBATORS GET SET

Undoubtedly, it would be well to announce at this early date the Inter-Normal debate meets which will be held on Friday evening, March 2. River Falls, Superior and Eau Claire make up the Northern triangle; thus our Negative team meets Eau Claire there, and River Falls clashes with the Superior Negative at home. On the same evening the other six Normal schools, composing two triangles, will meet. Those winning in these debates will be eligible to compete for State Championship honors. It will be remembered that last year's debating work brought credit and honor to our school. In the finals, Milwaukee and Stevens Point were defeated, leaving State honors to the local winners.

The question for debate this year concerns a very timely topic which is now pending before the Wisconsin Legislature. It is stated as follows: Resolved, that an unemployment insurance law embodying the essentials features of the Huber bill should be passed by the Wisconsin Legislature of 1923.

The debaters who shall represent River Falls are:

Negative

1. Phillip Mitchell
2. Allan MacAndrews
3. Ed Casey

1st Alternate, Dorothy McNamara

Affirmative

1. Winfred Bird
2. Ronald Baker
3. Rex Liebenberg

1st Alternate, Margaret Bailey

Mr. Davison gave a very interesting character analysis of Abraham Lincoln at the Methodist church last Sunday evening.

Take Big Lead on Eau Claire Here

River Falls climbed up one more notch toward winning the championship by handing Eau Claire a knockout of 27 to 14. The visitors fought to the last minute, but were never in the lead after the first few minutes of play.

Eau Claire began the scoring on a free throw, Clafin fouling Carroll missed the second try. Not until after the fourth minute of play did River Falls locate the basket. Clafin was first to cage the ball, Ziebell and Chinnock adding three more, putting the Red and White ahead. A field goal by Schipper brought the score 4 to 8, Carroll made a pretty shot from the side of floor bringing the score up to 6. Ziebell missed one free throw and caged a second. Eau Claire failed to locate the basket the remainder of the period, Chinnock and Gurnoe broke up the plays right on the start, while Clafin and Fields kept Brown and Gunderson out of the scoring. The half ended with River Falls leading 13 to 8.

Second Half

Eau Claire got the tip off but worked the ball to Gurnoe. The Falls worked the ball under the basket, where Fields lost it out of bounds.

Eau Claire began stalling in hope of drawing out the Red and White defense. This failed in its purpose and helped keep the downstate team to only one field basket during the final period. Carroll scored frequently by the free throw route. He was responsible for six of Eau Claire's points. Gurnoe scored first for River Falls and with Ziebell piled up two more a few minutes later. Horan was substituted for Brown, Muenchow for Gunderson, and Bergman for Chinnock.

Eau Claire began shooting whenever they managed to get the ball, but failed to connect with scores.

ALUMNI OUT FOR SENIOR CLASS MEMBERSHIP

Larger Program Being Planned For Next Year.

"The class of '23 is blest with a wonderful opportunity to make a still greater reputation for themselves and for the school by joining the Alumni Association," said a representative of that graduate body at a meeting Monday evening of fifteen of the active leaders of '23.

When you leave this school you naturally wish to have some way of connecting yourself with the institution and of keeping in touch with your Alma Mater. You want to come back to reunite with your classmates and your teachers. To you the school does not represent merely a clutter of brick, stone and mortar, but it brings you recollections of friends, of teachers and of associates.

There is no organization that can sponsor your wishes and your desires at this school better than an organized alumni body.

That group, acting through its elected officers, is here to advance the interests of the hundreds of alumni everywhere. It aims to keep you in touch with the doings at the school and to represent you on all important matters that come up. It works with school officials in putting on a reunion and a Homecoming for you when you most desire to get back to meet old-timers.

The program for the present year is very comprehensive, far greater than that of any former campaign. It includes a campaign for membership as well as for reunion delegates. But whether this campaign should go on to bigger proportions depends largely upon graduates of '23. An early bid is being made to the present class in order that the alumni association may plan its work for the coming June meeting. A class vote will be taken sometime during the next month at which time officers of the association will ask that a 100 per cent membership endorsement be given the Alumni Association.

CAMPUS OPINION

Can you suggest a means by which the faculty and students can become better acquainted?

Esther Oakes—"Our faculty members do a great deal for us, but there is a fear that many of the students will leave this institution realizing that they know very few of its teachers. If both parties really want to get acquainted; it can be done. Something going on certain Saturday afternoons works out successfully in some places. Why not in River Falls?"

Neil Martin—"I don't think there ever was a time when students and teachers were on a more democratic footing, or understood each other so well. There is enough contact between the two in our River Falls system to warrant a very close acquaintanceship. I see no need for any change whatever."

Richard Smith—"Why not follow the method of Mr. Jacobson? By giving parties to his classes in Science, he becomes better acquainted with his students. The teachers could give parties to their classes bringing into it some phase of their class work. If Mr. Whitenack gave a party to his French classes the students could talk in French part of the time. This idea could be carried out very easily in the History classes."

Mr. Davison—"I do not know how sincere and how general the desire for better acquaintance than classroom association brings. If there is such a desire in both students and faculty it will make a way. I believe that it is worth encouraging. For the sake of brevity may I merely enumerate a few of the ways in which it may be encouraged?"

1. The school needs a common meeting place for faculty and students—a place provided with reasonably inviting furniture, including a piano, table, chairs, a divan or two, etc. to which people may go for a leisure moment or a leisure hour, not to dance, or talk more loudly than anybody else, but to mingle with other people on a common ground.

2. Student organizations should be more generally visited by faculty members, and the more earnest organizations should be sincerely boosted and encouraged.

3. Every student should be a member of some live student organization, some literary society, or debating club, instead of using up all of his membership privileges in other types of organizations.

4. Both students and faculty can become better acquainted by sincerely coming out of their respective clam-shells and being considerate of each other in all of the little ways that after all mean much. There are doubtless times in the lives of all of us when we do not want to see anybody. Such times should be respected. But outside of such times of welcome solitude there should be opportunity for students to go to faculty members with any question upon which they seek more light. I think some members of the faculty fear that to open their doors to students in this way would mean that some students would ride the privilege to death and eat up oceans of very valuable time over matters that are silly and unimportant. I wonder about that.

5. At dancing parties and other entertainments there should be more exchanging of dances between faculty and students. For obvious reasons the men and women of the faculty can hardly make the first move toward cutting the ice."
