VOLUME XLIX NUMBER 14

Music Department to Present Two Concerts

Madrigals, Band Set to Perform On Wednesday

The second of the music department's Christmas concerts this year will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 19, in North Hall Auditorium.

Two new musical organizations will be introduced at that time. The two groups, under the direction of William Abbott, are a 16 voice madrigal group and a 17 piece college dance band.

Other groups participating in the Wednesday night concert are the Woodwind Trio and the Brass Ensemble. The concert will consist of combinations of these groups.

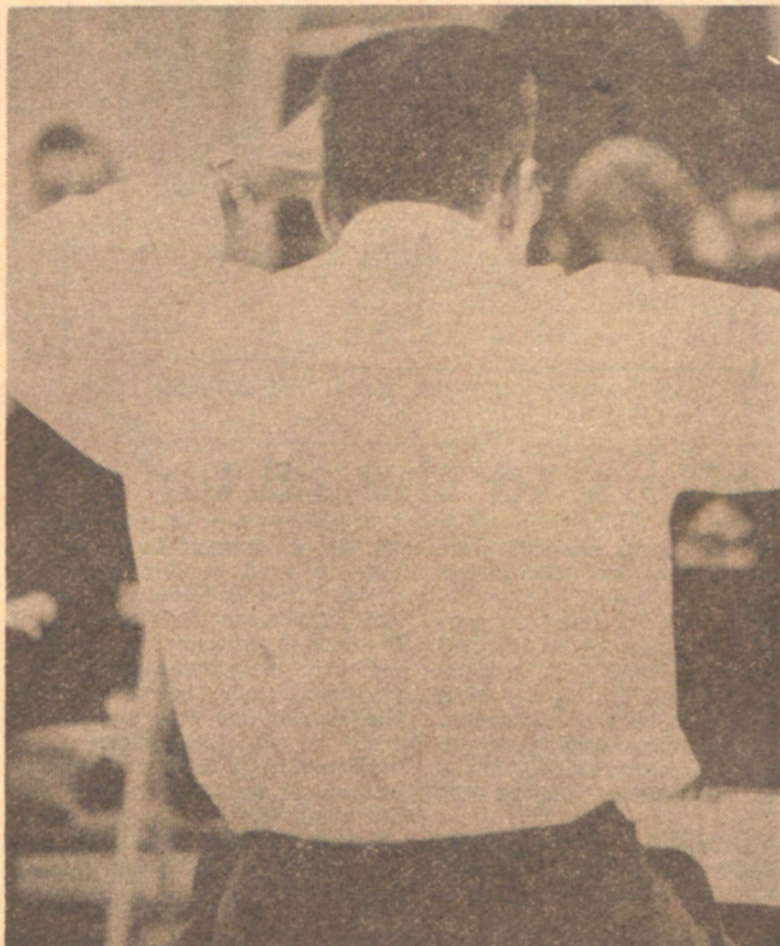

First on the program is the "Clarinet Trio Op. 7 No. 3" by Bouffil, performed by Rita Gretchen, David Zehran and David Klepert, who are students of Robert Samarotto.

Next is a work by Frederick Fox entitled "Concert Piece for Brass Quintet and Piano." Mr. Fox is one of the ten young American composers to be selected by the Ford Foundation to write music for performance by high school organizations.

The newly formed madrigal group will sing "A Thought Like Music Op. 105 No. 1" by Brahms. The group is accompanied by Muriel Hanson.

There are two selections on the program for choir and brass. These are: "Four Traditional Christmas Carols" arranged by Neff and "Christmas Cantata" by Daniel Pinkham.

The last portion of the program will consist of numbers by the newly formed dance band group. The group will play "Cashmear" by Thompson, "Swingboard" by Tull in addition to four numbers by Seibert. These four members are: "Toll Road," "Low Tide," "Jazz Suite," and "Swing Set." Admission is free.

Dr. William Abbott directs the orchestra in practice for the Christmas Concert, to be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in North Hall Auditorium. A 17-piece dance band will be introduced at that time.

Thursday Will Bring Theater Reading Hour

The speech department will present a theater reading hour on December 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Little Theater. The Thursday evening performance will feature two plays, "Hello Out There" by William Saroyan and "Deeper Than Atlanta" by Jackson Matthews.

Saroyan's "Hello Out There" concerns the loneliness of a man in jail. Its central character, a man called Photo Finish, is played by Franklin Blodget. Other members of the cast include: Judith Christianson, Tom Vest, and Laurajane Overholt.

Huey Long, almost a legend in Southern politics, is the theme satirized by Jackson Matthews in his poem, "Deeper Than Atlanta." Adapted for the stage, it features poetic rhythm and language. It will be narrated by Felix Williamson and Thomas Brucks will read as the infamous Huey Long. The

College Choir to Sing Monday Night At Annual Christmas Music Festival

The 17th annual Christmas Music Festival will be presented in North Hall Auditorium tonight at 8 p.m. by the River Falls College Choir, under the direction of Chauncey King.

Both Stratton Hall and Prucha Hall will have a holiday social gathering this week.

On Tuesday, Dec. 18, Prucha Hall will open its doors to the coeds for its Second Annual Holiday Open House. The event is scheduled for 7-10:30 p.m. and refreshments will be served in the east wing of the basement lounge. All residents have been asked to decorate his rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, the resident counselor and his wife will judge these decorations on a wing basis and award a prize to the winner. Several students spent as much as $7 or $8 on brightly-lighted Christmas trees and window displays.

The following evening, Wednesday the 19th, Stratton Hall will hold its second Annual Christmas Banquet. This event will be held at the Student Union beginning at 7:30.

The banquet is for all residents and their dates with special invitations issued to President and Mrs. E. H. Kleinpell, Dean and Mrs. B. J. officers of the choir: Ken Fenton, president; Warren Wilson, business manager; Kathy Kilbride, secretary, and Shirley Olson, librarian. The accompanist for the choir is Muriel Hanson

The program tonight is divided into four parts. The first part is called "Carols of Many Lands" and consists of: "Sing we Noel" from France; "Happy Bethlehem" a Basque folksong; "Behold that Star" a Negro spiritual; "Joyous Bells of Christmas" from Denmark; "A Flemish Carol" from Holland and "God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen" which is an old English carol.

The second part of the concert will consist of carols sung by small ensembles.

The third section of the concert is called "Composed for Christmas." This section has four selections in it: "While Stars Their Vigil Keep" by Luvaas; "Praise Ye the Lord of Hosts" by Saint Saens; "Prayer on Christmas Eve" by Peeters and "To Shepherds Fast Asleep" by Davis.

The final portion of the concert is made up of five selections by well-known composers. The selections in this last portion of the concert are not necessarily to be classified as Christmas songs Mr. King said. These last five selections are placed under the heading "From the Great Composers" on the program.

These last selections are: "Ave Maria" by Arcadelt; "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach; "Sleep, Baby Sleep" by Gretchaninoff and "The Old Hundredth Psalm Tune" by Williams.

This concert is free, as the last 16 annual choir concerts have been. A free-will offering will be taken, however.

Students Plead 'Guilty' In Pierce County Court

Two 18 year old freshmen students have pleaded guilty to charges of theft in the Pierce County Court.

Charged were:

Larry Kelly, of Butternut, Wis. Franklyn Venhor, of Phillips, Wis.

The pair was arrested by police in a downtown store Saturday, Dec. 8, and confessed to a shoplifting spree that started after Thanksgiving.

The two were spotted by the store's ass't. manager milling around. He suspected them of shoplifting and asked them to accompany him to the back of the store and empty their pockets. This revealed that nothing had been taken from that store.

However, a small pocket wrench was produced and the pair was unable to explain how they required it. Police were called and the pair was arrested.

After their arrest, the two accompanied police to their Prucha hall dormitory rooms where several large boxes of stolen articles were found. Included in the cache were sweat shirts, bridal rings, socks, shaving kits, cigarettes, toilet items and flash lights.

River Falls Chief of Police, Glen Young said the recovered merchandise totaled several hundred dollars. The two told police some of the merchandise they had stolen earlier had been sold to other students at below retail prices. Chief Young said no estimate had been set on the entire amount of stolen merchandise.

Discovery of the two led police to suspect others of similar activities. Police said three other persons are currently under investigation, but that no charges have been brought against them yet.

Kelly and Venhor were taken to the Pierce County jail about 10:30 Saturday night and held there until Thursday afternoon when they were each able to post a $500 bond for their release.

They have dropped out of school and are out on bail while an investigation is carried out by the parole office for the Wisconsin Department of Correction in their home town areas. When the investigation is completed they will be sentenced in County Court by Judge Magdanz.

The cast of "Hello, Out There," by William Saroyan, practice their roles for the upcoming reader theater. This play, and "Deeper Than Atlanta" will be presented Thursday evening in the Little Theater at 7:30 p.m.

Editorials

The Theater

Last week, we ran a story on the drama department, which told of their planning to run six plays in reader theater style. This story was run on the insert page, which is printed on Friday. Friday night we learned that three of the plays had been cancelled, so we ran a retraction on page two, which was printed Monday. The cancellation, we understand, was due to one of the members of the cast who was in three plays not returning to school for the winter quarter.

Our reporter (who was to have appeared in one of the plays) rewrote the story to state that only three plays were going to be presented, and only on Dec. 20. Now it has been reduced to two plays, so the story had to be rewritten again. Why, it was cut again we don't know.

We are sorry if the readers have been somewhat confused by the stories and headlines that tell of events that don't come off as planned. However, we on the Student Voice try to give up-to-date coverage. We must take the stories that come out of the drama department on good faith.

We understand that there is a movement in the theater to try to become "professionalized". We think that the first criterion of a professional would be to either put on what is planned, or not to plan such an ambitious project. Temperament of the sort that has been displayed has no place in the professional ranks.

Symbols

It is no longer news that two college students were picked up for shoplifting, and suspended from college. It is unfortunate that to many people, this action will be reflected on the college itself. This should not be, of course, but we fear that the stereotype of the college student will be expected to include that of few social values.

The businessmen on Main Street, we are glad to hear, do not feel this way. A letter to the editor printed elsewhere, from one who has much contact with many different businessmen points this out.

It appears that this feeling is not shared by people on our own campus. The sign on the door of the bookstore is the case in point. The sign, hastily put up Monday, orders the students to leave their books, purses and briefcases on a large, ugly, unpainted rack outside.

As one of the student assistants who works in the store said, "It's too bad that it had to happen, but when you realize how much was going out of there . . ."

This is of course true, and it must be conceded that perhaps the bookstore is a special case, because they hire student assistants who might hesitate to accuse someone of shoplifting. However, it seems to us that the bookstore could place at least as much faith in the student body as the Main Street businessmen do, particularly in view of the fact that their business is so much more dependent on the students.

The rack and the sign are there for a practical business reason. But more than that, they are a symbol, and not one that the students nor the bookstore can be proud of. If a visitor were to ask the reason for the rack, he would have to be told that it was to prevent shoplifting by the students.

We will not raise the question of the absolute necessity for the rack, for if the manager feels that the rack will cut down shoplifting by the students, it is certainly a value judgment, and he has the prerogative to construct it. (It might be said that much of the shoplifting, if not all, has been eliminated by the suspension of the two students and the present investigation being carried on by the authorities. However, we can't be sure of this.)

But we feel that another, less obvious means might be employed. Just the leaving of briefcases outside might not be so unpalatable.

The shoplifting episode has been a blot against the school's record, no doubt. But we feel that it is best to forget about it as quickly as possible. To that end, we suggest the removal of the sign and the rack from the bookstore entrance, for these serve only as mute reminders of this past week. Is that too much to ask to increase respect for our school?

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"BY TH' WAY, ER, THAT'S A HI-POWER ACID IN THAT COKE BOTTLE."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Last week two students were arrested by the local police, taken to court and convicted of shoplifting. This activity could be construed as a reflection on the College and no doubt it is in some ways. However, it has not been taken as such by the businessmen and the individuals involved were taken to account as individuals and not as students from the College.

The people of the city are to be commended for their attitude concerning the matter and their continuing faith in the majority of the student body.

Darrell C. Newman

Dear Editor:

Last spring the Student Senate passed a resolution recommending the establishment of fraternities and sororities at River Falls State. This proposal was also examined by the personnel committee and subsequently approved. From here, as I understand, students were allowed to present cases for and against this proposal before a faculty meeting. At this meeting (after the presentation) he faculty authorized the president to select a faculty committee to investigate the feasibility of fraternities and sororities on campus. This committee was to conduct this investigation during the summer and report back on or before October 15th.

In the interest of student opinion I would like to pose a question. What happened to this proposal and, indeed, what happened to this committee's report that should have been submitted by Oct. 15th?

LOST:

An art book titled "Italian Painting" by Venturi was lost last year from an Art 12 class and has not yet been found. If anyone who had Art 12 last year has any information about this book please contact Walter Nottingham. The book was one of a set which was very expensive.

Because of lack of information, we are to assume that student initiative and opinion were ignored. Many students put a good deal of personal time and effort in seeking information on this topic for the express purpose of presenting their viewpoint before the faculty. At this writing, it seems to me their efforts have been in vain. With all due respect, perhaps it would be proper for the administration to shed some light on this subject.

Lecturer Will Be Featured At Convocation January 8

Gordon D. Hall, free lance writer and lecturer, will be the speaker at an all-school convocation Jan. 8, 1963.

The convocation, sponsored by the Concerts and Lectures Committee, will be held in the North Hall auditorium at 10:40 a.m. Mr. Hall will speak again at 4:10 the same afternoon to the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Mr. Hall's topic, "Patriotism on the Extreme Right," is a documented account of the rise of vigilantism and accompanying racial and religious tension that has been the subject of extensive newspaper coverage during the past year. Major wire services and newspapers throughout the country have publicized details of his years of fulltime research concerning extremist organizations of both the right and left.

An exhibition of current propaganda will be on display before and during, as well as after Mr. Hall's remarks. It is also his practice to allow time for a vigorous question period.

Since 1946 Mr. Hall has been a free lance writer, research student and consultant in the field on international relations and extremist group activity in the U.S. He maintains active and current files on extremist Communist groups and extremist hate movements presently dividing the U.S. along racial, religious and ethnic lines. Mr. Hall added lecturing to his activities in 1951.

His articles have appeared in such diverse publications as the "Harvard Business Review," the "Christian Register" and journals of political opinion. He has written and has published "The Hate Campaign Against The United Nations" published in Boston by the Beacon Press, Inc. This study was formally endorsed by Warren R. Austin, who served as United States Ambassador to the United Nations at the time the study was published.

Mr. Hall serves as a consultant to a number of nationally known organizations in the field of education, book publishing and religion. He is a consultant to the constituent bodies of the National Council of Churches of Christ and to the National Council which is the official Protestant Church in the U. S.

Added to these many accomplishments, Mr. Hall was recently a guest on the "Today" program on television.

Prologue to Run Story Contest

The campus literary magazine, Prologue, will sponsor a winter quarter short story contest.

Short stories may be submitted in the Student Voice office on or before January 25, 1963. The manuscripts are to be typed and varying in length up to 2000 words. The subject matter of these stories is left entirely up to the discretion of the writer.

A panel of judges consisting of three faculty members and the Prologue co-editors, Michael Vaughan and Darlene Erickson, will judge the stories and determine the recipients of the prizes.

The winning stories will be featured in the winter quarter issue of the Prologue and the writers will receive a monetary or book award. The story judged best by the panel will receive a citation for excellence and the two receiving the next highest ratings will receive honorary citations.

The Prologue reserves the right to print any story that is submitted to the contest regardless as to whether it receives a citation. The magazine wishes also to encourage the writers of poetry and essays to submit their work for consideration for publication in the Voice office. Artists who wish to contribute graphic art are urged to do so before Jan. 25, 1963.

Alpha Psi Omega Holds Initiation For Newcomers

Alpha Psi Omega, Iota Beta chapter, initiated two new members to their organizations Saturday afternoon, December 15, in a ceremony held in the Little Theater.

Bev Roth, senior from St. Croix Falls and Anne Kingsbury, sophomore from Turtle Lake were welcomed into the national honorary dramatic fraternity.

To become a member of Alpha Psi, a student must have earned a desired amount of points in acting and the technical aspect of collegiate theater. The initiation carries with it a written examination on the nature of theater and the Greek alphabet. Each pledge then must deliver a scene from a play and recite from Shakespeare. The other members of the cast of Alpha Psi then vote and unanimous approval is required for each new member.

Students May Take Home 'Booty for Beauty' Handbills

Students going home for the Christmas holidays who would like to help in the "Booty for Beauty" campaign being supported by Liggett and Myers Tobacco Co. will have handbills made available to them.

'Extension Courses Set By Demand' Prof Says

Wisconsin State College at River Falls, established in 1874, is the oldest state college in western Wisconsin.

Founded originally for the preparation of teachers, the functions of the college have expanded to include liberal arts and pre-professional curricula as well as teacher education.

In addition to its regular day time curriculum, River Falls State College, has since 1947, been offering evening extension courses.

Dr. L. G. Stone, director of the Extension Division here, is also state-wide chairman of the Advisory Committee on Extension Programming.

"Extension courses will be set up on demand, providing 15 or more people are interested" stated Dr. Stone, "We usually have 200 to 300 participating in courses we now offer."

Elementary teachers in the field have been the most enthusiastic participants in the extension courses. In recent years, however, groups of lay people have become interested in such courses as art, sociology and psychology.

Civil Service Exams To Be Given Jan. 12

Club Formed To Promote School Spirit

A new social organization came into existence on campus following the approval of its constitution by the Student Senate on November 12, 1962. This organization is known as the Falconers.

The objectives of the Falconers are, to bolster the River Falls college spirit, to promote a good college social spirit and to present a good image of the college to the public. These objectives will be attained by promoting student attendance and participation at athletic events, by encouraging participation in college sponsored activities, and by offering services to the college and visiting groups on campus.

This year's officers are: president, Barry Clark; vice president, Dean Ringer; secretary-treasurer, Bob Rosenbrook. A board of directors, consisting of four members and the vice president, will assist the officers and help with the planning and co-ordination of activities. The board members for this year are Vic Londo, Harlan Larson, Dave Fellenz, and Wayne Siebold.

The club's advisor is Mr. Daniel Brown while Dr. Frye serves as honorary advisor. Meetings are held in room 203 of the Student Center.

Since that summer night, the Bell System's Telstar has relayed electronic signals of many types—television broadcasts, telephone calls, news photographs, and others.

But there's one Telstar reflection you might have missed. Look into the faces of the Bell System people below and you'll see it. It is the reflection of Telstar's

Jamesmen Pin Close Loss On Strong Auggie Matmen

MINNEAPOLIS — The most successful Falcon athletic team in recent years continued its winning ways Wednesday evening. River Falls wrestlers, defending WSCC champions, came home with a victory over the grapplers of Augsburg.

Until Ken Trudell decided his man in the last match of the evening, the meet could have been won by either team. The Falcons, slightly rusty in their first dual meet of the season, showed enough class, however, at the right times to take the meet.

The rust especially showed three times, when with Falcons in the lead, slip-ups in the closing seconds of the matches resulted in two losses and a draw for River Falls.

Falcons Jerry Fehlen, Pat Mrotek and Trudell won their matches, Fehlen with a pin. Jerry Halvorson chipped in with a draw. Dick Culver easily won an exhibition match.

The final results showed River Falls 18, Augsburg 16.

La Cross Indians Eke Out Victory Over Stubborn Falcon Five, 87-80

by Bob Brown
Voice Sports Writer

The Falcons ended their conference cage action until after the holiday recess by dropping an 87-80 decision to the La Crosse Indians, here Saturday night. This was their second conference defeat this season in as many starts.

The game was a run and shoot affair with both teams being guilty of many mistakes. As it turned out the story of the game was told in the first eight minutes of action as the Indians built up a 23-9 lead with some hot shooting on their part and some cold shooting by River Falls.

The Falcons began to catch fire in the late part of the first half and cut the margin to 29-28 with six minutes and twenty-eight seconds left on the clock. The first half of action ended with the Indians in front 43-39.

River Falls got the tip to start the second half and the fast break was on. The Falcons scored six straight points to go out in front 45-43 on Al Kohl's jump shot with seventeen minutes and fifty seconds left in the game.

At this point it looked as if the Falcons were on their way to victory, but bad passes and sloppy playing stopped them from capitalizing on their momentum.

The Falcons tied the score at 56-56 with ten minutes and fifty-six seconds left, but La Crosse came back with a bucket and never lost the lead from that point.

The Indians were paced by Larry Hilgendorf and Larry Tranberg with 23 points each. For the Falcons Don Koepnick had 23 and Toby Garey and Al Cole each had 20.

Mankato is still the team to beat

Mankato came within 15 pins of a 12-point sweep over La Crosse, St. Olaf and seventh-place River Falls. With some of the years poorest bowling, the local kegler's lost twelve straight points. The only bright spot for the Falcons was a 223 game rolled by Vic Londo. "The Don Carter of River Falls", Mike Lukowicz, unable to get any help from his teammates, rolled a 585 series.

All-Star League

The Falcons remained on top with a decisive victory over the 202 club. Dave Balke, rolling a big-blue ball, paced the team with a 521 series.

The 10 pins, previously without a victory, rolled to an easy win over the Angels. Gene Schroeder, the little left-hander, led his team with a 505 series.

The hottest team of the night, the Raiders, set a new high team game, 528, and a new high team series with 1446. Curt Weber, the Raider Ace, paced his team to a victory over the Maolons who were in first place until this weeks tragedy.

Regular League

Elmer's Boys moved into a first place tie with the Walverines by blasting the fading Alley Cats. Dick Longsdorf, two-year Alley Cat veteran, rolled a 200 game. Larry Wellins, rolled an unbelievable 207, to keep the Walverines in a first-place tie.

The Scraggs took the first game and the Sleepers took the second, with the series ending in a tie. This gave the Sleepers, once Intra-Mural Champions, their first points of the year.

Page: 'No Regrets On Lack of Press'

by Dave Tauber
Voice Sports Writer

"Even if I had a chance to second guess and do it over again I wouldn't have used the press any sooner," Coah Page told the Voice immediately after the game.

A close look at the game seems to indicate the soundness of this decision. Without using the press the Falcons were able to overcome an ice cold start in the first quarter. After trailing by twelve points around the ten minute mark of the first half, the Falcons got hot and pulled within striking range of the Indians in just three minutes.

Play then leveled off and the first half ended with the Falcons a scant four points behind.

Coach Page stated that he hadn't planned to press until it became apparent that the game was nearly lost and that a desperate gamble was called for. When the Falcons were finally forced to resort to a press in their attempt to pull the game out of the fire, the speedy Indians had little trouble getting the ball down-court.

On the other hand, the Falcons were able to stage two spurts in which they overcame a large deficit and, without the press, managed to gain a four point lead briefly at the start of the second half.

Also the use of a full court press usually causes an increase in the number of fouls that a team will commit. Even without the press, each team committed 21 fouls. This is twice as many infractions as the Wisconsin Badgers committed in beating Miami.

The victorious Indian coach, Cliff De Voll, had this to say about the game: "It sure was a high scoring contest considering the hard defensive play. We were fortunate to get off to such a fast start." De Voll, who's team was outscored 22 to 15 from the free throw line went on to say, "We fouled about 40% too often. Usually we commit about 15 per game."

The seven point advantage that the Falcons derived from the foul line was reversed by the larger number of Indian field goals. The visitors took 13 more shots and hit on 46 per cent of them to outscore their hosts by 14 points from the field. The Falcons, who out-rebounded the Indians, were able to hit on only 41 per cent of their shots.

FALCONS 72, WINONA 83 -- -- Monday night the Falcons traveled to Winona, Minn., and were upended 83-72.

Winona started fast by spurting in front of the fluttering Falcons and led by as much as 17 points in the first half. The first half action ended with Winona in front 41-26. The second half was played on more even terms with the Falcons out-scoring the Warriors 46-42.

The Falcons crept to within seven points late in the second half, but could not overcome the Warrior lead.

Winona's scoring was led by Dick Papenfuss with 16 points and Klinder with 15. Toby Garey of the Falcons paced all scorers with 20 markers.

Rinky Dinks in Pink; Now Lead I-M Teams

BY DICK RICCI
Voice Sports Writer

The Rinky-Dinks are now sole possessors of first place in the intramural basketball league after whipping the Gorgers 49 to 37 in last Thursday's all important game.

After a cold first quarter for both teams, the second period saw the Rinky-Dinks quickly move out in front by a 28 to 16 score. The Gorgers never recovered.

Although the Gorgers out-hustled the Rinky-Dinks, the R D's superior rebounding and height was too much for them.

The result of this game leaves the Rinky-Dinks with a perfect 4-0 record and the Gorgers with three wins and one setback.

Other action last week saw the Untouchables, the Fabulous Five, the Rizzo-Raiders and the Magnificent Seven winning their games to keep within striking distance of first place. All have slates of three wins and no losses.

This week the intramural schedule tumbles into its third week of riuigh and exciting play. In each of these games the spectator can expect the unexpected. Although some games resemble football more than basketball most are well-played and go right down to the last few minutes.

Action thus far has shown good participation by all teams and this illustrates that intramural basketball can be interesting and fun, not only for the more than 260 students participating, but also for those who come to watch.

To make things more interesting and fair for those playing, the present league is to be split into two separate leagues after Christmas, one for the better teams and one for the poorer ones. This should improve play as a whole for the teams will be more equally matched.

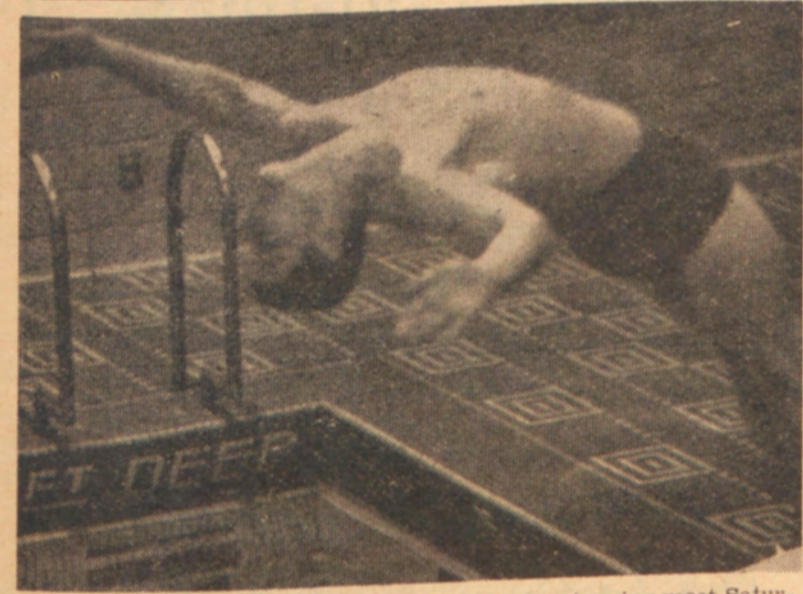

Swimming Notice

Due to the small number of students taking advantage of the college pool facilities, the swimming pool will be open during the following times only.

2:00 to 4:00 p.m. on the first and third Sundays.

7:00 to 9:00 p.m. on each Tuesday.

Should attendance increase and more swimming seems warranted, the regular schedule will be resumed, according to O. B. Bergsrud, director of athletics.

Gene Kidd does a backdive in the Oshkosh swimming meet Saturday.

Titans Swamp Falcons

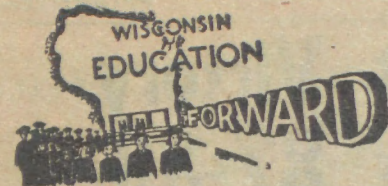

What happens when a strong team on its good day meets a weak team on its bad day? Well, for one thing, the score may look something like 77 to 18. This was the case Saturday, as the Oshkosh Titans handed the Falcon swimmers their third straight defeat.

When the long day was over, Oshkosh had captured every first place but one and had set two pool records. Dave Polachek swam the 50 yd. freestyle in 24.6 to break the pool record by five hundredths of a second and Bob McRoberts swam the 200 yd. freestyle in 2:06.3, 10 seconds under the record set by a St. Olaf swimmer just one week ago.

The Falcons sole first place came in the 400 yd. relay. The team of Olsen, Hirschinger, Buszinski and Hay finished five seconds ahead of their Oshkosh competitors.

According to Coach Russell Gerber, it was a day of faulty turns and poor finishing kicks for the Falcon swimmers. However, he felt that the main factor was the Titan's strength in the free-style events which are our main area of weakness. Coach Gerber picks the Oshkosh and UWM as the teams to beat for the WSCC Championship. The team's 2nd loss of the season was suffered last Tuesday in a 64-29 trouncing at the hands of Gustavus Adolphus College of St. Peter, Minn. The Falcons had only two first places. Gene Kidd won the diving competition and Micky Olson won the 100 yd. free style by a length.

In the 400 yd. freestyle relay, River Falls was defeated not once but twice. The Falcons lost to the regular relay team and to an exhibition squad that finished four seconds behind the winning squad and 20 seconds ahead of the River Falls squad.

Starting this summer, the Wisconsin State Colleges will be offering their own cooperative graduate program which is designed to strengthen the preparation of experienced classroom teachers.

It will enable elementary and secondary teachers to take work leading to a master's degree at the nearest Wisconsin State College or to transfer up to 15 hours of graduate work from one State College to another.

The new program will supplement existing individual programs at La Crosse, Stout, and Superior, as well as the cooperative arrangement between the University of Wisconsin and the State Colleges.

It capitalizes on individual institutional strengths. Most State Colleges will offer graduate work in the standard and well-established areas—language and education—but certain specialized programs in such fields as music, agriculture training teachers of the mentally retarded, and business education will only be offered on certain campuses. In this way a relatively full range of graduate programs for teachers will be available within the State College system.

Requirements for the 30-semester hour program are identical within the system. Graduate students will be expected to complete work in three areas: liberal arts foundation courses, professional education courses, and the area of their teaching specialization—such as English or history. They may complete a degree with thesis or without it.

For the time being, Wisconsin State College and Institute of Technology at Platteville will participate in only the University-State Colleges cooperative program, while Stout and Superior will be affected primarily by transfer students into or out of their graduate programs.

Eau Claire will offer work in language-literature, history, history-social science, mathematics-science, elementary education, and mentally retarded; La Crosse: language - literature, history - social science, mathematics-science, elementary education, and its regular physical education program; Oshkosh: language-literature, history-social science, mathematics-science, and elementary education; River Falls: language-literature, history-social science, mathematics-science, elementary education, and agriculture; Stevens Point: language-literature, history-social science, elementary education, and music; and Whitewater: language-literature, history-social science, mathematics-science, elementary education, and business education.
