Lorraine Brynildson Wins Queen's Crown; Parade, Game to be Highlights Saturday

Store Windows, Campus Decorations Give Aura of Festivity to City

"It's great to be here," seems to be the prevalent attitude on campus as the usual Homecoming spirit of festivity coupled with a lot of hard work gets into high gear. With the crowning of the event's royalty tonight and campus, window, float, and house decorations mainly completed this afternoon, the parade, game and various student-alumni get-togethers will be tomorrow's highpoints, according to Homecoming Chairman John Randall.

The parade will line up at 10 a.m. tomorrow. Chairman Carl Sharp said the 16-unit procession will get underway at 10:30 a.m. Vera Moss, Charles Graham and Sid Brandt will judge floats representing the following campus organizations:

NEWMAN CLUB, Vets Club, Band and Choir, YM-YWCA, builders of the Queen's float; LSA, Freshman Class, Sophomore Class, Senior Class, Young Republicans, Young Democrats and WRA. Bands participating in the parade tomorrow will include the Falconettes and the River Falls, Turtle Lake and Elmwood high school groups.

The Chairman asks that sponsors of floats check the list of parade positions posted on the official Homecoming bulletin board in South Hall. All units are to assemble on the road by the barns and proceed from there down main street. Immediately after completing the parade route all floats will be taken to a parking place on Ramer Field.

Approximately 20 windows were decorated downtown by campus groups. Prizes, provided by the Chamber of Commerce and the Quarterbacks Club, were awarded this afternoon to the best windows as judged by Oliver Lumphrey, Don Matzek, Jim Crane and Dick Doetkott, window decorations chairman on the Homecoming Committee.

Organizations sponsoring windows were:

In addition to the buffet luncheon being served in the cafeteria following the parade, two student-alumni gatherings are planned for the noon meal. Pi Kappa Delta will hold its annual affair for past and present members at the Charbel.

A PUBLICATIONS staff luncheon is planned at the Wayne Wolfe home, 108 Park street. Students and alumni who have worked on the Meletean and Student Voice have been invited.

Accompanied by a "Balloon Barrage" the kickoff for the 1956 Homecoming football game with Stevens Point is set for 1:30 p.m. About 200 balloons have been purchased by the Homecoming Committee for release at the game's opening play.

Alumni registration is scheduled before the game at Ramer Field, and also at a reception in Hathorn Hall set for 4:30 p.m. For the purpose of giving grads a chance for some after-game quarterbacking and renewal of acquaintances, posts will be assigned in the dorm's rec room for past students according to the year that they were graduated. Each station will be manned by a person who was in school during the time it represents.

THE ANNUAL smorgasbord dinner at Homecoming will be served again this year in the cafeteria. With serving to be from 5:30 to :30 p.m., the cost of the meal is to be $1.50.

Decorated on the theme of "Autumn Leaves," the North Hall gym is expected to be filled with dancers tomorrow evening, as the final event of the 1956 Homecoming gets underway at 9 p.m. With admission set at $1.20 per couple, the Joe Braibec seven-piece orchestra will provide music for students and alumni to dance until 1 p.m.

LORRAINE BRYNILDSON

Lorraine Brynildson, a pretty, blonde sophomore from Black River Falls, was crowned Queen of the 1956 Homecoming tonight before a full auditorium in North Hall. The four runners-up for the Queen's title, Betty Korb, Helen Pechacek, LaVonne Safe and Sandra Skoglund, will serve as her attendants in festivities tonight and tomorrow.

Crowned by Homecoming Chairman John Randall, Miss Brynildson's coronation was the climax of tonight's assembly and two weeks of campaigning by the five candidates.

Queen Brynildson is majoring in elementary and will be graduated from River Falls this spring. She is a member of the Rural Life Club, AWS, ACEI, LSA, and is chairman of the Foundation Committee.

Approximately 77 percent of the student body voted in last Wednesday's election to select this year's Queen. Results of the balloting were kept secret until the moment of crowning.

Organizations putting on skits in tonight's contest included the Senior Class, Freshman Class, Vets Club, Hathorn Hall, and FFA. The student body, faculty, and alumni were represented on the skit judging committee. It included Blake Anderson, Mike Fleming, Louise Berkseth, and Gladys Sigvaldson.

"Between the Acts" entertainment was provided by the Hut Four quartet and Dick Doetkott and Arlin Albrecht in "A news commentator's view of RFSC Homecoming."

In keeping with the tradition of having a past student speak to the assembly, Elmer T. Benson, gave a talk on "The Value of Homecoming." Dr. Rudolph Karges introduced members of the 1909-10-11 football teams who were present at the convocation. Dr. Karges was an instructor at River Falls during the time when the men played on the squad.

After the assembly where she was named Queen, Miss Brynildson will lead the torchlight parade to the bonfire and light it. Group singing, with Duane Johnson leading is planned, with a grape drink served by the Young Republicans and Democrats as refreshment.

Following the bonfire, a "Come as you are" dance is planned in the rec room of Hathorn Hall. At 11:30, the Homecoming Committee has arranged for the showing of "The Creature Walks Among Us" at the Falls Theatre. Regular admission will be charged. It was previously announced that students would be admitted on their activity tickets, but due to financial limitations, the offer has been retracted.

Fran Polsfoot to Assume Basketball Coaching Duty

Fran Polsfoot will assume the duties of head basketball coach at the college during the 1956-57 season, it was announced today by Phil Belfiori, athletic director.

The change was made to provide each coach with at least one season free, Coach Belfiori said.

Belfiori, who came to the college six years ago as head football coach, took on the additional duties of athletic director and head basketball coach in 1952.

Polsfoot joined the faculty at River Falls in October, 1954, as track coach and assistant football and basketball coach. He will continue as track coach, Belfiori said, and Bill Solley will continue as head baseball coach.

A native of Montesano, Wash., Polsfoot played one year with the Washington Redskins in the National Football League.

CAMPAINING IMPARTIALLY

Fifth Grade Solves Problem Of Split Loyalty in Election

"I demand a poll of the delegates." This is hardly an unusual quote to be heard during an election year—unless it comes from the fifth grade room in the Campus School.

The class was apparently split down the middle over which of two Homecoming Queen candidates to support. One Campus School student wearing a sign extolling the virtues of one of the prospective queens had a second sign for the other pinned on his back. He was also trying to solicit votes by passing out hand-lettered cards—for both candidates, of course.

The final compromise must have been when a sign five feet tall bearing the picture of a queen was erected. The poster urged students to vote for the two candidates. Naturally, none of the fifth graders were eligible to vote in the Queen election.

Alumnus Makes Gift to Public, College Libraries

Anthony Runte, class of 1933, has presented the Chalmer Davee Library with a gift of $50 in memory of his father, Ferdinand. Richard Cooklock head librarian, says the money will be used to buy a facsimile of the Complete Plays of Shakespeare, First Folio, and a facsimile of the first book printed in the United States, The Bay Psalm Book.

A gift of $50 was also presented to the River Falls City Library by Mr. Runte. No positive decision has been made as what this money will be used for, but Jack Davison, chairman of the library board, says it will be definitely used in the purchase of special volumes.

Approximately ten years ago, Mr. Runte set up a fund of almost $100 to be used for dramatics. Forty dollars of this was used to help pay for the purchase of a stage covering for the Little Theatre.

He has recently allocated a speech award of $10 a year, for the next five years, to be given to an outstanding freshman or sophomore participating in forensics competition. Mr. Runte hopes that this fund will encourage students to enter speaking contests.

The Editor Speaks . . .

Higher education in Wisconsin faces a crucial year in 1957. Whether the state maintains its position in meeting the needs of its youth or begins to slip will be determined largely by decisions made during the state legislature's biennial session beginning in January.

Colleges and universities from this point on will be faced with the "bulge" that has caused abandoned schoolhouses to be reopened and classes to be moved into churches, city halls, vacant store buildings, and lodge halls.

Undoubtedly both the University and the State College System will seek budget increases to meet the rising costs of education and the swelling enrollments. Certainly there will be pressures on the legislature to slice expenditures for education and divert those funds into other channels.

It is certain, though, that we are in an era of expansion. The time to build in preparation for the much greater "bulge" to follow is now. Students are doing their part. The next two buildings on the campus at River Falls, the men's dormitory and the Student Union Building, will be paid for by students. The last session of the legislature, on the other hand, did not appropriate a single dollar for building purposes on any campus.

We cannot have "restricted" education. In a democracy, voting is restricted to neither the intellectually, nor the economically elite. All have an equal voice. Our times demand the best-trained minds available. Many successful alumni returning to the campus this week-end might have been denied a college education had a restrictive policy been in effect.

To meet the challenge of this critical time, and to fulfill its obligation to the youth of the state, this session of the legislature must declare itself for the principle of higher education for all who want it and who are capable. It must provide the means to implement that declaration of principle.

"Paper and pencil everyone—Remember I said we'd have a test Homecoming or not."

GAD BOOKS!

HAGESTAD

Robert Louis Stevenson said in one of his essays, "Crabbed Age and Youth," a thing that has some relevance in just about any age,

"All sorts of allowances are made for the illusions of youth; and almost none, for the disenchantments of age."

At first glance, the idea in the Stevenson essay seems to be the point in Graham Greene's latest novel, The Quiet American (Viking, 249 pages, $3.50). In this book it seems as though Stevenson's passage is relevant because there is, variously, in Greene's book, a youth with illusions—who appears to be the recipient of a number of allowances; and there is an older, disenchanted person—who is the recipient of few and meager allowances.

AT THIS POINT, however, Stevenson ceases to speak; here author Greene takes over in what is a revealing, and at the same time, puzzling and inconclusive story.

Pyle, the youth, is an American who is attached to the United States' legation in Saigon during the war between the French and Vietminh forces in Indo-China. Thomas Fowler, in our analogy, is the person of "disenchanted age." He is a British journalist who is covering the conflict for a London paper; he also operates out of Saigon.

The American's activities involve him in a rather exotic and unique way in this Eastern conflict. He has read a book, The Role of the West, in which the author advocates a certain, naive policy for a dispassionate West in dealing with situations like the Indo-China war.

THE IDEAS in this book are strictly naive and, to the Britisher, "half-baked." Yet, despite the criticisms of Fowler's (which are, in essence, Europe's criticisms of America), Pyle secretly equips a bandit—neither French nor Communist—with the wherewithal to make himself felt in the conflict—Pyle envisions this bandit as a sort of Third Force.

But this is not Pyle's war and a Chinese-sort-of poetic justice brings about the American's death.

Now this problem is one of "engage," as the Britisher calls it, or "involvement," in State Department terms.

"THERE IS A POINT at which you become engaged in preserving justice or humanity or 'Democracy," Fowler says.

"It is your wisdom that tells you when you have reached this point," he continues.

The British journalist must have had well in mind something like that which occurs in another statement of Stevenson's,

"Doubtless the world is quite right in a million ways; but you have to be kicked about a little to convince you of the fact; And in the meanwhile you must do something, be something, believe something."

The "meanwhile" for Fowler—the "being" and "doing" for him consisted of non-attachment, non-involvement. How long he was to hesitate, to remain "nor engage" is a question inconclusively developed by author Greene.

FOWLER, in a rather beautiful way—and in an almost convincing way, says that the point at which Pyle involved himself was the wrong one,

(Fowler is being asked if he knows who killed Pyle.)

He replies to the police chief, Vigot,

"Look for the author of The Role of the West. He is the man you are looking for, Vigot. He killed Pyle."

But it is inconclusive in author Greene's own mind if this was the wrong point to involve oneself—this involvement through an ideology. Author Greene hesitates and has one of his characters state a tentative position.

EQUALLY INCONCLUSIVE is author Greene's final treatment of Pyle, the American. "What is Pyle's fault—his flaw?" "Is it his innocence or naivete' that is his downfall?" "Is his failing his involvement?" It is perhaps an impetuous American desire to be judged when one is accused (as author Greene has done in The Quiet American) that brings these questions to mind—the universal desire to escape that worst of all possible judgements: no judgement at all, that causes one to ask these questions of Graham Greene's book.

What makes the inconclusiveness of this book shout out, is author Greene's obvious fear of a conclusion—a judgement. It is not a "judge not, lest ye be judged" sort of judgement that author Green leaves out of The Quiet American either.

Music Notes

by Glenn Sandve

Homecoming fans are in for a fine array of musical entertainment at the halftime of Saturday's game.

The Falconettes have been working on special formations and music to fit the occasion. Many hours of practice by the girls have helped the group become a very snappy and precise band, both in their marching and music-wise.

Another regular feature at Homecoming halftime festivities is the River Falls High School Band. Under the direction of John Sabaka, the organization has always put on an excellent show in the past. It seems certain that this year's appearance will be just as good.

These two bands will also march in the parade Saturday morning as will several other high school bands from this area.

Helping to round out the musical entertainment for this week-end will be the college concert band, under the direction of B. J. Rozehnal. The group will provide music for Friday night's pep fest, as well as playing at the game Saturday.

Letters to the Editor...

Dear Editor:

The incomprehensible polygot to be found in the pseudo, erudite column of William Hagestad, erstwhile columnist who pontificates twice each fortnight in the otherwise pristinely pure pages of The Student Voice, is corrupting the entire communications program at this institution of higher learning.

Mr. Hagestad's tortuously long sentences, combined with exotic phraseology and polysyllabic vocabulary, along with a system of punctuation resembling that used in no other language, living or dead, fails to convey meaning, to reveal thought, to disclose opinion—its only legitimate function being, in compilation, a textbook on pleonasm.

May I suggest that you employ a person of real insight who might reveal rather than obfuscate the intrinsic significance, the underlying implications and the analogical connotations of the particular opus he reviews. I make public this protest after innumerable personal attempts to assist Mr. Hagestad in clarifying and improving his style of composition—attempts which have been rebuffed.

WAC Officer To Visit RF October 24

Major Charlotte I. Woodworth, of the Women's Army Corps, Headquarters, Fifth Army, will visit River Falls on October 24 to discuss the opportunities the United States Army direct commission program offers women college graduates.

To meet its continuing need for WAC officers, the Army is offering qualified women college graduates direct reserve commissions as lieutenants, according to Major Woodworth, and the opportunity to start their careers in the Army as junior executives.

"A career as a WAC officer is really many careers in one," Major Woodworth explains. "Although most of her work will be in related fields, no duty will be a blueprint of a former one. Every two or three years she will receive a new assignment bringing with it new challenges, increased responsibility and probably a new station, either in the United States or overseas."

WAC officers receive the same salary as men, she said. A newly commissioned second lieutenant is paid $270 a month, plus quarters, medical and dental care and a $10,000 life insurance policy.

During her stay in River Falls, Major Woodworth may be reached by calling the Dean's office.

Student Senate Minutes

The last meeting of the Student Senate on Oct. 15, with President Dick Schultz presiding, was held in the Senate office.

The treasurer reported a balance of $300.14 in the Senate treasury.

FROSH INITIATION

The first order of business was a suggestion report on the need for a better method of initiating freshmen. This report was presented by Verland Norton, who will act as committee chairman to take an opinion poll on the issue.

The chief purpose of this committee is to gather ideas from the student body as to how the traditional initiation can be improved.

HOMECOMING

A time limit of 15 minutes has been set by the Senate for the second Homecoming Queen presentation on Thursday, Oct. 18. The assembly will begin at 10 a.m.

A grape drink will be substituted for the apple cider originally to have been served at the bonfire. The beverage will be bought with money from the Homecoming fund.

Flowers for Friday night's pep fest to be worn by the Queen candidates are the responsibility of the candidates' sponsoring organizations. The 1956 Homecoming Queen's bouquet of roses will be paid for from the Homecoming fund. The flowers worn at Saturday night's dance by the Queen and her attendants will also be financed from the fund.

The LSA has been authorized to make pennants with reproductions of the school flag incorporated in the design.

The dorm dance following the bonfire will be under the supervision of the Hathorn Hall Social Committee.

The main speaker at next Friday evening's pep fest will be Elmer T. Benson from River Falls. Dr. Rudolph Karges, former chemistry professor at River Falls, will introduce the 1909-10-11 football players planning to attend.

At the game on Saturday, the starting football team will be introduced along with this year's Queen.

The Student Advisory Council has been assigned a regular meeting time of the last Wednesday in each month. Class meetings in the future will be on the second Wednesday of each month.

The Senate has made a grant of $5 to the cheerleaders for purchasing new uniforms.

News From Other Colleges

by Donna Williams

Building plans are being discussed this year again at Platteville concerning the construction of its new student union in early spring. Costing $625,000, it is planned to "include every feature that would be found in the union of a college of 2,000 students."

Remember River Falls' Homecoming slogan last year? It was "Suppress Superior." Playing the same team in their homecoming game this week-end, Stout State College chose "Make Superior Feel Inferior."

Whitewater has a rather different method of choosing its Homecoming king and queen. Rather than the entire student body voting, the football team selects the reigning couple.

For the second year, Platteville will present a radio show heard three times a week. Designed to be informative as well as entertaining, the programs are to include interviews, faculty talks, panels, debates, music, drama and literature plus news of college events and activities.

ANNUAL BANQUET FOR ALUMNI SET AT COUNTRY CLUB

Changing the meeting place to the Southview Country Club, the Twin City Chapter of the River Falls State College Alumni Association will sponsor its fifth annual dinner Thursday, Nov. 15.

A chicken dinner will be served at 7 p.m. and an interesting and entertaining program has been planned, according to Jack Wallace, president of the chapter.

Officers of the chapter met last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wallace to plan the annual affair. The dinner has been in the Coffman Memorial Union in previous years. Reservations are to be mailed or telephoned to Mrs. Glen Wallace not later than Monday, Nov. 12.

Falcons To Face Pointers Before Homecoming Crowd Saturday

by Rog Gundlach

It will be River Falls against Stevens Point in the big 1956 Homecoming game tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 out at Ramer Field. The visiting Pointers, champions of the Wisconsin State College Conference last year with a record of eight wins and no losses, have a conference record of two wins, one loss and a tie so far this year. This puts them in fourth place, immediately behind River Falls.

This will be RF's last conference game of the football season. They have non-conference games scheduled with Winona and Manitowish. Thus far this year, Point has a conference record which reads:

- Stevens Point 20, Oshkosh 7
- Stevens Point 0, Platteville 19
- Stevens Point 7, Whitewater 6
- Stevens Point 6, Milwaukee 6

Stevens Point has met the Falcons here in a Homecoming game only once since 1925. That was in 1951, when the two teams battled to a 7-7 draw. River Falls did not face the Pointers last year, but records dating back to 1912 show that the Falcons have been victorious in 10 of the 14 games played by the two teams, while they have lost one and tied three contests.

RIVER FALLS will have several things at stake in this game. First, they will be out to capture their fourth consecutive Homecoming game. They beat Superior by the score of 21-0 in 1953, Stout by 26-7 in 1954, and the Yellowjackets again last year by the record-breaking tally of 47-0. This last score represents the highest score compiled by any team in the league in the past 30 years.

Secondly, their present third-place position in the standings is being endangered by the Stevens Point team itself, since RF has a record of 3-1-0 and SP enters the game with a 2-1-1 mark. A River Falls loss would place them as low as a tie for fourth place with Whitewater and La Crosse, providing those teams win their games this week-end.

Lastly, the Falcons will be trying their best to bounce back from their big disappointment at the hands of Eau Claire last Thursday night. River Falls' unbeaten string was cut at three victories by the Bluejackets 35-21 triumph.

THE VISITORS, in purple and gold, will consist of a squad which includes 15 lettermen. It has been with these experienced men that head coach John Roberts has been able to plug the big gaps in his lineup created by graduation last year. Gone is the entire backfield, including Little All-American fullback Nubs Miller, and the left side of the Stevens Point line.

Making a quick run-down of the probable starting lineup, pre-season information had the right side of the line consisting of Bob Bostad at end, Carl Jurgella at tackle and George Roman in the guard position.

Over on the left side, Fritz Kestley will most likely be the end, Al Shuba will hold down the tackle job, and either Butch Sorenson or George DePuy will start at guard.

RETURNING LETTERMAN Don Nice or a freshman, Dale Schallert, will be the likely line anchorman at center.

In the backfield, Ron Hoenisch and Ted Ludeman may line up at the halfback positions, Frank Roman will be in the tailback slot, and Jack Castleman will be acting as team general, playing quarterback.

Other lettermen returning this year are Jim Luedtke, a tackle, Wayne Schmidt, a guard, and halfbacks Jerry Vance, Ron Winlinsky, and Jim Fleig.

Last year more than 2,000 Homecoming fans attended the River Falls-Superior clash. At least that many are expected to be on hand tomorrow afternoon to watch the Falcons "Pin Point."

RF Eleven Nets 1713 Yards With Improved Offense

Record-wise the third-place Falcons will be going into the Homecoming game with a won-lost mark identical to last year's—four wins and one loss. However, offensively the River Falls eleven exceeds the 1955 squad by a wide margin.

Last year's team gained a total 1505 yards up to Homecoming time, but this year's squad has already amassed 1713 yards. This averages out to a total yardage gain per game contrast of 301-341.

The main reason for this increase of 208 yards is probably the big improvement in passing. For five games, the 1955 passers averaged 4.5 yards per attempt, but this year's hurlers have bettered that mark to 6.6 per yards per pass while totalling 130 more aerial yards than last year.

Concerning rushing, this year's Falcon backfield has outgained last year's by 78 yards, 1330 to 1252. The average gain per carry has also increased from 5.0 yards per rush to 5.4.

These improvements add up to another increase in scoring. Last year the Falcons tallied 88 points in their first five games. They have almost doubled this for a total of 157 points (23 touchdowns, 19 conversions) so far this Halfback John Steffen has almost wrapped up the WSCC scoring title. With one game left on the conference schedule, Saturday's Homecoming tilt with Stevens Point, Steffen has compiled a total of 65 points in four games. The total includes eight touchdowns and 17 conversions. Second to Steffen in scoring is teammate Bucky DiSalvo. The squat fullback has 36 points to make the Steffen-DiSalvo backfield scoring combination the most feared in the conference.

With the Falcon record standing the same as last year at this time, River Falls can tie last year's squad record of 7-1 by winning the remaining three games, including tomorrow's battle. From 1951 through 1955, the Falcons have won 29 games, lost 11 and played to three tie games. Following are the season records for the five-year period:

1952	5	2	1
1953	5	2	0
1954	6	2	0

The four victories scored so far this year have been at the hands of Augsburg (14-6), La Crosse (39-7), Stout (41-12), and Superior (42-13). The lone loss came Oct. 11 at Eau Claire when the Bluejackets broke the Falcon victory streak by a score of 35-21.

Leading the River Falls ground-gainers is Johnny Steffen with 776 yards for an average of 153 yards per game. The halfback has carried the ball 108 times for 578 yards, or 5.4 per carry and 115.6 per game. His passes have found their mark 13 out of 30 times for a total of 188 yards and one touchdown. Johnny's eight TDs and 17 conversions place him at the top of all conference scorers.

ANOTHER PERFECT CONVERSION by the combination that has made 17 out of 19 attempts in the season's play. Johnny Steffen, kicking, and John Rutter, holding, are shown here in practice.

Falcon Fanfare

by Rog Gundlach and K-Don Tibbetts

"Stevens Point can expect us to come back from last week's defeat and make a good showing Saturday. We've learned our lesson since last week."

This is the opinion of Falcon quarterback and team general John Rutter. Johnny leads the way in expressing the sentiments of the entire Falcon squad regarding tomorrow's game.

Leading the team is no new experience for John, either, for he has been doing just that since the La Crosse game last year, the second one of the season. In that game he was called on as the regular quarterback, a position which he has not relinquished since.

So far in the five games the Falcons have played this year, of which they won four (one non-conference), the 5'10", 180-pound senior has thrown 13 passes and completed seven, good for 94 net yards, carried the ball six times in gaining 13 yards, and scored one touchdown.

John's quarterback - playing dates back to his high school days at Buhl, Minnesota, where he earned three letters in football and set an Arrowhead Conference record of completing 74 per cent of his pass attempts. This mark is still untouched. John was an all-conference quarterback his senior year at Buhl high and was a member of the North squad in the North-South Minnesota state game following his graduation in 1953. While in high school, he also won four letters in baseball (shortstop and catcher) and three in basketball (guard and forward).

Upon graduating, he attended the junior college at Virginia, Minnesota. For two years he played regular quarterback. Last year he came to River Falls.

A biology major and phy. ed. minor, Johnny says his main objective in life is to coach and work with boys. His principal activity is membership in the "R" Club. He also was one of the founders of the "Bucky DiSalvo Fan Club."

What has been his greatest thrill in college football? "Beating La Crosse two years in a row," he answered. The victory this year is the game he considers to be his best-called game, too.

John sums up his good fortune at being a member of the Falcon squad by saying, "The last two years of playing football have been the best—that includes all the teammates as well as the team itself."

One of the big reasons why the Falcons have had a good season so far is the play of "Little" Ron

Sports in a Nutshell

by K-Don Tibbetts

River Falls has missed another chance to go undefeated for the season. For the second straight year, Eau Claire has been the stopping point. However, despite the defeat last Thursday, there has been no great let-down on the team. The fellows played hard, but somehow, the mistakes seemed to pile up.

After last Thursday's loss, the general team feeling was that they had betrayed the fans who cheered so loudly and faithfully even in defeat. The boys have expressed their appreciation for this kind of support. With the squad feeling as they do, this writer predicts that Stevens Point will be the fourth straight Homecoming victim for the Falcons.

Tomorrow, most fans will be watching the backfield. But, the reason we have such a great backfield in Steffen, DiSalvo, Johnson, and Rutter can be seen by keeping an eye on the men in the line.

Watch Wunrow center the ball and slide over to block his man. Watch Sletten and Shimel pull out and block. Keep your eye on Koplin as he lays out the opposing tackle. Watch Shield on defense turn back a play around his end into Wunrow's arms.

Then watch Guberman tackle and block like a veteran. For a real thrill on defense, keep your eye trained on number 28, Bill Kraft. It is quite a sight to see him wade through an end, two halfbacks, and then nail the ball carrier before he knows what's happened.

These are the boys who are largely responsible for a winning team. The linemen are the unsung heroes on the field, but they have a job that must be done, and in this case, well done.

Homecoming Idea Got 'Damp Cloth' Treatment Back in 1922

Wunrow, a 6'1", 220-pound senior playing center from Beaver Dam. Ron played tackle in high school, but was converted to center in his freshman year at River Falls.

He saw considerable action as a reserve last year and played first string tackle his sophomore year. Last year he moved back to the center slot. At the season's close, he was named to the WSCC All-Conference squad.

Before graduating from high school in 1953, Ron earned two letters in both football and baseball. But he says his favorite sport is hockey. He played on the Beaver Dam town team while in high school and on Stillwater's squad last winter.

Ronnie's activities on campus are not confined just to football. He is president of the "R" Club, a member of Pi Kappa Delta, is out for debate, and served on the Foundation Committee during his sophomore year.

Enrolled in the Liberal Arts curriculum, he is majoring in agriculture with minors in economics and science.

This year's La Crosse game rates as one of Ron's greatest thrills. However, he says his greatest moments are spent "on a team that sticks together, win or lose, like this year's team."

One thing that really thrills him, game after game, is "to be able to center the ball to the 'little general,' Johnny Rutter, when we are running 'T' plays." Ron is also a co-founder of the Bucky DiSalvo Fan Club and one of its most loyal and active members.

Vets Club To Sponsor I-M Bowling

by Griff Howell

The Vet Club will be sponsoring the Intramural bowling program again this year. All games will be from 4 to 6 p.m.

Art Moe, Vets Club president urges that the teams be organized as soon as possible so the season can start promptly. According to Mr. Moe, bowling will begin in the first part of November, as soon as the touch football season is over.

Team lineups may be given to any member of the Vets Club or turned in at the Athletic office in North Hall.

The touch football schedule will be concluded within the coming week. The top winners from the "A" League and the "B" League will then meet in the intramural championship game. The time and place for the match have not been determined yet.

According to Fran Polsfoot, intramural program director, the basketball season will begin as soon as possible. Teams will be registered and a schedule set up for each playing night, Monday through Thursday. Games will start at 7, 8, and 9 p.m. each evening in the North Hall gymnasium. A notice calling for teams will soon be posted on the athletic bulletin board in North Hall.

Political Views

by Mark Wyman

Written in the true Republican tradition set by McCarthy, Jenner, and Chotiner, last week's Young GOP column stated that it was "... clearly evident that the Young Democrats find it hard to discuss national issues when their candidates on that level are so completely inadequate and the present administration has such a good record."

The Young Democrat's column of two weeks ago was written to help make known the shabby record of Vernon Thomson and the state Republican party, previously untouched by these columns. However, it is now evident that the Young GOP are unwilling to reveal their party's record and would rather deal with the Cadillac Crusade of the Eisenhower crowd; it is probable that to them this is the lesser of the two evils.

IN 1952, when "the great crusade" was being promised by every Republican from President to County Coroner, a man named Eisenhower stirred the hearts of millions with statements such as this, "When it comes to casting out the crooks and their cronies ... I can promise you that we won't wait for Congressional prodding and investigation. The prodding will come from the top."

Unfortunately, the prodding came entirely from everywhere else but the top; it came from Congressmen, newspapers (such as the widely respected New York Times), and famous columnists (such as Drew Pearson). One of the biggest incidents which shows the phoniness of the "moral crusade" was the Talbott case, involving Talbott, when Secretary of the Air Force.

TALBOTT WAS proven to have made phone calls and written letters (on official Air Force stationery) to influence companies with defense contracts to employ an engineering firm that he (Talbott) worked for. In fact, Talbott made $132,000 from the company while he was Air Force Secretary.

After he had campaigned almost entirely in 1952 on "the mess in Washington", it would be only natural to expect Eisenhower to condemn an action such as Talbott's. Showing how entirely opposite his deeds are from his words, Eisenhower gave Talbott his "warm wishes for success" and praised Talbott's "diligence" and "fine accomplishments." A special Air Force display in his honor and the highest civilian award bestowed by the Defense Department were other "tokens" given to Talbott after his resignation.

THE NAMES and deeds of such cases during the Eisenhower Administration could go on forever. Since space is limited, only three of them are given here:

Edward Mansure, head of the General Services Administration, was found to have steered a Government contract worth $42,000 to the firm of the GOP boss who helped him get his job. Mr. Eisenhower wished him "success" after he resigned.

And good old Ezra Benson, according to the Democratic Fact Book, admitted using $1600 of Federal funds to repair a mountain retreat used by him and his family on week-ends.

Murray Chotiner, former campaign manager for Vice-President Nixon, was found to have enlisted the assistance of two White House aides to influence government agencies on behalf of his clients. Eisenhower commented that he saw nothing improper involved.

CHOTINER is especially significant because he has come to stand as an example of GOP campaign tactics. During the 1946 campaign, in which Nixon was running for the Congress seat held by Jerry Voorhis, Chotiner is credited with planning a phone call drive to cast the shadow of doubt over Voorhis. A national magazine reported that the callers would say, "This is a friend of yours. Did you know that Jerry Voorhis has strong Communist sympathies?" Then, of course, the caller hung up. Four years later the same technique was used against Nixon's Senate opponent, Helen Douglas.

All this goes to show that the famed "moral crusade" of 1952 has turned out to be nothing more than another Republican election year promise. Now in 1956, it is evident that the GOP is good at one thing: they can still make promises and not keep them.

TWIN CITY ALUMNI TO SPONSOR COFFEE

River Falls alumni attending the convention of the Minnesota Education Association in St. Paul Oct. 25 and 26 will have an opportunity to meet during a coffee hour with the Twin City Alumni Association as host.

The coffee hour will be in the Hotel Ryan in St. Paul on Thursday afternoon. Chairman of the committee in charge is Mrs. Betty Campbell McVay.

In contrast to the enthusiastic promotion that Homecoming now receives from the administration, faculty, alumni and students, the idea back in 1922 got the "damp cloth" treatment.

Elmer Benson, a graduate of 1917, now living in River Falls, recalls that the front office "thought it was an unworkable idea which would definitely fail."

Although nearly every college in the nation now has an annual Homecoming, when such an event was started at River Falls, it was a novel idea. In fact, in Wisconsin, the University was alone in the field.

AFTER BEING OUT of school five years, Mr. Benson decided that there should be a time for reuniting the alumni with the faculty and student body.

He found many interested students and alumni who were still around River Falls. But only one person on the college staff thought much of the idea. Coach Otto Eggebrecht saw the possibilities. He rounded up all the former football players and, along with some ambitious students and N. E. Palmer, a graduate of 1917 living in Somerset, Mr. Benson proceeded to carry out his plan.

As reported in the 1923 Meletean and the October and November issues of the 1922 Student Voice the Homecoming was quite a success:

"600 STUDENTS molded together as one to make the first Homecoming at River Falls Normal College a tremendous success.

"As the alumni approached school they were greeted by a big Welcome sign on the Standard filling station and the colors of River Falls and Oshkosh were strewn on the lamp posts and in the trees to stimulate the already aroused school spirit. The merchants and businessmen showed their respect for the school by decorating their stores and homes in recognition of the occasion.

"Surely River Falls has never witnessed such decorations as those constructed by the city decoration committee under the very able leadership of Miss Nellie Roese, class of 1923.

"FRIDAY EVENING the auditorium was packed with students and alumni who received previous football stars. Former cheerleaders, were ready to assist in the leading of yells and demonstrate how the students of 1918, '19, and '20 cheered for the Red and White of River Falls.

"Saturday morning, November 18, 1922 the first RF Homecoming parade was held. The Girls' Athletic Association received the prize for the best float. In the afternoon one of the finest games ever played at Ramer Field took place despite the fact that the weather was cold and damp and that River Falls came out on the short end of a 13-6 battle.

"Between halves, the fans watched vaudeville-type stunts by chairman Kendall Wentz." Mr. Wentz was graduated in 1923.

A decorative Homecoming Ball ended the affair for the year of 1922. Traditionally, the dance has been the final event in all 32 Homecomings since that time.

All this is typical of the ever present school spirit in River Falls but it took more than school spirit on the part of the students and Mr. Benson to make this first Homecoming possible. Then, as now, it meant a lot of hard work.

Social Science Classes to Predict RF Presidential Election Results

Using a "Gallup" type poll, two classes in the social science department are planning to predict the presidential election results in River Falls within one to one and a half percent of the actual figures.

Dr. Harold Hodges' class in Public Opinion and Propaganda along with Dr. Charles Graham's students in American Political Parties have completed pre-testing work on the poll. The groups will begin actual canvassing by the end of next week.

Aimed at finding out the political attitudes and the general likes and dislikes of the "average" person living in River Falls and the surrounding community, the survey will be conducted by means of a questionnaire. According to Mr. Hodges, the students feel that this poll will be much more accurate than those taken nationally, because a larger sample of the population, in proportion, will be used.

For instance, he said that in the Gallup poll, approximately 5,000 persons are questioned throughout the nation. "In the students' survey, using about 20 percent of the homes in River Falls," he continued, "an error of not more than one and one-half percent from actual voting figures can be expected."

Mr. Graham feels that the two classes have improved the local survey over previous national ones by making provisions in the questionnaire to weigh past voting records of the persons sampled. He said that failure to do this was one of the mistakes made in past Gallup polls.

The two instructors stressed the fact that townspeople participating in the experiment will be kept anonymous. In distributing the questionnaire, students will call at every fifth house from a starting point selected at random. Residents will be asked to complete the question blank and place it in a sealed envelope to be picked up the next day.

Students conducting the study hope to have it completed about a week before the national election.
