

Winter Carnival Fun Led by Rileys; Weather Man Eases Up on Cold

Introduction of the King and Queen, Keith and Vivian Riley, last Friday night at pepfest was the starting gun for a very successful Winter Carnival.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Riley were elected King and Queen in an all school election. Other nominees vying for the honor were: Walter Larson and Mary Ann Most, Robert Wickstrom and Carol Feiler, Arthur Waters and Muriel Larson, and Thomas Anderson and Jean Collins.

At 7:30 p.m. Friday night the freshmen played an exciting game with Fond du Lac cagers.

Fancy skating and a few fancy spills drew a crowd at the municipal rink after the basketball game. The warming house was greatly appreciated by many of the skaters and received a lot of cold feet.

Saturday morning found the sports enthusiasts in the bowling alley for Carnival Bowling Tournament. It was standing room only for spectators.

After lunch Saturday, the campus stave sliders drove out to Hovde hill for an afternoon's skiing. Some of the seniors said that the skiing events had been held there back in 1946 but they didn't remember that the slope had been so great then.

Dean Kittel, Winter Carnival chairman, said, "Some of those kids went down the hill five times before they decided to keep their feet on the ground."

Saturday evening's entertainment began with the memorable Superior basketball game. After the game, Harry Giben's orchestra claimed the spotlight and the traditional Winter Carnival dance was underway.

The climax of the evening's entertainment was the crowning of King Keith and Queen Vivian. Their attendants were Walter Larson and Mary Ann Most and Robert Wickstrom and Carol Feiler.

Former Faculty Member Retires in Chicago

Elmer C. Stauffer, faculty member at RFSTC from 1916 to 1918, has retired from his teaching position at Herzl Junior College in Chicago.

After graduating from Gettysburg College, Mr. Stauffer taught Latin, Greek and football in Pennsylvania high schools for five years.

His next job was teaching English and football at River Falls, followed by a similar assignment in Fargo College.

While teaching at Englewood (Ill.) high he wrote an article on the teaching of ninth grade English for "English Journal". The story attracted the attention of the superintendent of schools in Chicago and Mr. Stauffer was promoted to Crane Junior College.

When Herzl Junior College opened in Chicago he was transferred to its faculty where he taught English and advised the campus newspaper.

Mr. Stauffer has written articles for "Educational Review" and "National Geographic" magazines.

At the request of the Insular Department of Education, he prepared a course in English and American Literature for the high schools of the Philippine Commonwealth. He also has written a guide book of U.S. Highway 30.

Sourdoughs Eye Nate In Far-off Alaska

And now the dog-led drivers of the frozen north are talking about Big Nate DeLong and his scoring record.

Wayne Greenlee, a former student, sent a copy of the Daily News-Miner of Fairbanks, Alaska, which calls itself "America's Farthest North Daily Newspaper."

Inside on the sports page was this headline: "Nate DeLong Busts College Score Mark". The story told of Nate's setting the record at the St. John's game, Dec. 16.

Three Singers Featured In One Act Opera

Three outstanding vocal artists will be heard here Wednesday at 8 p.m. when Andrew Gainey, Marie Randahl, and Paul Knowles present their novel program in which a joint recital between baritone, soprano and tenor voices is combined with a complete production of "The Secret of Suzanne", a light and gay chamber opera in one act.

Andrew Gainey is regarded as one of the outstanding young baritones on the national concert scene, having appeared frequently on James Melton's "Harvest of Stars" radio program as well as singing major roles with the New York City Center and the American Opera Companies.

Soprano Marie Randahl has sung with Jan Peerce and Robert Weede in a radio performance of "Rigoletto" and has also appeared with Lawrence Tibbett on NBC under Dr. Frank Black.

Paul Knowles' tenor voice is regarded as one of the finest and he has done considerable solo work in both New York and Pennsylvania.

Work of this sort has brought him under the baton of such conductors as Toscanini, Ormandy, Walter, Rodzinski and Barbieroli.

The program is being presented by the Community Concert Series in conjunction with our college. Season ticket holders are entitled to reserve seats, but there are no single tickets available. Students will be admitted by their activity tickets.

"The Secret of Suzanne", Wolf-Ferrari's comedy opera, will be heard in English and will be given a full costumed performance by the trio. None of the comedy situations for which the opera is famous will be lost due to an unfamiliar language. The singers who will be heard here give the chamber opera the light, sparkling treatment it should have.

Look Out, Bebop! Here Comes Babalese

Can you speak Babalese? No, I'm not kidding. That's the new language invented by the General Semantics class on campus.

Dr. F. P. Chisholm, the instructor, says that the class has put together the grammatical categories of various American Indian languages into a simple language of their own. They can read and speak the language expressing simple ideas.

"The purpose of the exercise is to learn the functions of different language categories," explains Dr. Chisholm.

Winter First Flight To Run Contest Winner

'Othello' Next Play On Masquer List

"Othello" has been chosen as the next major production of the college Masquers. The presentation is scheduled for March 8 and 9.

The female characters are double cast; Sibby Williamson and Carol Feiler will play Desdemona; Cecily Taylor will play Bianca; Aralda Thayer and Betsy Gilbertson are cast as Emelia.

Othello will be characterized by Robert DeMulling with Robert Pickering as the villainous Iago. Cassio is portrayed by Robert Wickstrom.

Shakespeare wrote this play some 400 years ago and it is said to be his best. The story revolves around a negro, Moor, who has married the beautiful Desdemona, daughter of a governor. Their love story is affected by the villain, Iago, who is jealous of the position Othello has given to Cassio in the army. He schemes against Othello and everyone to benefit himself. Blood flows in the last act with the killing of the beautiful Desdemona.

The following are also included in the cast: Paul Radtke, John DeShazo, Earl Enge, John Wiff, John Pahl, Marvin Gilbertson, Harley Harkness, Dale Fredeen, and Edwin Hillstead.

Carleton Ames Awarded Ph. D. at Wisconsin

After the successful completion of final oral examinations at Madison on Jan. 14, Carleton C. Ames, instructor in history, was awarded the degree of doctor of philosophy by the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Ames' work was primarily in modern and English history with emphasis on the British Empire. His dissertation was "Impact of British Rule on Burma."

Mr. Ames took a leave of absence in the summer of 1948 and finished his course work last summer.

AT THE TALENT SHOW—Among the new talent discovered at the FFA Talent Show, this year was this made quartet of Jim Jacobson, Charles Sargent, Bernard Lium, and Ed Holdorf. Joyce Laramy is the pianist.

and an instrumental combination. The numbers presented ranged from classical to popular with Helen Bozevich, Mildred Mitchell and Mr. Sobottke of the River Falls high school music department, judging the talent. The college band, directed by students in advanced music courses, also presented selections as part of the night's entertainment.

Guest Editorial

If you see someone approaching you to sell a picture of the team, DeLong or Benson, don't be chicken and run, they're working for a trophy case to house all the trophies floating around the campus. The idea was born in a coffee session in the cafeteria and is privately financed.

The idea is to build a trophy case worthy of all the achievements that have been gained by the college.

The pictures are autographed by the team and the famous DeLong and Benson.

The Student Senate has been approached about the possibility of making the room next to the Calico room into a student post office. As of this date the only response is that there are some plans for this room but nothing definite. Why?

One of the greatest assets of any college is the spirit which draws them together. A great demonstration of this was at the Beloit game Monday evening. Of course, some of this is due to the field-house, for they can seat the student body as a whole on one side of the floor; however, the students upheld the team with the cheering. At all times they responded to the leaders. It was wonderful; something to be envied and something to work for.

The experimental theatre, which was to be underway this year, has been cancelled. The future plans of this movement are not definite but it is hoped that this very necessary project will get under way soon for the benefit of both the student body and the training school.

Back to school spirit again. Only 263 votes were cast in the Winter Carnival royalty election. This means that only three of every 10 students voted.

Somewhere along the line something is missing. Either you students are not interested in campus affairs or the election was not well advertised. Perhaps someone can come up with an idea whereby 70 percent of the students will vote.

Thirty-three Years of Campus History Bound in The Student Voice Files

By John C. Whitaker

Since 1916 the Student Voice has been a strong force in campus affairs. In these 33 years editors and reporters have come and gone, but the essential nature of the paper changes little.

Today the Voice exists by virtue of its advertising and an allotment from the student activities fund. Not so 33 years ago. C. Lawrence Thompson, the first editor, and his business manager had to make both ends meet at two cents per copy and advertising revenue. There was no student subsidy. In 1918-19 the young sheet almost fell into the black abyss of bankruptcy. The price had been hiked to three cents (two for a nickel), but it did not save the harried editor from making a direct appeal to the students to throw out the lifeline.

Apparently the student body came through, for in 1923 the presses were still rolling under the exhortations of one Carleton C. Ames, now Dr. Ames of the history staff.

One of the most popular services of the paper was its agitation in 1931 for a nickname for the intercollegiate teams of the college. A competition was sponsored and an assembly picked the Falcons as the best name. It was the product of the imagination of Harry Roesse. And an editorial that same year listed 38 points on how to study!

Special Homecoming editions date back to the end of the "Roaring Twenties" era, 1928 to be precise. The staff that year seems to have had a passion for contests. There was a Who's Who contest and students helped pick the Most Beautiful Girl, Best Student, Best Athlete, and the Most Handsome Man from the 600 enrolled.

Hiss: Guilty or Not?

By Jerry Finn

After weeks of prosecution and the inability of one jury to reach a decision, the Government won its case against Alger Hiss for perjury and has sentenced him to five years in prison. Unless the decision is reversed in a higher court this will, for all practical purposes, end his brilliant career as a government lawyer.

Throughout both trials the jury had to decide whether Whittaker Chambers or Hiss was lying. The difficulty of the situation was that neither could prove his case conclusively. Both men were consistent throughout the two trials in their accusations and denials.

Chambers' testimony was not lacking entirely in documentary evidence to back up his testimony, however. He had in his possession, which was presented at the trial, notes in Hiss's handwriting and the stolen documents from the State Department which were typed on Hiss's Woodstock typewriter. How this occurred the defendant simply did not try to explain.

Probably the most striking damage against the government's case was directed at their star witness by the introduction of two psychologists who were barred from testifying in the first trial. Called to the stand first, Dr. Carl Binger testified that Chambers was suffering from a "psychopathic personality" which was a recognized disease in the Mental Hygiene Laws of New York. He continued that the victim must always play a role and act as if the situation were true though it is true only in his imagination.

Under the cross-examination of Assistant US Attorney Thomas Murphy, Dr. Binger defined psychopathic personality as somewhere between mere oddness and insanity. Dissecting such terms as instability, insensitivity, and untidiness

Murphy wanted to know why Chambers had held the same job at TIME for ten years and was married to the same woman for 19 years if he was unstable? The fact that Chambers said he testified with pity for Hiss and remorse over his past, did not indicate insensitivity. Because Chambers is untidy proves nothing explained Murphy and he pointed to such notable people as Dr. Einstein, Bing Crosby, and Thomas Edison all who have been seen in untidy dress but certainly weren't psychopathic.

While this clever cross-examination by Murphy undermined much of the defense's case the most damaging evidence still stood and couldn't be answered by either Dr. Binger or Dr. Murray, the second psychopathic called by the defense. If Chambers was psychopathic and was lying how did he happen to have notes in Hiss's handwriting and the stolen documents typed on Hiss's machine? Apparently this evidence was a decisive factor in enabling the jury to reach a decision. So ends the career of one of the wonder boys of the new deal. Still dominant in the minds of many people who have been following the trial is if Hiss really stole State Department documents was not his loyalty to his country really shown when he was an aide to Roosevelt in the Yalta Conference and a delegate of the United States when the United Nations was formed? Not without brilliant service to the nation could a man claim for friends who were willing to testify to his loyalty as the Secretary of State and two Supreme Court Justices.

Horace-Scoops

"You mean you're going to charge me one dollar for a loose-leaf notebook?" complained the pert lady-shopper.

"Yes, ma'am," replied the polite clerk. "That's the price we're supposed to sell them for."

"Well, Mr. Smith's store down the street sells them to me for ninety cents."

"That may be, ma'am," said the clerk. "Mr. Smith is a widower and may take a fancy to you. You are a very pretty woman and—yes, ma'am, one dollar. Thank you."

Say, girls, remember the times when mother used to make us wear those horrible knee-length stockings to school? And when we had our hair chopped off up to the ears? Short hair and knee socks are all the rage today. It just goes to show that history repeats itself. At first, the men on the campus didn't know what to think of the girls running around in red sweaters and red knee socks. They were wondering where the sweaters stopped and the sox started. Longies, too, are the style right now, coming in two sizes—those that come to the knee and those that reach the ankle. The winters must be getting colder.

Little Johnny, after being tucked in bed for the night, came running downstairs and said to his father, "I'm not going to sleep until that figment of my imagination gets out from under my bed."

Orchid of the week: To every one of the students who gave such a wonderful exhibition of talent at the All-College Talent Show Wednesday night.

Bob Wilson, from St. Croix Falls, who attended RFSTC in '47 and '48, visited the campus recently. Most of you will remember him as a football star. An accident in which he broke his leg interrupted his career.

With the kiddies: The little boy who had been sent to the hospital said ruefully to his mother, "They're not going to palm a baby off on me like they did on you, are they, mom?"

You know, if it weren't for you students, there just wouldn't be an RFSTC. When you speak of this college, you say, "our college". The publications, too, belong to you. The First Flight magazine is your magazine. It's a magazine that was started by students and is carried on by students. The second issue of this year is coming up. It isn't too late to get at that story, poem, or editorial you've always wanted to write.

Democracy pays off, after all. The not-enough-dances gripe brought a quick change.

It's a funny thing, but when the RFS TC basketball team wins a game, the Twin City papers say they "won", and when they lose a game, the papers say they "took a drubbing".

"The Beggars Opera" which played in the cities this week-end attracted the cultural interests of many students. The University players sponsored the production.

Speaking of plays, Beatrice Lillie is starring in "Inside-USA" Feb. 15. Sigma Chi Sigma is going to furnish transportation. Why not take advantage of such an opportunity?

Nate Sets New Record

Falcons Win Number Six

Nate DeLong set a new conference record as he scored 45 points in helping the Falcons defeat Superior 86-60 last Saturday night. Nate almost defeated the Yellowjackets single-handed as he drove, pivoted, and outfaked the opposition all evening in hitting on 17 of 25 field goal attempts and 11 of 19 from the free throw line.

Superior took a 3-0 lead in the first minute of play. Charley Most scored first for the Falcons on a lay-up and Harry Gibbs sank a free throw to tie the game at 3-3. From then on it was DeLong who poured in the points as he paced the Falcons all the way.

Dom Moselle was the bright spot in the Superior attack as he led his teammates with 14 points. Most of his baskets came on drive-in shots as he broke for the basket on a fast break. Hub Dodge was second in total points with 13.

Krznarich Stopped

For the first time the Falcons were able to stop Krznarich. He was held to six points which was the lowest total he has ever had against the Falcons. His three baskets came on three beautiful long shots, but the fine guarding of Charley Most kept him from shooting to any degree.

River Falls had a comfortable half-time lead of 17 points at 42-25. The Falcons shot at an amazing clip during the first half as they hit on 58 per cent of their shots while Superior was only making 35 per cent.

Nate had excellent support from his teammates as three of them hit for 10 or more points. Newmen Benson was in fine form as he sank five beautiful long shots. Gibbs and Lindholm played another fine game at their guard slots as they rebounded well and contributed to the scoring column.

Kuss Shines

Roger Kuss played the last couple of minutes of the game at a forward position and looked exceptionally well as he made two nifty baskets and a pair of free throws for six quick points.

This new conference record that Nate established was just one point better than the one he set last year when he tallied 44 points against Milwaukee Teachers when the Falcons swamped them 100-75.

River Falls now leads the conference with a 6-0 record. Superior lost their second place rating to Milwaukee by losing to the Falcons. Their record is now 4-2.

It was the hottest night of the year for River Falls as they continued their amazing shooting percentage by sinking 36 of 72 attempts for 50 per cent. There was nothing wrong with Superior's shooting as they hit for 43 per cent on 25 of 59 attempts.

Tonight the Falcons will play the La Crosse Indians. River Falls defeated La Crosse earlier in the season, 50-42.

Next week the Falcons take a swing into the southern half of the conference. They will meet Stevens Point and Whitewater.

Freshmen Win Thriller In Overtime, 82 - 77

Last Friday night the Winter Carnival got off to a fine start as the Freshman basketball team scored an impressive 82-77 overtime victory over Fond du Lac Junior College.

The freshmen were trailing by six points in the closing minute of play but baskets by Slaughter, Erickson, and Kuss knotted the ball game at 68 as the final whistle blew. Roger Kuss sparked the team in the overtime period.

Sam Erickson and Roger Kuss shared scoring honors with 23 points apiece.

Nate Leads Bontemps As RF Bows, 82-68

River Falls suffered its fourth defeat of the year as Beloit college outran the Falcons and racked up an impressive 82-68 win on Beloit's home court.

Four Top I-M League Play

After nearly three weeks of activity in the two night leagues of the Intramural basketball league, there are only four undefeated teams in the leagues. They are Mulhollam Elliott who is leagues in total points.

Ma's Boys are on top because all of the boys can and do score. Lynos Hendrickson is their leading scorer.

Mulhollam and White are the leading

Ma's Boys, Local Yokels, Seven Sinners, and the Polkers.

Dark horse in the National League are the Esquires who have lost one game. They have much scoring power behind Frank leading both Hendrickson scorers of the Local Yokels. Linehan, Sauer and Laufenberg have been doing some nice playing for this team also.

A team that is one of the favorites in the American league is the Korn Kobblers. Jim Dimick is the man doing the scoring for this team which is always tough to beat.

Leading scorers and the teams they represent are: Willis Johnson, Spoilers; Charles Tveten, Brain Trusts; Vernon Shay, Club 21; and Ralph Keller, Scooters.

This game was a battle between two of the country's greatest centers, Ron Bontemps of Beloit, and Nate DeLong of the Falcons. DeLong outscored his southern foe by five points as he netted a total of 29 points while Bontemps tallied 24.

What the Beloit cagers lacked in size they made up in speed and aggressive defensive action. They repeatedly stole the ball before the Falcons could even bring it up to mid-court.

Beloit used the fast break style of play exclusively. It was a case of running the Falcons ragged until they became so tired that they could not keep up with the smaller and speedier men from down-state. Beloit's large floor was a decided disadvantage to the Falcons because they could not keep up the constant running which the game demanded.

River Falls led only once in the game and that was an early 3-2 lead. The Falcons made two determined drives when they tied the score at 17 and when they rallied in the third period to trail by two points at 42-44.

Newmen Benson played a fine game on defense and offense both, and Wallace Lindholm did a wonderful job on rebounding.

Thanks to the blood donors.

Sports Reel by Olie

The results of the Beloit game have been heard and repeated time and again throughout school and all over the mid-west. Around the campus we hear the cry, "Why did we get beat?" It seems that every one who witnessed the game has a solution of his own, and these various answers include, endurance; the team had an off night; Beloit was hot; strange floor; and also many others. I have arrived at a true, simple, and quick answer. On the night of Jan. 23, 1950, Beloit was a better ball club than our Falcons.

The important thing and what all fans look for is the result of the game. They fail to look at the things included in the success of a game like the one at Beloit. Beloit, with an enrollment of approximately 1000, has a superior set-up that includes a combined fieldhouse and auditorium with a seating capacity of 4,200.

At this particular game they went all out to welcome and to show a good time to the team and to reporters covering the game. Coach Schlagenhauf was introduced by loud speaker as the guest of the evening, and then the starting five were introduced as each of them ran out on the floor. Then Beloit's starting five were introduced and as each ran out on the floor they shook hands with and stood opposite their opponent for the evening.

Five of our student body and one faculty member covered the game and were treated like kings. First they set up a scoring table located in the first row and midway between the baskets. At half time one student was interviewed for an MF broadcast by a Beloit radio station covering the game and after the game all were invited to a buffet lunch held at a downtown club. All the sports writers and publicity directors covering this game were there and the Beloit team was present for interviews.

The Beloit team all seemed to arrive at the conclusion that the Falcons are a good team and a swell bunch of fellows. Ron Bontemps, and also his dad, praised Nate as a good ball player and more so as a gentleman.

Getting back to the conference that now holds our complete attention. Milwaukee has come up as a great threat and as fate would have it the Falcons do not meet them this year. They have one defeat in conference play.

Hats Off To...

There's a story behind small, sandy haired Joseph Budaj, 29-year-old senior from Phillips, Wis. Joe has never been to high school, yet he plans to graduate after only three years and three summer sessions at RFSTC.

He helped his folks on the farm after he graduated from a one-room country school near Phillips. Uncle Sam called Joe's number up February of 1942 and Joe found himself in the infantry. During the war he served in the Pacific theatre, New Guinea and the Dutch East Indies.

While attacking the Japanese on the Philippines in May, '45 Budaj was hit twice in the jaw and legs.

Upon his release from a Missouri Army hospital 16 months later, Joe went logging. A year later at the age of 27 he decided to go to college.

"When I came here in the fall of '47 and signed up in the ag department, I was dubious about my chances of getting through. But I had to give myself a chance." Joe recalls, "Every class made me feel completely in the dark, but I stuck to it and slowly caught on."

Joe really has caught on. Not only is he high in his class marks but an active member of the FFA, Newman Club and the Honor Society. An outdoorsman at heart, his favorite sports are hunting and fishing.

"I don't know for sure, yet, what I will do after graduation next Fall, but I may go into agriculture teaching," he explains.
