Suspension Period Cut to One-Third Senate Drops Penalty From 90 to 30 Days

Clubs suspended from campus organization status will now be officially inactive only 30 days instead of 90 days, the Student Senate decided last Monday.

Sen. Harvey Stower made the motion that Senate reduce the 90-day suspension period for Student Advisory Council (SAC) members failing to have a representative at SAC meetings.

Stower suggested a 30-day suspension period.

Some Senators questioned whether the suggested suspension period is long enough. Tom Schaffer suggested that it be changed to half of the quarter.

Stower said there had been "a unanimous vote for 30 days" by SAC and that the Senate "would not be heeding the voice of the organizations affected by this" if it failed to pass the motion.

The motion passed, opposed only by Schaffer.

Stower also made a motion that the Chess Club, Delta Iota Chi, and the SHZmarkers have their suspension reduced to 30 days, retroactive to the beginning of the suspension. This motion also carried.

Canterbury Club and the Legislative Action Committee were then suspended for 30 days for failure to have a representative at the last SAC meeting.

Senate Pres. Gene Smith announced that the Social Committee had changed its constitution to underwrite up to only two-thirds of the expenses of social events. Smith said this will "encourage organizations to work a little harder."

An amendment to the Greek

Letter Council Constitution was approved by the Senate. The amendment allows a non-voting alternate to take the place of a regular GLC member when the regular member is absent.

The Senate announced that Bob Machacek has resigned as president of GLC.

Tom Socha and David Bunch presented the budget for Winter Carnival and were allotted $950 by the Senate. Major items on the budget are $400 for two buses and $150 for a ski holiday, plus $95 for the rental of two buses for transporting students to a ski resort. If the faculty refuses permission to have the ski holiday on Thursday, it will be held on Saturday.

Only seven Senate members were present when the constitution of the Vegetable Club was considered. After a motion was made to table the constitution until the next Senate meeting, Pres. Smith stepped down, asking Sen. Hampton Wilmot to preside. Smith then argued against the club and voted for tabling the constitution. Wilmot decided the three to four vote by voting in favor of tabling.

Jay Perry and Edward Pleus, representatives of Northland Parachutists of Minneapolis, showed a film to senators about parachuting entitled "The Sport of the Space Age." They discussed with the Senate the possibility of beginning a jump school at the River Falls airport. Perry said that River Falls is a good location for such a school because of its proximity to the Twin Cities and because of WSU-RF. The cost for the jump school, if established, would be $40 per person. The charge could be paid in installments.

Sen. Wilmot reported delay in the Student Center Governing Board on the rider board, mailboxes, and lockers for commuters. They are considering a barber shop for the Student Center, and buying a camera for $175 and renting it to students for $1 a day.

Senate Pays Informal Visit To 'U' President

"The evening with the Kleinpells," said Senate pres. Gene Smith, "represented a fine opportunity to get together on a social level and get to know each other better."

The Senate visited the house of Dr. Eugene H. Kleinpell and his wife, Dorothy, after last Monday's regular meeting. Senators Hampton Wilmot and Ken Lee were unable to attend, although Vickie Wiesner again substituted for Lee, who was playing basketball.

Sen. Tom Schaffer pointed out that this method of informal contact between faculty and the administration was one of the ways which was suggested at United Council for improving faculty-student relationships. Several senators expressed the wish that such informal contacts can be continued in the future.

Sen. Harvey Stower said that he had purchased one of the cookbooks that the Faculty Women's Club is selling called "Falcon Favorites" from Mrs. Kleinpell. Stower was not the only senator to feel that the President's wife was well-qualified to recommend a cookbook as Smith said, "Can that Mrs. Kleinpell make great German chocolate cake?"

Student Senate Refuses to Allow Limit To Number of Fraternities, Sororities

The Student Senate refused to give their approval to an amendment of the Greek Letter Council's constitution, at last Monday's meeting. The amendment, if passed, would have limited the number of fraternities to six and sororities to four until the enrollment of the school reached 4,000.

Bob Machacek, former president of the GLC, and Laverne Cook appeared before the Senate in defense of the amendment.

"We think we have enough Greeks on this campus," said Cook. He emphasized that they wanted to "work for quality, and not quantity of the Greek groups" and explained that this would build a basis to expand from. He also stated that in the future, they would try and restrict membership in the individual Greek groups which do not presently have restrictions.

Sen. Hamp Wilmot said, "I don't think that the number of fraternities should be cut off at the existing number." Cook responded saying, "we think that six is enough."

Wilmot also pointed out that the number of sororities per woman students compared to the number of fraternities to men students, was out of proportion.

Sen. John Bruce questioned whether GLC was trying to "kill peoples interest." He said that through more competition, there would be more quality.

Defending the amendment, Sen.

Tom Schaffer said that the Senate should abide by the wishes of the GLC, because they, more than anyone, know what would be beneficial to the Greek organizations.

"A campus divided against itself, cannot stand," said Sen. Harvey Stower, attacking the amendment. "This would alienate the students against themselves!" He also asked why they had to restrict the number of groups when in the past, "there have not been a great number of fraternities or sororities formed."

Senators Doug Best, Sandy Danielson, and Tom Schaffer voted in favor of the amendment.

Prologue Copy Due Jan. 30

The deadline for the Winter Prologue, the campus literary magazine, is Jan. 30, according to Cherry Gray, editor. Miss Gray said the Prologue will accept poetry, short stories, or drawings which are produced by students.

AWS Starts Movement to Name Its Off-Campus Representative

The first step toward the election of a woman to represent commuting and off-campus women on the AWS Executive Board was taken last Wednesday when the board decided to set up a nominating committee to pick candidates for that post.

According to Kathy Linden, board president, the committee is to consist of the nine women students who attended a previous meeting to discuss the board's proposed action to place off-campus and commuting women on hours.

Miss Linden also said that it was "too bad that the results of our poll were inconclusive," but as of meeting time only "about 20" marked ballots had been found.

The board reversed an earlier decision to reinstate Jan Benson as president when she returns from practice teaching at the end of winter quarter. It asked Mary Loeber to sit on the board immediately as an alternate and to assume duties as president as soon as the rule in the constitution concerning succession can be clarified.

In other action the board granted free 12 o'clocks to enable freshman women to attend an open dance this Thursday evening.

The Executive Board also discussed closing their meeting to male students since they are not a "governing body in the same sense as the Senate and therefore may close the meeting at any time without giving anyone a reason for doing so."

DEMONSTRATING THE MIMEOGRAPH MACHINE, on which students at WSU-RF may have mimeographing done at cost, is Terry Chapin, a freshman from River Falls.

Mimeos at Cost

The Student Senate has announced that it has purchased ditto and mimeograph equipment that will be available for use by student organizations.

The Senate announcement said that any group wanting work done should fill out a form in the Student Government office, indicating type of duplicating desired, number of copies and date wanted. If a finished copy and the form are left in the Government office, the secretary will type the stencil and run off the copies.

The charge for this work is as follows:

Ditto stencils - .05 per stencil.
Ditto paper - 1.25 per ream (proportionally less for fewer copies)

Mimeograph stencils - .10 per stencil.

Mimeograph paper - 1.50 per ream (proportionally less for fewer copies).

The report requested that at least one week be allowed for completion.

Pictures and printed materials may also be reproduced on mimeograph copies but the cost is an additional $2.50 for each Electro-Stencil and three weeks should be allowed for completion.

RF Receives NSF Grants

Wisconsin State University-River Falls has received a grant of $41,520 from the National Science Foundation for a summer institute in genetics and ecology.

Designed for high school agriculture-science teachers who have attended a previous institute, this summer's courses are the last of a three-year program of sequential institutes.

The summer institute consists of two four-week sessions. The first session begins June 14 and ends July 9. The second session lasts from July 12 to Aug. 6. Each participant will receive a maximum stipend of $75 a week and may earn four semester hours of university credit.

First consideration will be given to persons who have attended an institute in one of the other areas and who wants to spend this summer studying the principles and applied aspects of genetics and ecology.

Study Group Suggests More Responsibility For Non-Residents

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (I.P.)--The study committee on housing at Western Michigan University has recommended that off campus students should be responsible for their own housing and for their own behavior.

As the university continues to grow, the committee's report states, it will become increasingly difficult for it to concern itself with off campus housing and the behavior of off campus students. The report recommends that senior women with permission of parents and women over 21 should be permitted to live off campus.

These students should then be responsible for their own housing and be subject to all civil rules and regulations governing other members of the non-university community.

'Politics and the Press' Is Theme Of Grassroots Politics Conference

"Politics and the Press" will be the theme of the 8th annual Grassroots Politics Conference which will be held on the University campus during February.

According to Dr. Robert L. Berg, professor of political science and chairman of the conference, prominent representatives of the nation's press, of Wisconsin daily and weekly newspapers and of national and state politics are being invited.

Further details of the conference will be released as they become definite.

The conference has in the past provided a forum for such controversial figures as Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society. Last year, the event, sponsored jointly by the University's Social Science Department and the Wisconsin Center for Education in Politics, examined the civil rights situation during the two-day meeting.

Taking part in the meeting were Governor-elect Warren P. Knowles; J. Louis Hanson, state Democratic party chairman; Assemblyman Thomas H. Barland; G.

Aubrey Young, director of the Governor's Commission on Human Rights; Lloyd Barbee, president of the Wisconsin Branch of the NAACP; and Bertram N. McNamara, United Steelworkers official.

Tentative banquet plans call for talks by representatives of the two major political parties on the images of their parties projected by the press during the 1964 campaigns.

Four Profs Get Study Grants

Four institutional research grants totaling $1,723.72 have been approved by the University's Research and Studies Committee for faculty studies.

Sheldon R. Baker and DeWayne J. Kurpius were granted $590 for "A Study of Student Preceptions of University Environment."

Two grants, one for $185 and a second for $178.50 were approved for Wilbur Kalinke. The first is for "A Study of the Effect of a Combined Multi-Sensory Approach to the Development of Communication Skills in Junior High School Students Who Have Communications Difficulties." The second is for a study of "The Role of the Laboratory School as Perceived by Different Groups of People."

Donald Brod was granted $520 for a study of "Images of Wisconsin State University - River Falls."

William G. Larsen and Elizabeth J. Allen were granted $250.-22 for "A Speech Survey of the Public School Population in the Ellsworth, Wisconsin, School District."

Criteria used in the selection of institutional research proposals include adequacy of plan and work-ability of design, qualifications of researcher, assurance of completion and value of end product.

German Club Opens Christmas Season

The German Club began its Christmas activities by participating in the German Christmas Program at Macalester College on Sunday, Dec. 6. The River Falls club contributed two poems, a comic sketch and a German Christmas song.

Dr. Ernest Jurgens headed the group which included Jerry McDonald, Rose Schmidt, Carol Waulker, Mike Webb and Roger Schaller.

Other schools in the program besides River Falls and Macalester were St. Catherines College and two St. Paul high schools, Murray and Central.

400 Visitors See University

An estimated 400 persons from River Falls and the surrounding area were conducted on guided tours of WSU-RF during the open house held here Sunday, Dec. 6.

The open house, a project of the Public Relations committee, attracted an "encouraging turnout," according to Donald Brod, committee chairman.

Brod said "...shows the interest of the townspeople and area residents in the growth and development of the university."

Nearly 300 persons attended their choice of three programs Sunday afternoon including a faculty music recital, readings by students of the speech and theatre department, and swimming demonstrations in Karges Center pool by the Synchopaters. Visitors were treated to a coffee hour in the student center later in the afternoon, where they talked with members of the WSU-RF staff.

The guided tours, which started at 1 p.m. and continued throughout the afternoon, also featured demonstrations by students and faculty of projects and facilities in the various university departments. Visitors saw demonstrations in the art lab, the radiation lab, the use of closed circuit television in the campus laboratory school and viewed a demonstration of recording facilities in the language lab.

Agriculture and industrial arts buildings and the University laboratory Farm were also on the agenda of the Sunday afternoon tours.

Tour guides were members of campus fraternities and sororities, arranged through the university Greek Letter Council. Fraternities represented included Kappa Theta, Phi Nu Chi, Sigma Tau Epsilon and Sigma Rho. The following sororities also furnished guides: Kappa Delta Psi, Delta Iota Chi and Phi Delta Theta.

Jan. 31 to Feb. 6 Is 'Carnival' Week, Chairmen Announce

Slated for the week, Jan. 31 to Feb. 6 is an ice skating party along the South Fork, a boote-nanny, the king's ball, a style show, a talent show, a skiouting, and as grand finale a dinner and dance.

Annual beard contest and snow sculpture contests will be held.

Candidates entering the beard contest must be male students enrolled at WSU-RF. All candidates must be sponsored by a social organization on campus. Candidates may register at 5 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 17. Any organization may register a candidate in each category. Categories are: longest, heaviest, and most unusual.

Only snow, ice and paint may be used on snow sculptures. Sculptures must be self-supporting. A minimum height requirement of 10 feet must be met. Organizations may begin building sculptures Sunday, Jan. 31. Sculptures must be finished by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 3. They will be judged Thursday, Feb. 4 on size, originality and interpretation of Winter Carnival theme. Prizes will be allotted on a point system. First prize will consist of 60 points and wins $10. Second prize amounts to 30 points and has a $7 prize. Third prize of 20 points brings a $3 prize. Every organization will receive 10 points for entering the contest.

Candidates in the king contest must be presently enrolled, single male students at WSU-RF. They must be classified as juniors or seniors and must have an over-all grade average of 2.0 or better. Candidates must be approved by the Dean's Office. The approved candidate's name may be submitted to the Winter Carnival committee on Jan. 18 or 19. Campaigning will begin at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 27. A primary election will be held on Feb. 2. Final candidates will be presented to the student body at the Kick-Off Convocation Monday, Feb. 1.

Travelers Board Set

A new service, the "Riders-Driver's Board," has been set up for students and faculty who wish to find rides to cities in Wisconsin and surrounding states.

The Riders-Driver's board is planned to be set up on campus this week by the Student Center Governing Board, according to Bob Linaberry, chairman of the Board's Public Relations committee.

Consisting of a map of Wisconsin and surrounding states, the board is divided into numbered zones. Hooks are fastened to each side of the map with numbers corresponding to the zones of the map.

Persons wishing a ride are instructed to fill out one of the rider's cards available at the board. The prospective rider is to write his name, address, phone, destination and date and time he wishes to leave.

Persons driving cars and wishing to take along riders are to fill out a Driver's card with basically the same information as the Rider's card. The driver is also to include information concerning the highways he will be taking and the number of riders he can take with him.

The cards are then hung under their respective zone numbers on either side of the board.

No immediate information was available as to where on campus the board would be located.

Linaberry said that "students who can make use of the board are urged to do so as a benefit of the Governing Board's work."

Novice Debators Place Sixth At Whitewater Tournament

A River Falls novice debate team took sixth at the Whitewater Debate Tournament last Friday and Saturday. The team, which was composed of Lynn Spalding, sophomore from Hudson, Alice Grenetzke, freshman from Wauwatosa; Leon Susa, Senior from Independence, and Marguerite Knight, freshman from Durand, compiled an overall record of eight wins and four losses.

The affirmative team of Miss Spalding and Miss Grenetzke defeated Calvin College of Michigan, Manchester College of Indiana, WSU-Whitewater and Carroll College of Wisconsin. They were defeated by Carthage College and Northern Illinois University.

Susa and Miss Knight, debating the negative side of the question, defeated Stout, The State College of Iowa, WSU-Stevens Point and Eastern Illinois University. They were beaten by WSU-Oshkosh and the State University of Iowa.

Also receiving "excellent" ratings at the tournament, according to the team's director, John Oostendorp, were Tom Knutson, senior from La Crosse, and Mike Tillman, freshman from Prescott.

Knutson and Tillman compiled a record of two wins and four losses and a negative team composed of Marshall Simpson, freshman from Hudson, and Gerald Lindrew, freshman from Beloit, won one and lost five matches.

The next tournament will be for freshmen and sophomores only and will be held at Mankato, Minn. on Jan. 9.

Vegetable Salute Compared to German 'Heil Hitler'

To the editor,

And they have wondered way a man in pre-war Germany would have chosen to be a face among Hitler's ranks than to have stood alone as an "individual."

Thursday evening I was among the 200 River Falls students who cheered and sang to the glories of the Vegetable Club. On the surface the program gave all appearances of a novel effort to unite student spirit. Yet the factors motivating the show were too obvious to be ignored.

Is there that much difference between the Vegetable salute and the "Heil Hitler" salute of the Nazi soldier? Is there that much difference between the German resentment of governmental bureaucracy and the student resentment of administrative bureaucracy as manifested in the college food service, dorm living and "in-humane" disciplinary action? We say to ourselves, "Things aren't that bad, we're organized. We have power, rights and privileges. We're people too."

But are we? Or are we an immobile, confused and naive group of pseudo-intellectuals who have come to this obscure state university to vegetate off a faculty? The laughs are over but these questions remain.

Perhaps the Vegetable Club will eventually die for the very reason it is now a success--its novelty. But in the meantime Mr. Stower "Praise the Vegetable Club and pass the ammunition."

Prologue Editor Sees Disinterest

To the editor:

I am amazed. I failed to realize there were so many uninterested students at River Falls. For three years I believed that my fellow students were not only well informed, but also imaginative and creative. It seems I am wrong (of course, it's not the first time I have been wrong).

With one issue of the Prologue printed, and two more to come, I can see that my work has just begun. And there are many avenues I can take.

I am not interested in producing a poor magazine. I am not interested in the number of pages so that someone can say, "It feels thicker than last time."

With no other gripes, I am extremely pleased with Mr. Beck's introduction to the fall quarter issue, and I hope that everyone will take time to re-read his "A Teacher and the Prologue."

Cherry Gray, editor
Prologue

Reader Finds Contradiction In Introduction of Prologue

To the editor:

I would like to comment on the fall Prologue's introduction by Robert Beck of the English department.

I agree very much with his opening statements about teaching "not an elegant accomplishment, but the means of a conscious life" (quoted from a Professor Northrop Frye) and that "a literary education should lead not merely to the admiration of great literature, but to some possession of its power of utterance" (Robert Beck).

Then comes the contradiction. What Mr. Beck believes in the general, he fails to apply to the particular. He quotes a stanza of poetry from last spring's Prologue.

Time is but a precious stone
Held but for a short while
The inexperienced life chips away at it

Until nothing is left but dust. His criticisms include such phrases as "inexperienced life" not being able to cut a precious stone, one would get chips and not dust, and "this is damned hard on the hand holding the stone." Mr. Beck later uses the term "arrogance of mind. I suggest that in his "criticism" here he gives us a vivid example. He complains that this bit of poetry doesn't make literal sense, that the intangible substance life couldn't possibly chip a stone. In Mr. Beck's literature, he would use language which could be taken strictly literally, which would be a very good physics laboratory report or legal deed, but not great literature.

In his critique of another two stanzas from the same edition, Mr. Beck takes the author to task for writing, for the sake of rhyme it seems, "no one there save you and I", rather than the grammatically correct "save you and me." He describes this choice as the result of "stark egotism," a "kind of arrogance" and not "being creative."

But let's see what else Mr. Beck says. He speaks of "great literature" and its "power of utterance." "Power of utterance resides in the language of a mind which is...free." "A mind which does not make choices...is... a mind which is not free." Therefore, making choices is directly required for the writing of great literature. But we saw what happened to the author who made the choice to write "save you and I." What does this have the aspiring poet? "Authority." Perhaps Webster's; Mr. Beck doesn't tell us. Submit to authority; submit to strictly literal language, and be free to write. This is the sum of what he has told us.

And here is what he has forgotten. In the realm of man's consciousness there exist, besides those ideas pertinent to a laboratory report or deed, other ideas and conceptions which can be of a more complex and more subtle nature. There are also unexplainable things termed emotions or feelings, and strange sensations like hope and faith. And what about those abstracts we call beauty and right? A poet might be defined as a person who strives to express these concepts with words. Mr. Beck would throw literalism and impeccable grammar on his seemingly impossible undertaking. And don't forget that our own English with its eight parts of speech, four cases, and several tenses tends to regulate and channel our thinking. Ideas, feelings, hope and beauty are infinite in scope and form compared to the limited nature of language, and the poet needs all the freedom he can get in his attempt to fathom them.

Purpose Questioned

Early in the winter quarter a revised parents permission form was distributed to the parents of the residents of Hathorn Hall. A questionnaire, with the stated purpose of obtaining more specific knowledge about parents' preferences concerning restrictions on their daughters, was enclosed with the permission form.

We would be interested to learn what the Personnel Department plans to do with these questionnaires once they have been returned and tabulated. What was their purpose and what will be the result?

If, as one might assume, the questionnaires will be used as a guide for future regulations then it would certainly be more logical for any revised parents permission form to be distributed after consideration of the results of the questionnaires.

The present method of handling the questionnaires seems to imply that either the Personnel department plans to generally disregard them or they believe that they already know the outcome. If either situation is the case, then the questionnaires are without function.

Open Again

Tomorrow night, male students will once again make their annual pilgrimage to the hallowed halls of Hathorn Hall. Already men students are preparing for the journey as they attempt to get one of the sacred invitations.

During those two and a half hours of peaceful meditation, men may find themselves fortunate enough to receive the great spirit of the dormitory, Hester Hathorn for an audience. Hester, apparently one of the Goddesses of Hathorn Hall, will undoubtedly find time to visit with her favorites. She has already made preparations prior to their arrival in an attempt to keep the men's spirits high for the occasion.

It is too bad that those who will make the long journey to Eau Claire to cheer on the Falcon Basketball Team will be unable to visit Hester's domain. But this conclusion may be little premature, since as the past has revealed Hathorn has more than one "open house."

The Table and the Wall

The Senate's visit to the residence of President Kleinpell does not so much represent a milestone in student-faculty relationships as it does an indication of a relationship which has existed in the past.

The Senate is one of the few student governing bodies in the state which does not have a faculty member or adviser. Thus, it is only unofficial avenues which are open to the students who wish to communicate with the administration.

The availability of the University officers to students with problems or questions, is an excellent reason why students here have not felt the need to demonstrate as did their California counterparts. One round table of discussion is worth ten barricades of rebellion.

Vegetable Rally Held in North Hall

A rally held by the Vegetable Club, newest organization on campus, was held in North Hall Auditorium last Thursday night.

The purpose of the rally according to Harvey Stower, the group's leader, was to "launch the Vegetable Club, state its purposes and start the growth which has unlimited potential."

Stower also stated that the organization had more than 400 members as of Thursday evening although only about 250 attended the rally.

Stower, a junior from Amery, said that his group had gone ahead with its planned rally although the Senate had not given its official sanction to the organization. The Vegetable Club's constitution had been tabled at the last Senate meeting, but Stower said that he had wanted to have the rally before Friday's game and before Christmas so that the list of officers could be prepared over the holidays.

Stower explained the purposes of the organization, which is a subsidiary of The VOICE and

Meletzan, are to "foster growth in self and campus and an appreciation of WSU-RF."

VEGETABLE VEGETABLE was the chant that greeted the close of the "Vegebenediction" at the Vegetable Club rally last Thursday evening.

The assembly voted to protest Aca Foods for dicing vegetables because it was against the campus gambling rules and turned down a resolution which would have required all "good little vegetables to be in their plots by 10:30 p.m."

Wrestlers Crushed; Gymnastics Ready

By Chris Becker
VOICE Sports Writer

The gymnastics team will test its skills this year with two meets and a clinic. The Falcons will compete against Stout and Stevens Point and will be the guests of La-Crosse. The Indians demonstrate the techniques they have mastered in their ten years of competition.

The team introduced itself by presenting gymnastics exhibitions between halves of the basketball games last weekend. Performances on the side horse and parallel bars were matched with a one-man exhibition by Tom Bauman, whose antics proved it as hard as it looks.

Of the 17 men on the team, three have had considerable experience in high school. They are: Ken Zimmerman from North St. Paul and Tom Satterlund and Bill Driscoll, who won births in the state tournament while competing for New Richmond.

The Falcon wrestlers lost to Oshkosh 24-7. Although there were very many close matches, the only victorious Falcon was Junior Dave Amdahl, winning a pin in the 167 lb. class in 4:33. In the 177 lb class, sophomore Dave Wirtala fought to a draw with Jack Roller of Oshkosh.

Other men competing for River Falls in this first conference meet were: Sophomore Dave Stark, 123, freshman Dave Gugemos, 130; sophomore Bob Olson, 137; freshman, Tom Madison, 147; junior Fred Lindberg, 157; and freshman Heavyweight Butch Roberts.

The Falcon's next meet will be against Augsburg in a non-conference match on Wednesday at Augsburg.

I-M Basketball Underway

River Falls intramural basketball fans have their hearts' delight as the great players and plays start to unfold in a spectrum-like quality to promise a thrilling '64-65 season.

With big name clubs competing such as the Greasers, the Boobs, Gordy's Rats, The Herd, and the Intellectuals, maximum excitement will be afforded to each and every fan.

Eleven teams are undefeated after the first two weeks of play. The Runts, Snakes, Crabs and Argonauts are all 2-0 in the "R" League, with Hendley's Whiz Kids on the move at 2-1.

Ric's Rec, The Exports and The Hands are the undefeated teams in the "F" League. The early season features the Dotards, the quintet kings of the "U" League. But the upsurging Untouchables and Dribbling Ditands are creeping up with their recent one game hot streaks.

Thirty teams in the league will compete in nine game schedules throughout the year. Championship playoffs will be held in early February.

Fearless predictions see the Crabs as the power in the "R" League if some other teams don't beat them. Although in the "U" League, the Dotards are a fine moving ball club, look for the Untouchables to win occasionally. The "F" League features balanced teams with Exports and Ric's Recks looking like the teams to beat with Hustlers running close behind these two.

Play this Monday and Thursday in the "R" League, should see the Crabs over the Barn Burners, the Whiz Kids to upset the Runts, Hobarts over D.J. L., and the Snakes over the Apaches.

The "F" League this week, Sluggers over the Walvern Specials, the Hustlers over the Floor Burners, the Exports over the Boobs, and the Hands over the Intellectuals.

The "U" League should see the Spartans over The Herd, the Greasers over the Ho Dads, the Untouchables over the Dribbling Ditands, and Kappa Theta over the Red Devils.

Teams, times and dates of thrilling intramural play are listed on the bulletin board in Kar-ges basement.

Poolmen Historic Grape Champs Reach Milestone

River Falls swimmers reached a milestone in their brief history, Friday afternoon, by downing St. Olaf 55-37.

The meet marked the first home victory in the Karges pool. It also was the first time a River Falls swimming coach was thrown into the water. Athletic Director Ben Bergsrud, who is serving as interim coach for Russel Gerber, suffered the honor.

On Saturday, the Falcons were overpowered by Oshkosh State University, 68-27. The Titans also defeated both River Falls and St. Olaf on Friday. That meet was scored as a triple dual with two heats in nearly every event.

Friday's action saw freshman Mike Daniels break two team records. The Stillwater athlete clipped four seconds off the 200 yard individual medley record with a time of 2:30.1. Daniels also came home ahead of schedule in the 200 yard butterfly. But Daniels record of 2:51.1 lasted only until Saturday when he swam the distance in 2:44.1, a full 10 seconds under the original record. The win was the Falcons' sole first against Oshkosh Saturday.

On Friday Falcons secured their triumph over St. Olaf with five first and six seconds.

The intramural football season is officially over and a new champion has been decided, the Grape.

The Grape, the only team to finish with an unblemished record of 11-0, combined hard hitting in the line with a potent passing attack to finish in the number one spot.

The Grape climaxed the season with a 6-0 victory over the Ch's in the championship game. After the opening kickoff they marched up field on a series of short passes and runs by quarterback Mark Hosteland. Then the big one play came in the form of Hosteland to Bob Afdahl touchdown pass covering 20 yards. The extra point was no good and the Grape had all they needed for the victory.

After the opening touchdown the game see-sawed back and fourth with no team posing any real threat until late in the game when the Ch's were on the Grape 15 yard line via two pass interference calls against the Grape, but in the closing seconds the Ch's ran out of downs and the Grape had but a few seconds left on the clock which to stall out.

When a game such as this one is decided mainly on defense few offensive players stand out.

Pagemen Reverse Tide; Win Two Last Week

Coach Don Page's basketball team won two games and lost one in last weeks action.

After being dealt a knockout blow by Platteville, 99-76, Friday night the Falcons came up off the floor of Karges Center to hand highly favored Oshkosh a 78-75 loss Saturday night.

The third game was played last Monday at Hamline when the Falcons clipped the Pipers 77-59.

Led by 6-6 Gene Englund, former University of Wisconsin letterman, Oshkosh held a two to six point advantage throughout the first three quarters.

The Falcons, hampered by the early loss of Nate Schilling on fouls, stayed in the game by consistently catching the Titans on the short end of a three-on-two fast break, most of which were engineered by Ken Lee and Tom Snyder.

The Falcons finally took the lead late in the fourth quarter, threw the ball away enoughtimes to have Oshkosh tie it and go ahead by one point to have Paul Kramer give the Falcons back the lead with a pair of clutch free throws.

On Friday night Platteville got the first basket of the game and was never headed. They opened up a 16 point lead with the game only four minutes old and held a large advantage through most of the first half.

The Falcons came within two points early in the second half as they mustered a brief rally only to have the Pioneers pull away.

Except for brief moments in the first quarter the RF cagers led all the way in their win over Hamline. Nate Schilling and Paul Kramer paced the attack with 20 and 22 points respectively.

Women's Recreation Association (WRA) is beginning a season of basketball. All women are invited to sign up for a team in Karges Gym or Hathorn Hall.

Dorm Party Scheduled

The first annual "Snowflake Festival," labeled a pre-holiday "must" by coordinator Gerald Rosenau, will be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 16.

Rosenau, secretary of the Men's Inter-Residence Hall Council (MIRHC), said that highlights of the evening will include open houses in all men's dormitories, a free dance and gala "holiday decorations."

The event will begin at 7:00 p.m. when residents of May and Prucha halls will open their doors to guests. Stratton Hall will join in the open house at 7:30 p.m., following its annual holiday banquet. The open house, which will continue until 9:00 p.m., will feature judging of room and corridor decorations in all three dorms.

In conjunction with the Festival, there will be a free all-school dance in the Student Center Ballroom beginning at 8:30 p.m. Music will be furnished by the Mystics. Suits will be in order for men and party attire for women.

During intermission at the dance, officers of the dormitory judged "best decorated" will receive a traveling trophy donated by the MIRHC. The trophy will be held for one year by the winning dorm and will go up for grabs during next year's holiday season.
