 - a. This will put your activity on official calendar in the office.
 - II. Any organization sponsoring an activity not needing an orchestra—do this:

- These procedures must be followed by every organization for the smooth running of the social activities on campus.

A preview session open to all students and the public will be held Wednesday, November 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the Visual Aids room in South Hall.

Jadinak Receives Two Music Posts

A double honor has come to Nicholas Jadinak, director of music education and also director of the college orchestra. He has been re-elected to the State Board of Control of the Wisconsin Music Association for a two-year term, and he has been chosen to manage the district music festival in River Falls.

Mr. Jadinak and five delegates from the Music Association's second district attended the group's annual meeting in Milwaukee, November 4. The Wisconsin School Music Association reviews and sets up festival rules and recommends changes designed to improve music performances in state schools.

Representatives of 18 schools in the festival district to which River Falls belongs met recently in Hudson and elected Mr. Jadinak to supervise this year's festival. The group also discussed the annual music clinic which will be sometime after the first of the year.

The music festival has been in River Falls for many years. Mr. Jadinak's predecessor as manager was B. J. Rozehnal, music instructor and dean of men at the college.

This is Mr. Jadinak's seventh year at River Falls. He has served on the Music Association Board of Control the past two years.

BRADLEY DEBATE . . .

Bradley University, Peoria, Illinois, will be the debate center of the northwest November 21 and 22 as the 7th Annual Bradley Speech Tournament, sponsored by Pi Kappa Delta of Bradley University, gets underway. Five River Falls students will participate in this event, which will include about 40 colleges.

Margaret Helmer, senior from Plymouth will participate in debate as second affirmative and also in discussion.

Bill Schoenwetter, sophomore from Emerald, will debate first affirmative and will enter the extemp speaking and radio speaking events. Extemp speakers give a five to seven minute speech on the debate topic; "Resolved: That the United States adopt a policy of free trade," and then are asked questions pertaining to their speech by the presiding judge. In the radio-speaking event Schoenwetter will be competing for the

EVALUATION GROUP HERE FOR STUDY OF RFSC

Visiting the RFSC campus today and tomorrow is a nine-member committee from the American Association for Colleges of Teacher Education. This committee will investigate and evaluate the facilities of the college. Colleges belonging to the AACTE are evaluated periodically so they may continue to meet the organization's requirements for membership.

Debate Team Ties For Third At St. Olaf

River Falls tied for third place at the annual Women's Debate Tournament at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota by winning seven out of ten debates. St. Catherine's College won first place by losing only one contest while South Dakota State received second place with eight wins and two losses. River Falls and St. Olaf tied with the same number of wins and losses.

Margaret Helmer and Annette Peterson, composing the affirmative team for River Falls, won three lost two for 154 total points. They were victims of Mankato Teachers College and Eau Claire State while being victorious over St. Olaf College, University of Minnesota and Bethel College. Our negative team, Shirley Engleman and Bev Domalka, lost only one debate, which was to St. Olaf College, while winning from Bethel, Eau Claire, Concordia, and South Dakota State for a total of 141 points.

Schools included in the tournament were Concordia, University of Minnesota, St. Catherine's, Northwestern Schools, Bethel College, Eau Claire State, South Dakota State, St. Olaf College, Mankato Teacher's College, and River Falls State.

Dr. George Gilkey of the faculty Debate Committee accompanied the squad and judged throughout the tournament.

"The Committee's visit is a self-help evaluation to tell us what is good and where we can improve upon the objectives of our college," said Dr. E. H. Kleinpell, president of RFSC.

Members of the committee visiting the campus include three members of the faculty of Mankato, Minn., State Teachers College: C. L. Crawford, president of the college, who is chairman of the group; Edward M. Boyne, supervisor of student teaching; and Donald B. Youel, director of library services.

On the evaluation committee from Iowa State Teachers College are J. W. Maucker, president; Miss Marian McBrair, associate dean of students; and Marshall Beard, registrar.

Other members of the evaluation committee are Eugene McPhee, director of Wisconsin State Colleges; R. F. Lewis, assistant superintendent of public instruction in Wisconsin; and Miss Alma Link, a representative of the Wisconsin Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards.

The committee arrived in River Falls yesterday. The women are staying at Hathorn Hall and the men at Hathorn Cottage.

Today's schedule for the committee included conferences with the president and the administrative staff, a tour of the campus, and study of curriculum patterns, professional laboratory experiences, and the library. The committee meets with the student senate this afternoon at Hathorn Hall lounge.

Tomorrow, Tuesday, the group will study faculty qualifications, faculty load, and personnel services. Following a coffee hour at 3:30 p.m. in Hathorn Hall lounge the evaluation committee will present its report to the faculty.

Two Students Win Honor For Poetry

The poems of two River Falls State College students have been chosen for inclusion in this year's Annual Anthology of College Poetry, Dr. Francis P. Chisholm announced today.

"Hate Not Pain," by David Gilstad, freshman, and "Forgotten," by Orlan Larson, sophomore, were the poems selected.

The Anthology is a compilation of the finest poetry written by college students in America. Selections used represent every section of the country and are made from thousands of poems submitted.

German Library Asks Wyman Book

Dr. Walker D. Wyman recently received a request for a copy of his book "California Emigrant Letters" from a library in Germany. Prof. Dr. P. Gehring, director of the George Washington Memorial Library in Stuttgart, sent the request, stating he was convinced the book would be of great value to his library.

The George Washington Memorial Library was founded to commemorate the first United States President's 200th birthday. According to Dr. Gehring, it was destroyed during an air raid in 1944 and was not reopened until 1951.

The director asserts its objective is to promote the understanding of American thought and way of life. Most of the books now in the library were contributed by American authors, libraries and institutes.

Y D's Attend National Convention In St. Paul

The Young Democrats held its regular meeting November 4, 1953, in the Knotty Pine room. Vice President Darlene Ruhnke read a letter regarding the Young Democrats National Convention which was held this week-end in St. Paul, Minn. The following were appointed to represent the River Falls delegation: Ron Jensen, Darlene Ruhnke, Halbert Belt and Paul Felsheim.

After discussing the new Democratic trend in the country, the meeting was adjourned by the group.

Plasterers are busy at work applying the primary coat to the interior walls of the soon-to-be-completed Chalmer Davee library on the campus.

American Education Week Observed Here

American Education Week, November 9-13, was observed on campus under the combined efforts of the education department and the campus training

One of the basic objectives of the week's activities was to invite freshmen and sophomores, who are planning upon a teaching career, to visit certain future events and to acquaint them with the teaching profession.

An exhibit of books, N E A and W E A journals were on exhibition in South Hall to honor the event. Posters and exhibits were set up in store windows along main street by students from college and the campus school.

THE EDITOR SPEAKS

WE TOO, MUST EVALUATE

Today and tomorrow RFSC is under the critical eye of a nine-member evaluation committee from the American Association for Colleges of Teacher Education. A list of the things this committee will evaluate is found on page one of this issue.

There is one thing, however, that this committee might not evaluate—the student body, for they are here mainly to examine the facilities RFSC offers its students, i.e., physical plant, curriculum, faculty, and counseling.

But an evaluation of the student body is as necessary as an evaluation of the rest of RFSC to get a complete picture of the campus.

We feel that such an evaluation is an individual matter. And we think that the person who chooses to evaluate himself as a college student might find one or more of these negative aspects among his attitudes. He might conclude that:

1. He lacks sufficient enthusiasm in social activities. He is a "suitcase student."
2. He doesn't express enough intellectual curiosity to merit the respect of his instructors.
3. He is guilty of insincerity in choosing teaching as a profession.
4. He lacks the "cooperative instinct" in his relationships with other students and faculty members.
5. He does not fully appreciate the faculty's role in his college education.
6. He feels indifferent toward RFSC as the institution which will be his alma mater.

We wonder how many persons on this campus dare to evaluate themselves as college students. We hope a good many of them will, for only by the recognition of such faults can they begin to improve and obtain more benefits from college life.

STIFF-NECKED STUDENTS STARE FOR SKYWATCH

by Marilyn Murphy

December 7, 1941—Headlines four inches tall proclaim to the world that we are a nation of optimists. They were certain Japan did not dare pull a sneak attack on us. Now, 12 years later, in the old American attitude, we go on, as ever before, a nation of optimists.

But always, there are the exceptions. A small-town barber, an undertaker, a housewife, a retired mailman, a midwest college professor come to life in the American story. River Falls becomes one of 10,000 cities and small towns in America injecting the country with the tinge of pessimism necessary for preservation.

Operation Skywatch is born in the fall of 1950, under the supervision of C. G. Stratton, retired geology professor and Dean of Men at River Falls State College. The air defense branch of the Air Corps, the Ground Observation Corps is a network of posts extending its vigilance along western, northern and eastern states down to North Carolina, and involving approximately one-half million people.

Just as the headlines on December 7, 1941 involved you and me, so does the program of the GOC concern us both. The program needs you and me if it is to continue in River Falls. According to Mr. Stratton, the only qualifications are (1) to be able to use the telephone, and (2) to be able to tell the number of motors of a plane.

Seven chief observers are in charge of Skywatch, one for each day of the week. Among these are John G. Mosher, and Robert Fisler, RFSC faculty members. Formerly, 195 people were enrolled. Of these, 104 have quit which leaves 91 active members, of which 60 do all the work. The watches are arranged in two hour periods. An observer will usually work once each week.

In July, 1952, Post NQ25B at River Falls started continuous 24 hour duty at the River Falls airport. Because it had to move from these quarters, operation was suspended in November. The following January an 18 hour day was resumed at the utility house on campus over near the trailer court. In July they moved to the present site on North Main, the fifth ward election room, still on an eighteen-hour day.

Being a college town, which increases the population by over 600 people River Falls should apparently be able to boast the 24 hour day along with a few of her not-so-near neighbors. Grantsburg, population 900, maintains a 24-hour day. Barronett, population 100, maintains a 24-hour day.

There are 30 or 40 filter centers located throughout the United States where information is organized and lined up. Our station reports to the Minneapolis center. Only multi-motored planes and jets and plane formations are reported. A special wire to filter station makes it possible to relay information in less than a minutes time.

Operation Skywatch has been in progress for over three years and no enemy planes have been spotted, but this doesn't in any way lessen its need or mean that it should be dropped. The plan worked in both China and England during the last war, and it may very well be our only method of defense against a sneak attack.

Anyone interested in the program need only see Mr. Rozehnal, Mr. Fisler, Mr. Mosher or Mr. Stratton. Workers are especially needed on Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday. It is to be noted that about half of the volunteers are women which means that any female offers of help will be very welcome.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

"Oh, I wouldn't worry too much about passing, Miss Freeman—as long as I'm grading on the curve."

Circus Minimus . . .

by Nero

Ave plebians! Let it be known that as of this month of November 1953 A.D., a new statute has reached the roles, placed there by our esteemed patrician senators, who debated long and loudly at our seat of government, the forum in Madisonius, Wisconsin.

Be it announced on this day that all healthy males and all females, regardless of caste, must apply immediately for their birthright, so they may legally indulge in the foremost beverage product of this area, namely, the fluid of the hops.

Such application must be made before the documentis magistrarius of the province in which you abide. Fee will be thirty pieces of silver; checks payable to Judas Iscariot, treasurer impretorium.

Information which must be listed upon said document is to include: size sandal worn, color of toga, type of chariot driven, number of Christians eaten in past year, and proficiency in Latin irregular verbs. A picture must be furnished on document, which is to be hermetically sealed in transparent wax after carrier has signed it in blood.

The patrician senators deemed your noble ruler, Nero, to enforce this law so as to protect you who are immoderate in love, drink and fighting in the streets. Nero desires those whom he loves to appreciate the magnanimity of this noble gesture. He further desires you to obey said law upon penalty of being drawn and quartered and thrown to the royal lions at Ramerius arena before your peers. Procedamus ad cannum!

Several Somethings . . .

The new library? It's not ready but it's coming. Ernie Doe, construction foreman, showed us through the project and pointed out that the four plasterers have really started giving the walls, etc., the final touch. The accoustical ceilings are also nearly installed. Two specialists in ventilating and two electricians are also busy, plus Ernie and his regular crew.

On our tour we were shown the green glass "blackboards" that will be installed. Near the elevator there is a huge safety vault to store valuable books. In the front lobby there will be two wall display cases and a telephone booth in the stairway area to the basement. Our "guide" mentioned that the warm, dry weather has been an asset to construction drying of plaster and cement.

The five practice teachers in the campus Jr. High School are co-directing a play by their students, Thursday, November 19, to help emphasize National Book Week which starts today.

There will be a bulletin board installed downstairs in South Hall above one of the book shelves.

The next issue of the Voice will not appear until December 14 because the scheduled publication date conflicts with exams.

CRITICS CORNER . . .

ROSSI LECTURE

On Friday, November 13, at a convocation in North Hall, Dr. Wyman introduced Dr. Mario Rossi, who spoke on the present situation in Palestine.

Dr. Rossi, a native of Venice, is the U.N. correspondent to Palestine, and resides in New York. He studied international law at the University of Geneva in Switzerland and obtained his doctorate in political science at the New School for Social Research. In a brief interview before he presented his lecture he stated that he "covered the Middle East about four years ago." "This lecture tour covers the Middle Western states."

The lecture presented a "United Nations Correspondent's views of the Palestine Issue." "Palestine" is an issue of emotional impact, and an area of tremendous importance to the Western world. We should concentrate our defense in that area to protect the oil in Saudi Arabia and the Suez Canal. We must consider not only Palestine separately, but also in conjunction with areas in the Middle East."

For another reason, said Dr. Rossi, the Palestine issue is one of vital importance because of the religious situation there. The problem, on of Moslem versus Jew and which faction is to have control of the 'holiest' city, Jerusalem. Here the emotional impact detracts from Western ability to build up defense in areas around the Middle East and Southeastern Asia. The situation is more strategic because of the immigration of refugee Jews from Europe.

Previously the U.N. proposed that Palestine should be made up of two states, Moslem and Jewish. The Moslems objected to the petition and entered into a state of war which made the problem even more crucial. We must help the Israelites, who gained control of much of the territory in that area, to keep their possessions. At present 900,000 refugees are crammed into inadequate space. Living conditions are deplorable and refugee children are being raised in veritable slums. We of the West cannot realize how bad the situation is, reported Rossi.

What can the world do about this? Since there is not enough land for the influx of refugees they should not be forced to go back to Israel. Resources are limited for the number immigrated. A Moslem and a Jewish state should be instigated with an international buffer state between the two. There should be internationalization of the whole southeastern Asia and Middle East areas and not just of a few single places. These places should be placed under the jurisdiction of the United Nations, which should maintain a permanent commission or inquiry.

It is important that the world be cognizant of the necessity to realize that Israel is there to stay and that as a state it does have rights, insisted Rossi; also it is necessary that Israel realize the importance of the Arab nation.

The whole area of Southeastern Asia has, in the last few years, undergone the birth pangs of nationalism; for few were free countries before the First World War.

"Although this issue in Palestine may not seem of too great importance today, in a few years it will be of tremendous importance," affirmed Dr. Rossi. "We must keep this in mind for the security of the world as a whole."

BAND CONCERT

by Jane Standish

On Thursday, November 10, the RFSC band under the direction of B. J. Rozehnal presented its annual fall concert. The band chose as the theme of the concert "All American", and played selections by such composers as Gershwin, Gould, Goldman and Bennett.

Opening with "March America" the band swung into that old familiar fiddlers tune, "Arkansas Traveler." Among the high-lights of the entire concert was a selection of Gershwin melodies, including "Liza", "Embraceable You", and "I'm Biding My Time", the later in which John Kirk, Spring Valley freshman, played a trumpet solo with the ease and tone of a professional.

Particularly effective in creating "musical moods" were the band's selections of Bennett's "Scenes from the Sierras", and Bloom's "Song of the Bayou".

Other well-known numbers were the immortal "St. Louis Blues" and Gould's "Pavanne", in which Bob Strain, Baldwin junior, played a trombone solo.

The RFSC band paid tribute in its closing number to John Philips Sousa, American March King, by playing his "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Proceeds from the free-will offering at the concert will be given to the Falcon Fieldhouse Fund. The band's winter concert will be given February 25.

LEAN YEAR AT RIVER FALLS???? What with the rebuilding process of the basketball team this season, many rabid fans may have to become accustomed to a different type of play from the Falcons. At least at the present, there is no "Rog Kuss" on the horizon and it may be quite a while until one develops. The picture isn't as bright as it has been for the past several years but it is far from hopeless. Coach Belfiori and Coach Solley have a lot of fine material to build a real contender from in the conference race. The speed with which the newcomers take on the polish and poise of college athletes will tell what kind of a season we have in '53-'54. Just a precaution to the fans of the "Falls", this might well be one of the "lean" years at River Falls.

BIG TEN RACE GETTING TIGHT.... At this writing we are looking with an anxious eye to the Wisconsin-Illinois game which will be history when this is read. If the Badgers can stop the fantastic J. C. Caroline, and his running mate and touchdown twin, Mickey Bates they will have made history!! They would be the only team this year to contain these two and beat the Illini. A Wisconsin victory along with a win by Michigan State over Michigan, would throw the conference lead into a three way tie pending the results of this coming week's contests. Things are getting hot in the Big Ten!!

HOW MUCH YOU WANT TO phrase has been making the rounds lately, with a lot of people taking sides on the issue, and with an equal number remaining on the indifferent side. It would appear now that the game is virtually a toss-up. We see it stacking up like this: Paul Giel will be playing his last college game and will be out to make a bigger name for himself and assure himself of an "All-American" berth. The Badger will be just as fired up to revenge that tie last year which pushed them into a tie for the conference title with Purdue. If the Badgers go into the game with an Illinois victory under their belt—watch out Minnesota. A victory for Wisconsin would give them a share of the title in this case. We will be on hand for the knock 'em down battle at Memorial Stadium so we can give you an on-the-scene account. From the press box right now we'll go along with the Badgers by a touchdown due to their well rounded offense—hope we don't miss it!!

A bit of action from the Mankato game as Spate carries for a gain while stepping over a Mankato would-be tackler. Reg Hansen (44) is leading interference, while Mankato players J. Just (71) and B. Neary (84) close in for the tackle. River Falls won the grid finale 20-6.

Falcons Nearing Basketball Opener As "Rebuilding Process" Continues

RFSC, N. D. Team Clash Here Dec. 7

River Falls meets Valley City (N. D.) Teachers College in its second home game of the coming basketball season, on December 7. The game has been added to the regular Falcon schedule as a benefit game to help pay for the new football scoreboard at Ramer Field.

All spectators at the River Falls-Valley City game will be charged fifty cents. Student activity cards and season tickets will not be honored at the event.

RFSC's president, Dr. E. H. Kleinpell, was president of Valley City Teachers College before coming to River Falls.

GREYHOUND

Search Continues for Pivot Star

Coach Belfiori's reign at the helm of the Athletic department takes on added meaning in the coming basketball season. He is faced with the problem of finding a reasonable replacement for Rog Kuss while building a team which must hold its own in the conference. The former aspect of the problem is a coach's nightmare in itself.

Many observers feel that no one can ever fill jersey number 36 like it has been filled the past four years. A rebuilding year generally means a slump from preceding heights of prowess in any sport, and this situation is not much different from that faced by the Falcons this year.

The nucleus of this team will come from the seven returning letter winners of last season. They are Bob Williams, "Zeke" Wells, Jim Belisle, Don Fick, Joe Burgoyne, Stan Lehman, and "Cabby" Wild. There are several outstanding freshmen prospects at each position who will be pushing these veterans to the limit for a varsity post.

The situation at forward seems to be well under control with Wells and Williams firmly implanted in those spots. While Wells has been mentioned as a possible center, the loss of his outside marksmanship would hamper the offense of the team. "The Kangaroo-Kid" Williams is a real scrapper, as well as a terrific rebounder and hits very well from the outside. Stan Lehman will add able support as will several freshmen.

At guards the two main choices are Burgoyne and Belisle both of whom saw a lot of action last year. Wild will see a lot of action before the season gets too old as will a fine group of newcomers. With the added speed of the "frosh", it would appear these boys will have to run like they never ran before in order to get a varsity position.

The big question mark, of course, is the pivot position. Due to his experience the logical one to fill "Master Rog's" shoes is big Don Fick. He is being pushed right now by the "BIG MAN" of our campus, Manley Olson. While he will need a lot of grooming, we feel this boy has a great future on the hardwood court. His defense and offense are improving each day, and he will have been tested under fire by the time the conference schedule begins and for these two reasons keep your eye on "Sky High". He will see a lot of action this year and could develop into another of the great centers at River Falls.

Other contenders include Ken Thomas, Frank Ewing and Bill Werbeckes. There are other freshmen who may or may not play the slot as the need arises.

Three letter winners of last year are not seeing action as Falcons this time out. They are John Mills, John Gehn, and Jim Saxton. Saxton has an injured arm which is preventing him from competing this season.

Chances of bettering last season's mark of eight wins and four losses in conference play seem rather remote at this stage. This team will undoubtedly be a pretty fair ball club towards the end of the season, and their chances in the title scramble depend on how soon they can rebuild into that type of team.

The Falcon's opener is November 23, against St. Johns at Rice Lake. Many of the wrinkles of this young team will be at least softened after this initial encounter.

STUDENT SENATE MINUTES

Tuesday,

November 3, 1953

The meeting was called to order by President Margery Deans. The secretary's minutes were read and approved.

The motion was made and passed that there not be an advanced sale of tickets for the Valley City basketball game. They will be on sale at the dorr at fifty cents per student.

We discussed forming an unofficial committee of Dr. Kleinpell, two faculty members, the president of the Student Senate, and two other senate members; the purpose of which would be to talk over various campus activities. The motion was made that we form this committee with the condition that we could dissolve it whenever we desired to do so. The motion was defeated.

The constitution of the Theological Club and the United Student Fellowship group were presented for approval. Both were rejected until a few additions and corrections are made; then we will consider them again.

The Social Committee attended the meeting to plan a more satisfactory procedure for scheduling social events. The following points were decided upon.

1. Any all-school social function must be presented to the Dean's Office two weeks in advance of the event.

2. Any group desiring to sponsor a week-end or wanting financial help for an orchestra must send a representative to a Social Committee meeting (Meetings are held every Tuesday evening at 6:00.)

3. If functions are not scheduled properly, they may be cancelled by the Dean's Office.

4. A Student Advisory Council meeting will be held to explain this procedure. Copies of the list of regularly scheduled meet-time of organizations will be distributed at this time.

5. A Campus Calendar for the term will appear in the Student Voice.

Gayle Moen made the motion that we ask Dr. Kleinpell about the possibility of getting a cork-filled molding for the cafeteria upon which notices could be hung. The motion was carried.

The meeting adjourned.

Secretary,

Rita Ruemmele.

Present: Deans, Gueldner, Moen, Verkuilen, Ryan, Kind, Strain, Garnett, Rasmussen, Belisle, Ruemmele.
