Both students have been active in campus life during their four-year stay at River Falls. Joan

After winning in a preliminary round of original oratory, Larry Henneman competed in the Finals Friday evening in Bascom Halls Auditorium, University of Wisconsin. Larry placed third. The contest was won by Terry Hudson of the University of Illinois.

Annette Peterson was one of eight finalists out of 70 participants. She, along with Tom Glatzer of the University of Illinois, received a perfect rating of five superiors in one of the three rounds. Her final score was 66 points out of a possible 75. The top score was 67 points. Annette was scheduled to speak with the other discussion finalists over

TAXES PAY $440,000 OF $600,000 BUDGET, STUDENTS PAY REST

The Wisconsin State College at River Falls costs the people of River Falls just slightly over $15 a year—less than half a cent per person—according to Dr. E. H. Kleinpell, college president.

That statement was made last Monday evening at the annual meeting of the River Falls Chapter of the WSC Alumni association held on campus, which also saw new officers elected for the coming year.

Dr. Kleinpell's statement, based on figures released by the Wisconsin Department of Taxation and the "Wisconsin Taxpayer," further indicated that "in return for this expenditure the College pumps about $3,000,000 of purchasing power annually into the economic bloodstream of River Falls.

President Kleinpell figured this way:

"Excluding county and city taxes in which the college does not share, the taxpayers of Wisconsin paid into the state coffers about $265 million for the year ending June 30, 1953. However, Madison does not retain all this money but returned to local units of government $155,000,000 in the form of shared taxes and grants-in-aid. Thus the net cost of the state government was actually $110,000,000, rather than $265 million.

"Further, the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance, a nonpolitical organization interested in the tax dollar, estimates that Pierce County residents paid $41 per capita in state taxes during the above period, and had $40 returned to them in the form of shared taxes and grants. Thus, the cost of the operation of the state government to the residents of Pierce County was just $1 per person!

"The college operates on an annual budget of about $600,000, of which $440,000 comes from taxes. The remainder is made up from student fees and self-sustaining operations.

"Thus, if the college has a $440,000 'tax budget,' and the state collects for state purposes $110,000,000, it follows that the State College at River Falls receives four tenths of each cent of each tax dollar ($.004) used by Madison.

The loss which this campus will feel through Glenn Behn's passing cannot be measured in words, nor in mere memories. He was the friend of all who knew him, a conscientious, tireless worker, with a smile and a good word for everyone.

Glenn's activities included agriculture education, two years' participation in the college choir, and service this present year as vice president of the United Student Fellowship.

FACULTY MUST LIVE AND THINK STUDENT WILL BE SCHOLAR IF FACULTY CONTINUE LEARNING

Lincoln, Neb.—(I.P.)—A student is tempted to be a scholar if he studies in an atmosphere of consistent scholarship on the part of the faculty, according to Dr. A. Leland Forrest, newly inaugurated chancellor of Nebraska Wesleyan University. In his prepared paper entitled "On the Temptations To Be a Scholar," Chancellor Forrest points out that a faculty member must first of all live, experience, try out particular points of view, and then think concerning these experiences.

CAMPUS SCHOOL IN MAGAZINE

The RFSC campus school music department has again been put in the state education spotlight. An article in the Wisconsin School Musician magazine describes the music program set up and directed by Mr. Nicholas Jadinak of the college faculty in the fourth through eighth grades here at the campus school.

The article, written by Mr. Jadinak, was requested by the magazine because of the interest of other school music directors in the campus school music program. The program gives each student instructions on one or several stringed instruments.

The program is carried out by Mr. Jadinak during the regular music period, each group meeting twice per week. Most of the instruments used by the children are furnished by the school for this part of their music training.

"You can always get the truth from an American statesman after he has turned seventy, or given up all hope for the Presidency."

Wendell Phillips.

"Thinking is hard business. It is not done easily by people who want to move forward at a nice even pace. Thinking is messy, repetitious, silly, obtuse, subject to explosions that shatter that crumbly and leave darkness behind. Then come another flash; a new path is seen, trod, loved, broken off, and blazed anew. It leaves the thinker dizzy as well as baffled; he does not know what he thinks until he has thought it, or better until he has written, and written it with a persistence akin to an obsession.

"But it is just to such processes as this that the stereotyped mind rebels. Some of us like much better the type of teaching experience which involves the alternate reciting of teacher and pupil, in which the latter must occasionally be prodded to repeat correctly—which means verbatim—the words used in the former's script.

"While the rest of us may smile at this rote type of teaching, it is sometimes the type most desired by college students, and too broadly practiced by cooperative college teachers. Students too often want to know when they have thought enough.

The Editor Speaks !!!

Friday morning's speaker, Roy Dunlap (better known through his "Once Over Lightly" column in the St. Paul Pioneer Press as Paul Light), seemed to be what the student body of this college has been looking for. "Dunlap was one of the most interesting speakers we have had here for some years" is the report we have had from every student attending. (That was quite a large number of reports, by the way).

This type of program is what the student body has wanted for a long time. We stated in our editorial once, that this area could produce such a speaker. Now, we have finally heard one. This goes to prove that we do not need to spend mouth-watering sums of student donated cash on expensive acts, etc., that have questionable merit as to their value to the student.

We would like to see many more men such as "Paul Light" visit this campus. Hurrah for the River Falls Concert Lecture Series. This was the biggest convocation assembly we've had. Don't drop the ball.

MCKAHAN FAMILY MOVED INTO NEW HOME RECENTLY

Hank McKahan and his three children have moved into their new home, built on the site of the home which burned on Eighth street. Mr. McKahan and the children are very proud of the new home, and those who have contributed to the labor, and have helped the McKahan family get settled, report the house is exceptionally livable. Weather conditions have not allowed filling around the basement walls, but with the coming of spring, all this work will be done, and the house will have an exterior appearance to match the interior.

For those who are interested, Dave Smith, treasurer of the Hank McKahan Fund, reports that the total has reached $5,123.79. All of this money has gone to rehabilitate the McKahan family. Mr. Smith also wishes that anyone having bills against this fund to turn in their claims at once.

ROOKS ON BOOKS

by Bill Rooks

Well, R-Fers, "Lo, the finals are past, the grind is over and gone", and this week opens with a far more cheerful outlook than have the last few. With the cessation of midnight-oil-burning, students have an opportunity to sit back and catch their breath before descending once more into the morass of higher education. One of the few pleasant things about finals is that one is automatically caught up with the previous quarter's assignments.)

This temporary respite might be to put any number of uses, such as catching up on lost sleep, spending more time socializing, or even (unlikely thought) getting ahead on this quarter's work. Your conscientious (?) reviewer, however, has done none of these things. (Because of insomnia, impecuniousness, and laziness, in that order,) but has instead devoted some of his attention to the problems involved in going to college, and in attempting to find out what education is all about. (If we aren't interested in education, why are we here?)

While pursuing this course, I came across a book, "Educational Wastelands", by Arthur E. Bestor that makes a number of charges against modern educational policies that are stimulating, to say the least. The subtitle of the book is "The Retreat from Learning in Our Public Schools," and pretty well summarized the author's attitude toward contemporary education in general.

The thesis of Mr. Bestor's book is that education has lost its purpose, and, not through lack of effort but through loss of direction, is failing to give students an adequate preparation for life. He maintains that modern education has become anti-intellectual, and that modern educationists do not believe that "the people" are capable of intellectual training.

This contradictory attitude, "paradoxical combination of strong faith in the political judgment of the masses with strong doubts of its intellectual capacities" is, in his mind, one of the most crucial problems now facing both educators and students. If nothing else, this book (roundly condemned by Dewey-ites) makes one wonder whether he is getting all he can out of education, and even whether education is doing all it can for him.

LOOKING OVER THE STUDENT VOICE IS ROY DUNLAP, better known as Paul Light for his column in the St. Paul Pioneer Press—"Once Over Lightly". Dunlap spoke to a packed 10 a.m. assembly last Friday.

"Paul Light", Columnist For St. Paul Pioneer Press, Gave Talk On Adventure Of Press

by Chuck Brill

Roy Dunlap, columnist for the St. Paul Pioneer Press and writer of popular "Once Over Lightly" column, a daily feature of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, was the guest speaker Friday, March 11 at the all-college convocation in North Hall.

Mr. Dunlap, using the theme, "Adventures of a Columnist" introduced his talk by explaining the popular mis-conception or tereotype by which the American people picture the newspaper man.

Employing the same style which has made his column so popular, Mr. Dunlap continued in his "Once Over Lightly" fashion to assure the audience despite the influence and competition of TV and radio on the media of communication the newspaper was her to stay, not by quoting poll results or statistics, but by a realistic humorous statement "you can't wrap garbage in the TV set."

Mr. Dunlap assured the audience the adventures of a columnist are many, but the paramount problem of writing a daily column is the problem of keeping a middle of the road policy in regard to religion, politics and people in general.

To further illustrate the adventures of a columnist, Mr. Dunlap continued his interesting talk by presenting in "Once Over Lightly" fashion, experiences from his recent trip to Europe.

Highlighting his adventure, Dunlap began with Germany, and his two day visit to the Russian sector. He explained that the economic and general welfare conditions which exist, are quite apparent to the observer. Compared to the living conditions enjoyed by their fellow country men in the neighboring sectors, the living conditions of the people in the Russian sector are far from a decent standard of living.

Leaving Germany, Dunlap continued to take the audience on their vicarious tour of Europe to the Scandanavian countries of Finland, Sweden and Norway. He related his experiences as a victim of Finnish custom and hospitality explaining the traditional Finnish custom of the "Steam Bath" as he enjoyed them.

The ingenious system the Swedish people has developed to solve the "baby" sitting problem which was explained along with the hazards of shopping in the Swedish department stores. There every day is ladies day and the conditions of survival of the "strongest" exist.

Norway proved to be an experience in eating for Dunlap. He left quite a "fishy" taste in his mouth, after enjoying the Norwegian special of sardine pot pie, sardine french fries and sardine layer cakes.

Dunlap finished his enjoyable talk with a description of Ireland and the declining importance of the "Emerald" isle, from an economic and population viewpoint. This condition, according to Dunlap, is due to the lack of natural resources for developing water power, and the inability of the country to compete in the world of mass production.

Falcons Grab Second Place In Wis. State Conference

by Ron Jensen

The basketball season was very successful for the 1954-55 edition of the River Falls Falcons. The local crew fought their way into a runnerup position behind the champions from Eau Claire, and gained the only league victory over the Blugolds. The Falcons went over the century mark five times during the season, and finished with an 85.3 average game production while allowing an average of 78.3 points per contest. In league play the Red and White finished with a won-lost record of 9-2, and had a 14-5 record for all games, including the tilt with alumni from past seasons.

FALCON COACHES

Belfiori

Solley

The Falcons developed into a fine offensive unit, as well as a spirited defensive outfit, under the leadership of the "three W's", Zeke Wells, Bob Williams and Cabby Wild. These three seniors, the only ones on the squad, were the main stays all season and were beyond a doubt three of the top players in the conference. With Dave Herum and Dave Fisher at the other two posts, this team cut a wide swath through all competition, and were a mighty fine credit to the school, to the game of basketball, and to sports in general.

Not to be forgotten are the indispensable, and valuable, reserves on any athletic team. The coaches Belfiori and Solley had as many good, capable replacements at their disposal this year as they, or any other coaches, could ever hope for. Jerry Carter's spirited relief work was one of the highlights, as was the workhorse role played by Bob Hubert, as relief man for starter Dave Herum, at the ever important center position. Dick Fisher played his fine steady game whenever called upon, as did all the reserves who gained much needed experience in preparation for next year.

The three seniors will be hard to replace, as will Dave Fisher who is considering transferring to the University of Wisconsin, but with a lot of work and determination the boys can develop a fine aggregation next year.

Looking At Other Colleges Plan Started

by Shirley Neuner

Wisconsin State College at Platteville will hold its annual Senior Days March 22-23. The highlight of the days' program is a basketball squad demonstration by the college team followed by a game which will pit carefully selected high school seniors against the college squad.

March 7-11 was "Hell Week" at Stout as campus fraternities were pledging new members. (Hell week here to, but nothing to do with "frats") The four campus frats pledge new members every semester and these pledges can easily be recognized by their costumes. For example, straw hats, canes and string bowties; red fez and sash; blue and white helmets and shields with gold swords; and black derbies, bowties, tee shirts and white gloves.

The La Crosse Development Committee, to plan for the development of La Crosse State College, has been formed by a group of progressive men from La Crosse. Their principle aim is to develop the land now available and to add new property to the campus as La Crosse now has the next to the smallest campus acreage of any of the Wisconsin State colleges.

For Grants To Colleges

NEW YORK, January 24—A new plan for making financial contributions to colleges and universities where Time Inc. staff members are currently taking courses was announced today by Roy E. Larsen, president of the publishing company. A total of $18,171 has been given on an unrestricted basis to 23 colleges and universities throughout the United States. These grants match the total tuition paid by the company's employees who enrolled in courses in recent months under the company's education plan.

"In 1953," Mr. Larsen stated, "Time Inc. established an Education Benefit Plan under which the company pays staff members half the tuition costs for after-hours courses which they take. We also recognize that the tuition charged by colleges and universities generally amounts to only 40 to 60 percent of the cost of instruction. Therefore, as an experiment, this year we have decided to grant to all colleges and universities where our employees completed courses under our Education Benefit Plan, unrestricted gifts equivalent to the schools' tuition charges."

Danforth Foundation Grant Given to Harden Naeseth

Recently a Danforth Foundation Associate Grant was presented to Mr. Naeseth, a member of the faculty who works with YM-YW and the Wisconsin Religion in Higher Education Conferences.

The grant, which was established by Mr. Danforth for three purposes is given to many colleges for a four year period but the grant Mr. Naeseth received has a clause stating it is good for a "college-generation". The purposes of this organization are first of all to pay living expenses for "Danny-grads" to train for one year and to do graduate work after they have received one summer religious training at a Northern Michigan Camp. "Danny-grads" is only a name given to 12-14 college women who are selected from all over the U. S. on the basis of their religious understanding on their campus. Dr. Sayre, the Dean of Women, was once selected as one of these students. Also she worked for five years as a Danforth Associate and is still a very staunch supporter of this organization. The second purpose of this association is called "At home to students". Here the graduate actually works with students in religious training and guidance.

The third phase is a very fine gesture shown every one by Mr. Danforth. Very frequently he contributes money to various campuses for them to build meditation chapel. Dr. Sayre, during her service as his associate, once received $5,000.00 from him to be used to build a chapel.

Mr. Danforth is the originator of the Purina Chow feeds and sponsors a T.V. program weekly.

The grant Mr. Naeseth received is to be used in student work on campus, following the religious and cultural nature of education. It is to promote a growth of students and their contacts within the teachers home.

Another aspect just recently established broadens the grants scope internationally. It is now supposed to be used for foreign students as well as others.

The only other member on campus to receive such a grant was Mr. McKeen.

Over at the Campus School, little Terry was late for school one day. The teacher asked the cause of the delay.

Terry said: "My mother's sick." The teacher, thinking it might be contagious, asked, "What does the doctor say it is?"

Terry answered: "A girl."

FACULTY LEARN—

"In the routine of preparing to meet three lectures a day, and in this mad rush of student conferences and committee meetings, the enthusiasm of the young teacher may soon give way to the dullness of routine. He may simply become a person who approaches teaching as a process of pouring from the big jug into the little mug. The compounded tragedy is that so many students like this approach to teaching. It is so certain and satisfying. But there must somehow be preserved and encouraged a climate and an inclination to learning.

"It seems to me that this may best be done by exploring the books in the scholar's own field, by keeping alert to the movements which affect his own outlook, and by sharing his thinking with students. There is nothing better for the creating of the atmosphere of learning than a good opportunity for the teacher to kick around a half-thought-out idea with students who, themselves, are concerned with his field of work. In this exchange, both teacher and student see the process of thinking, experience it, are enlarged by it, and enter into it together."

County pay $1 per capita for the support of state functions, they thus contribute only $.004 per capita for the support of the College at River Falls—less than half a cent per person annually!

"Taking the entire community—3,800 citizens into account—it is found that the people of River Falls pay just $15.20 to the support of the River Falls institution annually."

In Return for this expenditure, Kleinpell estimated that approximately $1,000,000 per year is spent by the college in River Falls—$450,000 from the budget and $550,000 by the students. Since every dollar spent, Kleinpell stated, goes thru at least three hands in the community, this means that a potential of some $3,000,000 annually is poured into the community of River Falls.

Thus Kleinpell concluded that for a yearly return of some $3 million in purchasing power the citizens of River Falls actually spend less than half a cent per person each year. He feels that "we cannot at this time fail to raise the necessary revenues to prepare the colleges for the coming population boom, and it certainly seems evident that this can only be done by looking to the future."
