Asian Crash Is Fatal To State Educators

Dr. Melvin L. Wall, chairman of the plant and earth science department in the College of Agriculture of Wisconsin State University - River Falls was killed Friday, March 24, in a plane crash in South Vietnam.

He was one of eight U.S. educators serving with the U.S. Agency for International Development on a survey of universities at Saigon, Hue and Can Tho.

All eight men and their pilot were killed when their small twin-engine plane crashed into a mountain north of Da Nang during turbulent rainy weather. The plane was en route from Saigon to Hue.

Dr. Wall, 54 years old, joined the faculty at River Falls in 1940. Previously, he was vocational agriculture instructor at Roberts High School for two years. He received his B.S. degree from Wisconsin State University - River Falls in 1936 and his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Wisconsin.

During the summers of 1940-45, Dr. Wall was in soil conservation work in Vernon county. He was active in civic and community affairs and was chairman of the Campus Development Committee at River Falls. He did much of the planning for a committee project, the beautification of the South Fork area of the campus and an amphitheatre he planned was designated the Melvin Wall amphitheatre by the Board of Regents.

Prof. Wall also was honored in a series on leading agronomists published in Corps and Soils Magazine.

He is survived by his widow, Margaret Boles Wall; two sons, Douglas, a freshman at Wisconsin State University - River Falls, and Charles of St. Paul; a daughter, Mrs. Don Duszynski of Ft. Collins, Colo., and his mother, Mrs. Elsie Wall of River Falls. Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Frank Niccum of Hammond, a brother, Kenneth Wall of Ellsworth, and a grandson, Andrew C. Wall of Osceola.

Dr. Wall left for Vietnam Jan. 2 for the first study of Vietnam's system of higher education ever made by the United States. The survey was a joint effort by the Vietnam government and AID.

The survey team had completed the first phase of the study--a survey of existing conditions--and had made a preliminary report on the second phase--long-range needs and implementation. The educators were to have finished their final report in early April and planned to be back at their homes by the latter part of the month.

Others killed in the crash included the team leader, Dr. James Albertson, president of Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point; Dr. A. Donald Beattie, Dean of the School of Business and Economics at Wisconsin State University-Whitewater; Dr. Harry Bangsberg, president of Bemidji (Minn.) State College; Dr. Vincent F. Conroy, director of field studies in Harvard's center for research and development; Dr. Howard Johnshoy, dean of academic affairs at Gustavus Adolphus College; Dr. Arthur D. Pickett, director of honor programs, University of Illinois, Chicago, and Robert La Follette, an AID official stationed at Saigon since 1964 and former professor of history at the University of Maryland.

The political science department will be sponsoring its 10th annual Grassroots Political Conference on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

"Political Morality in Public Office" will be the main topic for the speeches, panel and debate that have been scheduled for the three-day conference. Student Senate President Keith Rodli suggested the topic as being both appropriate and timely in view of the recent scandals involving U.S. Senators Dodd and Powell and the recent legal difficulties encountered by state legislators Paul Alfonsi and Willis Hutniok.

When writing to the prospective participants in the conference, Dr. Robert L. Berg, head of the political science department, included a number of preliminary suggestions of items for consideration that will probably form the guidelines of most of the speeches. Among these suggestions were the following: are our political morals at a particularly low ebb? Beyond the Dodd and Powell affairs, what manifestations are apparent? How important are the problems of nepotism (favoring relatives in politics)? How important are campaign techniques and financing? Are codes of ethics an answer to the problems? If public bodies are able to formulate codes, are there feasible means of enforcement?

The political science department has scheduled four events for the three-day conference. The first event will be a speech by J. Louis Hanson on Wednesday at 2 p.m. in North Hall Auditorium. Hanson is the Wisconsin Democratic Chairman. He has been described as a "forceful speaker" and according to Dr. Berg, he "doesn't soften his attack on the opposition." Hanson could foreseeably bring up the topic of the recent Republican legislators legal difficulties.

Thursday's first event will be a discussion and question-answer period by a panel of journalists and news commentators at 2 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom. The panel will consist of George Rice, editorial commentator for WCCO-TV, the editor and publisher of the "Rice Lake Chronotype," Warren Leary and Gordon Randolph, Milwaukee Journal political reporter. Dr. James Harless of the journalism department will act as moderator.

Thursday evening at 7 p.m., the Young Democrats and Young Republicans on campus will sponsor a banquet in the Student Center Ballroom featuring a debate between Frank Nickolay, legislative vice-chairman of the Wisconsin Democratic Party, and Stanley York (R) who is serving his first term as assemblyman for Pierce, Pepin and Buffalo counties. Nickolay was at one time Majority Leader of the Wisconsin Assembly and York is a Congregational minister here in River Falls. They both seem to have special interests in political ethics. Tickets for the banquet will be on sale in the Student Center dining area.

The 1967 Grassroots Political Conference will be rounded out with an all-school convocation featuring Congressman Clark McGregor, 4th District Minn., at 1 p.m. on Friday in Karges Gym. Rep. McGregor is serving his third term in the 90th Congress. He has participated on the Judiciary Committee and on its sub-committee on claims and state taxation of interstate commerce in his first term and in 1966 became the ranking Republican member of the Judiciary's bankruptcy and reorganization sub-committee and a member of the immigration sub-committee.

What's Doing

TUESDAY APRIL 4

There will be a freshman class meeting at 4 p.m. on Tuesday, April 4, in North Hall Auditorium. All freshmen are expected to attend.

The Style Show sponsored by Lynn Rose will be held April 4 at 7 p.m. in the McMillan Hall lounge. There will be college models with 60 outfits. Price is 25¢. Everyone is welcome. Boys too.

WEDNESDAY APRIL 5

There will be a junior class meeting on Wednesday, April 5, at 4:15 p.m. in rooms 201-3 of the Student Center. Discussion will include finances, availability of jurors to work for the senior class banquet and the class elections which will be held on Wednesday, April 12.

THURSDAY APRIL 6

All students interested in interviewing for the Special Events sub-committee of U.A.B. should meet with Sue Rozehnal and Audy Anton in the Student Senate Office this Thursday, April 6, at 2 p.m.

MONDAY APRIL 10

During the week of April 10-14 the Student Senate will hold their meeting on Monday, April 10 at 6:30 p.m. due to the Senate and class elections which will be held on Wednesday, April 12 of that week, and therefore, counted on that Wednesday evening.

The annual tea for senior women, given by the Faculty Women's Club of WSU-RF, will be at the home of Mrs. E. H. Kleinpell on Monday, April 10. The hours are 3-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Invitations are being sent to 150 senior women.

THIS NEW 33 UNIT APARTMENT BUILDING will be ready for occupancy in June. The new apartment building is located at 218 Charlotte St. The apartment building was constructed by Lowery Hill. They are also building another apartment house at the end of Cascade St.

Sells Brooms

Just in time for spring cleaning, the Newman Club of WSU-RF will be selling brooms, Saturday, April 8. This is the second of an annual event and the Club hopes to make it an even bigger success than last year's sale.

Students will be on the streets from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. knocking on doors at every home in Hudson and River Falls. Three types of brooms have been ordered from the Deshler Broom Company of Deshler, Nebraska, world famous for their fine quality and value. Newmanites will be well supplied with household, toy, and whisk brooms from which patrons can choose. There will be no delay in delivery as possession will be immediate.

Approximately 80 students will be involved in the one day campaign. Months of planning have resulted in one of the best money-raising projects that Newman has fostered. Profits received from this project will be applied toward the new chapel and center the club hopes to begin building in the near future.

The dorms will not be canvased but students who would like to purchase brooms for their parents or themselves should call the Newman Center at 425-5410 for special delivery.

Bulgarian Film To be Shown

"Slutzeto i Senkata" is Bulgarian for "Sun and Shadow," a Bulgarian film to be shown in the Little Theater Sunday, Apr. 9.

The movie portrays conflicting attitudes about the possibility of nuclear war, symbolically dramatized in the story of two young people who meet on the shores of Black Sea, fall in love, and find their love threatened by the shadows--intolerance, death, atomic war.

The action takes place on a beach. Neither the boy, the girl or the camera ever leave the beach. Director Rangel Vulchanov deliberately chose this setting, he said, because on the beach "People seem to strip off, together with their clothes, their prejudices and conditioning."

"The characters of the boy and the girl," he continues, "are translucent. They are not concrete people, but simply an idea about people . . . They play out the poetic struggle between light and dark, sun and shadow."

As the characters themselves say, "Man is two creatures, not one: two into each other lovingly spun." And again, "We're the same persons. I can say, 'I love you', or 'You love me.'"

Summer Theatre

The summer bill for the St. Croix Valley Summer Theater has been completed. Under the direction of Sanford Syse, speech instructor at WSU-RF, the company of actors gathered here will present the following plays:

"The Fantastiks," a musical from Broadway with book and lyrics by Tom Jones and music by Harvey Schmidt; "The Physicists" by Friederich Durrenmatt; "The Heiress," an adaptation of the short story by Henry James; "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf" by Edward Albee; "The Hostage," an Irish comedy by Brendan Behan.

Karnik Elected Region President

Patricia Karnik, WSU-RF - UAB chairman, was recently elected President of Region 8 of the Association of College Unions. Karnik and Mr. Robert Brock, Student Center Director, attended the Region 8 Steering Committee meeting held in Chicago the week end of March 17-19 at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle Campus. The steering committee is composed of six students and three staff. The students represent the old host school of the annual conference (River Falls), the new host school (U. of Ill.), a Wisconsin school (W.S.U.-Oshkosh), a Michigan School (Northern Michigan University), an Illinois school (Wheaton College). Dr.

Ortenzi from Stout State University is the Staff Representative for the region.

Brock will be taking over within the next week as the new Regional Representative a position currently held by Mr. Clarence Leverenz of the U. of Ill. Medical Center. The steering committee met to plan the activities and make the arrangements for the regional conference which will be held in Chicago next October. This Conference will be attended by members of the University Activities Board. Possible year around projects were also discussed, such as the possibility of a summer leadership camp.

Miss Karnik will be working with the members of the steering committee to coordinate the plans for the conference and begin work on other projects suggested by the committee. Her main duty will be to preside at the fall conference and to represent the Association of College Unions Region 8 as a member of the Region 8 executive committee.

Groppi Blames Caste System at Forum

"Everything we do in the black community is a result of the American caste system, or in other words, white supremacy." This statement was made by Fr. Groppi, adviser to the NAACP Youth Council in Milwaukee, at a Free Spirit Forum held here last Wednesday.

Black people, said Fr. Groppi, have been relegated to second class status in this society, and because of this they strike back at society as part of a movement to alter their position in society.

Because he wanted to identify with the black poor and to bring more youth into the council, Fr. Groppi established Freedom House--an old condemned Milwaukee house inhabited by rats and roaches. Because they refused to make needed repairs on the building which they felt should have been made by the landlord, Fr. Groppi and the youth council were forced to move into another house, where they are still getting organized.

It was while he was at Freedom House, however, that Fr. Groppi learned what black people are going through. "Do you realize", he said, "that Negroes in the blighted area of Milwaukee are paying more rent per square foot than those in Whitefish Bay?" Today, there are 80,000 to 85,000 Negroes in Milwaukee, and 120,000 are expected by 1970.

Of the entire colored population, 50 per cent are younger than 21. Approximately 3/4 of Negroes are renters and one of their largest problems is finding housing. Large families often are crowded into small rooms. Toilet facilities are poor. "Poverty smells," Groppi said, "and it is because the people can't stand the stench in the summer that they riot."

Turning once again to Freedom House, Fr. Groppi mentioned Dino, a Negro youngster who had come into the movement, Dino, who left home at the age of 13 and managed to survive in the ghetto by stealing food from the near-by supermarkets. Today, he is a fine, hard-working citizen and is planning to be married in June. "Dino's only sin," Groppi said, "was being born into the wrong ethnic group."

Fr. Groppi and the youth council picketed the Eagles Club last March for what Groppi termed "their discriminatory policies." He explained that the Eagles Club had brought in top Negro performers, had taken the Negro's money, but would not accept Negro members. Among the many public officials belonging to the Eagles Club were 17 judges and the mayor. The mayor resigned, however, because he had "too many memberships in too many clubs." One judge also dropped, the reason being that "the club didn't give him any help in the last election."

Some people claim the Eagles Club is a private organization and, therefore, justifies its policy of white supremacy. "I see some justification for private clubs for strengthening a particular religion or ethnic group," conceded Groppi, "but I can't see a Caucasian culture organizing a private club for the purpose of strengthening an already dominant Caucasian group."

Fr. Groppi and the youth council were highly publicized when they picketed the home of Judge Cannon in Wauwatosa for failure to withdraw his membership from the Eagles Club. On Sunday, Aug. 30, 170 persons marched seven miles from Freedom House to Wauwatosa, where Gov. Warren Knowles had ordered the Na-

Christy Minstrels Here April 17

The New Christy Minstrels are coming here Monday, April 17. They will perform at 8 p.m. in the Karges Gym.

Each year the Student Senate sponsors some big name entertainment. This year it's the New Christy Minstrels. It is costing the Senate over $3,300.

The New Christy Minstrels placed third in the poll taken last quarter. The Lovin' Spoonfuls, who placed first, and Simon and Garfunkle, who placed second, were too far outside the price range for the Senate.

Tickets for the performance will be sold in advance this week in the Student Center. They will be for seats in sections of the gym. The price is $1.50 in advance and $2 at the door.

Students To Discuss Writers

Students interested in participating in weekly group discussions of the works of various modern writers are invited to a group organizational meeting at the Coffeehouse, Wednesday, April 5, at 7:30 p.m.

The Coffeehouse Steering Committee hopes that the first discussion will be held on April 12, with the group having read the first book in the series, "The Ginger Man," by J.P. Donlevy, by that time. Leading the discussion of that work will be Ronald Neuhaus, English instructor here.

Other works which the group may discuss are: "Beyond Berkeley," by Katope and Zolbrod; "A New Life," by Malamud; "Nausea" and "The Flies," by Sartre; and "The Pawnbroker," by Wallant.

Senate Announces Budget Cut, Debates Calendar Change

Student Senate announced 10 per cent cuts in all its committees following a lower-than-expected spring enrollment, discussed changes in its April 12 election and debated a tentative school-year calendar for next year drawn up by two faculty members.

In the Budget Committee report, Senate President Keith Rodli announced that University President Kleinpell had decided to cut each Senate organization and committee 10 percent of their spring budget. Rodli said the cuts come as a result of enrollment falling far below expected. Probable exception to the cut will be the Meletean, with an "uncuttable" budget.

Changing the school's election rules, Senate decided that King and Queen social candidates do not have to post an overall 2.0, elections have 72 hours in which to be formally contested and poll operators do not have to write down the student number of each person desiring to vote.

Citing situations in which he was swamped as a poll operator, Sen. Chuck Feltes asked Senate to adopt the last change, which was carried. When Dr. Bill Webster asked how charges of "ballot stuffing" would be answered under the new situation, Senate voted to reconsider the motion but repeal was not accomplished.

Sen. Wayne Weiss made public a calendar drawn up for next year by Dr. Buschen and Garlid of the River Falls faculty. Their calendar allows "study days" before a five-day final periods, 15 minutes between each final exam, 172 class days next year (the state university average was approximated at 169 days) and efforts made to insure that no student has more than one final per day.

A lengthy discussion of the Buschen-

Garlid calendar followed with Dr. Webster pointing out that the problem here is still a Labor Day start.

Sen. George Wilbur moved that the Senate initially endorse the Buschen-Garlid plan with the exception of the dates cited for Easter/Spring break for which he sought to add two days. Wilbur's recommendation passed by a 7-1-2 (Sens. Jack Brown and Chas. Wolfe abstained) count.

In other action, the Senate vowed to call a special meeting at 6:30 Monday to discuss whether changes in the Senate constitution should be put to the students in the spring election, sent a sympathy card to the family of deceased agriculture professor Melvin Wall and announced that tickets for the April 17 New Christy Minstrels concert should go on sale next week.

He Will Be Missed

Elsewhere in this issue is the story of the tragic and untimely death of Dr. Melvin L. Wall, chairman of the plant and earth science department of the College of Agriculture and a River Falls faculty member since 1940. Also in this issue are letters recounting Dr. Wall's accomplishments and expressing a sense of loss.

The STUDENT VOICE can add little to what has been said. We knew Dr. Wall as the builder of Wall Amphitheater and the beautifier of the South Fork. Our faculty adviser says he was an expert bridge player and a gracious host. Agronomy students say he was an inspiring teacher.

He was all these things and more. He will be missed.

What's Wrong

Two weeks ago a man appeared on this campus named George Lincoln Rockwell. Approximately 3,000 students listened to this man talk of ridding America of the "blackies." Last Thursday a Roman Catholic Priest appeared on this campus, telling about eliminating discrimination in Wisconsin and the United States, approximately 40 people listened to him speak.

Who's fault is this? What is the matter with the students at WSU-RF?

We hear excuses, "there was no publicity for the convocation," "Civil rights is an old horse," Today in River Falls, Wisconsin landlords refuse to rent to negroes because they fear the opinions of their neighbors. This is an old horse that is dying. Why aren't students concerned about the future of their country and their fellow man? It is amazing that a student attending a University can simply ignore his world. How can you justify living in this ivory tower of knowledge and never put this knowledge to work.

Where does the fault lie? Let us look at the school, the students and the emphasis upon education which is exhibited at WSU-RF. The school is oriented toward educational degrees, we might even call it a factory turning out teachers. The students are oriented toward a rural life, they have never been challenged here, and they fail to see the meaning of anything beyond the walls of River Falls State University. Education at River Falls is also extremely interesting, students who are challenged by a professor bitch away their time about his excessive work load or his inability to work under the extreme conditions which he creates.

The Voice Editorial Board gets the impression that the WSU-RF student feels that someone, somewhere, perhaps a Great God on High owes the student an education and that this education must be spoon-fed to him. What kind of challenge for the 20th century is this. Where in all the processes of education were we given the stimulus to be unstimulated, to ignore the challenges which our generation professes.

It seems to be a very sad state when there are not more than 40 people out of 3,000 who take the time to listen to a man discussing a problem which we have ignored for more than 200 years. Come on R.F. get off your backsides and accept the challenges that this university does offer you. Run fast before you become a product of your own contentment.

Eight for the Fourth

BY STEVE WALTERS

On April 4, eight constitutional amendments will be voted on by Wisconsin's voters. The figure eight is the highest number of amendments to be voted on since a record 10 were placed on the November, 1914 ballot.

Four of the eight proposed amendments deal with extending the terms of the constitutionally-provided state offices of (1) governor and lieutenant governor; (2) secretary of state; (3) state treasurer and (4) attorney general. The amendments seek to give all these offices a four-year terms as opposed to the current two-year stint.

The other amendments: (5) Shall governor and lieutenant governor be on the same party ticket. (6) Shall sheriffs be permitted unlimited terms of office. (7) shall the state finance busing of children to private and parochial schools. (8) Shall Supreme Court and circuit court judges' pay be equalized among their individual ranks.

In analysis, the amendment governing a sheriff's unlimited term of office was defeated in 1922, 1946, 1956 and 1961; the single ticket election of governor and Lt. gov. would make the state only the sixth in the union to adopt the amendment; and Wisconsin is one of the eleven states that still retain two-year terms for governors.

Probably the hottest issue of the eight amendments is the busing proposal, at the core of recent legislative debate from all levels. In November, 1946, state voters rejected the issue by a 545,475 to 437,817 count.

If adopted, the proposal would go against the state Constitution's ingrained "seperation church and state" ideal, necessitating a change in Article 1, section 18. Another aspect of the bus proposal would be the cost involved. The Department of Public Instruction estimates that 110,990 students in private schools might be transported.

At an average cost of $3,020 per pupil--the biennial cost to the state would be $6.7 million. This would unbalance an already-tight Republican budget and probably increase state taxes. I find myself unable to support this amendment.

The amendments providing for a four-year term for the five state offices mentioned earlier is a necessity to eliminate fulltime politicians in these offices and provide for more civic-minded goals and programs. Currently, a state officer can not establish any program or start any benefiting goals because he must overly-concern himself with re-election.

On the other referendums (professing more unstable opinions), the equalization of judges' pay among the individual judicial ranks is a necessity; the current system electing the governor and Lt. governor on the same ticket should be revoked, making for greater compatibility between the two officeholders; and sheriffs--operating at already somewhat of an inadequate level--should be allowed limited terms.

Letters- Letters- Letters- Wants Better Hockey Equipment

To the Editor:

This past winter sports season saw the hockey team post a winning 8-6 record. Compared to the previous year when only one game was won, the large strides of improvement become obvious. Four of the team's six losses were lost by a one goal margin. River Falls can establish itself as a hockey power; it has the potential, yet the potential must be developed. This last season proved cold and snowy, for which the hockey team paid the price. The players spent valuable time (possibly practice time) shoveling snow from the rink, and more time was spent struggling to flood the same rink with a hose of inferior quality.

Very few athletic teams could endure the handicaps the hockey team did and yet emerge victorious.

The hockey program could be improved with the following additions:

1. A new hose and hot water-barrel flooder, which are expected next year.
2. Janitorial maintenance for the rink.
3. A roof to shield the ice surface insuring good ice at high temperatures and during snow. It would provide better protection against cold for the spectators and is a prerequisite for top grade hockey.
4. An increased budget is necessary. The present budget of $1,040 is approximately one-third to one-fifth that of our opponents' budgets.

5. New uniforms would give the team increased dignity and polished appearance as compared to the "Raggedy Ann" look of this year.

6. More faculty and administrative support is necessary to insure the smooth running of the hockey program.

A better hockey rink could be one of River Fall's most valuable assets for winter entertainment. I appeal to the student body, Student Senate, faculty, administration, and coaching staff to fight for the betterment of this program.

Sincerely, Pete Boelter
Player Representative

Students Study Abroad

Five undergraduate programs in Europe--an intensive summer language session in France and fall-semester programs in Austria, France, Germany and Spain--will be inaugurated this year by the Institute of European Studies, Chicabo-based educational institution for study abroad.

The six-week summer program will begin June 19 in Nantes, France. An Institute spokesman said it has been designed primarily for students who need accelerated instruction in French before participation in academic-year programs, at the Institute's Nantes and Paris centers.

However, the summer program is also open to students who do not intend to pursue further studies in France following the program.

The fall-semester programs will be offered at the Institute's centers in Paris; Madrid; Frieburg, West Germany, and Vienna. They will be devoted to liberal arts, social science studies and intensive language instruction.

Participation in the Vienna fall-semester program is restricted to students from the 21 colleges belonging to the Institute's Council of Affiliated Institutions. All other fall-semester programs are open to qualified sophomores and juniors registered in U.S. four-year liberal arts colleges.

The Institute, a private, non-profit educational institution, also conducts full-year and spring-semester programs at its five European centers in Freiburg, Madrid, Nantes, France, Paris and Vienna. It is the principal U.S. sponsor of undergraduated foreign, study programs.

Students from over 300 U.S. colleges and universities currently participate in the Institute's programs. In addition, the Institute plans, organizes and conducts specially designed programs abroad for a number of U.S. institutions of higher learning.

Y-Dems to Hold Convention Here

Speakers Arranged

Congressman Robert Kastenmeier of Madison, the 2nd district Representative, will give the opening address to the 1967 Young Democratic Clubs of Wisconsin State Convention to be hosted by the WSU-River Falls Y-Dems. It will be held this year at the Hudson House, Hudson, Wisconsin, April 21, 22, and 23rd.

Rep. Kastenmeier, a member of the powerful House Judiciary Committee will deliver his address Friday night. The Congressman has been an outspoken advocate of a professional army replacing the present draft system.

Registration and speeches by the candidates for the three major statewide Y-Dem offices will preclude the Congressman's speech, Friday night.

Saturday's activities will include addresses by Congressman Clement Zablocki; the state chairman of the Democratic party, J. Louis Hanson; Democratic National Committeeman David Carley; Wisconsin Attorney General Bronson V. LaFollette; and the legislative vice-chairman of the Democratic party, Frank Nikolay.

At the 1966 Y-Dem State Convention at Manitowoc, David Carley's fiery oratory won the hearts of the delegates attending. Much of the same is expected this year of the man proclaimed by most Democrats and Republicans alike as the outstanding orator in the state.

The keynote speaker of the convention has not been confirmed as of yet. Attempts have and are being made to bring to the convention either the Junior Senator from New York, Robert F. Kennedy or Vice-President Hubert Humphery.

Platform Planning

Vietnam will probably be the most controversial plank of the 1967 Platform of the Wisconsin Y-Dems, according to state platform chairman George Wilbur. The platform will be presented to the Y-Dems at the state convention in Hudson, April 21-23.

Wilbur, a member of the River Falls Y-Dems, stated in an interview that resolutions have been heard on Vietnam ranging from complete backing of the Johnson administration, to "threatening" withdrawal of such support in the 1968 election.

"While these represent singular positions, it will be very interesting to see what type of stand is taken on this difficult question," stated Wilbur.

He also cited conservation, preprimary convention endorsement of state candidates, the price squeeze on farmers, and a stand on student rights as probable planks of the platform.

One definite proposal already submitted to the committee criticizes the Wisconsin Supreme Court decision in the Alfonsi Case and calls for stronger anti-bribery legislation with stiffer penalties.

"The Convention may also come out with a surprise position on 18 year old drinking," added Wilbur.

tional Guard to keep order.

When the group arrived in Wauwatosa, however, the National Guard was nowhere in sight. People were swarming into the street, throwing eggs and bottles and yelling, "Black bastards" and "Nigger lovin' priests go home." Meanwhile, Fr. Groppi was approached and asked to keep the line from becoming too long. Two blocks away, the National Guard was holding back 8,000 persons. If a major incident had occurred, "Wauwatosa would have made Selma, Ala., look like child's play," Fr. Groppi said.

"The ironic part of all this," Groppi continued, "is that the instigators of all this unreligious behavior go to church on Sunday." He contends that religion has become irrelevant and that even the institutional church has become part of the system. "All churches teach brotherhood," he said, and "Christianity has never failed anyone--it has just never been tried." The terms "Indian and Negro missions" and "doing something" for Negroes should be abolished, because they suggest white superiority Fr. Groppi said. If we talk about weaknesses in Negroes, he said, we also must talk about their strengths. Otherwise, we have a subtle form of racism, he said.

Groppi does not predict a riot in Milwaukee this summer, although he admits that the ingredients are there. The white apathy, according to the NAACP Youth Council adviser is great. He gave as an example of this the school board, which refuses even to admit there is a segregation problem. At the present time, there are five times as many black children going to school in the Milwaukee core area as in any other area. The children are transported by what is termed "segregated and intact busing." Groppi said that we must be aware that "se-

Fr. Groppi said police harassment are big problems to the council, and put the blame on the policeman's poor understanding of the Negro's situation.

During the question-answer period that followed the forum, one of the major questions asked was, "Have you received support from the archbishop of your diocese?" Fr. Groppi replied, "We've had our difficulties." The Archbishop said in an interview that Groppi was not the voice of the church. "That's just the problem," retorted Groppi. "The church has taken no stand on civil rights. We've just been pussyfooting around. When the black man has his power, the white man will have his humanity."

In reply to the question, "How have the people in the core received the Freedom House?" Groppi answered, "Very well. I believe that the degree of our acceptance will depend on how much we give ourselves to the civil rights movement."

Responding to the question, "How do you feel about the big brother program being employed in some of our universities?" Groppi said, "I don't care for it. It breeds paternalism and condescension. This is a band-aid approach for something that needs major surgery."

Fr. Groppi concluded his speech by asking the audience the same question that he himself had been asked many times. "Why don't I stay in the parish where I belong? Because my place is with the people in the community who need help, not in the rectory watching the picket line. You can't completely separate religion and politics. The place of every God-fearing man is alongside his brother, who is being cheated in the system."

Names New Dean

Heading the Student Personnel Division at Wisconsin State University - River Falls next year will be Dr. William L. Munns who will assume his new duties July 1.

Announcement of the appointment of Dr. Munns as Vice-president for Student Affairs was made by President E. H. Kleinpell.

Dr. Munns will come to River Falls from Flagstaff, Ariz., where he has been associate dean of students and professor of psychology and counseling at Northern Arizona University for the past two years.

Prior to his position at Northern Arizona University, Dr. Munns was associate professor and coordinator of guidance at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

He has served as district guidance director for two school districts, the Barrington (Illinois) Consolidated School District and the Twin Falls (Idaho) public schools. Earlier, he was counselor and social science instructor in schools at Gill and Sterling, Col.

A personnel officer in the U.S. Air Force, he served from 1951-54. He received the B.A. degree from Colorado State College at Greeley in 1951, the M.S. degree from the University of Colorado, Boulder, in 1956 and the Ed.D. degree in educational psychology and guidance from Colorado State College at Greeley in 1962.

Dr. Munns is the author of numerous articles in the field of guidance and holds membership in Phi Delta Kappa, Psi Chi, the Association for Counselor Education and Supervision, the American College Personnel Association and the American Personnel and Guidance Association. He is listed in "Who's Who in the Midwest."

He is married and has two children. Dr. Munns will replace Dr. B. J. Rozehnal, Dean of Students, who has announced his resignation effective at the end of the current academic year.

Music Group Goes on Tour

Following the annual spring tour this week, the Concert Choir and the Chamber Singers of Wisconsin State University-River Falls will present a homecoming concert Thursday, April 13, in North Hall auditorium. The 8 p.m. program is open to the public without charge.

The April 3-7 tour includes concerts at Somerset, New Richmond, St. Croix Falls and Superior in Wisconsin and at Cambridge and Braham in Minnesota.

Selections by the Concert Choir open the home concert and the tour concerts. "Let Us Be Joyful" by Graun will be followed by "Monotone" (poem by Carl Sandburg) by Lockwood; "Prayers of Steel" (poem by Sandburg) by Christiansen; "Surely He Hath Borne Our Grievs" by Graun and "Christus Factus Est" (sung in Latin) by Bruckner.

Spring Sports Swing!

At squad practice in the gym is Jerry Ramseir, a distance man for the Falcons. Home meets will be run at beautiful, spacious Ellsworth High School.

Out of My Mind from 209

By Mike Norman

WITH THE WINTER SPORTS OVER, one of the bright spots in the athletic season should be noted . . . This is swimming coach Michael Davis . . . If more coaches and students had the attitude of this fellow, then this school would snap out of its conservative backward ways and move into 1967 . . . He has taken it upon himself to recruit some of the topnotch high school swimmers in Wisconsin who will hopefully attend RF . . . the swimming team completed its most successful season in years and all because of the tremendous spirit and amazingly optimistic attitude of Coach Davis . . . Our congrats to Coach Davis--keep up the good work and long live tennis . . .

THE BASEBALL OUTLOOK is real promising . . . With Coach Don Page breaking windows and light bulbs in the gym, warm weather didn't come a bit too soon . . . The first game of the season will be played this Saturday on the new Ramer Field if it's not flooded or frozen by Saturday . . . Get out and back all the spring sports, fans, they need your support . . .

IN THE GREATEST SPORTS ARENA on campus, the Student Senate, it is curious to note that with the budgets of many activities being cut, the venerable Senate allotted over $3,000 for the New Christy Minstrels (you know they twang and trill) on April 19 . . . This is interesting in the light of the many other projects the Senate could not find money for gee Senator Bob, "empty heads and full bellies?"

EDITORIAL

For those advocates of a gentle, pro-phy ed. department sports policy, then this editorial may rub them the wrong way. For two years this reporter has observed the wondrous workings of this school towards athletics. It makes us wonder many times why there is even an athletic department when little appreciation is given it and its benefits reach so few students.

The sports situation at this university is usually poor and at the best haphazard. Many examples can be cited to support this claim but it would take many more inches than we have available. Three specific cases come to mind when this question arises.

An old issue that has been hashed over many times is that remnant called a football stadium. Why when Whitewater and many other state universities have decent concrete stadiums does River Falls end up with grade school facilities? Is it perhaps the fact that RF is going broke because students can find other colleges which offer them much more than this school and are dropping out of River Falls faster than they can be kept track of? No money, no decent facilities. It's a fact of life.

Number two is the tennis team. Not only does this "minor" sport lack facilities, but their budget is already exhausted after the coach bought a few basic items. The tennis courts are being razed for the new library addition and therefore the team has practically no chance of any intercollegiate activity and will instead concentrate on intra-squad matches. Why can't the school afford courts and supplies for a team? It seems that if a group of young men and a coach want to participate in what is a recognized intercollegiate activity, the school should provide facilities and funds.

It is often the case that cries of anti-intellectualism are raised against athletics. Perhaps they hold weight. Why is it that athletes are required to maintain only a 1.5 overall grade average when most campus organization require a 2.0? And why is it that very few of our "top" athletes are student leaders. Intellectual dropouts or perhaps social misfits? One wonders many times. Athletes are generally looked up to by the public but one cannot look up to River Falls athletes with a clear conscience. There is nothing there for the most part to respect. A few individual exceptions can be noted but for the most part . . . ?

Perhaps this whole theme can be drawn back to the quality of students on this campus. With wails of more student responsibility and governing of this institution, the situations which arise against the students can be assessed in only one way. The mass of students at RF should be treated like kindergarteners and led around by the hand to keep them out of mischief.

Marilyn Ronnigen, a member of the women's gymnastic squad, attempts a head stand in a recent practice. The team is sponsored by Carol G. Harvei and will meet Stout on April 11.

Reviewer Raises Meaning Questions

Sunday afternoon the Student Center Gallery hosted the opening of the Iverson-Melton Senior Exhibition. Bari Iverson's pottery, and sculpture; Bob Melton's paintings; and jewelry and graphics by both students will be shown through April 7. The physical set up of the show with Iverson's work on one side of the gallery and Melton's work on the other encourages a comparison of the two men's work. Whether this comparison was intentional or not, it breaks the exhibit's continuity of above-average - student quality and makes viewing like watching a tennis match where the only means of distinguishing the players is by the color of their shorts, you can't even tell who is winning. Their jewelry and pottery crafts show the more integrated and potential professional quality.

Iverson's clean, geometric ceramics are the most successful products of his search. The highly controlled form are clear expressions of the man who created them and are functional as well as beautiful. These pots don't have the "studentish" quality of his graphics. In the woodcuts and etchings he repeats the composition of a sun-form above plant forms to the point of monotony. It is this theme which Iverson refers to in talking about his work:

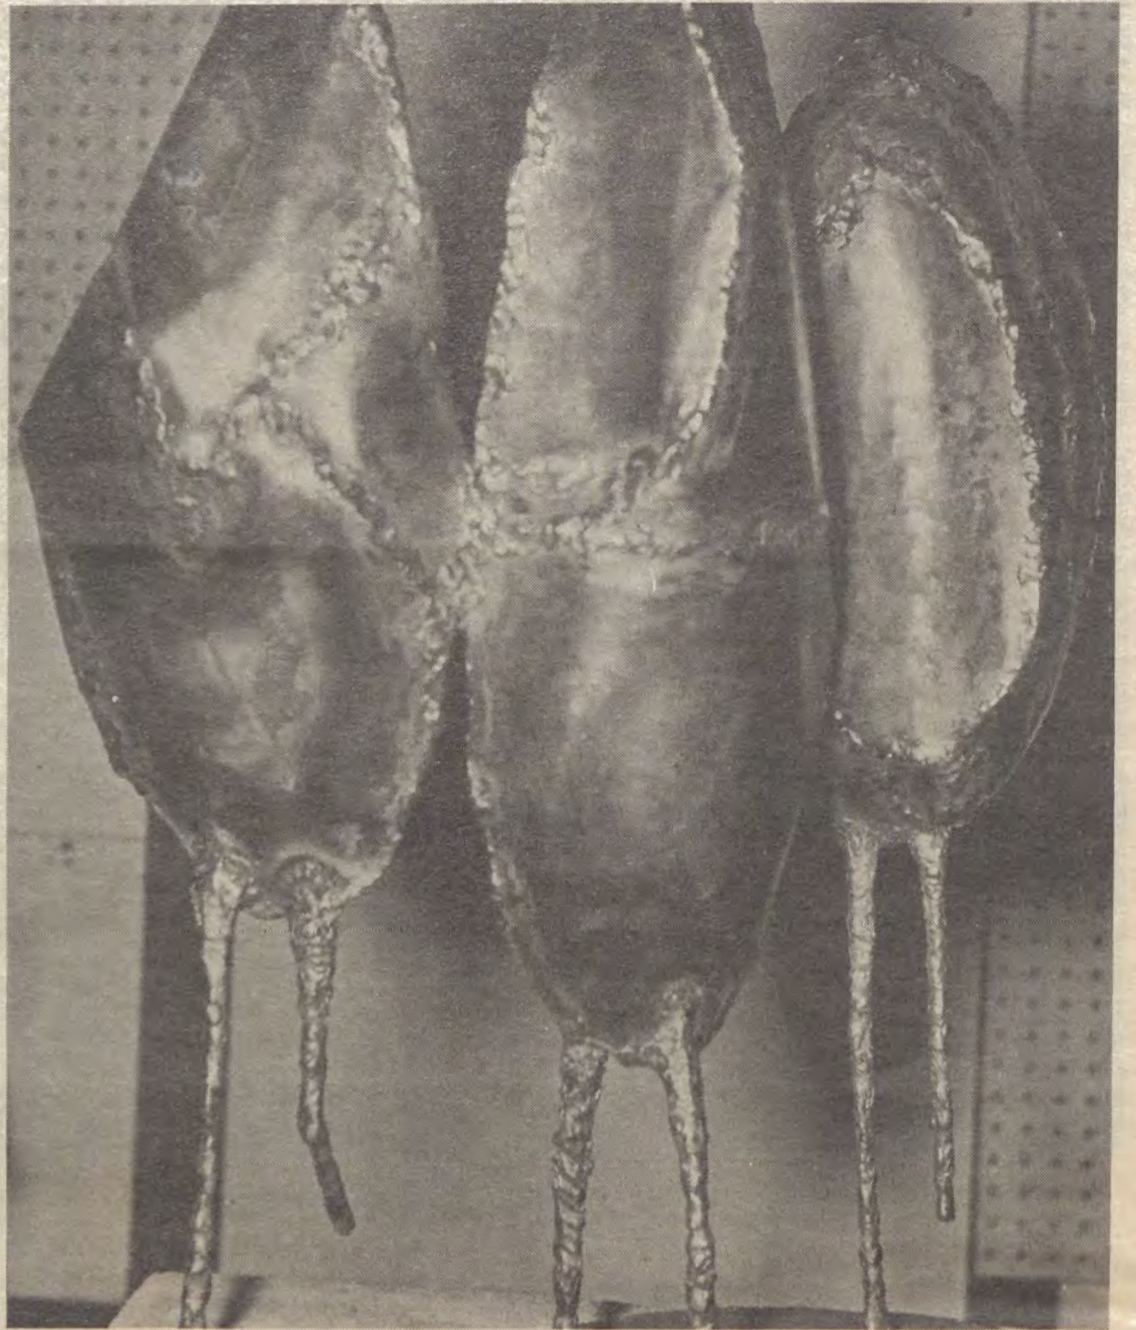

My major areas are graphics, ceramics and sculpture. Graphics, being an area that allows for content of great depth, has been my main "statement making" media. "I have tended my own garden too long," as an example, is a woodcut with a visual inner meaning of great importance to me, expression one of the many cutting and unanswered questions that exist in me."

This question cutting into the heart, but the depth of meaning is destroyed for the viewer when he is exposed to so many restatements of the question with the same elements and composition. This personal struggle is not felt by the viewer. To paraphrase Iverson's statement of philosophy: "the fault may lie in the viewer's complacency toward the very forms that shape them." Or it may be the artist's inability to communicate the forces which he feels shaping him.

Melton's work does not have the repetition of symbols and structure and the loss of them in diversity give the feeling that there is no meaning to be conveyed. His work reads like a series of experiments for the sake of their technique and nothing more. Melton explains his as "Search". "Search," he says, "which ends each work with a feeling of unsatisfaction that the artist will always feel." A sense of progress comes from getting closer. But closer to what? Technical proficiency? There can not be an increasing proximity to ideal communication of self or a meaning if no self or meaning is put into the original effort. Again in Melton's jewelry, as in Iverson's crafts, the work is more successful. The lace-like copper wire pendants and bone and feather adornments give a positive direction to his work.

Until Melton and Iverson can find a way of communicating meaning they may well be wise to continue referring to themselves as "art students" rather than as "artists", and pursue the crafts in which they excell.

Committee Sets Election Regulations

Candidates for Student Senate posts must file petitions containing 50 names by 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 5, for the April 12 elections, according to Keith Rodli, Student Senate president. Campaigning begins at 12:01 a.m. April 6.

Recently revised election rules state, that petitions may be obtained in the Dean's Office after the candidate has cleared for the 2.00 grade point average requirement by the Dean.

Petitions will contain a complete set of "Rules to Govern Elections" and "School Sign Regulations" which must be observed by all Senate candidates. Regulations also include the provision that no campaigning occur within 25 feet of the ballot box.

This year's election is run by the Student Senate election and canvassing committees.

The election committee consists of one senator, chairman of the committee and responsible for the coordination of the election; one Student Voice staff member, responsible for publicizing information on the election; and one member of the Legislative Action Committee (LAC) who is assist the election chairman.

The canvassing board was established to count ballots and function in a judicial capacity. It consists of the election committee and four members nominated by each recognized political organization on campus who are approved by the Senate.

Political organizations must be recognized by the LAC constitution to qualify.

Power to remove any candidate from the ballot for infraction of election rules, is granted the canvassing board. The board has the power of judicial review in the event of a contested election and may disqualify candidates for violations of the election.

Any person may be admitted to view said counting except in elections which are designated "secret."

Rules also state that no person who is directly connected with the campaign or one of the candidates concerned be on the canvassing committee or assist in the counting of the ballots or work at the polls.

RF To Tourney

A bus-load of WSU-RF students will be traveling to WSU-Superior to take part in a speech tournament Apr. 7 and 8.

Thirty-six students from WSU-RF will be taking part in the various events of the tournament. It is an invitational tournament, involving students from colleges and universities throughout the Midwest.

Letters From All Over the Country Arrive After Death of Prof. Wall

Letters have been arriving at Wisconsin State University-River Falls since the March 24 death of Dr. Melvin Wall in a airplane crash in South Vietnam. The letters mention Dr. Wall's contributions to education and express feelings of deep loss.

The VOICE feels that reprinting these letters is a fitting tribute to the man.

Great Loss

To the Editor:

In addition to the sense of personal loss that his colleagues at the University feel in the death of Dr. Melvin Wall, there is also a great loss to the Institution. Dr. Wall devoted 27 years of his life to the University from which he was graduated and had great influence on its students and alumni. His interest in the University went beyond the classroom and included all aspects of its welfare. As chairman of the campus planning committee he did much to preserve and enhance the natural beauty of the River Falls campus. His advice and support will be sorely missed. Dr. Wall was unstinting in giving of himself and our only solace is that his death resulted from an important task in which he believed.

Farm Bureau

To the Editor:

It is with a feeling of grief and great loss that we learned of the untimely passing of Dr. Wall.

On behalf of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Service Company, and, especially the Alumnus, now employed here, we wish to express our sincere sympathies. The loss to agricultural industries of a man so deeply dedicated will be long felt. His concern for all phases of agriculture was above question and well known to all of us.

Please express our special condolences to the immediate family of Dr. Wall.

Sincerely yours,
Eldon H. Jacobson
Assistant General Manager
Minnesota Farm Bureau

Condolences

To the Editor:

There are no words to express our shock about the news from Saigon on Friday. The accident affected so drastically several of the colleges and universities in your area, and we particularly sympathize with you in your loss of Dr. Melvin Wall.

Please accept our sincere condolences and call upon us for any help we may be able to render in this emergency.

Sincerely yours,

Gave Life

To the Editor:

I wish to express by sincere regret and deepest sympathy for the tragic loss which your institution has suffered because of the death of Melvin L. Wall, professor plant and earth sciences.

At the Guam conference President Johnson expressed his personal interest in the work we are doing in higher education in Vietnam. More recently because of the outstanding work of this team, Dr. Nguyn Van Tho, minister of Education, requested they expand their survey to elementary and secondary education.

It is extremely unfortunate that these men so near the accomplishment of their goal were forced to give their lives as truly as if they were involved in battle in the service of their country. W. S. Gaud Administrator Aid Washington, D.C.

Deep Concern

To the Editor:

The Board of Directors, faculty, and students join me in expressing our deep concern over the tragic death of Dr. Melvin L. Wall. His untimely death is a great loss to you, the faculty and students of the Wisconsin State University, as well as to all of higher education in this country.

We pay tribute to Dr. Wall's contributions to education, his dedication to his convictions, and his courage in following these convictions to death. This is great heroism.

May God give us all the strength to follow his example.

Sincerely yours,
