Roll of Honor For Last Term Numbers 43

Eight Students Get Straight A's; 2.5 Honor Points Are Required per Credit Hour

Forty-three students earned the required number of honor points in the spring term of last year to place their names on the coveted honor roll. An average of 2½ honor points for every hour's credit is necessary for this reward. The number following the name indicates the total number of honor points that were made by the individual.

Jones' Songs, Negro Melodies, Please Students

Mr. Archie N. Jones, head of the music department of the University of Minnesota, gave a most interesting and pleasing program of vocal solos in assembly this morning. His interpretation of negro melodies was especially well received by the students.

Three years ago Mr. Jones gave a recital at this college, and was received equally well by the students and faculty at that time.

Dignity Stalks the College Campus

Who are those dignified, stately, intelligent individuals who are stalking the campus this year? Yes, they have been with us before, but not in such large numbers; consequently, not so conspicuous.

Some are short; some are tall; some are thick; some are thin, but neither loses his or her dignity. Some show their age; others look remarkably young considering their years of trials and experiences. They have that authoritative look; occupy front seats in the classroom; respond frequently; seem to know what they're talking about, and capable of ex-

Mrs. Eide Undergoes Appendix Operation

Margaret Chapman Eide, instructor in the mathematics department of this college, was operated on for appendicitis at Milwaukee Hospital, Milwaukee, Tuesday, September 19.

Mrs. Eide had been troubled for some time with attacks of appendicitis, but had not decided to undergo the operation until a more serious attack last week, made it necessary.

Last reports, as our paper goes to press, indicate she is improving very satisfactorily. She plans to be absent from two to three weeks.

Ames Speaks At Assembly

Asks Co-operation From All Students in Making Hour Beneficial

President J. H. Ames called the students together for the first general assembly of the year Thursday. In his opening address he asked the cooperation of the student body in making the weekly hour a happy and beneficial one for all concerned. His reference to the school officials of his own day brought forth friendly smiles from an interested audience. The president went on to say that learned professors and college heads no longer consider themselves the "Fountains of Infinite Knowledge." He made the point clear that as for this term's programs, an earnest attempt was being made to satisfy all the groups on the campus.

The subject of cuts and the influence that these absences have upon honor points was discussed.

Miss Irma Hathorne urged everyone to attend the Falls' Frolic Friday night. This has been called a "Jam" and a "Mixer", but this year inaugurates the full fledged Frolic for the fall term social calendar.

Dr. Williams placed that time-worn publication, Time, on sale at 60 cents per term. No jingling of the hoarded substance which we all loved so dearly was heard in the spacious hall. Perhaps the generous offer stunned a sophisticated group of young people who heretofore would have sworn that there was no Santa Claus.

The fact that River Falls college students could obtain a special low fee at the local golf course was announced by Dean Stratton. Students who so desire may obtain the bargain ticket at the course from the ground keeper.

One could not help but be impressed by the orderliness displayed by the students as they filed in and out of the auditorium.

Miss Anna Sabby, freshman, won first place at the Pierce County Fair in 4-H club work.

Sebeson, '34, Awarded First '24 Scholarship

Prominent Senior Student Receives Gift From Fund Started by Class of '24

John Sebeson, class of '34, has been awarded the first scholarship from the fund established by the class of '24. The award was made by a faculty committee which has met almost daily since school started this fall.

John Sebeson
Class of 1934

Trustees of the fund, Dean Stratton, John M. May, and Carroll J. Brown, '24, were instructed by the class of '24 to invest the balance of their class treasury ($750) until the accrued interest had raised the fund to one thousand dollars. The interest from this fund is to be given to the most deserving Junior each spring.

The thirty dollar scholarship was not awarded last spring because it was only recently that the interest from the fund has been available.

The award is made on scholarship, character, activities, and general merit. Trustees stated that there were several students who fulfilled all of the requirements, and it was only with the greatest of difficulty that a final decision was reached.

Patronize Advertisers

The business and professional men who have contributed advertisements to this issue are vitally interested in the welfare of this college and of the students. Their interest is evident by their purchase of space in the Student Voice. A careful perusal of these advertisements will prove to you that River Falls merchants offer the service, quality, and price of any group of merchants in any city.

Library Improvements Add to General Comfort

To assist in the ventilation of the library, two large ceiling fans have been installed and the south windows have been remodeled to permit them to be opened. These improvements, say our librarians, keep the library cool and comfortable during the extremely hot weather of summer.

Miss Gibson's office has been attractively re-decorated also, and several new book shelves have been added. Most of the actual carpentry work was done by Mr. Fred Christensen of the shop department.

Not only has the physical plant been improved, but the stock of books has been enlarged. A two-volume set of the Shorter Oxford English Dictionary, four volumes of An Illustrated History of English Literature are among the prominent new books. The new volumes are placed on a truck in front of the main desk in the library so all may inspect them.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

Mail is collected every afternoon from the Misses Haddow and Schlosser rooms on the first floor of South Hall. Students and faculty are welcome to the service state the occupants of the rooms.

CODE FOR LIBRARY

According to reports and echoes still reverberating through the book stacks and corridors of South Hall, the code for the librarians, library, and library frequenters has finally been signed.

The announcement was given to an over-crowded and over-boisterous library Tuesday morning by Rhea Gibson, head librarian.

The inference we drew from her speech was that N.R.A. has a special significance for everyone who uses the library, and that the symbols might well stand for "No Rumpus Allowed".

Local Churches Hold Mixers

Annual Gatherings Have Grown to be Traditional Events of College Life

Young men and women from every part of the town, yes, from every part of the country that has students represented at River Falls, have their first chance of the new school year to meet with their River Falls pastor at a social gathering this week end.

The church mixers have been a success for so many years that now they have become a traditional event. Hoards of jokes and tricks feature at the party; peppy games mix the attendants; merry songs inspire mirth into the group; a bounteous lunch and folk songs close the event.

The going-home procession always has happily begun college romances. After a jolly evening, so many acquaintances have been made that no one can be so unfortunate not to have had a finding.

To be proud of learning is the greatest ignorance.—Taylor.

Y.M.C.A. Notes

About 175 girls attended the tea sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. on Monday afternoon from four until five o'clock. The Big Sisters introduced their Little Sisters to the women members of the faculty.

The guests were entertained by a delightful musical program given by: Phyllis Glass-violin solo—"Orientale" by Caesar Cui
Marguerite O'Berding-vocal solo—"Dearest" by Hirsch
Edrys Ruthin-piano solo—"Sonata Pathetique" by Beethoven

The refreshments, consisting of tea and wafers were served by the girl scouts of the training school department.

No Depression When Tickets Are Free

Have you received a free theatre ticket? Have you stood for hours on Main street, which is packed to capacity with cars, trucks, and people, and waited in line for the first show to open—and then, perhaps, had to wait until the second show before you could get into the theatre? If you haven't had this experience, you must act at once, for this is the last week that you will have the opportunity.

This novel entertainment was inaugurated here a month ago by a salesman who travels through the country selling the idea (and, incidentally, receiving the first week's proceeds.)

Here in River Falls approximately seventeen business men cooperated with the theatre in this project. To

Students Frolic At First Social Event of Year

Frederick Bremer and Vocal Trio Furnish Music For Annual School Mixer

Frederick Bremer opened the program of the annual mixer with a trumpet solo which called for an encore. The college women's vocal trio, Dorothy Swenson, Alice Lund, and Joyce Heidbrink, sang the delightful number "Passing By" to the accompaniment of Miss Cara Amelia Wharton.

Speeches, encouraging the women and men to join the Y. W. and Y. M. were given by Miss Bernice Smith and Mr. Leonard Dorman in behalf of the organizations that sponsored the first social event of the year.

With the direction of Mr. John Thompson the group sang various mirthful songs that roused glee into the entire student body.

The men and women passed from the auditorium, forming separate files, into the gymnasium where the files met; thus coupling the group. Here each month was dramatized by those whose birthdays fell within the specified month.

The August group featured "Dog Days" by imitating the yelping of a domestic hound. It was indicated that the agriculture department must have a goodly number of majors with birthdays in August.

Dancing to the music of Arnie Kuss' Royal Badgers completed the program.

Refreshments were served by the Christian organizations. The number of ice cream cones served numbered high into the hundreds.

NOTICE

All students in college who are interested in dramatics are requested to meet in Room 34, South Hall, this afternoon (Thursday) at four o'clock to get instructions for the tryouts to be held next week. There are twelve vacancies in the Masquers Club to be filled and this is the method used to fill them.

Postal Authorities Request Information

The local postmaster and the office of the college have requested that students, especially freshmen, leave their names and River Falls address at the post office.

There is a considerable quantity of mail held at the post office for students who have neglected to notify the authorities of their names and address.

Mail should not be addressed in care of the college, as it is too difficult for the office to deliver it.

promote business, these firms purchased tickets weekly at a reduced rate (three dollars a hundred) from the theatre and gave them away, one with each purchase of fifty cents or more.

Only one firm of each type—jewelry, drug store, etc., was permitted to give away these tickets; however, there were also included in this group firms located in small neighboring towns which do not have theatres.

Judging from the mobs which throngs Main street on free-show night—usually Tuesday and Wednesday—the system has been very successful. Business men concerned have, however, come to no decisions as yet as to how much business has improved, though they do report an increase over last year.

Your Column

EVERYONE has at some time or other experienced some feeling of ire toward someone or about something in our everyday life. We have expressed our own opinions and have had opinions expressed to us in regard to the common things that happen around school. There are things that we do not care about that are given us at assembly, perhaps, or there are not enough school social gatherings. Maybe there is not sufficient time given during the school hours to the social life of students (or embryo teachers), or too much space is given in the school paper to the athletic program. If we do have such things come to our minds, let us sit down to our desk while we are really angry about it, and express our opinion on paper and hand it to a Student Voice reporter. There are many times that you may be expressing the opinion of a great number of other students on the campus. The school authorities, I am sure, are more than glad to go half-way in adjusting our so-called programs if they only know what we really wish. Thus we can express our opinion and others are free to contradict at will through the medium of our weekly news sheet. J. W. T.

World Peace

IT SEEMS THAT the world no more than recovers from one threatening catastrophe than we are brought face to face with another. The infamous articles of the Versailles treaty had hardly been signed before the world was worrying about revolution and annexation by Bolsheviki Russia.

Then came the scare of dictatorship after Italy succumbed to that form of government. Following that in a few years came the overthrowing of republics and dethroning of hereditary sovereigns, only to have the reins of government seized by the military officials.

Our hope for the League of Nations, as an international peace organ, was shattered when its incompetence, through lack of power, was displayed to the world in the recent Sino-Japanese war.

The latest piece of bad news to reach us is the statements by Hitler, German dictator, that he is soon to junk completely the terms of the Versailles treaty, concerning armaments. He fears the safety of Germany is jeopardized by the pace France has set in arming herself.

With the present amount of hatred rife among the nations of Europe, world peace is in the far, distant future.

It appears that human intelligence and reasoning is powerless against human desires, prejudices, and hatreds.

The Hot Place

DO YOU RECALL the time when all polite printing referred to Hades as "_____".

"With a curse on his lips the balked and disarmed villain slunk off into the night, shouting: 'I'll get you yet, Jack Dalton. All ---- can't hold both you and me.'"

In case you were reading aloud in those days, you paused a breath when you came to the "----" and listeners all understood.

Now the children plead nightly: "Pop, let's go see 'Guilty as Hell!'" "Naw, Pop," says another, "I'd rather see 'Hell and High Jinks!'" And little daughter demures, lisping: "Me wather see 'Go-t'-Hell Guy!'"

And poor old Pop instinctly starts to warn: "Sh-h-h, call it the Hot Place, children."

But he stifles the instinct. This is a different era from the one wherein Grandma washed out his mouth with soap and water—because he said he slid down hill "belly-buster."—Topics in Ten Point, Lund Press.

Student Opinion

What you think are your thoughts. This is your column. Anything that you think, be it a criticism or a commendation, that would benefit or enlighten our school you have a right to express.

Electric fans are devices for the purpose of lowering of body heat. If, however, they are not functioning at the time, they do not do any good outside of adding a little to the ornamentation of the room. Why not then have the use of the fan in the library, and not after almost everybody is half-suffocated with the heat? J. S.

Tennis is one of the fastest growing sports in America. River Falls has only one court which comes anywhere near being fit for play, and that particular court is unlined and in need of repair. A varsity net aggregation next spring might add to River Falls' ever growing athletic achievements. The Swainson brothers are well known on the west side of Chicago for their ability to wield a racket with more than average skill. These players would form the nucleus for a strong squad. The courts should be fixed Now! R. R.

West Wind climbed the mount that overlooks this little hamlet. The plateau that engulfs the area to the south of us provides ample territory for the hiker to amble through. A young lover will find that his one and only will be eager to spend a day tramping with him in the plateaus and through other territory in this neighborhood as well. Visitors from all corners of the globe travel to Wisconsin to view the sites which have become common-place to us. We should not forget the matchless beauty which is ours!

If you haven't been on the summit of the hill as yet plan to scale it soon. M. F.

The Falls Frolic Friday night was everything it was supposed to have been and perhaps even a little more. Everyone appeared to have enjoyed the evening. However nothing is ever 100 per cent and the Frolic had its faults too. To be frank, perhaps too frank, we felt that there should have been entertainment for those who did not participate in the dancing. Had there been bridge tables and other forms of amusement going on simultaneously with the dancing there would have been no congestion at the entrance.

It was not a serious cause for disturbance Friday night; however, let us not forget that there will be events this fall that will draw a larger number of couples to the dance hall, and should a capacity crowd be reached, the space which was occupied by the non-participants would then be sorely needed by the followers of the dance.

Any number of students are having difficulty in getting their hundreds of pages of reference work done in the few vacant periods they have to spend in the library. There was practically unanimous complaint in one class in advanced literature yesterday that the books on reserve always seemed to be out when called for. No doubt that is a general difficulty in many classes.

At present practically all refer-

The Three Arts

By M. E. G.

The lovely posters in the art room are fine examples of the modern design and color which found expression in the many brilliantly hued buildings at the World's Fair. They show today's commercial advertising and the place that art will take in the construction of tomorrow.

The vivid colors are contrasted in lights and darks. Varieties of horizontal and vertical line combinations add interest to the general scheme. There is little lettering on the posters to detract from the central theme.

Miss Greene uses the posters to illustrate modern design for her classes. Although she had to do a lot of searching, including getting special passes to the administration building of A Century of Progress she feels that her effort was well worth while.

Anyone who is interested in modern design in architecture can find a very interesting book with excellent illustrations in the library. It is Horizons by Norman Geddes.

We enjoyed your contribution to the mixer, Joyce, Alice, and Dorothy. Let's have some more songs as lovely as "Passing By".

Miss Greene uses the posters to illustrate modern design for her classes. Although she had to do a lot of searching, including getting special passes to the administration building of A Century of Progress she feels that her effort was well worth while.

Being allowed to keep a book only one hour doesn't allow much time for reference work when notes must be taken, which is a long tedious task if done properly. Some students' free periods are taken up by laboratory, assembly, necessary conferences with a professor, or other unavoidable duties.

You say that books can be taken out for over-night; thus if the student hasn't time during the day or can't secure a book, he may draw it out at 4:05. Yes, he may, if he can arrange to be there at that time which isn't possible in any number of cases, or if he is fortunate enough to be one of the first in line. For instance, it's quite impossible for the football fellows to wait in line to draw a book or magazine for over-night.

Perhaps it wouldn't be necessary to have the college library open evenings if River Falls were a larger city with sufficient public library facilities to accommodate the students' needs for access to reference books, but such is not the case.

Additional electricity would be used by the library being open evenings, but the cost would not be great. Furthermore, the students pay the required fees and registration as well as living expenses to attend college; therefore, they deserve an opportunity to make the most of their attempts for an education.

Thus, as a result of the above existing and unavoidable reasons, the library should be open, say from 7 to 9 o'clock at least a few evenings each week. E. M. N.

ence books and even the magazines are on reserve, which is wise for it eliminates the possibility of some students knowing too much, due to a selfish instinct of securing a monopoly on books and magazines to the grief of those students who would probably be flunking as a result of their generosity and co-operation in giving others a fair chance.

How About the N. R. A. Program?

I am intensely interested and enthused over the President's re-employment and reconstruction program. I believe the program is the most comprehensive and democratic that has ever been proposed in the history of the world. The whole civilized world is watching it.

I would like to see every student in college put a Blue Eagle in his window, and take the oath "We Do Our Part", then live up to the oath. Consider its violation an element of treason. R. E. Spriggs

I am for the N. R. A., but I am doubtful of its success.—Omar Bacon

I believe and have faith in the N. R. A. and am for it 100 per cent. Of course it hasn't solved all our difficulties, but it wasn't intended to. I agree with Will Rogers in that we can't expect miracles to happen overnight, but that it will take time to see and realize the true results of the N. R. A. program. Although it hasn't been of any immediate benefit to me I know it has already done a great deal for a large percentage of our people; thus I am an N. R. A. optimist, and believe in giving the N. R. A. a square deal.—Elda M. Nelson.

Books Worth Reading

By M. W.

THE INVASION by Janet Lewis

This book should appeal to several classes of readers: Those who are interested in the early history of northern Wisconsin, those who have traveled by boat or car in the Lake Superior and Mackinac country, those concerned with Indian folk-lore, and all who like a well-written novel.

Janet Lewis (Mrs. Ivor Winter) is apparently a descendant of the Johnston family, pioneers in the Saint Mary's country, and tells convincingly and delightfully the story of the white race as it arrived, spread, and finally conquered the new land.

Young Johnston, an Irishman of good family, comes to Sault Saint Marie country, marries the beautiful young daughter of the Ojibway chieftain, Woman-of-the-Glade, and founds a family. In the quietly unfolded tale of this family we have the whole story of the victory of the white pioneer and the slow, inevitable tragedy of the Indians, one-time master of all this wild and beautiful lake country.

"We Get Our Share" should supplant the "We Do Our Part" on a large number of N. R. A. signs. From the looks of things the N. R. A. program is making us a more efficient nation than ever. Perhaps J. ## Falcons Meet Oles Monday at Northfield

Minnesota Conference Team Will Supply Fine Practice Scrimmage Opposition

On Monday of next week the strong aggregation of footballers that hails from St. Olaf's will scrimmage the Falcons at Northfield. "Syl" Sommers, rangy all-state fullback, who is returning to gridiron warfare after a year of inactivity, should demonstrate some real off-tackle smashes and line bucks. Capt. Sommers, all-state tackle, is another star that must be reckoned with. St. Olaf is always right up there in the Minnesota conference and will supply splendid opposition for the fighting Falcons.

There are a few minor injuries distributed among Cowles' men, however in the main the squad is in good physical condition.

Ollie Pedersen, letterman, is a nice chap to have around when the going gets tough. Glass, Brekke, Lampson and Schiezzler round out the reserve ends. Bergemann and Krause are two good prospects at guard. Kolberg and Jackelin are the kind of tackles that would bring joy to any coach's heart.

The St. Olaf scrimmage should serve to groom the River Falls eleven for the first game with Macalaster of St. Paul on September 30.

Coach Cowles didn't care to comment about his charges as yet. However, the next issue of the Voice may carry a Cowles statement. Line Coach Setterquist appeared to be well satisfied - he has reason to be with an all-state man like McChesney heading a well balanced, hard driving forward wall.

In Shots By Vern

With the practice scrimmage with St. Olaf in mind Coach Cowles sent his team through their first practice scrimmage Saturday afternoon on Ramer Field.

His first choice was: Aastrud at center, Maaack and Voskil at guards, Simpson and Panzenhagen at tackles, McChesney and Kuss at ends, Dawson at quarter, Mack and Nolde at halves and Brickner at full.

This team, incidentally, is entirely made up of last year lettermen, with the exception of Dawson who played in 1929.

Another former letterman who undoubtedly will see plenty of action is Trink Glass. His last year of competition was in 1927. He has one more year of competition left and is being tried at an end position.

Nolde, playing at a halfback position, is showing plenty of speed and elusiveness this year.

Capt. Simpson at tackle is also displaying a lot more speed and aggressiveness this year. Simpson weighed 215 pounds last spring and reported to practice weighing 188 pounds, which he claims is not all fat.

Among the new men out for practice, Dean Zanier, and Chuck Van-Winkle look like likely backfield prospects for this year's team. Both play halfback positions. Another good looking prospect among the new men is a lineman from Sturgeon Bay, Luke Weber. A small man but he makes up for it in speed and aggressiveness.

This coming Monday a practice scrimmage is to be held with St. Olaf on the Ole's field at Northfield. Here is where the coach can observe what his men can do under fire.

Child psychologists tell us that we should switch a child's attention when he is misbehaving.

As nearly as we remember, they switched us in a different place when we were young.

River Falls Football Squad in Scrimmage on Ramer Field

Six Two-Year Men on Squad

Veterans to Hold Backfield Positions; Aastrud Strong Center Candidate

Coach Cowles gave his men their first taste of scrimmage Saturday afternoon in preparation for the St. Olaf scrimmage September 25.

The line composed of veterans McChesney and Kuss, ends; Panzenhagen and Simpson, tackles; Voskuil and Maack, guards; have had at least two years experience and looked very impressive. Aastrud, a freshman, seems likely to take over the center duties. Other linemen that will see service are Brekke, Lampson, and Glass, ends; Johnson and Krause, guards, Kolberg, Jackelin, and Weber, tackles; and Eide and Clapp, centers.

The backfield seemed well taken care of by such veterans as Dawson, Nolde, Brickner, Mack, Pederson, Schiezzler, Vezina, and Zaner, Van-Winkle, Norwick and Martell of the freshmen.

Zaner is especially impressive with his running and Aastrud with his all-around ability as a center among the yearling candidates.

The real strength of this years outfit will be tested in the scrimmage with St. Olaf.

Here & There By E.K.P.

Well, well, every professor in the school has joined the NRA. Only six hours work on any subject.

Got to thinking of the mixer that was held in the gym the other night. Seems as if this ought to be leap year; maybe there would be a few more dancing.

Did you see the farmer down the road the other day who had a full-grown cow in the back of a Model A Tudor Sedan?

Our German neighbor, Mrs. Berg, has an adequate, but slightly malapropish vocabulary. She got to telling us about the car accident their family had the other day.

"Mine husband," she said, "got excited and stepped on the celery instead of the brake puddle, andt ve hed a head-in collusion. Our regulators vas dented; the mud gutters vas shattered; the lances of the headlans vas smashed to smuttereens; undt the man had to come from outt the surface stations mit der whacker undt throw us in."

"Ven ve got to the barrage ve found it vun of der cinders vas crackled undt had to be wilted. Undt besides dot ve had to get new pistols undt a new commentator undt a new correcting rods."

The latest seems to be "vas you der, Charlie?"

It has been said that "there ain't nothin' much more exhilaratin' than tellin' th' truth--about other folks".

Mud 'n Yer Eye

School again--and all that goes with it. A titan-haired athlete, by the exercise of undue influence, lured an unsuspecting freshman to the door of a certain prof and induced him, under the guise of friendship, to address the said professor as "Mr. Jazzeze".

He was told that the prof always considered it a compliment to be addressed thus.

And was the lower corridor a scene of mirth!

Welcome to our school, Mr. Van-Winkle. We are convinced that there is no relationship apparent between yourself and the former famous owner of the name.

Unless Rip did up the sleeping for the whole family.

Mr. Williams: If you had eight pennies and lost three, how many would you have left?

McChesney: Where would I get eight pennies?

Al Hocking's got practice this term. He was demonstrating the influence of conduct motivations (Whazzat?) in class the other morning.

Al: If I stopped a man from beating a donkey, what would be the motive?

Pupil: Brotherly love.

Attention! This column will feature, next week, the announcement of progress of the NRA code being formulated for the college in the office of "General" Wilbur Johnson.

It is expected the code will be ready for presentation to Mr. Ames soon.

So far, the only trouble has been Miss Haddow's holding out for longer hours for her English Survey class. But a stormy session last night in which Mr. Karges signed the code, whose provisions are not yet public, made it certain that the English department could not hold out much longer under the onslaught of campus opinion. (To be continued).

Freshman hitch-hiker: It was so dark last night that I rode straight through River Falls and landed in Hudson.

Soph: That's carrying a joke altogether too far.

Congratulations, Mr. Wyman. And Mr. Robertson.

RENDEZVOUS FOR STUDENTS

We note with approval the new fans in the library. But do you really think, Miss Gibson, that they'll be necessary to keep the air circulating after all the boys and girls get better acquainted?

It may get awfully warm, though. I guess we'd better keep 'em.

Karges Talks at Initial Y Meet; Faith Discussed

Religion Necessary to Men Of To-day; Theological Difficulties Remedied

Last Monday evening the Y. M. C. A. began its yearly program of weekly meetings with a first-rate program. About forty students were present. The program opened with two violin selections with the accompaniment of Miss Cara Wharton. Following these numbers, a song and a prayer was participated in by the attendants.

Dr. R. A. Karges delivered a speech under the general theme of "The Relation of College Men to the Church". He pointed out that in the earlier days the supposedly learned men were not considered as church men because the theology presented to them was not acceptable to them. Now days the situation has changed, for the difficulties have been ironed out.

Dr. Karges went on to say that the religious situation in our country is serious but that the predictions are for the better. Going to church and becoming interested in that particular phase of the educational system of today is one of our privileges and duties. We meet many friends there whose memory we will cherish for years to come.

Needs of Future Stressed In University Welcome

The young men and women entering the University of Wisconsin this year must bring to the complex affairs of their time two things, sanely disciplined minds and soundly developed characters, if they are going to furnish an intelligent leadership for the future. Pres. Glenn Frank declared in a message of welcome to more than 1,500 first year students entering the State University during the past week.

The message from Pres. Frank was contained in a Handbook given to all freshmen during their first day at the University. The Handbook also contained personal messages from Dean of Women Louise Troxell and Dean of Men Scott H. Goodnight.

"I hope the peculiar significance of the period through which state and nation are passing will filter into the minds of all Wisconsin students and inspire in them a new devotion to those rigorous disciplines of mind and character which alone can produce the kind of men and women who can rescue our generation from the political, social, and economic confusion into which it has fallen in these days of worldwide depression," Pres. Frank asserted.

"You will have to live your lives and practice your professions in a world disturbed by something deeper than the after-effects of a market crash, in a world that has become so complex that it is baffling the managerial skill of its leadership. We must look for the leadership of the future to you who are now undergoing university training. And you will fail your generation unless from your university training you bring to the affairs of your time two things: (1) sanely disciplined minds, and (2) soundly developed characters."—Wisconsin Press Bulletin.

A BALANCED BUDGET

"This must be remembered; we can postpone the building of a road, bridge, or a building, and catch up on such delayed construction later on. We cannot put educational opportunity in cold storage for the duration of the depression and catch up on it later on. For the children who are denied adequate educational opportunity now, it is lost forever. And we shall stand convicted of having balanced our budget with the starved lives of our sons and daughters."—Glenn Frank.

It Merely Asks a Chance

Game management is the art of making land produce sustained annual crops of wild game for recreational use.

Game management pronounces no doctrine, it simply asks for land and the chance to show that farm, forest, and wild-life products can be grown on it, to the mutual advantage of each other, of the land owner, and of the public.

It proposes a purpose—the love of sport—narrow enough actually to get action from human beings as now made up, but nevertheless capable of expanding with time into that new social idea toward which conservation is working.—Wisconsin Press Bulletin

EXTRA CURRICULAR PLUS

School has begun! This week classes begin in earnest and the routine for the term has been established. It will be easy for one to fall into the rut of only attending classes, studying for those recitations, and there ceasing school activities. Yet an education is made up of more than just book learning. The establishing of friendships, diversified interests, and a hobby so essential in the preparation for life is achieved more readily in informal gatherings than in the formal atmosphere of the classroom. For this purpose our college has many fine clubs each fulfilling the mission of providing the time, place, and a congenial group of enthusiastic companions as a means of developing one's interest in a particular field of endeavor. Opportunity for study, individual expression in drama, social science, rural problems, sports, art, newspaper, and library work as well as hearty good times is found in our various school organizations. So join the club of your choice—you'll be more than welcome!—Fortnightly Chronicle, Duluth, Minn.

U. GETS NEW BUILDINGS

The University of Wisconsin is to have three new buildings. Plans are being drawn up for a new electrical laboratory, law building and agriculture short course building. The Federal Recovery Act is to furnish all funds necessary for the work, the state to pay back 70 per cent over a period of years.
