STRONG COLLEGE TEAMS DEFEAT NORMAL QUINT

Good Conference Tilt Training

Playing their first game on the local floor, the Cox's trained men went down to defeat by a score of 20 to 16 at the hands of the strong St. Thomas quint. Both teams scored the same number of field goals, but owing to frequent fouling on the part of the Falls, the strangers made eight free throws out of twice as many attempts. The Red & White completed only four.

St. Thomas opened the scoring by a neat shot from the corner of the floor. After a few fruitless tries, the Falls under the keen eye of Quandt collected a long shot. The strong pair of guards that St. Thomas had, kept the Falls from gaining any short shots. Quandt and Syverud displayed plenty of River Falls fight. The half ended 15-8 in favor of the blue sweaters, five points being collected by the free throw route.

The second half showed more team work for both teams. Jung taking Dawson's place, cornered a long shot for the first counter. Indecision and lack of following up long shots cost the Normal many possible chances. Nevertheless, by hard determined fighting the locals were able to almost overcome the lead. St. Thomas

TALENTED SPEAKER TALKS ON LABOR AND THE CHURCH

Last Tuesday evening the students were indeed privileged by having Father Harrington here to speak to them. The three Christian organizations attended the meeting as well as many people from the city.

His topic was Labor and the Church. This lecture was a result of careful preparation on the part of the speaker. The lecture presented the great relationship of labor and morals which can be upheld only by the church.

The American Federation of Labor of St. Paul has recognized the quality of the speech of Father Harrington and now have issued many thousands of bulletins which contain this worthy speech which was given here last Tuesday.

It was a wonderful opportunity for the organizations to get together to hear such a speaker as Father Harrington, and we hope to have more joint meetings in the future—especially when we can have such talent as we had for Tuesday.

NOTICE

There will be no Student Voice published the week following Christmas vacation.

PROFESSOR COCHRAN IS TRUE ARTIST

Professor Cochran of Carleton college, who gave the play "The Man of the Hour," at Thursday's assembly, was most fully enjoyed and appreciated by all who heard him. Everything that the audience had read about his ability as a reader and entertainer was realized last Thursday. The undivided attention of his audience was obtained by his mastery of the many different characters, his expressions, and his own ability to enter into the real feelings and meaning of the play. The play that he read was full of wit, humor, and played on all the emotions of humanity. It was with regret that his audience left the auditorium, for one could not tire of listening to him. However, the student body and all others that heard him, were delighted with the two hours of enjoyable entertainment, and everyone sincerely hopes he may have the opportunity to hear him again.

Thirty-four Students Make Term Honor Roll

Thirty-four students made the honor roll the first term. All students who earned forty-five or more honor points, exclusive of Physical Training credit, are included in the list. The following students made a record of straight A's in the term's work:

Ella Colby
J. Bartlette Luttrell
Mildred Myrvold
Henry R. Olson
Marion Simonson
William Smith

The following students are included in the honor roll for the first term:

Harriet Beebe
Earl W. Brakken
Ella Colby
Alice Dunn
Lila Embretson

RIVER FALLS HONORED AT STATE "Y" MEET

River Falls Normal School again received honors when Theodore Jenson, a man from our alma mater, was elected president of the State Student Conference. Each Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. of the leading colleges of this state was represented by the president of their organization.

Ted Jenson was sent to Milwaukee by our local Y, the girls trusting that he would speak for them. Ted reports that he had a good time at the conference, also having time for short visits with Revnold Jensen, Laura Keller, and John Stone, who are R. F. N. graduates.

One of the aims of the State Student Conference is to organize a three-day state conference to be held next spring. John Taras of Lawrence College will assist Mr. Jenson as secretary of the conference.

BUSINESS MEN BANQUET FOR GRID STARS

The business men of the city are giving a banquet this evening in honor of the local high school and the normal football teams. It is to be held in the normal school cafeteria at 6:30 o'clock.

Professor Hunt is acting as toastmaster. Among other speakers are President Ames, Coach Cox and Mr. Mason, and Coach Klandrud of the high school. The orchestra will furnish music during the greater part of the banquet.

All the boys are looking forward to a splendid banquet. Last year a similar one was given, and it was versed at the time to be the best that the boys had ever attended.

It was last year that the idea of this sort of a banquet was originated. We are proud to have back of us such an enthusiastic group of business men, and the boys appreciate very much what they are doing for them.

Mr. Aldrich Presents Inspirational Ideas

On Tuesday and Wednesday of this week Mr. Guy V. Aldrich gave three talks to the student body on the general topic, "Finding Our Rightful Place in the World." In the first talk, given in Tuesday morning's assembly period, he spoke on "The Man with a Yellow Streak." Tuesday night his talk dealt with the subject, "The Man with a Glass Eye." In a special assembly on Wednesday he concluded his series of lectures with "A Man's Life Work."

This series of talks by Mr. Aldrich proved to be very interesting, and enlightening. They dealt with the questions and problems that confront the college student, and certainly set us to thinking about the problems which face the student body.

Mr. Aldrich is the type of man who is always popular, and helpful to students. His informal manner, his keen interest in young people and their problems, and his clear understanding of human nature, coupled with years of experience in this sort of work.

ORATORICAL CONTEST HELD ON THURSDAY

A preliminary oratorical contest is to be held in the auditorium next Thursday afternoon at four o'clock. Six orators will compete and three will be selected to take part in a final contest to be held in assembly after the Christmas vacation. The winner in the final will represent River Falls in the state contest to be held here in March. Those interested are invited to hear the preliminary contest, but are asked not to enter while an oration is being delivered. The following orations are to be given:

POULTRY & GRAIN SHOW BENEFICIAL TO SCHOOLS

Rady's Quintet Makes Big Hit

There is some satisfaction gained in proposing to do something and then doing it in a mediocre style. However, nothing gives greater satisfaction than to propose to do something and then have it turn out to be far greater and better than any other such event that has ever been held. The Ag's figure that they scored a grand success last week, for the Poultry and Grain Show was the best that has ever been held in this school, or in this part of the state.

The success of the show, as predicted, was only possible through the cooperation of the school, as well as of people outside of the student body.

Though the Ag. men did not have to attend classes these two days, they said that they would much rather have attended classes, for they had to work ten times as hard.

There were 624 birds entered this year, whereas there were but 405 last year. These figures give one an idea of the prospects for future shows. Already Mr. May and others are considering ways and means of making the future shows still bigger and better. The space available for the exhibits was insufficient, for there were as many as five birds in a single coop, whereas there should have been but one or two.

The records show that sixty boys exhibited poultry, thirty-eight boys and girls exhibited grain, exceeding the number of adult exhibitors in both departments. Therefore this show was

BAND UNIFORMS ORDERED; CONCERT PLANNED

The G. O. P. pledged to cooperate with the Agrifallian in continuing the campaign to raise funds for the band uniforms.

The G. O. P., as a booster to all worthwhile activities, was the first organization to volunteer to accept the responsibility of sponsoring campaigns; as the task became too great for one organization, the Agrifallian offered to lend a hand.

With the Freshman donation of $25, the G. O. P. have already raised enough money to make the initial payment on the band uniforms to be ordered Thursday. The total cost will be around $320.

A band concert is planned for the display of the new uniforms as soon as they arrive.

WHEN WILL AN HONOR CODE FUNCTION?

Week before last there was some agitation of an honor code for River Falls. Many are apt to think that it was merely a little irritation that comes regularly at examination time, and that now it is a thing of the past. Anyone who thinks that should change his mind, for now is the time for a code to work. It is up to the individual to make such a code work, some say that only a few know of our honor code, and that the majority do not know of such an attempt. If we don't know of an honor code, why don't we? It has been discussed in the religious organization meetings for two weeks, and has been written up in the Student Voice. Perhaps we don't want to know.

There are some who say an honor code will not work because no one wants to send his neighbor to a tribunal. It seems that we cannot get away from the idea that an honor system must have a court-like procedure. What the promoters of the honor code have in mind is that you are the only court. Did you see some dishonesty in the examinations? Then go and speak to the fellow who did it, and talk about how that fellow "got by" with something. How about that fellow who is boasting about how he had a pony on some loose sheets in a note book, and the "Prof" laid the paper for examination on top of the note book in such a way that it was so easy to use the pony? If you saw it, are you going to let him make more noise about his disgraceful method of "putting something over," or are you going to tell him about it? Its up to you. Then there is that fellow who asked you five or six times for information. Can you afford not to speak to him about the smallness and the uncitizen like method he resorted to? How about the Professor who stated that as far as he and any honor code was concerned his students could crib all they wanted? Are you going to show him the young men and women of have more pride and self-respect for themselves, and honor their manhood and womanhood too much to sanction such an attitude?

These are all questions concerning one problem, but the honor code submitted refers to many other problems. We all know of the way the sweat shirts for the athletes disappeared. Here is a problem to work on. Then there is the matter of one of the most prominent and popular men on the campus who is said to get drunk occasionally. Are the students here going to stand for such rumors, and violations of the law? It appears that we as people are adept at spreading scandal. If these rumors that are demoralizing our student body are so, why don't we do something? A man last week said in regard to gambling that "almost every person gambles, except a very few who are afraid." Do you believe it? If you sanction these attitudes, then perhaps the statement that comes from a neighboring college "that River Falls has a good basketball team, but her morals are low," is true. Is it? Its up to you.

TWO NEW REFERENCE BOOKS ADDED TO LIBRARY

China Year Book, 1925, is an unofficial hand-book, but of first importance for detailed information about the people, economic conditions, religion, education, products, etc., of China. In the back is a Who's Who in China in which the names listed are given both in the Chinese and Anglicized forms; an interesting book for anyone who wishes to examine or use it.

The Children's Catalog; a dictionary of 4100 books with analytical entries for 863 books. is a most useful tool for teachers, librarians, book buyers, and book sellers. It is a carefully selected list, chosen by specialists in the field. Under author entry are given good book notes, full title, publisher date, price, and approximate grading. There are also in the back lists on books about children's reading, aids to storytelling, lists of books analyzed, and a dictionary of publishers.

Clarence Nyht
Our Water-Power Resources—Osborne Attoe

Reforestation—James Casey
The Rising Tide of Lawlessness—John Burke.
Mr. Hanna, Mr. Karges, and Miss Schlosser will act as judges. Last year the River Falls representative, Miss Catherine Chapman, won third place at the state contest at Superior. Added interest is attached to the state contest this year as it is to be held in River Falls and all will have a chance to hear our representative compete with those of the eight other schools.

ORGANIZATION NOTES

G. O. P. PLAN DANCE

Plans for the G. O. P. formal were discussed at the G. O. P. meeting Thursday evening. Committees were appointed to take care of favors, decorations, music, and invitations. The dance will take place in January. The scene shifts; the masculine sex will be worrying about dates.

President Ames presented a plan at the meeting Monday in which the G. O. P. would cooperate with the Agrifallian in campaigns to raise funds for the band uniforms. This plan was accepted.

SANTA CLAUS VISITS AURELIA

The Aurelia program last Thursday evening had a very Christmas like atmosphere. Some readings and stories in keeping with Christmas were given. A girl's quartet consisting of four of the Aurelia members, sang several Christmas carols, while a real Christmas atmosphere was obtained by having only candles for light.

At the close of our program the bells of Santa's sleight could be heard first in the distance, gradually drawing nearer, and finally Santa himself stepped into the room bearing his usual bag of presents. The Aurelia members revived the days of their childhood and received gifts from good old St. Nick, which filled their hearts with childish glee and joy. However, Santa could not stay, for he had to return to the North Pole, and after a brief social time together all adjourned to dream of Santa and their presents.

made us feel that he was one of us while he was here. He stated in his first talk that his purpose was not to make any great speeches, but to make us think, and to help us see more clearly what our problems are. That he was successful in his purpose is evidenced by the number of personal interviews that he granted to students. Our only regret is that Mr. Aldrich could only be with us two days.

"Suppose," chuckled Santa Claus, "that I insisted upon rolled stockings. What a howl of protest there would be."

"My ancestors," he declared, "came over in the Mayflower."
"Its lucky they did," she retorted, "the immigration laws are a little stricter now."

First Stude: "Great Scott, I've forgotten who wrote Ivanhoe."

Second Stude: "I'll tell you that if you will tell me who the Dickens wrote David Copperfield."

Bike (to caller to whom he has been displaying their room): How do you like my room as a whole?
Caller: As a whole it's fine; as a room, not so good.

RURALITES

Santa Claus will be at the Rural Life Club next Thursday evening. All members are expected to be there. The following program will be given:

Violin Solo—Anna Reetz—Marion Brown
Reading—Miss Nellie McKennon.

Song—Misses Carruth, Peterson, Thies, and Peters
Reading—Alma Aamodt
Christmas Tree—Distribution of the presents.

Bring your presents to Misses Stolt, Paulson, or Ellsworth, Thursday afternoon.

The Kinnickinnic, Liberty Hill, and Glover Station Schools were represented at the poultry show last Friday. Several pupils received prizes.

Mr. Malott will speak to the high school of both Downing and Glenwood City next Wednesday, and to the Parent-Teachers' Association at Glenwood City in the evening.

Miss Jorstad will spend her Christmas vacation at Wallingsford, Iowa.

LOCAL TALENT SHOWS EXCELLENT ABILITY

The opinion that a series of one act plays cannot be as interesting as one longer play which is given in several acts, was put to rout last Friday evening. The three plays which were presented by various students were interesting, humorous, well presented—in fact, were all that they possibly could be.

"The Ruling Class," the first of the series, was a vivid portrayal of the trials and tribulations of the helpless newlywed who just has to have a cook. After the masterful way in which Fred Wandrey, the husband, subdued the tyrannical maid, the audience was positive that he could easily handle any marital difficulties.

"Action" was all that the name implies. Max's silk business became involved in bloody and disasterous warfare, much to the satisfaction of Max's young son. Bootleggers, dry agents, patrolmen—all added to the melee, until Max was compelled to tell the police headquarters to send a truck instead of the traditional ambulance.

The third and last of the series was centered about the much discussed "younger generation." The first two scenes represented courtship in by gone days, the third scene showing the young people of the present time. The contrast of the straight, forward manner of the modern young person with the coy deceitfulness of the maiden of Grandma's day was not altogether to the disparagement of the former. It showed one Mother, who after wondering what ever was the matter with daughter, realized that a part of the lack of understanding was due to her own unrelenting, austere character when with her daughter. It showed what misunderstanding, what hard feelings could easily be avoided if Mother and Daughter, Father and Son would just learn to talk it over.

This and that

Frances Squires spent Saturday in Ellsworth.

Loretta Basil spent the week-end at her home in Boardman.

Glen Morgan and Ted Dodge visited school Friday afternoon.

Pat Ingli and Sid Scoville spent the week-end visiting in the cities.

Queer everyone should be so happy this week as their is really no apparent cause for it.

Prof. Davison went to Wilson Monday to give an address at the Parent-Teachers' meeting.

Sid Scoville had two women out the other night; we advise that Sid take it slow and easy hereafter—one at a time.

The Civic Club will meet this week. Everyone is invited to attend. Catch the Xmas spirit there if you haven't caught it before.

Mr. Hunt's Supervision class have had two days off owing to Mr. Cochran's play, and the poultry show. Wonder if Santa will come this week.

The Mens' Glee Club this year is going to be the best ever, according to present outlooks, and there is little doubt but that the students shall be treated to some excellent programs before long.

Thomas E. Barry gave a saxophone solo at the Hammond Commercial Club, which met last Friday. They were all glad to listen to an old resident once more, and asked him to come again and favor them.

The D. O. D. Sunday School class was entertained at the James Malott home Saturday evening. Most of the members, including two "near casualties," were present. We all agree now that apples, pop-corn, candy, and a tree full of gifts are worth walking twenty miles after.

The Aurelians, ABC Romancers, gave their play at the Odd Fellows' Homecoming banquet, Thursday, Dec. 10. They are:
Lila Van Alstine—Father
Lucile Malott—Mother
Christine Norgaard—daughter
Doris Frederickson—lover.

Dr. J. B. Finley, formerly of the U. of California, declaims, "When I sit in a classroom and look at a male student who hides his mental weakness and moral unfitness behind a coat of powder and cosmetics. I wonder which way our civilization is headed."

"I am not worried about our women. Girls may dress as they please and play up the charms of the sex. The heart of a mother is never far beneath the surface. God give us men!"

He: Pardon me, did you drop your handkerchief during the last dance?

She: Oh, I was never so embarrassed in my life. That is my dress.

Miss Latta: Who has Worms (meaning a topic on that cathedrial)?

Lucile Malott responded by frantically raising her hand.

(Continued from page three) chiefly a boys' and girls' show. We are very proud of this fact; for our greater interests as a school are in the boys and girls of our neighboring territory.

There was nothing more exciting Thursday morning than the racket created by the fowls, and the Sherlock Holmes' stunts that were used in trying to detect where the pleasant odor of incense was coming from. However, Thursday night a good program was given in the auditorium. Mr. Emmett, manager of the second largest egg marketing association in the world, gave a very valuable talk on the egg marketing situation. George Wilson gave a demonstration on poultry house construction, which was followed by a moving picture on poultry farming.

The program Friday afternoon was one of the highlights of the show. Rady's quintet opened the program with several selections, and was encored by the audience until they couldn't decide what to play next. Mr. Hunt gave a short, snappy demonstration on "How to select and exhibit poultry." The only criticism on the demonstration was that Mr. Hunt would show how to hold poultry, and then his valets would come tripping through the door holding the chickens by the neck.

The Normal Band played a selection. This was followed by "Dot Famous Chicken Debate," which brought quite a chuckle from the audience. Mr. McNeil, Boys' and Girls' Club leader, was the next to appear on the program, entertaining the audience with humorous stories. Before he finished he even had the Normal Band singing for the large assemblage.

The remainder of the program included talks by Mr. Seyforth, County Agent for Pierce County, and by the boy who is considered the best individual judge in Pierce county. The Roll Call of schools showed fourteen rural schools present. Four had a perfect attendance, there being 220 boys and girls present.

In the high school judging contest Mr. Wichelman's team, from Bruce, took first place, it being the same team which took third place at Menomonie a few weeks ago. By the looks of things, Mr. Wichleman will surely put Bruce on the map, agriculturally. Of the rural schools Mann Valley made the best showing. The best showing in crops was made by the Oak Knoll School.

So, in all, this show was a grand success, and we will leave this show, only to direct our attention and efforts to a more perfect, a bigger and better show in 1927.

The Red & White collected eight points during this half, two of which were free throws. As the game ended the score stood 16-20 with our five men fighting hard to overcome the lead.

The game as a whole showed many defects which can only be ironed out by practice and time. However, by the time of the first conference game, the Falls can be depended upon to have a dangerous team.

River Falls Loses To Hamline

The Falls opened its basketball season last Friday night losing to the powerful Hamline team by a score of 45-26. The score, however, gives no fair indication of the good playing of our team. For early season work the Falls showed a fine display of basketball, and promises, without a doubt, to flower out into another team of championship caliber.

Hamline	River Falls
Rodgers R. F.	Beran
Tygeson (C) C. F. (C)	Cleberg
Sundberg R.	Syverud
Maetzold R. G.	Quandt
Anderson L. G.	Dawson

Substitutes:
River Falls: Price, Jung, Landis, Nelson.
Hamline: Skally, Domek, Schuetze.

Field Goals:
River Falls: Cleberg 6, Dawson 2, Quandt, Jung, Beran, Nelson.
Hamline: Tygeson 7, Rodgers 6, Sundberg 4, Romek, Skally.

Hamline's attack showed both cleverness and powerful aggressiveness, their close guarding preventing our men from getting within reasonable shooting range. Capt. Cleberg led the scoring for the Falls with six long and difficult baskets. Quandt's excellent work at guard was ever evident, and the team as a whole showed potentialities which will be realized as the season progresses. Coach Cox used most of his men Friday, and as yet there can be no certainty as to who will occupy the regular berths. Gibson, regular forward, was not able to play due to injuries which he received last week in practice.

At Carleton

In a practice game against the freshmen the Carleton basketball team showed unusual power, their strength being centered around Capt. "Hon" Nordby, star running guard. The Falls meets this strong aggregation Friday night, and we can look forward to a hard, fast game, which will be worth seeing. With a week of practice to polish up after the Hamline game, our squad should be able to give the Minnesota aggregation a mighty good battle.

VOCABULARY?

"Oh boy, girls did you see that keen cake eater? Gosh, he sure had the style—regular collegiate style—you know. I met him last night at the hop. Hot sock, he sure dances divinely—and talk about a hot line—say he sure slings Webster's vocabulary to a "T." He called me sweet puttute, honey bunch, little sugar, baby doll, jazz baby, red hot mamma—oh, everything. He said his ma'd have cat fits and jump out of her pajamas if she knew he was stepping it off down at that old joint, but he didn't give a hang what the old lady thought. The orchestra sure jazzed her up, and there was heaps of moon. Joy, there were some hot babies down there. All the old gang were there with bells on. Some of those girls sure slammed on the rouge an' spilt a powder box on their noses. I guess some of 'em bought the town out of black paint by the looks of their eyes. Rose had a knock-out of a dress on, too. When Mary skinned out with another guy and gave Frank the skids he said, "Dawgone her hide; it's a heck of a lot she cares about me." And Harry yelled across the hall to him, "Wouldn't that make the dog's tail wag, though." Crumps, I pulled a boner at supper when I told George he had the dough; so he could hand over the jack.

Holy cow, he called me dumb Dora, cabbage-head, cheese-hound, and told me I had my nerve. Geekers, I thought he would ditch me after that, but he said I should hank the comedy, and trot along with him. Golly, a hay-shaker who looked like a hunk of green cheese asked me for a dance, but I gave him the cold shoulder, and George told him to dry up. A cutie with wicked eyes tried to vamp George, and I felt like crowning her one. She sure got my goat the way she giggled, and my stars, the slang she used was enough to knock a kid cuckoo. About three bells we left and went for a little spin and hit her up sixty per.

George tried to steer the old boat with one hand, but I told him to junk that sloppy stuff and hit for home. I rolled in about four bells and I imagine he hit the hay about five jerks later. Talk about a peechy time, rats, it'll seem as dead as a door knob around tonight, but probably George'll drop around again. So long kids—must run along and shake a leg or I'll be late for my Trig. exam.
