Hudson, Woodville, Glenwood City Are Music Contest Winners

Band Marching Contest Could Not Be Held; Boy Contralto Is Feature of Concert

"The music gets better every year", said Professor Marvin D. Geere in commenting on the success of the twelfth annual music contest which was held here last Thursday and Friday under his direction.

First place in the Class A division of the contest was won by Hudson high school, with River Falls ranking only a few points behind. In the Class B, first place was awarded to Glenwood City high school, and Woodville was the winner in the Class C group.

Because of the rain, the band marching contest could not be held Friday afternoon. This is ordinarily one of the outstanding features of the contests.

The winners' concert which was given at 7:45 Friday night was the concluding event of the contest. After the concert the medals and trophies were awarded to the winners by Mr. Geere. The following selected schools took part in this program:

Spring Valley Class B band; River Falls Class A band; Hudson Class A orchestra; River Falls Girls' Glee Club; River Falls Boys' Glee Club; Baldwin Class B and Woodville Class C Boys' Glee Clubs; Glenwood City Class B Girls' Glee Club; the mixed chorus from Amery and Hudson, and a selection by these two choruses combined.

Selections by the following soloists were also included in the program:

Piano solo by Robert Canfield, Glenwood City; soprano solo by Catherine Pratt, St. Croix Falls; contralto solo by Dorothy Benson, Clear Lake; cello solo by Donna Campbell, River Falls; trombone solo by Paul Jones, Hudson; cornet solo, Hazel Roderize, Durand; and a baritone horn solo by Glenn Forseth of Spring Valley. By special request of Mr. Geere, William Rasmussen of Amery, boy contralto, sang, "Open the Gates of the Temple."

The high school music memory contest was also held on Friday. First place in this division was awarded to Hudson and second to Amery; the other schools entered in this contest were Ellsworth and River Falls.

Williams Represents RFSTC At North Central Meeting

At the forty-first annual convention of the North Central Association, which was held in Chicago on April 23, 24, and 25, River Falls State Teachers College became a fully and unconditionally accredited member of the association.

River Falls was admitted to the association at the last annual convention with the stipulation that this year supplementary personnel and faculty reports would be made. These reports were submitted and were favorably acted upon at the convention last week, River Falls thus being fully accepted into the association.

Because of the illness of President J. H. Ames, Dr. Justin Williams was chosen to represent this college at the meeting.

Dr. and Mrs. Justin Williams were at home to members of the college faculty and other friends from River Falls in their new home which is situated in Residence Park.

The guests were directed through the house by several assistant hostesses, and refreshments were served by the Misses Lucille Spriggs, Ruth Ames, and Jean Susan Geere.

Twenty Schools Represented At Speech Tourney

Thirty-eight contestants representing twenty schools participated in the annual River Falls District Forensic Contest held in the college auditorium on last Saturday, April 27.

Winners in the five divisions of the speech tourney become eligible to enter the State Forensic Contest which will be held in Madison on May 7.

Ewald Koepsal of Glenwood City won first place in the oratory contest with the oration "Disciplined Democracy." Second place was awarded Byron Framstead of Amery, and Donald Paffel of Spooner received third.

In the extempore speaking contest the winner was Eileen Busse who spoke on "The Rhineland Crisis". Second place was given to Martha Baker of Clear Lake; Norman Olson of Hudson placed third.

Constance Clapp, Roberts, lead the extempore readers with her interpretation of "Tommy". Gwendolyn Stenberg of Baldwin placed second and Otto Olson of Cumberland was awarded third place.

The winner of the humorous declamatory contest was Georgia Hopkins of Cumberland who presented "Exit the Big Bad Wolf". Janet Hoey of Balsam Lake was given second place and Joe Winterling of Boyceville was third.

Dorothy Benson, Clear Lake, won first ranking in the serious declamatory contest with "The Monkey's Paw". William Harris of the River Falls high school placed second with "The Bishop's Candlesticks"; third was awarded to Jean Stevens of Glenwood City.

Professor Owen P. McElmeel of the speech department of St. Thomas College was the judge of the tournament.

The high schools that entered the contest were: Spooner, Glenwood City, River Falls, Hudson, Clear Lake, Amery, Roberts, Hammond, Cumberland, New Richmond, Somerset, Baldwin, Plum City, Milltown, Spring Valley, Frederic, Boyceville, Balsam Lake, Woodville, and Maiden Rock.

Office Reports Placements of June Graduates

According to a report from Professor Johnston, head of the training school department, a number of placements of students graduating in June have been made.

Freda Vruwink, four-year degree student in the elementary department has been engaged to teach in Bloomington, Wisconsin. Carol Hovde, who will graduate from the elementary department also, will teach the second grade and music in Clayton for the coming year.

Inez Morrow has received her contract to teach the fifth grade in Wisconsin Rapids. Miss Morrow, who has had three years of work in the intermediate department, has had six years of teaching experience at Mosinee, Wisconsin.

Vernice Clapp, who will receive her degree in English in June, will teach English, history, and music in Baldwin high school next year. Roy Eide, a senior in the agriculture department, has received a position in the Dunn County Agricultural school at Menomonie.

Leone Capper, a history major, will teach history, English, and music in the Osceola high school next year.

Kenneth Wallin has been engaged to teach agriculture in the Smith-Hughes department at Downing.

Table Etiquette Is Subject For Social Graces Meeting

Miss Irma Hathorn addressed twenty-five people at Social Graces meeting on table etiquette on Thursday, April 23.

After a short discussion of general facts concerning table manners, Miss Hathorn took the students through an imaginary formal and an informal dinner party. Questions regarding table manners were answered in a questionnaire followed by student questions.

Today at 10:45 another of this series of discussions of social graces was held.

STUDENTS OFFERED SPECIAL TICKETS FOR REST OF YEAR

Students may obtain tickets entitling them to the use of the golf course for the remainder of the school year for three dollars. The price for summer school students will be the same. On week days the charge for nine holes of golf is twenty-five cents.

Emmett Lowery, Now Coach at Mankato, Will Be New Athletic Director Here

Mr. Emmett P. Lowery, former Purdue star, at present coach at Mankato Teachers College, has been appointed athletic director and coach to succeed Mr. Cowles.

Mr. Lowery is a graduate of Purdue University and was a star end on Purdue's football team in 1933 and 1934. He played at guard on the Purdue 1934 Big Ten championship basketball team and was selected as all-conference guard. He won the state inter-collegiate tennis championship in 1932.

Noble Kizer, football coach of Purdue, recommends Mr. Lowery as one of the outstanding men on recent Purdue teams, and gives him an unqualified recommendation both as to coaching ability and on personal qualifications. Coach Ward Lambert of Purdue recommends Mr. Lowery without reservation, stressing his fine personal qualities.

During his first year after graduation, Mr. Lowery coached athletic teams at Rochelle (Illinois) High School and met with pronounced success. During the summer of 1934 he was employed as athletic coach at Culver Military Academy. During the past year he has been at Mankato Teachers College. His football team at Mankato won the conference championship. His team defeated the strong Duluth Teachers College, and the strength of this team is further indicated by the fact that it defeated the Superior Teachers College by a decisive score. Mankato also defeated the strong Eau Claire Teachers College by a score of 17-0.

Mr. Lowery's duties at Mankato include, in addition to being football coach, the coaching of the college high school basketball team, the college baseball and tennis teams. Recommendations from citizens of Mankato and from members of the college faculty, including the president, are of the highest character.

U. of M. Graduate Will Substitute for Dr. Vogele

Mr. Henry Johnson, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, is substituting for Dr. A. C. Vogele of the college faculty who has secured a leave of absence for the remainder of the term.

Mr. Johnson, who was born in River Falls and lived here until he was nine years old, received his M. S. degree in 1934 from the Graduate School of the University of Minnesota.

Before coming to River Falls to teach, Mr. Johnson has been conducting research investigations of weed eradication. This work has been done in cooperation with the Bureau of Plant Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for the Department of Agronomy at the University.

President J. H. Ames was confined to his home with a bad cold for several days last week.

James May, sophomore, was taken to a St. Paul hospital Wednesday for treatment of an ear infection, which is thought to be of a streptococcus nature.

The local chapter of the University Women held a benefit bridge party last Tuesday evening in the Social Room. Members of the committee in charge of this party included Miss Mable Bridges, chairman, Miss Nathalie Delander, and Mrs. Adeline Patton.

Collegians Engrossed With "Big Game Hunting"

The season is open, and hunting is again in full swing. One sees excited hunters everywhere and hears that they stalk their game in far places. A few have reported "one in the bag", and many have had "buck fever" on coming face to face with their quarry for the first time.

Mr. Hanna declared the season officially open several weeks ago when one of the hunters appeared with the annual request of "Will you look this over, please?"

Now the sport (though some take it for serious business) is swinging to its height. In every corner one finds a hunter banging away — on a typewriter. These are hunters who would delight the heart of the poet, for they "go hunting without a gun." More subtle means have proven very effective. Friends, teachers and relatives are enlisted as lookouts and beaters to spy out the game and drive it toward the hunter. He then goes into action immediately, backed by all the equipment he can muster. This is truly big game hunting.

This year, strange as it may seem, the women devotees of the sport seem to be more successful in getting their limit early than the men to whom hunting has been their prerogative, duty and accomplishment since time begun.

Some jealous males remark that this is because the "femmes" use a nice "line" when they go a-hunting.

The base of activities for the hunters is the college itself. However many of the students here are not yet licensed for this kind of hunting. They therefore cannot understand the breathlessness of the hunters who stop each other in the halls to query excitedly "Did you get it?" "What luck did you have?" "What happened?" "Is there any chance down there for me?" But by the time these students get to be juniors they will begin to comprehend and to look forward with apprehension to their next year, when they, too, will be job-hunting.

Balance Your Magazine Ration

"The average American who settles comfortably into his easy chair for a quiet evening and peruses his favorite magazine is unconsciously entering a game in which the cards are marked against him and the aces and kings have been predealt." This quotation is the first sentence of an article, "Our Magazines: An Unbalanced Ration", in last month's issue of Social Studies.

In explaining this statement the authors of the article showed that while magazines are pretending to be of service they are really agents of propaganda (propaganda according to Haine's definition: "the work of ideas on ideas"). Anyone who has read a number of modern magazines must have noticed for himself that the same question or the same news can be viewed convincingly from many different angles.

If the reader is particularly discerning, he will discover that several methods have been used to lure him into assuming the particular biased opinion which the editor wishes him to have. Those methods, he will find, include: certain technical devices, editorializing, the regulation of space occupied by favorable or unfavorable ideas or news, absolute omission, and even out and out perversion.

Whether or not we are willing to condone this policy of aggressive indoctrination, we must recognize that many magazines are dedicated to the task of controlling our prejudices. Our best protection is to be on guard.

The authors of the article, which we mentioned, offered two solutions of the problem: (1) education and (2) a state owned press. Naturally we are in favor of the first and are opposed to the second.

We should like to suggest that a course on magazines be added to the curriculum of this school, either in the English or in the social science department. A study of the ideals and the aims of our modern magazines and of the prejudices of the contributors and editors could make us more intelligent magazine readers.

Our day-to-day education after we leave school can not be practical without the intelligent use of magazines.

In the meantime (and this is probably the most practical suggestion after all) let us all determine to read both sides of the questions discussed in our magazines. We agree with Dorothy Canfield Fisher that one of the greatest values of reading is the opportunity to look at a problem from more than one angle. We might well follow her example and choose our magazines with this thought in mind. "Each time I buy a liberal magazine I purchase a conservative one also. I never buy a magazine which upholds a definite viewpoint without also buying one which supports the opposite opinion", says Mrs. Fisher.

Watch Out for the Women

America is headed for matriarchy! During the past ten years, women have been quietly waiting for the time when they can put their fingers in the "Presidential Pie."

Women today already control three-fourths of the nation's wealth and one-fourth of its jobs. Also there are as many millionairesses as millionaires, for women are beneficiaries of 80 per cent of life insurance policies and 65 per cent of all savings accounts are in women's names; 50 per cent of all stocks are owned by women.

Women do not necessarily pass their wealth on to men, as 64 per cent of them leave their estates to the same sex.

American college graduates average 3584 women to 1943 men each year.

Some 52 billion of 92 billion earned annually in this country are spent by women, and, in one state, the net income earned by women is $660,592,103.

Gone are the days when the fairer sex stayed at home and kept house and were feminine. Today women are competing in every form of man's business and at times even excel the men.

What Do You Think of the Infirmary?

I think the nicest thing about the infirmary is Miss McCourt.—Laura Baumgart.

I think that the infirmary is well-run, but the lack of equipment must make it a tough job.—Charles Fahland.

I think that every student who has been in the infirmary appreciates the care he gets there and gives this health service his personal O. K. Those who have been in college before the infirmary was established realize that this service is a great step forward. If more equipment were added and if Miss McCourt could be relieved of some of her extra duties, I believe that next year the infirmary will double its value to the students and to the college.—Dorothea Panzenhagen.

Many students on the campus don't realize what good medical service is available at the college infirmary. Until I came here, I didn't even know where it was located. Patients are sure to get the best of care, in fact, a person gets as much attention as he would receive from a private nurse. Personally, I think the infirmary is a success. There are plans for a better institution next year. Students who aren't up to par should make use of the opportunity they have to preserve their health.—Red Jones.

Prizes In Journal Contest Awarded Former Students

Several people who were formerly associated with this college as students or teachers received prizes in a contest for Wisconsin teachers which was recently conducted by the Milwaukee Journal.

One of the highest prizes, a circle tour of the eastern states, was won by Bernice Wilkerson, Wauwatosa, Wisconsin. Last year Miss Wilkerson taught in the primary department during Miss Fobes' leave of absence.

A circle tour east was the prize of Pearl S. Mayer, Montreal, Wisconsin. Miss Mayer, whose home is in Hudson, attended summer school in River Falls last summer. George E. Von-Heuklom of Mellon, Wisconsin, a graduate of this college, was also awarded a circle tour east.

Lillian Wood, Clifton Hollow School, River Falls, was given a set of the World Book encyclopedia for her school. Miss Wood is a graduate of the rural department.

The subject on which articles were written was "How to Use the Daily Newspaper in the School", the purpose being to make the use of the daily papers by students more efficient.

TO THE FOUR-FIVE BOOK LINE

With haggard eyes the students sit and stare,
The hour of study has quite done them in.
Then suddenly one hears a noisy din;
The bell has rung, the clock receives their glare.
Now for the struggle each shoves back his chair;
Each one his heart set for first place to win
Leans forward for the mad dash to begin.
The four-five book line is the great affair.
Ah, cruel world with strife and struggle filled,
Where students for their learning must stampede
And knock each other over in their greed!
All passion for sweet learning will be killed
When students must be shoved and pushed in rage,
In their commendable desire to read a page.

TO A TIME TEST

O, long dictated searching history test,
Brain child of one whose knowledge ranges far
And knows of peasant, prince, and opera star,
Beloved art thou by those with memory blest.
Thy questions come with fast and furious zest;
My fingers race, my thoughts seem from afar,
Make haste, my memory; set the gates ajar,
Few truths are known - the others must be guessed.
Only a one-word answer is required;
I search a-near, a-far, and everywhere
To tell at once the name of lady-fair
Who did her man divorce and dye her hair.
Thou art renowned for having thus been made
A test whose answers one can quickly grade.

Falconites Win Over Macs 7-2 In Baseball Opener

River Falls Hurlers Check Mac Attack by Fanning 6 Men; C. Kuss Umpires Game

Behind the effective hurling of "Nooky" Blank and Mel Erickson the River Falls Falcons had little trouble in downing the Macalaster nine 7 to 2 in the opening baseball game for both teams.

The Falcons garnered a total of 11 hits, but failure to hit in the pinches cost them several runs. On frequent occasions there were men on the paths, but when hits were needed the Falcons seemingly could not deliver.

The visitors did not secure a safety until the seventh frame when they combined their four hits to tally their lone runs. River Falls on the other hand tallied their runs in the early frames and then coasted along having the game well under control.

The next game will be Tuesday when the Falcons journey over to Minneapolis to take on the Minnesota Gophers who were Big Ten champions last year.

Campus Chatter

Do you think that it will be possible to have those dirt tennis courts cleaned up by the time school is out? Merely because there aren't students on the courts every hour of the day doesn't mean that two courts should be enough even during the rush periods.

Tuesday we heard another good assembly. The selection, "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" was almost broken up by the flight of one of those devilish little hornets, wasps, or what have you, down the front row.

Last time the Student Voice came out

My column wasn't in it. I really have a good excuse (Just how shall I begin it?)

My mind just wouldn't work at all, 'Twas filled with other dealings, The kind that throw you up and down, You know, those see-saw feelings.

But now they've gone into the past, Forever? Well, I doubt it. But since my inspiration's fled, I'll struggle on without it.—Adapted

Kibitzer's Korner By LOUIE

FROM all the gossip in the halls we believed that Coach Botsford of Elmwood was really a candidate for the college coaching position. Botsford Friday asked us to correct the rumor because it really isn't true. He said that because he had had a quite successful season he really did not think he could have the face to apply for that position. Kurt Winnerburg, the other high school coach in the rumors, said the same.

AFTER all the gossip on the job has simmered down a bit the rumor still persists that the coach at Mankota and Hon Nordly of Rochester are running pretty even in the home stretch. Whatever the gossip is we can see there are plenty of candidates for the job. Talking about coaching we see that Cowles beat the former Wisconsin coach, Meanwell, in the running after the Dartmouth job.

LAST Saturday the Gophers took the Purdue baseball team over the rapids 18 to 4 and 10 to 1 in the double header that started the Big Ten season for Minnesota. The Gophers are out after another title this year, and from the looks of the Purdue game the McCormick team should be a favorite to repeat. The Falcons will take on that team at the Minnesota diamond on May 5. The Falcon schedule has been filled, and a full list of the games to be played is published on this page.

CHARLIE Radbourne of the Providence team in the old National League won 60 games in 1884. Bill White, pitching for Cincinnati in the National League in 1879 hurled 75 games. There are plenty of these old records that make the "iron men" of today look pretty much like an alloy. "Bear Tracks" Selvig wishes he had lived back in the good old days when men were men and the rest of the people appreciated it. He says the only iron men today are the iron firemen.

ON the 15 and 16 of May the baseball team will be down in Iowa playing the Iowa State Teachers. The team will play two games with the Iowa team, both here and at the tall corn school. Wonder what the fair damsels think about that. Here's where the big brawny boys don't have a chance to shine at the Prom.

NOW that the six weeks are past it's time to lay off and get in shape for the prom. The tennis courts are getting a good share of use and abuse in this cold weather. The Northern League teams got practice under way at last. All the teams train at the home ball parks. Duluth will take the squad to Winona to top off the training this Spring to get the slightly better conditions in the southern Minnesota city.

SUPERIOR'S boxing team defeated the fighters from Stevens Point in the first teachers college fight program put on at a Wisconsin teachers college between schools. The Superior team, led by Adams and Rich, Yellowjacket gridders, beat the Point team decisively in the six fight card. The Pointers have had a team for the past few years and have met several schools during that time.

Floyd Krause

Floyd Krause... three year letterman in football and an all-conference guard on the last two of Cowles' football teams. Learned his football under Kurt Wennerburg at Ellsworth. Teamed with Brickner and Kolberg at Ellsworth and at River Falls. Will be the only regular lost to the 1936 team. Stepped off the deep end last fall when he married a former classmate at Ellsworth and at River Falls. Krause holds a good record scholastically, having earned a 2½ honor point average for the entire four years at River Falls. He is wearing football togs for the last time for River Falls this week in helping Ted Setterquist with the Spring session. Krause says that he will not play any semi-pro ball when he is thru at River Falls. Has acted as a lab assistant for the frosh chemistry classes and has been a real pal to the laboring plebes. Plays baseball with the Bay City Blues during the summer and is one of the reasons that that team has such a good reputation along down the Mississippi valley. He bowls around 170 and feels that it should be better.

W. M. Kircher Speaks To Ag Men on Farm Outlook

"The Farm Outlook" was the topic of a talk by W. M. Kircher, Field Agent for The Farmer, a farm paper edited in St. Paul, who spoke before the Agrifallian Society last Thursday evening.

Mr. Kircher believes that it would be a good business move for a young man to enter into farming at the present time. He pointed out the facts which prove that investments now are relatively smaller than the returns which could be expected.

In general, the speaker thinks that the farm outlook is promising.

There ought to be some new people on the honor roll next term from the all night work some of the boys are doing.

The annual camping trip of the W.A.A. will take place from May 15 to 17. Twenty-five girls are expected to go on the camping trip. This trip is one of the organization's outstanding activities of the year.

Girl's baseball season begins next week. All girls desiring to take part in this sport should report for practice on Tuesday, May 5.
