Noted Historian, Author To Speak at Convo Friday

Sandra Edstrom, Judy Erickson and Pam Gustafson from Red Wing, Minnesota, are shown registering Saturday at River Falls State College "Go to College Day."

Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Harvard Professor of History and 1946 Pulitzer Prize winner, will lecture in North Hall Auditorium Friday, March 20, at 2:00 p.m.

Mr. Schlesinger received the 1946 Pulitzer prize for The Age of Jackson and in doing so at the age of 28 became the youngest historian to win this high honor.

The New York Times has frequently commented on his work and once said "Mr. Schlesinger writes history with relish and élan as well as with scholarship. He can be both witty and entertaining."

His literary career began soon after his graduation from Harvard in 1938 when his honors essay was published under the title Orestes A. Brownson: A Pilgrim's Progress.

The General and the President: an analysis of American foreign policy in terms of the issue raised by President Truman's dismissal of General MacArthur, and written in collaboration with Richard Rovere of the New Yorker, came out in 1951.

During the 1952 campaign the noted author, lecturer and historian served on the staff of Governor Adlai Stevenson. In recent years he has been a consultant for the Economic Security Administration and the Mutual Security Administration.

The Editor Speaks . . .

One of the most widely discussed and most vitally important aspects of American life is the role of education. In this field lies the future of each individual and of all humanity.

An individual may receive an education from many sources without attending a formal institution. Also, one may have a good potential but in the very near future these highly respected qualities will get him nowhere—unless he has a college degree to go along with them.

Experts on the demands of the nation in relation to job opportunities report that business, industry and education can and do fill their personal vacancies with university trained prospects.

Intelligent, job-hunting young people with great capabilities, but lacking the all-important college degree, will find employment office doors closed to them in favor of applicants with a college education. Although many of the non-college hopefuls may be quite capable—and granted, in some instances, even superior—they will, unfortunately, not get a chance to demonstrate the fact. A college degree definitely takes precedence over native ability.

Vocational advantages are only one of the benefits which an individual receives from a college education. He may and will develop the characteristics necessary to assume his all-important position in our modern-day society with its many complex political and social problems. The individual with a college education will develop reasoning qualities and appreciation for the "other" things he has heretofore had little contact with.

For the development of a well-rounded individual with a better-than-average possibility of obtaining a responsible position in our economic world, it is hard to beat a college education.

Letters to the Editor . . .

An Open Letter to Jim Laue

As you know, your letter to the STUDENT VOICE has caused much comment, especially from the group to which you addressed your remarks. Doubting their ability to function individually, I will be quite surprised if you receive direct communication from them on your letter. I am not fighting their battles, but I do have opinions about your letter. This letter is an extension of your theme, it neither praises nor condemns either viewpoint.

First, the write-in campaign was not begun because of laziness nor any of the other reasons you listed; rather, it begun spontaneously (admittedly, a poor way to begin a Senate campaign) when one of "them" wrote on the back of another's card, "Write-in" The idea spread. (I learned later that the candidate was not in favor of this; however, his objections weren't strong enough, for the campaign continued.)

When I came to school that day, I noticed the signs for that student, and was relieved that a person whom I considered worthy of the position was being sponsored. Previously, at a loss to provide an adequate substitute, I had resolved myself to accept the slab of candidates; upon the notice of his name, however, I decided to campaign for him.

Oddly enough, "their" reason for writing-in this person was not because of his intellectual abilities (he has a B average, prefers chess to American Bandstand and I Love Lucy, and — among other desirabilities—has a mind of his own; an overworked phrase, I know, but we can discuss this further, if you wish), but for personal reasons: dislike of the others as candidates. My preference for the write-in candidate was the result of a year's acquaintance with him, a knowledge of the other candidates, and a reaction from their 6th grade-Madison Avenue Catchy Campaign slogan and approach to the voter. I do not care to vote for persons who campaign on the apparent abilities to referee games, play bongos, ski, eat books, etc.; such tactics are alright for Homecoming campaigns, but not for Student Senate campaigns.

Indeed, campus visitors might have thought Homecoming was a bit late this year. Sure, a person must have a certain grade-point average to become a candidate, but with the caliber of material offered in some courses, this average is often easy to maintain. Also, the grading curve is often such to permit average work to receive B grades. I would ask this question to every voter: How much do you know about your favorite candidate? What are his opinions concerning school mat-

The Pseudo-Intellectual

The text of this brief editorial will, I expect, appear quite epithetic in the pestilential eyes of that particular and by all means peculiar aggregation of unusual, unattentive and unsystematic observers to whom I make reference herein. Nevertheless, as a supposedly (by the above mentioned group at least) ill-educated, non-intellectual, and all-conforming pleasant type, I feel it but a solemn obligation to inform the majority of these pseudo-intellectual minority groups who each year somehow manage to infiltrate the ranks of comparatively normal students.

This strange group has, I'll admit, certain very distinguishing characteristics, though very few of these pertain to those facets of normal societies such as sensibly directed intelligence, respect for status, education and in some cases religion; instead, one most outstanding feature of these self-pronounced "intellectuals" appears to be their obvious floundering when surrounded by any other than their own sadistically humorous prattle.

In other words it would appear that those who preach individualism find it impossible to practice their cherished theory to perfection within their own clique but in reality depend on majority reactions to their idiosyncracies for nourishment and survival.

These pseudo-intellectual saps are, it would appear, socially unadjusted to the extent that they simply cannot function properly in our present day society and instead are using each other as a verbal and moral crutch, sometimes at the expense of you and I.

There are several prototypes within their small socially defunct group, yet any reference to certain peculiarities of individuals would doubtless reveal (as a cheap disguise) certain personages to the public eye, therefore I refrain from expressing myself as much as I should like to, feeling that I would be incriminating myself to the extreme (if I haven't done so already).

The pseudo-intellectual in general might be classified as anyone conforming to the strange habits of those who conduct loud, sometimes obscene, always ill-mannered conferences particularly the round corner booths of the cafeteria while waiting for us peasants (you and me of sound mind) to arrive.

I hope this article furnishes humor for some and expect it will provoke sneers from a few, yet whatever the result I feel quite relieved at being able to express myself.

Student Senate Minutes

March 2, 1959

The meeting was called to order by President Clarence Dulek. After the secretary's report was approved as read, the treasurer reported balances of $39.44 in the Student Senate account $440.27 in the vending machine account, and $12.89 in the River Falls account.

March 9, 1959

The meeting was called to order by President Clarence Dulek. After the secretary's report was approved as read, the treasurer reported balances of $39.44 in the Student Senate account, $440.27 in the vending machine account, and $12.89 in the River Falls account.

Carl Duch, representing the social committee, was present to discuss the "piano situation." The Senate commended the social committee for securing the Chris Barber jazz band, and backed efforts to bring the band back for another concert next fall providing the scheduled American tour is effected.

In response to many questions concerning the naming of new buildings, it was reported that President Kleinpell suggests names for the buildings, subject to the discussion and approval of the Board of Regents.

Student insurance combining hospitalization and accident provisions will be discussed at a future meeting, as well as proposed amendments to the Senate constitution.

AWS Will Send Delegates To National Meet at Tempe

The AWS at River Falls State plans to send two delegates to the National Meet at Arizona State College at Tempe, Arizona, March 31 to April 3.

The Board has set Tuesday, March 17 as the date for an all women student election of the two delegates to represent River Falls. In order to select people who have contributed to AWS on the campus, and who would benefit AWS next year from the rewards of the convention, the Board has set up a list of candidates.

An all women election will provide all campus women a voice in the selection. The Board felt this was necessary, since all women are helping to finance the trip.

The Board suggests at least one freshman or sophomore should be sent, since they will later be eligible for a national or regional office. One of the requirements for such an office is at attendance at least one national convention.

Approximately 550 women students from all over the United States are expected to attend the meet. It is somewhat unusual for a college of this size to send delegates. Last year four River Falls AWS members attended the regional meet. Of these delegates, one ran for office of Regional Vice President and all RF members served on committees.

The Student Senate voted to contribute a hundred dollars to help with the convention expenses. Students with additional questions, may ask any member of the AWS Board for further information on the convention.

Hastings High School To Present 'Caesar'

An all-girl cast from Hastings High School, in leotards, will present one act from the play Julius Caesar Tuesday afternoon in the Little Theatre beginning at 3:00 p.m.

The Hastings group, at a later date, will enter the performance in a Minnesota Drama Contest.

Co-director is James Caréll, former editor of the Student Voice. Admission is free.

PATROL REQUESTS RESTRICTED PARKING

The Student Council of the Campus School has requested that college students refrain from parking their cars near school patrol corners.

Marcia Melton, president of the Council, explained that cars parked near the corners where patrols are on duty often block the vision of patrolmen who are attempting to help campus school pupils to cross the street.

Ring Company Set To Accept Orders

John Roberts, representative of the L. G. Balfour Company, will take measurements and orders for the Wisconsin State College at River Falls school ring.

All students who have completed five quarters of school and all alumni who desire to place orders may do so on the following dates:

March 19, 1959, 12:00—6:00 p.m. in the Social Room.

March 20, 1959, 8:30 a.m.—1:00 p.m. in the Social Room.

A five dollar deposit will have to be made when ordering the rings.

Many commercial organizations will have exhibits and demonstrations here for the day. Visitors to the Science Fair will have an opportunity to see one of the latest exhibits of the United States Atomic Energy Commission. The exhibit, entitled "Summary of Atomic Energy," is of 18 panels which simply illustrate, both graphically and in words, the story of atomic energy. Recently designed especially for the general public, the exhibit contains information about atomic structure, fission, radioisotopes, and some of the peaceful applications of atomic energy in the fields of industry, power production, agriculture, and medicine. One panel illustrates the use of an atomic reactor in producing electrical power. Another shows how radioisotopes are used in medicine to diagnose and treat diseases. The exhibit is one of several Atomic Energy Commission exhibits from the American Museum of Atomic Energy which is operated by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

The Wisconsin Telephone Company will have an exhibit called "Progress in Telephone Communications."

Representatives from the Wisconsin Conservation Department will have a booth devoted to fisheries, forestry and game at the fair.

The Navy Department will have an exhibit of their equipment. The latest science books will also be on display in North Hall.

A series of outstanding science films being shown in the Little Theatre should be of special interest to both college and visiting students.

Exhibits by the chemistry, physics, geology and biology departments of the college will be on display throughout the day.

Co-chairmen of the Science Fair, Martin Laakso and Peter Muto, encourage all college students to see the films, exhibits and demonstrations going on throughout the day.

Cast of Two Will Appear in 'Four Poster'

A three-act comedy, "The Four Poster" will feature one of the smallest casts ever to put on a play at River Falls. Enacting the roles of Agnes and Michael will be Lani Wolodko and Bernie Brohaugh. The play which is directed by Carol Naiberg, senior from Cadott, will be presented April 1 in the Little Theater.

The entire play is centered around, an old-fashioned four poster bed in the year of 1890. Yet the time could be the present as the author, Jan de Hartog attempts to show the trials and tribulations of a twenty-year marriage, passing none of the standard moments of fear, pathos, and unconscious comedy.

The play begins with Michael carrying Agnes over the threshold and into the bedroom and ends with the bedroom dismantled and Michael once more carrying Agnes over the threshold as they prepare to leave the house twenty-five years later.

ACE To Sponsor Easter Program For RF Children

"Easter Wonderland" will be held for the children of River Falls and surrounding communities between the ages of five and twelve, March 21 in the college North Hall Gym.

Marion Haugen, senior from Hudson, will reign as queen for the ACE "Fun Day" and will tell stories throughout the afternoon. The day's activities will begin at 1:00 p.m. with an Easter skit, followed by the coronation of the queen.

A midway will be set up in the gymnasium with such features as cartoons, a sidewalk cafe, silhouette drawing, books and records.

There will be a coffee booth for the parents who wish to stay and watch the activities.

Co-chairwomen for the event are Miss Haugen and Phyllis Fielder. In charge of decorations is Marge Wallen and Nancy Ingwell is publicity chairwoman. Jan Kuechler is in charge of boths and program chairwoman is Doris Mathison.

The Association of Childhood Education hopes to make "Fun Day" an annual affair for the children of the surrounding area.

Teska Stars Falcon Fanfare Will Compete In BB Tourney

by "Rock" Hanson
With Bill Veeck leaping from his rocking chair back into the baseball limelight, it looks as though the baseball public will again be challenged by this flip-pant, controversial monarch.

Upon his discharge from the Army, another such character came on the River Falls scene a year or so ago. Duane, or Clyde as he is called by his friends. Teska always was an organizer and he set about the task immediately when he enrolled at River Falls.

Clyde took it upon himself to gather together a group of basketball players who became known as the "Teska All-Stars." Playing in varsity preliminaries and road games during the week, the crew compiled an enviable record of five wins and no defeats during last year's cage campaign.

This season "Aub" aggregated a group of previously overlooked Falcon stars and played strictly on the road. With Mick Lauber, Charlie Johnson, Emery Crowley, Jack Delahunt, J. C. Nuerer, and Bear Madsen in the lineup, the final outcome was never in doubt. The "All-Stars" rolled up nine straight wins including a 105-69 win over the Red Wing YMCA squad and a victory over the Hastings National Guard in the feature game of the Winter Carnival this year.

At the end of the varsity season, Jake Lauber and Rock Hanson joined the group and traveled to the YMCA Invitational Tourney held in Eau Claire last week. They upset the powerful Hotel Eau Claire quint in the first round but dropped a 69-65 decision to Mondovi in the following match.

Spectacular performances were a dime a dozen. Mick Lauber's 40 points against the Falcon frosh was a tribute to a fine player. At Red Wing, Emery Crowley had them buzzing as he ripped the nets for 33. And of course Charlie Johnson was always in there hitting between 20 and 30 markers every game. Jack Delahunt, regarded by many as one of the finest ball-handlers in the school, combined his floor play with these potent scoring efforts in molding the success story of the "All-Stars."

The sights are now set on the rugged Hallie Q. Brown Tournament starting in the Twin Cities on March 30. Wherever they have gone in the last two years, the "Teska All-Stars" have truly been good-will ambassadors of River Falls State College. Their trip to the Twin Cities will be no exception.

Falcon Fanfare

by Tom Barry
"Our top defensive man, who always does a god job of guarding opposing high scorers" were the words used by Coach Page in describing six-foot two-inch sophomore forward Mick Collins.

Mick hails from Mondovi where he collected a total of nine athletic letters in his four years of high school. While at Mondovi, Mick played on two straight Mississippi Valley Conference championship teams and was named to the all-conference team in 1957.

The biggest disappointment of Mick's high school career was in the spring of 1957 when Mondovi lost to Osseo in the sectional final at Eau Claire by one point in overtime.

Through the encouragement of high school teammates and the college coaching staff, Mick decided to enroll at River Falls where he has already collected two basketball letters.

Being a biology major and a physical education minor, Mick would like to coach along with teaching biology after graduation from River Falls.

Mick is looking forward to a successful basketball season next year commenting that "it will be a big advantage to be able to play every game in a large gymnasium."

I-M Volleyball Play Will Start March 23

Intramural volleyball action will begin Monday, March 23. Seven teams are entered already and intramural director Ben Bergsrud anticipates the signing of a few more this week.

The "Lancers," last year's champion team, have not entered as yet, so it looks like a wide open fight for the title. Each team will meet every other team once, so at least six games are assured and there may be more depending on the number of entries.

Anyone interested in entering a team is asked to contact Mr. Bergsrud as soon as possible so the schedule can be set up.

Baseball Schedule

- April 11—Macalester (2) away
- April 17—Mankato (2) Here
- April 18—Bemidji (2) Here (if Mankato game is not rained out)

- April 25—Stout (2) Here

Bees Shade Court Martials 52-50 Capture I-M Basketball Championship

by Dick Enstad
Ole Fimreite converted a three point play in the last two seconds Monday night to give the Bumble Bees a 52-50 win over the Court Martials and the intramural basketball championship for the 1958-59 season.

Fimreite's short jump shot and ensuing free throw climaxed an uphill drive by the Bees who at one time during the third period found themselves down by as much as 11 points.

Joe Stanek, Gar Lenander, and Ron Christopherson had paced the Court Martials to a 27-23 halftime lead and a seemingly safe 36-25 bulge midway through the third quarter. But then Fimreite and Jim Turnquist began to find the range. A basket by Val Barrows knotted the count at 48-all and a charity toss by Bill Halverson then gave the Bees a lead of 49-48 with :42 remaining. Stanek, however, retaliated with a jumper with :08 left to again put the Court Martials in front 50-49 before Fimreite's dramatic clincher.

The Bees finished the season with an unblemished record while the Court Martials would have forced a playoff had they won the Monday night affair.

Leading the way for the losers was Lenander with 18 followed by Stanek with 13. Fimreite sparked the winning cause with 15 followed closely by Turnquist's 13 and Halverson's 12.

SCHOOL RECORD SET IN I-M SWIM MEET

The setting of four new school swimming records along with girls competing for the first time highlighted the action of the intramural swimming meet on March 9th.

New records were set in both the 60 and 80 yard medley. Bob Friedmann set a new record in the 80-yard free style.

Sandy Paulson, a freshman from Red Wing, completely dominated the girls division by winning all three events.

Mr. Bergsrud has made plans for another intramural swimming meet later in April for all interested students.

The following are the results of the meet:

- Men:
 - 80-yard free stroke, Cuskey, 49:6 sec.
 - 20-yard breast stroke, Friedmann, 13:3 sec.
 - 60-yard medley, Myren, Cuskey, Biss, 38:4 sec.
 - 80-yard medley, Myren, Cuskey, Biss, Segerstrom, 40:7 sec.
- Women:
 - 40-yard free stroke, Paulson, 31:4 sec.
 - 20-yard back stroke, Paulson, 14:8 sec.
 - 20-yard breast stroke, Paulson, 16:8 sec.

Larry Julien highlighted an otherwise sad showing by River Falls State by winning the heavy-weight championship at the WSC wrestling meet at Stevens Point Saturday.

Julien, a husky freshman from Fairchild, decisioned Lacina of Superior State 7-1 in the finals to become the only first place finisher for Coach Ben Bergsrud's squad.

The Falcon team came in fifth in a field of six schools. The University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee captured the team title with 37 points. Central State (Stevens Point) was second with 30, followed by Superior with 21, Stout with 11, River Falls 10, and La Crosse 0. So dominating were UWM and Central State that three of the division championships went to the former and four to the latter. Julien was the only wrestler from a different school to cop a division championship. In fact, there were only four grapplers in the finals from schools other than Milwaukee and Central State.

Julien advanced to the finals by decisioning Borzykowski of UWM 10-2 and pinning Gibbs of Central State in 4:24.

Arvid Flanum of Amery was a third place winner in the 167 lb. class. Flanum pinned Zaboj of Stout in the time of 3 minutes, 50 seconds. Losers in the consolation finals were Jerome Braun (123 lb.), Ed Schlumpf (137 lb.), Lloyd Danke (147 lb.), and Ron LaGander (157 lb.).

LARRY JULIEN

Braun lost a 7-2 decision to Kaukwiecz of Superior; Schlumpf was decisioned by McMinn of Superior 4-0; Holubets of Stout pinned Danke in 5:32; and La Gander dropped a decision to Keller of Stout 2-0.

Jim Drummy lost out in elimination rounds to Stephenson of Stout 6-0 and Verba of Superior 5-2.

Complete results from the championship finals are as follows:

- 123 lbs.—Cerull (UWM) decisioned Britten (CSC) 8-3.
- 130 lbs.—Hubbard (UWM) decisioned Kangas (Sup) 8-1.
- 137 lbs.—Vigue (UWM) decisioned Freiman (CSC) 8-4.

Curriculum Expansion Ends Shortage Areas

Three of the most critical shortage areas of school teachers in Wisconsin may be ending this month with the expansion of curriculums at four state colleges.

By unanimous vote the Co-ordinating Committee for higher education shattered a 50-year-old tradition of specialties at designated state colleges and approved majors in training teachers of: (1) business education at Eau Claire, Stevens Point, and Superior; (2) physical education for women at Oshkosh; and (3) handicapped children at Eau Claire.

The breaking down of the state colleges' "special" teaching areas has been coming for the past half dozen years. First major to be broadened to more than one school was music, now offered by seven of the colleges.

The specialties were begun at the colleges as early as 1902 with home economics and industrial education offered at Stevens Point and Oshkosh. In 1926 the granting of degrees was approved in the special areas of art, music, agriculture, industrial education, home economics, physical education, and handicapped children.

WSC Draw Many Out-of-Staters

The 829 out-of-state students at the Wisconsin state colleges come from 26 states and 18 foreign countries or territories. Half of them plan to return home after graduation; one out of five will settle in Wisconsin.

Minnesota contributes the most students to the colleges, followed by Illinois and Michigan. Hawaii, Korea, and Iran send half of the total out-of-country enrollment.

The non-Wisconsin students are a little older than their home-grown classmates. Well over half of them (163 percent) plan to be teachers, mostly in high schools.

The "foreigners" learned about Wisconsin's state colleges from friends, teachers, and literature sent out by the institutions. They came most often because they were interested in a special course offered by the college or because the boundaries of Wisconsin were also the boundaries of their home state. Among every half dozen of the out-of-staters there is one who came to a state school because he or she likes Wisconsin.

The out-of-state students make up only six percent of the total state college enrollment of 13,093 this semester, but they are an important and welcome group.

Fifteen Students Accept Early Teaching Contracts

The placement list continues to grow, as 15 seniors signed for teaching positions in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Five elementary education majors have signed contracts with the Rochester, Minn., school system. They are Jane Aide, River Falls; Phyllis Anderson, Centuria; Mary Dougherty, Spooner; Marie Forman, Cadott, and Rita Murphy, Ellsworth.

Three others seniors have signed for teaching positions in Minnesota. Marilyn Elliot, from River Falls, will teach first grade in White Bear, Minn. She is an elementary major. Marion Haugen and Susy Sorenson, both elementary majors, will teach first grade in St. Paul Park. Miss Haugen is from Hudson, and Miss Sorenson is from Ridgeland.

Teaching in Manitowoc will be Helen Glesnes and Griff Howell. Miss Glesnes, from River Falls, will teach English. She is an English major. Mr. Howell, a chemistry major, will teach general science, mathematics, and will be 9th grade coach. He is from Waukesha.

Delphine Johnson, a post-graduate student, has signed with the Hudson school system.

James R. Johnson, a senior from Red Wing, will teach social studies and English in the 7th grade at Wausau. He has a social science major.

Teaching kindergarten in Janesville will be Sandy Kins, an elementary major. Miss Kins is from Ellsworth.

Janet Kuechler, who has a double major in elementary education and art, will teach art in Clear Lake. She is from Iron River.

Vernon Reinert, a senior from Gresham, will teach vocational agriculture in Birnamwood. He has a major in Agriculture.

ACRE LOT REQUIRED IN SCHOOL PLANS OF 75 YEARS AGO

In Wisconsin 75 years ago the newest plans for schoolhouse construction in villages and small cities demanded a lot no smaller than half an acre.

The lot was to be central in the village and not in the vicinity of factory, blacksmith shop, railroad depot, burying ground, butcher shop or saloon. The site should be free from stumps, rocks and dead trees.

Boys and girls were to have separate play yards, bounded by a "tight board fence six feet high." An outhouse was "connected" with each yard. For beauty, shrubs could be planted, costing 25c or less each. Preferred were lilac, snowball, honeysuckle, syringa, spiraea, and snowdrop.

In the rear of the schoolhouse and attached to it was the woodhouse. The schoolyard should be fenced in with a baffle-gate at the entrance "so that children may enter but not cattle."

Single story construction was preferred in the 1880's over two or more stories. The cloak room must have hardwood pegs in two rows the lower row for the small children. A cupboard for lunch pails and a bench for the water pail and drinking cup were essential.

Many windows were needed for reasons of health. The sunlight "sets in motion" the air in the room and "decomposes the exhalations from the children's bodies."

The building specifications were published by Wisconsin's superintendent of schools in 1881. Some of the schoolhouses pictured are still standing and in use in 1959, mute testimony to the workmanship of great, and great great grandpa.

Letters to the Editor...

ters? Is he more concerned with recommending stiffer finals for seniors than with the parking problems? Is your candidate more concerned with smiling at everyone, creating a good impression, and being sociable than he is with working at his glasses or on committees?

Who must one blame: the student voter who eats up Madison Avenue advertising tactics, the candidate who is reduced to having to expedite himself for the voter, or the candidate who fosters such White Collar campaigns?

The non-rational non-conformist does exist, Mr. Laue, but the poor "middleclass, non-thinking average slob" is the person who shall (regrettably) rule the world—they already rule the college campuses).

If the write-in campaign is banned by the Student Senate, one will know that the day of regimentation (even of the non-rationalist) is at hand.
