

Health Problems Are Discussed at Annual Meeting

Attitudes and Trends of Medicine Are Expounded by Dr. O'Brien of Minnesota

The North Central section of the American Student Health association held its seventh annual meeting here May 5 and 6.

President J. H. Ames opened the conference by greeting physical education directors, health officers, and deans from colleges throughout the middlewest. He stressed the fact that the conservation of health is important to those going out to teach.

After a welcome address by Dr. Ruth E. Boynton of the University of Minnesota, the afternoon program consisted of the reading of two informal papers and a Round Table discussion.

Elizabeth C. Rogers from LaCrosse State Teachers discussed the question "What Is the Relationship Between Student Health and Physical Education?" Kodachrome slides of the contagious diseases smallpox, measles, scarlet fever, and mumps were accompanied by descriptions of their symptoms and duration.

"Socialized Medicine" was the subject of Dr. W. A. O'Brien's discussion at the dinner Saturday. Dr. O'Brien is associate professor of preventative medicine at the University of Minnesota. The dinner, which was served at 6:30 in the college cafeteria, was presided over by Dr. Chalmer Davee of River Falls.

In discussing his attitude and his theories in regard to the present trend toward socializing medicine, Dr. O'Brien said, "Let's leave American medicine - American medicine, not socialized medicine." Medicine, this well-known authority believes, has ceased to be a profession and is

Frosh Make Mess of Word Meanings

Who said a comma wasn't a stupid addition to the English language? Those poor froshies are at it again—making boners. Sure, and it was the comma what done it too! The comma and big words what don't have any bearing on life - anyway.

Now don't get the idea that freshmen are boobs. Why, they just understand that teachers' lives are rather drab, so they try to toss them a few good bones now and then. This time they wrote silly answers on an English composition test. It's the English prof's turn to laugh.

Did you know that sapient could mean "a luscious liquid," "a person who does not care to work," "a symbol or a scepter," or that it "contains sap"? Did you ever see a dream walking? Well, get a load of this—"The front bedroom is the first room to be seen going upstairs." How about this one—correct the following sentence: "My theme is unified because it has no ideas, which do not belong to the subject." The answer—"My theme, which does not belong to the subject, is unified because it has no other

Wins Scholarship

Roman Zorn

Grad of '36 Will Work on Higher Degrees at U. of Wis.

Roman Zorn, who has held the position of social science teacher at Amery since 1937, was awarded a two hundred and fifty dollar scholarship in history at the University of Wisconsin for 1939-40 plus remission of tuition. Mr. Zorn is to work under the direction of Dr. W. B. Hestline, of the history department, and plans to remain until he completes work for his Doctor's Degree. Besides being an honor student, Mr. Zorn was on the varsity debate team all four years and was prominent in several extra-curricular activities.

Other River Falls history majors, who have received, or are receiving assistantships or scholarships in the history department at the University in recent years, are Helen Jensen Williams, Horace Merrill, and Morris Buske. The latter two are attending the University of Wisconsin at present.

Dr. Kettlecamp Will Teach Field Biology At Lost Lake Camp

Dr. Benjamin Kettlecamp will represent River Falls State Teachers College, as instructor of field zoology, at the first summer camp of its kind established by the Wisconsin state teacher's colleges in cooperation with the United States Forestry department, at the Lost Lake biology camp, located at Lost Lake, Forest county, Wisconsin. This camp established for the study of biological science will be held from June 19 to July 27.

Equipped with permanent buildings, and located in the heart of virgin forest, this camp will offer an opportunity to combine study, recreation, and outdoor life.

A complete recreation program has been planned with teachers who are especially trained for conducting this work in charge. Courses in botany, conservation, field zoology, and nature study are included in the program. The total cost, including tuition, board, room, and recreation fees for the six week course, is $85.

The instructional staff will consist of faculty members from seven different colleges in the state. Foresters from the United States Forestry department will assist in giving instructions. It will be possible to earn six semester credits (nine term credits) which will be accepted at full value by any of the teacher's colleges in the state.

That Let-Down Feeling in the Spring

How do we know we've come to a breathing space, a lull in our school life? How do we know that we're hitting the same routine as of other years?

Well, first of all, there is that let-down feeling after the Spring Prom. No more dashing around, no more worrying about dance programs, etc.; all that is past.

Then, too, there is never an empty tennis court when you feel the urge to "go out and bat the ball around." Weather permitting, there will be several tennis enthusiasts on the courts at 6 a. m.

Hikers out to find a resting place along the river must go some distance before finding a spot uninhabited by other nature lovers. The reward is well worth the price; for the scenery is delightful, and you can always "apple-polish" by bringing a bouquet to teacher.

Prof. B. J. Rozehnal To Conduct Musical Program Dedicated to River Falls Business Men

Tonight, in the college auditorium, the concert band will present its seventh annual spring concert in celebration of the formation of the band just ten years ago. This band was first organized in 1929 by William Schliep, who was at that time head of the music department. Seven years ago B. J. Rozehnal became its conductor and established the annual concert policy.

The concert, which is scheduled to start at 8 p. m. has been promoted by the Lion's club, and it is dedicated to the 20 River Falls business men who last fall sponsored a drive to send the marching band to La Crosse.

The following information is from the program notes: Eighteen years ago Paul Whiteman first introduced George Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue at a concert in Carnegie Hall as an experiment to prove the place of jazz in modern society. The piece is divided into three part. All the effects used in jazz orchestras are included in it. It is the last theme of Rhapsody in Blue which opens all Paul Whiteman programs.

Also featured on the program will be the Libussa Overture by Smetano. It is taken from the suite "My Country," and is the description of a queen meeting her future husband. The clear trumpet call characterizes the queen's war-like nature. The approach of her lover is indicated by the bassoons which grow louder and louder as he nears until the full band joins in at the meeting of queen and lover. The third theme is very gay, bringing the queen and her lover together in marriage with one half of the band playing the theme of the queen and the other half that of the lover.

makes one wonder why the Japanese victory has been so long delayed. Most foreign observers agree on China's helplessness against the Japanese war machine. But it seems that despite her military reverses, the loss of vast territory, China has a spirit for a fight. Her hopes are that, with deeper penetration into the roadless expanses of China, the scattered Japanese forces will become more vulnerable to guerilla warfare and surprise attacks in the rear, and that the prolongation of the struggle will increase the probability of intervention.

The Chinese unification movement has been under-estimated by critics when considering the relative strength of the Far Eastern combatants. Since the Japanese penetration on the mainland began, China has resisted and is continuing to oppose every step made by Japan. The measure of her resistance is not to be found in terms of iron, steel, guns and planes, but in the spirit of a people whose belief in the superiority of their race and culture has never been shaken. The China of today is far different than the dissension-torn country of a few years ago.

As to the current outlook, many questions loom. It seems that neither China or Japan can keep up a full-fledged war for long. It appears more likely that the war will continue in sporadic, guerilla form and may drag on for years. China may thus be forced into the role of a second war-torn Spain. Although distasteful as the prospect may be to the world at large, there seems every likelihood that President Roosevelt's phrase "an awful mess" will characterize the Sino-Japanese situation for a long time to come.

Folly of Japanese Might

Crisis is a word that has been overworked in speaking of world affairs; but it is scarcely an over-statement when it is applied to the present Sino-Japanese situation. Hostilities that have been taking place sporadically between Japan and China since the spring of 1933 are still in open flame and the conflict has become more than a struggle for the domination of North China. Realistically it has assumed the proportions of a major trial of strength between the two eastern combatants; the issue of which is bound to affect profoundly the future history of the Far East.

Since a year ago last July, journalistic thought has been that Japan is a powerful economic menace to the rest of the world. It looked then as if determination and numbers might outweigh the lack of training in the Chinese war. However, the Chinese armies gave the Japanese invaders far more of a struggle than the high command at Tokio had counted on; the struggle at Shanghai alone was one of the most stubbornly contested engagements in the annals of modern warfare.

Even though Japan has her credit and budget difficulties, she still maintains the upper hand in the Far East from the militaristic standpoint. All the accessible factors indicate that in a major, massed encounter, China cannot defeat Japan. This

That Activity Ticket

Do you remember the student activity ticket you purchased at the first of the quarter? How many times have you used it? You will have two occasions to use it this week, first to obtain tickets at a reduced rate for the annual band concert and second to attend the baseball game Saturday.

You know of course that we have a fine ball club. They have been victorious in three of their four games. St. Thomas alone, was able to pinch out a victory over the Falcons. La-Crosse, Concordia and Eau-Claire fell victims to the college nine and it appears as if RFSTC is on its way to another conference championship.

Last week the team gave Eau Claire a trouncing before a small crowd. In baseball it is traditional to have yelling in the form of encouragement to the home team and discouragement to the opposition. While the small crowd attending this game held up the encouragement (also the discouragement end) a larger crowd would have added color and zip to the game.

Get you money's worth from your activity ticket. Attend the remaining home games. Your time will be far from wasted and the moral support is appreciated by the team.

The Baton

Well, tonight is the night. With the glamor of full dress and the presentation of a "program for the listener" the Concert Band will give the biggest, best, and most worthwhile concert in the history of the band. Remember, admission for college students is only ten cents. So take the evening off, get either your girlfriend or boy-friend and help fill the house in the college auditorium. The band members will appreciate your support. Hear Johnny Clair do a beautiful glissando in the introduction of Rhapsody in Blue. Listen to the thrilling Stars and Stripes Forever as you like to hear it played. Dream to Kreisler's Old Refrain. Billy Mills will once more bring the train around the mountain, just as he did in the band assembly program. Be there, the concert of concerts! And don't forget, student tickets are only ten cents, just one, thin, round, dime!

Attend the Concert Tonight

That most engaging volume, The American Mind, which gets in everybody's way is once again in demand in the "life or death" struggle every day at four o'clock in the library. Certain sophomores, who are running a high fever because of the book, have suggested that some publicity seeking student, in line with the current "eat 'em up alive" trend in American colleges, try his luck some day on one of these volumes—a tender, well-done morsel which certainly ought to be digestable.

Most fortunate is River Falls in having a very fine Lion's Club. This week the Lions Club has put its full force behind the Concert Band and have even gone so far as to assure a capacity crowd at the concert tonight. The cooperation established by this excellent civic group is most deeply appreciated by the bands. Give them a hand folks, they truly deserve it.

It is rumored that if this paper had a society editor, Lloyd Frank would have made front page news last week because of his most sensational appearance at the prom. To Mr. Frank we can only say that "It is better to have loved and lost, than never to have loved at all."

Start counting the days, everybody, for this is the ninth week. There are only 12 more schooldays and exam week left. Then it will be time to pack up and pull out for the old homestead. The Student Voice, too, after a couple more editions will "fold up" for the year 1938-39 and get its editions bound into Volume 23 so that some day people can look back to see just how things were done "away back when."

Dr. Wyman Reviews Book For Social Science Review

Appearing in the April issue of Social Science is a review written by Dr. Walker D. Wyman of the book, Upper Mississippi, A Wilderness Saga, by Walter Havinghurst. Upper Mississippi is the second of a series to be published that are named Rivers of America. The purpose of the series is to tell the story of the peoples who settled America, using the rivers as their roads and being influenced by them. Upper Mississippi tells of the settlement of the Northwest by the Scandinavians. Constance Lindsay Skinner, editor of the series, explains in a note in Upper Mississippi the need of supplementing straight history with something on the order of Rivers of America in order to learn to "know the folks". Dr. Wyman says, "Indeed, he will not have met many of them after reading this volume. Where are the Germans, the Irish, the English, the Bohemians, the Russians and the Polish? Where are they...who never followed the rivers? They, too, settled the upper Mississippi, contributed to its culture, and numerically are greater even today in most of these states. Merely because our early civilization was born on the banks of our rivers has this colored our temperament? Are we a restless people because motion flowed by us continuously in our youth? Are we optimistic, eager, imaginative, daring, and even recklessly experimental, because of the beckoning of the tides...? This reviewer says no, and recommends to social and economic historians this field now being occupied by our literary colleagues."

REBECCA

By Daphne du Maurier

Rebecca is a novel deeply concerned with the inner thoughts of men and women.

The setting is an estate in Cornwall, Manderley, which is one of the most famous country estates in England.

When the story opens, Rebecca has been dead for eight months, drowned in a sailing accident. Through the eyes of the second Mrs. Maxim de Winter, Rebecca becomes alive. We know her thoughts, her habits, and her famous career.

The other characters are superb, especially the sinister Mrs. Danvers who is the efficient housekeeper that keeps the estate as Rebecca would have kept it.

The story is filled with the atmosphere of disaster, and the exquisite love of two people which is almost destroyed by the melodrama of the dead mistress of Manderley, Rebecca.

FFA Will Sponsor Full Card Of Boxing With Red Wing Pugs

Two Wrestling Matches and Eleven Bouts Are Booked

The FFA is featuring a large boxing card to be presented at 8 o'clock Thursday evening in North hall gym.

Preparations for the matches have been nearly completed. Besides the regular boxing card, there will be two wrestling matches, one of which will probably feature some outside talent. The other will be a free-for-all, "knock 'em down, dray 'em out" affair between "Indian Joe" Schlo-man and the "Masked Marvel."

The regular card will be mostly return bouts with the boys from the Red Wing training school. In this group will be Hanson, a tough lad who stayed a complete three rounds with Thoeny. Two other outstanding boys will be Hanson and Truitt. Boscoe Farrell, the physical director at the school, will bring a complete squad with a man for every weight.

William Mills and Glenn Thoeny, the coaches for the local squad, have had excellent cooperation from the group of boys. Everyone seems to be in good condition.

The present weigh-in gives the following results: Born 195, Dobberstein 190, Issacson 180, Lamb 160, E. Kelly 160, O. Peterson 145, Maki 145, Swanson 140, Morley 130, Aldrich 127.

Dan Linehan, coach for the college boxing squad, will referee. Dr. Fortun, a member of the California State Boxing commission, will be one of the judges.

Admission will be 50c for ring-side seats, 35c for regular adult seats, and 20c for students.

Mixed Doubles Tournament Schedule Nears Completion

Entries have been completed in both the doubles, and single's women's tennis tournaments.

Teams in the doubles tournaments are: Jorgenson-Johnson, Herbert-Lyon, Manske-Branstad, and Beardsley-Bleisner.

Entries in the singles consist of Jensen, Raawe, Bleisner, Branstad, Rudisill, Herbert, Jorgenson, Beardsley, McDowell, Rockman, Sumner and Manske.

The singles tournament promises to be very interesting since Jorgenson, Jensen, and Manske have all won the championship at least once, and several of the new players especially McDowell and Bleisner show promise of furnishing stiff competition.

Tentative plans are being made for a mixed doubles tournament. So far, the Williams-Branstad, Manske-Hehnke, Jorgenson-Tarpey, and Junkman-Herbert teams have entered. The list will be held open for several days to allow other teams to enter.

Tennis Court Rules

The athletic department wishes that the following rules for the tennis courts be accepted by the students:

1. Playing time be limited to one set if others are waiting.
2. The new court is open to both men and women, but is reserved between 3:15 and 4:15 daily for the tennis team.
3. The court nearest South hall is reserved for women.
4. The court by the road is reserved for men.
5. Outsiders must retire from the courts if college students are waiting.
6. Must be no swearing.
7. Tennis shoes are required.

River Falls Tops Blue Devil Squad 1-0

River Falls remained at the top of the conference standings by edging out a 1-0 victory over the Stout Blue Devils in a game played here yesterday. The game was strictly a pitcher's battle between Gray, and Worman of Stout, as each hurler gave up only three hits. Worman did not issue a base on balls and was ably supported by his teammates since they committed only two errors, neither damaging. Gray allowed four walks, and the Falcons committed five errors, but they always managed to keep the Blue Devils from scoring. Twelve men died on the base paths for Stout and five were left for River Falls.

The Falcons scored the only run of the game on a perfect squeeze play in the second inning. Trecker started the inning with a single to center field. He stole second and third base in rapid succession and scored as Peterson laid down a bunt between the pitcher and first. Goto, Hawaiian second baseman for the Blue Devils, fielded the ball but threw home too late to get Trecker.

Stout threatened seriously on five different occasions, loading the bases once with only one out and failing to score as Milinovich and Pittman struck out. They had men on second or third in four other innings. Goto collected two of the three hits for Stout and got as far as third twice but could not advance to pay dirt around home plate.

Wulf, Trecker, and Hoey each collected a hit for the Falcon's total of three.

River Falls plays at Eau Claire Friday and at Stillwater Saturday before returning for the next home game.

Golf and Tennis Teams Complete Victory Over Stout

River Falls defeated Stout Institute in both tennis and golf matches here yesterday. The tennis team won 4 to 2 and the golf team took a 10 to 3 victory.

In tennis, Sprietor beat Nickerson 6-8, 9-7, 6-2; Crosby beat Nobienki 6-0, 6-3; King beat Miller 6-4, 6-2; and Junkman was defeated by Hub 6-0, 6-3. River Falls won both of the tennis doubles matches.

The golf squad shot a 10 to 3 win on the local course. Prucha, Sondergaard, and Schmidt blanked their opponents while collecting the Falcons 10 points as Hew gathered the 3 points for Stout.

Sports Roundups

By the end of the first week of Conference baseball, the Falcons were in first place with two victories and no defeats. La Crosse was in second place with one victory and one defeat. The other teams are Eau Claire with one loss and Stout with no wins in two games.

The baseball team really displayed power at the plate in their 18 to 8 victory over La Crosse last Saturday. Mert Wulf continued his slugging with his third homer in four games. He also got a double in that same inning. The starting pitcher for La Crosse, who is the leading semi-pro pitcher in the city was Campbell. After he was knocked out of the box, his successor, Zingler, a left hander, was treated the same way, but managed to finish the game. "Red" Klugow, former River Falls student played with the Indians. The boys are now shooting for an undefeated conference schedule.

The golf team was defeated at La Crosse by a score of 12 to 2, but they expect to even things up here Friday. Johnson of La Crosse led the scoring with a 74. River Falls was led by Swede Nelson who shot a 77. This La Crosse team was state champion last year.

The all-school track meet, under the direction of Coach Clifford Juedes, will be held Wednesday and Thursday of this week at Ramer Field. The first five events will start at 4 to-day and the rest will be held tomorrow at the same time.

Stu Larson's Pirates, the league leading kittenball team, continued its winning ways last Sunday by defeating the City Bombers twice. Clifford Juedes pitched both games. The scores were 10 to 5 and 12 to 2.

This is a last reminder of the boxing show being held in the gym tomorrow night, May 11. It is being sponsored by the FFA who promise at least 30 rounds of fine boxing.

Swimming Notice

The swimming pool is being kept open on Tuesdays and Thursday at 4 o'clock for men's recreational swimming. Anyone may come in.

Falcons Defeat LaCrosse Nine 18-8

River Falls went into first place in the newly formed teachers college conference when they defeated La Crosse Friday, 18 to 8.

The Falcons pounded out 18 hits off Campbell and Zingler, Redmen hurlers. Leading 9 to 7 in the sixth inning, River Falls rallied to put across eight runs in that frame, sending the highly touted Campbell to the showers. Wulf, Trecker, and Hoey hit safely three times for the Falcons, and were closely followed by Wilson, Stone, and Blank, who collected two hits apiece. Wulf hit his third homerun of the season in the sixth inning.

La Crosse garnered 11 hits off Blank in seven innings and one off Gray in two innings. McGinley, Redmen shortstop, hit safely three times in four trips to the plate. Olszewski, catcher, got two triples.

Members of the River Falls WAA made a trip to Eau Claire Saturday and returned as the proud possessors of a silver plated ebony plaque, the award for first place. Only seven members made the trip due to several other events on the campus, but they were good enough to win the event for the first time in four years.

The first victory of the day came in the soft ball game, which River Falls won 8-6. Other victories followed in tennis doubles, Bleisner and Jensen coming through for River Falls, horseshoe, with Owens and Lovell pitching two winning games out of three, and deck tennis Jorgenson and Bleisner contributing this victory. "Motor Age" figures show that the Ford "85" obtained better mileage than its two closest competitors. Their mileage records were as follows:

being subjected to state and federal control. He discussed phases of today's medical care in the light of this growing tendency which vitally concerns not only members of the association but everyone with whom it comes in contact.

Miss Nellie Palmer, R. N., of the University of Minnesota headed the round table discussion held after the breakfast Saturday morning in the cafeteria.

Some of the health problems discussed by nurses and doctors from various colleges in the northwest were the need of stressing health education among college students, the importance of an extensive immunization program, the task of managing efficiently a college infirmary and clinic, and the necessity of developing a satisfactory plan of payment on the part of the student without destroying his individualism.

The problem of maintaining an adequate health program with the funds allotted by the college was the main point stressed at the meeting.

Speakers including nurses, doctors, and physical education instructors from South Dakota, Winona, St. Cloud, Superior, and Iowa state teachers colleges, the University of Minnesota, Carleton College, and Lawrence College made the morning's discussion very interesting and educational.

Many of the new ideas which the delegation of 15 YWCA girls from River Falls brought back from the Ihdhapi Conference at Lake Independence were incorporated in the new cabinet members' programs for 1940.

a carnival. The first theme is the "Cortege," the parade, and opening. The second theme is the description of Harlequin, the clown, and Columbine the dancer; and the last theme includes a promenade.

Two modern dances are included in the concert; the Dance of the Swans, by Tchaikowsky, featuring the flutes in a duet; and the Tango, a sensuous Spanish dance by Albeniz. The Perpetuum Mobile by Johann Straus characterizes the search by inventors for a machine that would give perpetual motion with the invariable realization that one cannot be created in contradiction to the laws of nature.

Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, by Victor Herbert taken from Naughty Marietta; Fritz Kreisler's popular Old Refrain; and Harvy Alford's The Skyliner will be heard.

The program will be concluded with a group of marches and novelty numbers which have been requested by a few of the River Falls business men.

Tickets will be on sale this evening at the door. Student tickets are ten cents with the activity card. The general public can obtain tickets for 25 cents.
