Co-eds to Receive Special Training in Scout Work

Mrs. Alfred Jahre of St. Paul has been engaged to give training in girl scout leadership during the last week of February and the first week of March. Mrs. Jahre gave a course during summer school and is unusually well qualified. Over forty girls have signed up for the class.

Women students should not overlook this opportunity to receive the training necessary to carry on Girl Scout work in their teaching in the future. This work is one of the outstanding extra-curricular activities a teacher can take part in, it is said.

Editor Recovering From Appendicitis Operation

Albert "Mustard" Hannemann, is recovering rapidly from an appendicitis operation performed by Drs. Dawson and Davee last Thursday at 12:40 a. m. at the local hospital.

Herman E. Hannemann, Albert's father, spent the week-end with him here. He returned to his home at Edgar, Wisconsin, Monday morning.

He intends to leave the hospital some time this week.

College Orchestra Contributes to Benefit Concert Thursday Night

Arrangements have been completed for the charity concert to be given by the orchestra, band, and other college musical groups Thursday evening.

The advance sale of tickets indicates that a large crowd of students and townspeople expect to attend the program.

William Schliep, director of the groups, has spent weeks in preparation for this occasion.

"Ys" Discuss World Court Joint Session Considers Problems Relating to Geneva Conference

"The Case of the S. S. Lotus" was the play featured at the joint session of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. in the college auditorium Tuesday night.

This was the second of a series of joint sessions the two religious organizations have planned. The play was a dramatization of the world court.

The drama was given by a cast composed of members of both groups. It was directed by J. P. Jacobson, faculty adviser of the Y. M. C. A.

The Geneva conference made the joint meeting timely in significance as well as interest, "Y" leaders say.

Malott Tells of Student Progress at Meeting

James I. Malott of the department of education gave a report at the faculty meeting Tuesday on the progress students have made in four years of college as viewed by a committee of the Carnegie Foundation.

These reports were the facts accumulated by the Carnegie committee during their study of students in Pennsylvania colleges.

Plan Student Banquet During Next Month

A student banquet to be held during the latter part of this month is being planned by the Rev. Arthur Johnson of the Lutheran church.

Reverend Johnson is making inquiries in regards to the type of banquet the students would like. Those interested in making any suggestions should see him and discuss the possibilities of a student banquet, he says.

Miss Lusetta Biege spent the week-end in Chicago.

Vocal Numbers Will be Part of Assembly Program

Paul Strand, a sophomore from New Richmond and formerly a student at the University of Minnesota, will give two vocal selections at the opening of the assembly hour on Friday of this week.

Strand will be accompanied by Marion Olson, a sophomore co-ed also from New Richmond. The selections Strand will sing are: The Hunter's Loud Halloo, by Geoffrey O'Hara and The Tavern Song by Howard Fisher.

The Yale film will take up the remainder of the assembly hour. Classes have been shifted to the Thursday 9:50 period to make the Friday assembly possible.

Peace Authority to Lecture Here

T. Q. Harris of National Peace Commission Gives Talks on War Prevention

The assembly program for next week will be held on Tuesday at 9:50 instead of Thursday at that hour, it was announced by the committee on assemblies Tuesday night.

T. Q. Harris of the National Council for the Prevention of War is scheduled to appear before the students and faculty at that time.

Mr. Harris has his headquarters in New York and represents a group active in the furtherance of world peace. He will visit our college all day Tuesday and will address the joint session of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. in the evening.

Townpeople are invited to attend these two meetings. Because world peace is a timely topic and Mr. Harris is an authority on this subject, students and faculty look forward with interest to the lectures.

Historical Film Offered at Special Assembly

Peter Stuyvesant, a Yale Historical Film, will be presented to the student body at assembly Friday morning.

This picture is an authentic history of the events from 1653-64 through which Dutch New Amsterdam became English New York.

Life is the picturesque colony; the frivolity of the court of Charles II, king of England; the growing revolt of Stuyvesant's citizens against his autocratic administration; the arrival of the English fleet; Stuyvesant's determination to resist; and his ultimate surrender are some of the scenes depicted in this picture.

Prof. Dixon Ryan Fox of Columbia University wrote the script and supervised the production of this subject which is a notable example of perfection to the smallest detail.

Latest Dates for Removal of Conditions, Incompletes is Feb. 26

E. J. Prucha, Registrar.

"Weather Bureau, Ground Hog Both Err", Says Strat

The all important question is: Will the ground hog see his shadow on his one day of the year?

Tradition says it's important whether he does or not, logic and common sense says that it doesn't make a bit of difference.

According to the myth it would be a big "break" for all of us if he casts no shadow. Many students shudder with the cold and secretly wonder just how far around the corner Spring really is.

Mr. Stratton has this to say about the fable: "When the U. S. Weather bureau cannot always be accurate in their weather predictions with all of their elaborate technical apparatus, what can you expect from a ground hog?"

How Much Extra-Curricular Work?

Just how much extra-curricular work should a high school teacher do?

The "willing worker" so often gets all of this work to do. When should a teacher say, "No?"

A recent study entitled, "The Training and Work of High School Teachers in Wisconsin in New Positions" by O. H. Plenzke and E. G. Doudna gives some interesting statistics relative to the participation of high school teachers in extra-curricular activities. This study shows that in the year 1929-1930, twelve hundred sixty-three new teachers were employed in Wisconsin high schools. Twelve hundred five of this number were supervising some form of extra-curricular activities. The distribution of their duties was as follows:

- 300 were assisting with athletics.
  - 393 in Forensics and dramatics
  - 138 had charge of club work.
  - 172 were directing musical groups.
- The remaining 202 new teachers were in charge of miscellaneous school activities, such as: the school annual; the school paper; the cafeteria; the student council, etc. It is apparent that when employing

Miss Hilder, former critic in the training school, who is attending the University of Minnesota spent the week-end here.

Are Seniors at College Ignoramuses?

Have Seniors a right to brag about their mental superiority? Perhaps they have!

But now comes the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, announcing, in its Annual Report for 1930, certain preliminary results of an investigation called the Pennsylvania Study, which results—taken at their face value—seem to show that college students learn practically nothing, that seniors within a month of graduation are nearly as ignorant as freshmen, and in some important fields even more so!

Now for the unexpected and striking results in the six colleges which gave the Test to all four classes.

The accompanying table, from the Carnegie Report, gives the median test scores, for the four classes in one of those six colleges, in the common subjects (omitting the foreign languages, social sciences, and natural sciences, among which a choice was offered.)

	Fr.	So.	Jr.	Sr.
Intelligence test	56	57	57	58
English total	227	218	211	211
Spelling	31	30	28	30
Grammar	30	31	29	29
Punctuation	31	29	29	31
Vocabulary	80	58	58	58

Literature	73	71	70	72
Mathematics	53	52	51	49
General culture total	265	285	302	289
General Science	74	77	87	86
Foreign literature	58	64	69	68
Fine Arts	56	55	59	60
History and social studies	81	81	80	79

To get the full effect of this table, compare the Senior column with the Freshman column. There is nowhere any substantial gain. In the English total and in mathematics there is even a slight falling off, except that the seniors seem to stage a partial come-back in English in the final year.

Well, let it be granted that the Carnegie Test does not directly measure reasoning power, capacity for expression, literary or other esthetic appreciation, or ethical idealism. And let it be granted, also, that such outcomes are the ultimate goal, that "mere knowledge" is not in itself sufficient or very valuable, in short, that a student might conceivably make a splendid showing in such a test and remain essentially uneducated—illogical in his thinking, inarticulate, stolid before beauty, and unsocial in behavior.

Boy Scout Training Shows Results

IN CELEBRATING the Boy Scout anniversary week, Feb. 7-14, it is well for teachers and prospective teachers to take cognizance of this growing organization.

According to a thorough study made by W. T. Athern in Indiana, Boy Scouts proved 87 per cent honest in comparison to 54 per cent honest of the boys and girls in the public schools.

These figures are the result of compilations based upon rigid conditions that were imposed upon those examined. Of the manifold activities that comprise Scout work, the phase of character development is credited with this splendid showing.

In view of the fact that there is a definite movement to include a course of character training in the curriculum, the Boy Scout work is invaluable as a guide to what has been accomplished.

Both men and women, as teachers, will find Scout work profitable and stimulating from a personal standpoint and worthwhile from an extra-curricular standpoint. Avail yourself of opportunities to become informed. A. F. R.

Library Offers Diversity in Reading

AN OCCASIONAL STIMULANT is often prescribed by the family doctor for even the best regulated system. The effect, though often in itself transitory, usually leaves at least haloed memory.

The practice has spread to communities and organizations. Better-Book-Week and Beautify-Your-Home-Town-Week give rise to wholesale propaganda; and their annual recurrence proves them to be in some degree successful.

Why not a Get-Acquainted-With-Your-Library-Week?

According to recent observations it seems that attention should be called to some of the excellent material which remains new and unused on the library shelves. Timely periodicals come and go, leaving in their wake merely a notation in the librarians diary to record the date of receipt.

The search for short stories is limited to collections found in bound volumes, volumes which must contain at least one or two good stories in order to make the book saleable. "By courtesy of Harper's" (or Scribner's as the case may be) should give a clue to a more direct approach.

The college library offers unlimited diversity in reading material.

Read Essay on Compensation

HOW MUCH DO STUDENTS notice the depression at school? Don't they have their usual staff of efficient instructors? Aren't they supplied with text books as usual? Don't they come to nice clean, warm, well-ventilated rooms as heretofore? Haven't they had many opportunities for social activities at moderate prices?

It seems that River Falls students are not suffering. If they have the three essentials--food, shelter, and clothing, they cannot be said to be decidedly in want. True, they may have had to readjust themselves to more moderate expenditures for social activities and entertainment. But as a rule they are learning that many activities on the social order are of the best even though they are not costly. This modern age requires of individuals, at least many of us think so, that they be "on the go" all the time; and in order to be "on the go" it takes cars, money, and more money. Certainly, a let-down on this continued going, going, going is of very great benefit to many individuals. They are given a splendid opportunity to form some really worthwhile habits in way of recreation and the spending of leisure time.

Some one may ask what is there to do if one hasn't the money to pay his way around? An enjoyable evening spent with his friends in honest discussion, a tobaggan trip, a skating party, a school dance--any one of these are not beyond the means of anyone in school. If these are entered into whole-heartedly, how can anyone offer better substitutes?

Is there reason to whine and get discouraged, when the student is faced with the opportunity that may mean development of a more evenly balanced individual? Certainly the idea merits a little thought. And if one lacks thought, let him read Emerson's Essay on Compensation. J. D.

Self-Discipline a Large Part of Education

ACCORDING TO PRES. GLEN FRANK, students attend school "to prepare themselves for productive roles in the creation, comprehension, and control of an American social order that shall be both stable and significant."

If this then is his purpose, how is the student to prepare himself to fill his place? By gaining a sense of social responsibility in political and economic life and by self-discipline, says Pres. Frank.

No better opportunity for practicing these precepts can be found than in a democratic, hard-working college like River Falls. Here the student has many opportunities to acquire a sense of social responsibility through participation in various organizations. The average River Fall student learns many lessons in finance and economic problems while studying out ways and means of financing his own education.

Due to the large amount of freedom give students in a college where there are no dormitories, there is every chance for self-discipline or self-government. It is largely up to each student whether he will spend his time in indiscriminate pleasure-seeking or in conscientious application to studies and other duties with well-chosen diversions making a well-rounded preparation for the business of "creating, comprehending, and controlling an American social order that shall be both stable and significant". R. E. B.

Student Opinion

Several pieces of wearing apparel were missing from the men's cloakroom in South Hall after the dance Friday night. Can it be the Stout boys were trying to get even with us for not bringing many girls to the dance?

Someone will have to explain this one: Simpson, who ordinarily is not very discriminating when it comes to edibles, turned down a fifteenth helping of bean soup at the stag party.

Students at last have a chance to doubt "Prexy's" score predictions. He missed the score of the Stout game by one point!

Wouldn't it be a good idea to have a check room for hats, coats, gloves, and scarfs at the dances given in South Hall?

Surely the number of these items that "turned up missing" after the dance Friday evening following the Stout game would recommend that something of this nature be done.

The girls are at an advantage having lockers, but lucky is the fellow who gets home in the same duds he came in! N. C. R.

Why charge only fifteen cents at the gates, when it's easier to make change and it would be more desirable to collect two-bits from dancers? C. A. D.

She resembled a dignified, but slightly uneasy crow perched on a fence, too heavy for her bird-like feet.

She had no more charm than a well-proportioned teapot and about as much appeal as cold rice pudding.

Her eyes blinked a permanent apology. She wore a perpetual smile.

She was just an accident looking for a place to happen.

How dreadful are the ways of heredity!

At the game Friday evening a Freshman girl said, "What in the world are those six or eight fellows yelling? If it's a college yell, why aren't we all yelling it? I don't make any sense to it."

"There isn't any," said her Senior friend. "It's just a hangover from childhood antics. The moo-moo part, at that, is quite suitable to the group who yell it. And to pick out a fellow and his girl to "moo" at is positively rude. However, some people say that they do it for their own publicity."

REALISM IN ROMANTIC JAPAN

By Miriam Beard

REALISM IN ROMANTIC JAPAN" by Miriam Beard should prove interesting to anyone who enjoys reading of occidental life. It is a penetrating study of contemporary Japanese life, an analysis of the political, cultural, and social phases of modern Japan. "Realism in Romantic Japan" may be classed as a travel book, one that will reveal to the reader a new view of Japan and its people. It includes Miriam Beard's own observations as well as a wealth of other informational material. One can get an idea of the book by reading its chapter headings. We find such adventurous and beguiling headings as "A Touch of the Exotic", "The Great Bronze Face", "Human Molds", "New Woman and Modern Man", "Crimson Canopy and Paper Banners". These and others are indications of what fun and good wholesome reading are in store for the interested. By all means read "Realism in Romantic Japan." It might help explain the present situation between Japan and her neighbors. Maybe! E. P.

The Three Arts

By M. L. W.

According to the comments made by the faculty members who attended Yascha Yusling's "The Blue Bird" at the Metropolitan Theatre in St. Paul Saturday, the production with its gorgeous scenery, costumes, and Russian music and dances fulfilled all expectations. The theme of the revue was to portary scenes typical of Russian life.

Some of the numbers which caused particular comment were the scene about the tea table, "Gossip 'Round the Samovar," the peasant women at the river's edge, "The Washerwomen", and the well known "Volga Boatmen." This last selection was pantomimed by a group of men pulling on the rope of the river boat. It was noted that in this presentation the music was played and sang much more slowly than we are used to hearing it.

Although the students of our college were not privileged to attend this extraordinary production, any of them who are interested and would care to know more about it would do well to talk to any of those persons who attended it.

Over His Signature

Shall school budgets be cut? If so, what part of the curriculum must be sacrificed? What departments must be dropped, what activities discontinued? Shall we shorten the school year, compelling teachers and pupils to take enforced vacations? Shall teachers be dismissed, salaries cut, school houses closed? Shall educational facilities which have been painstakingly built up, now suffer drastic curtailment? Has education ceased to be "the eternal debt to childhood and youth"?

Why pick on the schools? Is it because they are defenseless? We have money for good roads, battle-ships, splendid city halls, auditoriums and other public works.

Shall the school practice thrift and economy? Yes---there should be a critical evaluation of all parts of our school system, but to reduce school budgets to the point where the educational program shall be crippled is false economy which no state or community can afford.

Falcons Rest for La Crosse Here on February 12

Team Gains Real Stride as Season Finals Loom Less Formidable

With the Falcons resting over the week-end, it is possible to fans to appraise further possibilities. At about the half-way mark of the schedule, the race is beginning to take shape and indications already point to a mad tussle for first place.

Many Have Strength

With Superior and Whitewater perched on the top rung, it is very likely they'll come down to join the rest of the pack. The play this season has been marked by unusual strength of eight teams out of the ten conference members. The teams are closely bunched on a percentage basis, and play has been so close so far this season that fans dare not venture an opinion on the final standing of any team.

The Falcon machine is clicking and has become a smooth working unit that is in the midst of its stride at present. The lay off this week-end breaks up the grilling campaign they have just gone through and permits an opportunity of smoothing out some plays.

By stepping ahead of Stout last Friday, the Falls quint demonstrated ability to come ahead from behind.

The defeats at Superior and La-Crosse have steadied their play. From present indications, the Falcon possibilities are quite hopeful.

By M. C. McM.

Plans are being made for the February meeting.

W. A. A. wishes all women's organizations, and all organizations which include women to enter a team of eight members in the basketball tournament which will begin in the near future. It is not necessary for the team members to be trained basketball stars--time will be given to practice periods before the games begin.

A good tournament can be held only if a large number of teams are entered. All organizations should see that a team representing them be entered. Give registration lists to Miss Branstad, W. A. A. officers, or Nadia Howard, basketball manager.

That Prexy missed the margin of victory over Stout by one point?

That River Falls has scored a total of 129 points against their opponents 100 and won half of their conference games.

That Superior and Whitewater are the only two undefeated teams in the conference?

That Rieck, the La Crosse center scored 5 field goals against River Falls when the Falcons lost 24-25 and that this same gentleman scored 9 field goals against Eau Claire last week?

Falcons Defeat Blue Devils by 37-28 Score

Helixon, Morrow, and Kuss Star For Falls; Stori Leads Stout Offense

River Falls defeated Stout last Friday night by a score of 37 to 28.

Stori started the scoring for Stout with a free throw. A basket by K. Anderson made it 3-0. Burros contributed a free throw making the score 4-0 in favor of Stout.

The Falcons tied with baskets by Morrow and La Dusire. Warwick and Morrow dropped a basket each putting River Falls in the lead 8-4.

The remainder of the half was very closely contested and at the end of it, Stout led by a score of 13-11.

With the opening of the second half River Falls tied the score. Both teams then dropped in baskets alternately with neither team leading by more than three points. With the score 26 all, the Falcons stepped out and gained the lead.

The play of the Falcons was marked by accurate shooting, making 15 out of 37 shots in comparison to Stout's 11 out of 54. Morrow, Helixon and Kuss starred for the Falcons while Stori and K. Anderson led the scoring for Stout.

Stop to Students' Trip

Harley Borgan, Ray Johnson, Clarence Peterson, and George Wavrunek attempted to spend the week end at their respective homes but because of cold weather they could not. When they got within a few miles of New Richmond, everything but the exhaust on their car froze; thus they had to be towed to the Farmers Union Filling Station. The outcome was not wholly disappointing for they were yet able to see the thrilling Stout game.

Miss Johnson Speaks To History Methods Group

Miss Sadie Johnson of River Falls will speak at 10:45 on Friday to the members of the History Methods class on the history of the new stamps issued for the Washington Bicentennial. She will discuss pictures from which the designs were taken and give remarks concerning the value of stamp collecting. The hobby of collecting stamps is considered as belonging to the adolescent age, but the fact that King Henry VII and Caruso had this as their hobby disproves it, according to Miss Johnson. Miss Johnson is considered a good authority on this subject as she has read extensively and also has a very good collection of stamps.
