Miller's 'Explosive' Drama Offered Tuesday, Thursday

by Frank Holub

What is probably Arthur Miller's most explosive play, "Death of a Salesman", will be seen in the Little Theatre on Dec. 17 and 19 at 8 p.m.

After its Broadway appearance, "Death of a Salesman" was seen in all parts of Europe, including the satellite countries, the northern extremities of the Scandinavian peninsula and in Spain. In Spain, the play was heralded as "commendable proof of the spirit's death where there is no God"

In the play, Mr. Miller tries to show the results of a man's life in the selling profession when suddenly he realizes his failure. The play revolves around the family and the present situation with frequent flashbacks to the past. Mr. Miller, in his introduction to his collected works says, "I set out not to 'write a tragedy' in this play, but to show the truth as I saw it."

Willy Loman (Leigh Marquardt), the salesman returns home from a busy day of selling and is greeted by his wife Linda Loman (Beatrice DeGidio) who has noted her husband's faltering sales.

Biff (Douglas Krug) is the oldest son and is the father's constant concern. Willie wants him to succeed where he has failed. Happy (Robert DeGregory) is the second son and less influenced by his father's comments about succeeding in life.

Contrasted with Willy is the amiable capitalist Uncle Ben (Griff Howell).

Other members of the cast are:

- Wayne Lafferty ----- Charley
- Honey Berg ----- Woman from Boston
- Michael Cotter ----- Bernard
- David Blank ----- Howard
- Kaye Hendrickson ----- Letta
- Louise Niccum ----- Miss Forsythe
- Barbara Sheffer ----- Jeanie
- Al Phillips ----- Stanley

"Death of a Salesman" is a play of private conversations in two acts and a requiem and was heralded around the world with critical and explosive remarks.

FFA to Sponsor Semi-Formal Dance Featuring Bob Leighton's Orchestra

The Winter Semi-Formal, sponsored by the FFA, has been set for the first Saturday after Christmas Vacation, Jan. 11.

Fans of the late Glen Miller will be interested to know that Bob Leighton's orchestra, which will be furnishing music for the affair, plays Miller arrangements. This will be the first appearance of the orchestra at River Falls, but it's no stranger at Wisconsin State Colleges, having played for Stout's Rose Prom and Eau Claire State. They also have played at Carleton College and for the Homecoming at the University of Minnesota.

The tickets for the dance are $1.75 a couple. It will be in the North Hall gym from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Ag Student Gets $400 Scholarship

A $400 scholarship has been awarded Roger Christy, a freshman from Eau Claire, in recognition of five years of work on a 4-H tractor program.

Mr. Christy, an agriculture education major, was honored with the award at the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, on Dec. 3. The award money was given by the Standard Oil Company. There were 12 national winners.

"I thought a tractor program was very important because of the extensive use of tractors on the farm today," was the reason he gave for choosing a tractor program.

Mr. Christy spent eight years in 4-H work, the last five were devoted to his tractor project. The first four years he spent in learning tractor maintenance. In his last year he taught the program to other 4-H members.

"The biggest part of the program was learning contour plowing", he said. He has won the last three 4-H contour plowing contests of Eau Claire county.

In 1956 Mr. Christy was a 4-H exchange student between states. He spent two weeks in New York (Con't. on Page 4)

H.S. Pupils Win Acting Awards

Four high school students received the first "Actors Awards" to be presented by the Drama Department of the college in conjunction with its annual Drama Festival.

The awards were presented on Thursday evening, the final night of the festival.

The award for the best actor in a leading role went to Bill Stout of Stillwater High School for his role in "The Boor," directed by Robert Heimerl.

The award for the best supporting actress was given to Charlotte Rossing while Robert Schommer received the award for best supporting actor. Both are from Hastings High School and appeared in "The Imaginary Invalid," directed by James Cerello.

Mindszenty Case Recalled In 'Prisoner' Jan. 14, 15

A police state's attempt to discredit the "National Monument" of the people is the theme of The Prisoner to be presented under the direction of Richard Doetkott, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 14 and 15 at 8 p.m. in the South Hall gymnasium.

Jan. 14 will be reserved for the faculty. Students may obtain ticket for the Jan. 15 presentation from the director

Henri Elzinga portrays the cardinal and former underground leader in the play. His interrogator, a criminal psychologist, is played by Mr. Doetkott.

The interrogator seeks something in the cardinal's past, a human weakness, "the chink in the plate armour" that he can use as a wedge to obtain the confession.

No government is named in the play, but the plot is similar to the Hungarian trial of Cardinal Mindszenty.

The arena theatre plan will be used in the play's presentation. In this type of staging, the audience surrounds the acting area.

Other members of the cast are: Norbert Teclaw, Cell Warder, Bill Clark, Secretary Manley Olson and Dave Julian, Room Warders; Mary Nell Relander, The Prisoner's Mother, Frank Holub, The Barber La Vern Rippley, Doctor

CHRISTMAS VACATION

Christmas Vacation will begin Friday, Dec. 20 at 5 p.m. Classes will resume at 8 a.m., Monday, Jan. 6. The next issue of The Student Voice will appear Jan. 13.

The Editor Speaks . . .

The season of holly, mistletoe, caroling and Christmas shopping is with us once again. The hustle and bustle of Christmas cannot easily be avoided in any average American community, be it college campus, crossroad village, or busy metropolis.

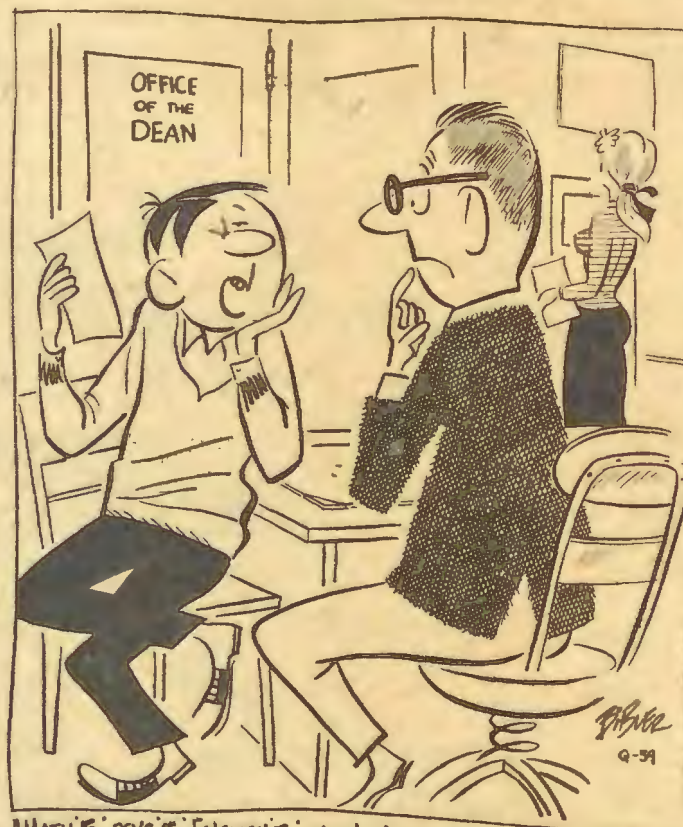

What is the meaning of all this, the true meaning of Christmas? Is it only the tangible things—the great decorated tree with gayly wrapped packages beneath it, the Santa Claus on the street corner and in the department stores? To small children perhaps this is true, but for us it should be more.

The last few years more crib scenes have appeared before churches and in parks, greeting cards of a more religious nature have been sent, and Christmas programs in schools, and on radio and television have treated Christmas in a more sacred light.

When suitcases are thrown into cars after classes Friday, and two weeks of vacation stretch out before us, let's stop and think what prompted this vacation. When we send our wishes of peace on earth, season's greetings and Merry Christmas, let's stop a moment and consider what's behind these greetings. Do we mean only that we hope they have a bountiful Christmas feast, lots of gifts, and plenty of parties? Perhaps this is the connotation which these phrases have taken on, but we suggest some thoughts of that first Christmas, 1900 years ago. Contemplating the origin and significance of Christmas may help put us into the true Christmas Spirit.

In closing, the Student Voice wishes you all a truly meaningful Christmas and a really successful New Year.

Student Senate Minutes

The Student Senate meeting of Nov 9 was called to order by president Lewie Johnson. The treasurer reported a balance of $879.80.

Dr. Levi Muncy appeared on behalf of the campus school children whose wishes were that they would be permitted to take a more active part in supporting the athletic events which are held on campus. It was pointed out that in other schools these children are permitted to attend those events which are not sold out. Inasmuch as our presently inadequate gym has not been filled the last two years for a weekend game, it was decided to give temporary approval for a limited number of these children to attend games under the supervision and responsibility of Dr. Muncy. The matter was turned over to the Athletic Council.

Approval was given to pay a bill for flowers from the student body for the funeral of Abdolrahman Hooshair. Approval was also given to pay for a small gift to Dr. F. O. Grassl, campus physician, who is presently in the hospital following surgery.

Jerry Stern, freshman class president was appointed chairman of the "Christmas Spirit" Committee. He will be in charge of various decoration and activities about campus which are to put the students in a holiday mood.

Sophomore class president Louis Schoenwetter made a motion that the Senate reimburse his class, due to transportation and other unforeseen expenses in the promotion of the Homecoming dance. After considerable discussion the motion was passed.

A motion was made that $25 per quarter be paid to the person in charge of the cigarette machine. This fee may be paid to a qualified student to care for the machine, but the Senate member in charge will be responsible. A motion was made and passed to purchase a new machine to replace the one now in operation.

A discussion was held on the qualifications of the Personnel Committee in the matter of selection individuals for Who's Who. A committee was appointed to investigate the poor attendance and apparent lack of interest on the part of the faculty representatives. Dissatisfaction as to the manner of notifying those on the committee as to the time and place of meetings was also shown.

Calvin Martell submitted his resignation from the Personnel Committee. Louis Schoenwetter was named to the post.

Possible candidates for Chairwoman of Winter Carnival were given consideration. It was approved to give a gift to Miss West of the Office staff now in the hospital. The NCTE constitution was approved; and an OK was given to the Junior class on the Ralph Flanagan Orchestra for the Spring Prom. Time: Two hours and 15 minutes.

Present: Jensen, Johnson, Dulak, Martell, Kinney, Schoenwetter, Stern, Larson, and O'Connell.

Absent: Fleming, Christenson, Mike O'Connell, SECRETARY PRO-TEM.

The Tradition of the Vacation

The small boy who says he likes recess best of all school activities still has the same idea in his noodle when he substitutes Calculus for arithmetic and a fraternity pin for the secret code known only to the gang. "Vacation" is a word carrying more connotations than a book full of ordinary combinations of letters.

For the uninformed and the uninitiated, "Vacation" may have meanings quite different from those carried in heads full of I. Q. stuff. For some it suggests a period of rest and inactivity and a time for recuperation, but for those of a campus town, there are other theories and other mental hook-ups.

Ask any parent, who has a son home from college, what the score is and you will find that there are several things wrong with your question. Technically he may be at home, but practically his parents see him about five minutes per day. Technically he may be resting but practically he is using up more foot pounds of energy daily than Boulder Dam produces weekly. Technically he is away from college but practically he is knee deep in the college activities. "Vacation" is a word that means that college scene has been moved temporarily from the Elms and Ivy to the pavements and the country home.

For hours near the end of each term there is tension in the dorms, in the classrooms, in the corridors and on the walks. Everyone is waiting for the hour to strike. Suitcases are packed, clothing stacked and money counted and those who await the jump-off have jitters in their nerves and butterflies in their tummies. Profs of experience sit the period out, profs of amateur standing sweat and fume, and profs who haven't out-grown their own student days have their own suitcases packed. Custodians wait for the "blow" with soap, water, and paint and merchants get out the cheese cloth clovers for their covers.

It is not strange, therefore, to see on the printed page of the catalog the word "vacation" along with such high sounding ones as resignation or matriculation. "Vacation" is not a time set apart but rather it is a part of the pattern within the design for the college year.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I have a gripe. That gripe is to see a girl smoke. I don't consider myself old fashioned or even slightly out of date, but if there's anything that burns me up is to see a girl smoke.

I have no accurate figures to back up this statement, but I believe that at least 70 per cent of the girls on this campus smoke. The disgusting part of this is that the biggest share of these girls never smoked in high school! I knew a lot of girls in high school that wouldn't think of smoking and upon coming to college they acquired the habit.

Is smoking a prerequisite to being accepted socially or are girls merely falling victim to conformity? Do girls no longer care about their feminine appearance or does this add to their charm to have a cigarette dangling from their lips? If it does I guess I am old fashioned.

A guy who dislikes women smokers.

St. Cloud Rolls Over Falcons 74-61 In Non-Conference Tilt Last Monday

St. Cloud's power-laden Huskies proved to be too much for the sophomore studded River Falls Falcons as a torrid first period carried the Minnesota team to an easy 71-64 non-conference win Monday night at St. Cloud.

The Falcons' Mick Lauber did an outstanding defensive job of holding the Huskies Little All-American forward, Vern Baggenstoss to a meager eight points. However three sharp-shooting guards took up the slack scoring 45 points between them.

Jack Kelly, who averaged 20.8 points per game last season with the Huskies, tallied 17 Monday night to lead the St. Cloud team.

Probably the most pleasant surprise for River Falls' mentor Don Page, was the brilliant all-around play of sophomore Jack Omer. The 5'9" guard hit six long shots and added a free throw for a total of 13 points. However it was his as well as Mike Rice's excellent defensive play that was really noticeable.

Manley Olson, the Falcon's 6'8" center, showed improvement over the Augsburg game. He clearly blocked eight St. Cloud shots, pulled in 15 rebounds, and added 11 points to the River Falls cause.

Playing his usual outstanding game for the Falcons, was the smooth-working 6'1" Lauber. Despite heavy guarding by the Huskies, Mick poured in 17 points to spark the team in that department.

FALCON A N F A R E

Omer

by Howie Madsen

A five-foot nine inch sophomore, in the person of Jack Omer, is being counted on to carry a large part of the load of coach Don Page's cage crew this season. Although he is best known for his defensive ability, Jack proved his offensive worth last week at St. Cloud, when he connected on six field goals in 11 attempts and finished the evening with a total of 13 points.

A graduate of Amery high school in 1953, Jack had a total of 14 sports letters to his credit. Following graduation he spent two years in the U. S. Marines. Last year as a freshman at River Falls, Jack lettered in both football and basketball. This fall as a member of Fran Polsfoot's gridders, he was named to the all-conference team as a full-back. He was also the leading scorer in the league with a total of 36 points.

When not playing basketball or football there is a good chance that he can be found either hunting or fishing. Jack also enjoys playing baseball. This past summer he went to the state baseball tournament as an outfielder for the Amery city team. Here at RFSC "Little Feller," as he is known by his friends, is a member of the R Club and of Phi Sigma.

RF Cagers Down Yellowjackets 66-53

MANLEY OLSON, 6'8" Falcon center arches a left-handed hook shot over Rog Lowney in Saturday night's game with Superior. Moving into rebound position is Mick Lauber (34). Mike Rice (14) comes up on the outside. The Falcons won 66-53.

River Falls pulled away from a 36-36 halftime tie and went on to roll up a convincing 66-53 win over the Superior State Yellowjackets in Saturday night's conference opener for both teams.

In their first appearance at home in three starts the Falcons showed very definite improvement since their last outing when they dropped a 74-61 tilt to the St. Cloud Huskies. Coach Don Page's crew shot a glittering 44%, hitting on 28 shots in 64 attempts. The cold-shooting Yellowjackets had a lot of good shots especially in the second half but failed to connect very often. They made only seven of 53 attempts in the second half.

Mick Lauber again was the spearhead of the Falcon attack swishing 27 points to take scoring honors for the evening. Griff Howell, who missed last week's St. Cloud tilt, scored 15 points in the first half and then sat out the second stanza with an aggravated ankle injury.

River Falls committed the almost unbelievable total of eight fouls. Thus the 'Jackets were able to make only three free throws.

Midway in the third quarter with the score tied 44-44 the Falcons caught fire. They scored 10 straight points to make it 54-44 as the 'Jackets' 6'6" center, Dale Westerback, committed his fifth foul at the end of the string. From then on, it was River Falls' game.

Superior's all-conference forward, Jack Evans pumped in 18 points in the first half but finished with only 20 as Mick Collins did an excellent defensive job for the Falcons.

Saturday's preliminary event found the Falcon freshmen chalk up a 72-68 victory over the Stillwater American Legion team. Carroll Lehman set the pace with 15 points for the Frosh while Rich Miller contributed 14.

The Falcons again swing into action this Wednesday when they travel to La Crosse to meet the Indians who had previously beaten St. Cloud. Coach Page's crew is slated to participate in a Holiday tourney at Oshkosh December 27 and 28.

Wesley Foundation Arranges Program For Rest of Year at Winter Retreat

The Wesley Foundation of Wisconsin State College at River Falls met for their Winter Retreat in the Wesley Room of the Methodist Church, Dec. 6. At this time they planned their programs for the remainder of the school year.

A questionnaire listing various study topics had previously been circulated to Methodist students. The fields of major interest were then chosen for Sunday evening Wesley programs.

The areas which proved most popular were the use of the Bible; Christianity vs. Communism; major Christian beliefs, discovering what is right Albert Schweitzer; solving psychological problems; race relations; religion in hymns; Christianity and evolution; "Gods of the campus"; the UN challenge to the church; life after death, and the Methodist stand on marriage, divorce and planned parenthood.

The students chose a number of experts in various fields to speak and lead discussions. Not only a number of Methodists were asked to speak, but also people of the Lutheran, Congregational, Episcopalian, Roman Catholic, Unitarian and Christian denominations. The prize-winning race relations movie "The Broken Mask" will also be used.

The questionnaires revealed that there were two subjects of major interest for short non-credit courses. These will be given by the pastor-director, Rev. John McCartney of the Wesley Foundation on the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month from 7 to 9 p.m. The subjects were "The Christian Approach to Dating and Marriage" and "Protestantism and Catholicism" The class will be held in the Wesley Room at the Methodist Church.
