Mr. Grainger will appear in a lecture-recital Friday evening, Feb. 28. Recognized as a master of the piano and widely known for his more than 400 works for piano, voice, orchestra, and chorus, Mr. Grainger is also a specialist in folk music. Born in Melbourne, Australia in 1882, he made his concert debut at the age of 10 as a pianist.

He was chosen by Edward Grieg to play the Grieg Piano Concerto at the Leeds Festival in 1907 and, after Grieg's death, was the pianist at Memorial concerts in Copenhagen and London. Among his best known works are "Molly on the Shore," "Shepherd's Hey," "Mock Morris," and "Country Gardens."

Forestry Project Brings Award of $1700 to Student

A total of $1,700 in scholarships has been awarded Robert Paddock, an Augusta freshman, on the basis of the merit of a forestry project he started when 10 years old.

Robert, a pre-forestry student, was awarded a $100 scholarship for outstanding work in forestry by an Eau Claire-Chippewa banker's group. He has now been informed that he is the recipient of a $1,600 scholarship from the Homelite Division, which manufactures chain saws. It is one of only four such national scholarships awarded each year.

The Paddock woodlot, comprising 40 acres of the farm near Augusta, has provided timber for the same family for generations. The River Falls freshman has planted nearly 3,500 trees on the lot since he started work on it eight years ago as part of a 4-H project.

"I liked being in the woods" he explains. "I like hunting and enjoyed going with my dad to cut wood. Trees just interested me."

Although Robert says, "When growing trees you have to think of the future" his forestry project has already brought rewards.

Some spruce planting will soon provide marketable Christmas trees, but there will be no commercial cutting for probably another 30 years. Bob also has two plantations of white and Norway pine covering about two and one-half acres.

A new barn is going up on the Paddock farm, built of white pine grown on that land. In about three years pulp cutting operations will put the popple wood on a paying basis.

"I carried a wildlife project along with forestry work," says Bob. "I planted a lot of wildlife cover and food, and we have fed the squirrels and pheasant too."

"I think I'll finish up my forestry course at Minnesota. It's a good school and close to home," he says of the future.

After that? "Well, private industry is crying for foresters and there are a lot of government jobs. A lot of work to be done. I'll let the chips fall where they may."

Chicago Next For Debaters

Four teams from the River Falls debate squad will participate in a tournament Saturday at the University of Illinois Chicago branch.

Leaving Friday for the meet will be the negative team of Muriel Peterson and David Madis and the affirmative team of Louis Schoenwetter and Arlin Albrecht. The other two teams, although not definitely named yet, will probably be Louis Pape and Kenneth Bergquist, affirmative, and Myron Moen and Bruce Foster, negative.

NEWMANS TO SPONSOR DANCE AFTER GAME

An all school dance sponsored by the Newman Club will be held after the Superior game Saturday, December 14, in the North Hall Gym.

The newly organized Newman Orchestra will provide both new and old time music. There will be no admission charge.

The Editor Speaks . . .

Susie is a statistic. The alert young girl who waits on you at the five and ten doesn't look like a statistic, but she is. For Susie, who was graduated from high school in June, doesn't really like selling moth balls and mouse traps.

Perhaps she'd dreamed of teaching, or of a career as a medical technician, or a dietician. But these careers demand a college education, and Susie's parents couldn't afford college. So, even though Susie was an honor student, she's cutting short her education. Thus, Susie, multiplied many times and added to numerous Johnnies, is a statistic. She and the others are the basis for an impressive and alarming report.

That report, now being compiled by the Wisconsin Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, shows that about 750 boys and 2000 girls who ranked in the top fourth of their graduating class last June did not plan to go on to college.

The study made of 34,000 high school seniors graduating last June shows that, even in the top ten percent, about 175 boys and 525 girls were not planning to continue their education beyond high school. Nearly a fourth of the graduates in the top 25 percent of their class reported that their parents could not afford to send them to college. Susie was one of these. And so, Susie is a statistic. So is Johnny. His family could have afforded to send him to college, but they were among the 24 percent of parents of top-ranking graduates who said they "didn't care" whether or not their child attended college.

Maybe Susie would have gone to college if someone had suggested ways to get scholarships or loan funds. Maybe Johnny would have continued to develop his quick mind if someone had explained the advantages of college.

How many Susies and Johnnies are being graduated from the high school in your community next June?

POINT OF VIEW

An Uncomfortable Look

In people's unconscious, everyday speech — "cafeterize" or "libraryze," for example — a great many silent assumptions are made. It seems that these assumptions are technically called "silent" because so few people ever give them a thought. In looking at them, it would also appear that some are rather too important to be ignored — they would appear to have too many consequences to be "just made," and not thought about.

These things in speech would further seem to be found in that huge mountain of "things" which people "take for granted." This writer is here suggesting a consideration of them because he believes they are important. Suggestions like that are seldom popular. Human beings seem reluctant to take long looks at what they "take for granted"; and "uncomfortable" would seem to be the proper description of the feeling which arises when it is suggested one might do this. And humans are sadly alone in this discomfort because other animals appear — in a melancholy sort of way — to take nothing for granted.

It would appear, though, that such "long looks" at "things taken for granted" — the silent assumptions — need not be quite so painful; in fact, it seems entirely possible that a "long look" at some silent assumptions might be rather amusing. And finally, something amusing would seem to be altogether a propos following the veritable grimness of the final examinations recently endured by all.

It is in that spirit then, that this writer would like to "take a long look" at some silent assumptions which people (this writer included) make in "unconscious" everyday speech.

One of these assumptions (which will be seen not to be very serious in its consequence) might serve to introduce the length of the "long look" we will take in another, final example.

Among the terms in the academic jargon bantered about on this and most American campuses, are the words "major" and "minor". Visualize the following scene between two students who have just become acquainted on, say, the first day of the fall quarter:—

Student: "Yup! . . . I'm in Ag . . . What're you in?"

Coed: (breathlessly) ". . . Oh, I'm an English major!"

And the conversation proceeds with questions and answers exchanged about minors, questions . . . and answers exchanged about being busy that evening, and so on. Now visualize the same conversation taking place between two students — one an American, the other, say, a pretty, but rather naive British exchange student:—

British coed: (chipper) "Right-o! . . . I'm over here taking Ag . . . What're you in?"

Student: (fascinated) "Oh, I'm an English major!"

Now allowing for the moment that our British coed is quite British and quite naive, it is certainly not altogether inconceivable that her next question might be a shocked:—

"Which Regiment?"

This, it would seem, illustrates that in the first dialogue both conversants unconsciously made the silent assumption that "ma-

THE HOP

When Willie was 12 his Mom arranged for some dancing lessons with Mrs. Fitzgibbon who conducted a school. It cost Mom ten bucks and it cost Willie two hours once each week and the agony of dressing up.

Time and Tide went along, each minding its own business, and Willie went on too — once each week—toward the grand finale— one, two, three glide! One, two, three, glide!

The finale came on a Saturday —the Saturday the sixth grade bulldogs were to play the seventh grade bearcats. It was rough on Willie. He went to the finale red faced, scrubbed, cramped in starched shirt and suffering in Sunday shoes, Willie took on in succession Betty, Winnie, Louise, Vivian, Four Eyes and Fatso. It was awful—for Willie. Over and over Willie said "Never again! I'll run away! I'll join the marines!"

Time and Tide kept right on working and gave little attention to Willie. But Willie did a little growing up and it happened almost before he or his Pop and Mom realized it,—he went to college. Four Eyes and Fatso were there too and Willie found himself making eyes at Fatso and buying cokes for Four Eyes. Strange, but Fatso was thin and Four Eyes didn't wear glasses. And strange as it may seem, both were very glamorous.

Came the Hop! Willie asked Four Eyes but she was dated so Willie asked Fatso and was accepted. Frantic letter home! "Need money! Need car!"—Tux! corsage! hair-cut! stiff shirt! tight shoes! But, Oh Boy, it was something!

Willie didn't count one, two, three, glide! He was quite the slicker when it came to the light fantastic. Back home Willie's younger brother was facing Mom and saying "Oh for crying-out-loud do I have to go to that dumb thing? Gee, Mom, that's the day the Bulldogs play!"

One, two, three, glide—with the sweetie - pie. That's what 4,000 years of civilization can do.

River Falls Bows 80-77 in Overtime In Non-Conference Tilt with Auggies

by Jon Hillstead

In the first game of the season River Falls lost to a fast Augsburg team 80-77 in overtime. River Falls led 43-40 at halftime but the Auggies rallied to tie the score 72-72 at the end of regulation play.

Three fast guards paced the Minnesota school in scoring. Dick Robinson, who sparked the winning overtime surge for the Auggies, took scoring honors for the evening with 20 points. Dick Thompson had 18 and Dick Green added 11.

Mick Lauber led the Falcons with 26 points. Griff Howell helped ed out with 13 and Mike Rice added 11. Coach Page was also impressed with the play of the Falcon's 6'8" center Manley Olson. The lanky pivot man grabbed 18 rebounds and scored nine points. River Falls travels to St. Cloud tonight for their second non-conference tilt. Game time is slated for 8 p.m. at Eastman Hall on the St. Cloud campus.

Olson

by Warren Rogers

In Manley Olson, 6'8½", 235 pound junior, River Falls has one of the tallest men in the school's basketball history. He has a good background in basketball and should give the Falcons a very important height advantage. Manley got off to a good start in proving this theory by gathering in 18 rebounds, high for the team, in the Falcons' opening game with Augsburg.

Manley lettered three years while playing high school basketball for Maiden Rock. An injury prevented him from earning a fourth letter.

After graduation in 1953, Olson enrolled at River Falls and played on the freshman team for two terms. After a year's absence from school, Manley returned last season and played with the championship intramural team. He also held the pivot post for the River Falls city team and the Maiden (Continued on page 4)

FALCON ANFARE

Falcon Cagers to Meet St. Cloud Huskies Tonight

Coach Don Page's River Falls Falcons encounter one of their toughest opponents of the young cage season when they travel to St. Cloud to meet the Huskies in a non-conference tilt tonight.

The Huskies wasted no time in getting started on what is supposed to be an excellent season. Paced by Little All-American forward Vern Baggenstoss, the St. Cloud cagers trounced St. John's University 84-59 November 26 at Collegeville. There is optimism aplenty around the St. Cloud campus as Coach Paul Meadows' team embarks on a 23-game schedule that includes non-conference games with Stout, Eau Claire, La Crosse, Milwaukee, and Stevens Point—all members of the Wisconsin State College Conference. Meadows has seven lettermen returning from last year's team that captured at least a share of the Minnesota State College Conference crown for the third straight year.

Baggenstoss was named on the First Five Associated Press Little All-American team last year.

Jack Kelly, the other forward, who averaged 20.8 in eight contests didn't look too impressive in the St. John's opener, however. An experienced transfer from Hamline, Bill Selisker has established himself as the man to watch in the Huskies' backcourt.

The 6'1" junior netted 17 markers in the St. John's game.

The Huskies have had two games on the road—one with Cornell College at Mt. Vernon, Ia., and the other with the La Crosse State Indians—in which to further experiment on the pivot problem before meeting the Falcons.

Page said he was very satisfied with the way his Falcons performed against the more experienced Augsburg team that chalked up an 80-77 overtime with River Falls last week. Page cited the play of Mick Lauber, who finished with 26 points, as especially pleasing and said that the Falcon guards played good ball.

The tentative starting lineup will feature 6'8" Manley Olson at center, Lauber and Griff Howell at forwards, and Jack Omer and Mike Rice at the guards. Game time is set for 8 p.m. at Eastman Hall in St. Cloud.

FRESHMAN FALCONS TO FACE RF ALUMNI SATURDAY NIGHT

Two former River Falls basketball stars will be playing for the Stillwater American Legion team that competes against the freshman squad in the preliminary event Saturday night at North Hall. Dave "Birdie" Herum and Dan Corcoran, both of whom played last year for the Falcons are expected to lead the Stillwater team.

Freshman coach Fran Polsfoot expects to have a very tough night of it as this will be the first game of the young season for the freshmen. He has not decided on a definite starting lineup as yet.

The 6:30 p.m. preliminary tilt will precede the River Falls-Superior game to be held at 8 p.m. It will be the only home game for the Falcons between now and Jan. 17 when last year's champions, Stevens Point, play here.

Intramural basketball gets underway tonight with the first game scheduled for 6 p.m. in the North Hall gym. Three leagues have been set up on the basis of ability of competing players. The "A" league, strongest of the three, will have six teams in it. Twelve teams comprise the "B" loop and a total of 14 teams are entered in the "C" league.

Four games will be played every night, except Friday. Starting times are 6, 7, 8, and 9 p.m. Intramural basketball players are asked to watch the North Hall bulletin board for schedules and starting times.

Intramural director Ben Bergsrud says that several more referees are still needed to officiate at these contests. Anyone interested in refereeing for a nominal fee should get in touch with Bergsrud as soon as possible.

Sigma to Aid in TB Drive To Sell Seals This Week

Students at River Falls will have an opportunity to do their part in supporting the Christmas Seal program this year. During the week of December 9, Sigma Chi Sigma will sell Christmas Seals in the cafeteria.

Locally the drive to raise funds for the Anti-Tuberculosis Association is conducted by the River Falls Tuesday Club, and seals were mailed to residents in November. Fifty cents of each dollar collected remains with the local association and is used for such projects as the free x-ray survey held here in September. Contributions have also been made to important research projects being carried on at the University of Wisconsin.

Approximately one-third of the total number of persons x-rayed when the chest x-ray unit visited River Falls last fall were college students. Therefore, it is felt that the students will want to share in this project.

Tuberculosis remains the number one infectious killer in the nation. In order that tuberculosis may be conquered, continued efforts in early case-finding and in medical research are necessary. Your contribution, regardless of size, will be greatly appreciated.

NEWMANITES ATTEND PROVINCE MEETING

Four River Falls students attended the first annual Leadership Weekend of the North Central Province Newman Club Federation Nov. 29-30 at La Crosse. The students attending were Calvin Martell, senior from New Richmond, Province treasurer; Edward Pronschinske, from Arcadia, River Falls club president; Robert Dietsche, from Spencer; and Barbara Jean Brickner, from River Falls, all sophomores.

The Newman Club of La Crosse State College was host to the 130 delegates representing Newman Clubs of non-sectarian colleges and universities in North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Upper Michigan.

The Leadership Weekend consisted of an intensive workshop on the mechanics of the Newman Club on the Local level. The local representatives, Mr. Martell and Mr. Pronschinske took part in the program of panel discussions.

Besides the panels the clinic also featured practical discussions on methods of club organization, programing, membership, finances, publicity and public relations, and choosing leaders. National Newman Club President, John Markell of Santa Anna, Cal., was the featured speaker.

Adult Evening Courses Offered This Quarter

POINT OF VIEW—

“I quit!” she says. “It’s just one thing after another!”

But it’s not “... just one thing after another!” it’s the effect of one “thing” (10 o’clock on a dreary Monday morning), added and multiplied by the effects of the rest of the “things” (the three luncheon invitations, the letters, and so forth) — “added and multiplied by” until desperation, rashness and ultimately, sorrow occur.

Our harried secretary made the silent assumption that “things” came “just one right after the other” (1 plus 1 plus 1 plus 1 . . .) and this situation she was convinced she could tolerate throughout the day if she sat straight and bit her lip. The truth of the matter was, “things” were “added and multiplied” (1 times 2 times 4 times 8 times 16 . . .) and this, had she been conscious of it, would have doubtless promptly sent her back to the agency.

From the preceding, it is obviously quite possible that the watching for silent assumptions could become a popular parlor game; simple awareness of them, however — one’s confession that they exist — would seem to be sufficient; professional “watchers for silent assumptions” characteristically have fanatical eyes . . . and these are intolerably compromising liabilities in most parlor games . . .

FOUR FALCON GRIDDERS NAMED ALL-CONFERENCE

Four Falcon football players were named to the Wisconsin State College All-Conference team at a meeting of coaches and officials last month at Eau Claire. Jack Neurer, Bob Koplin, Darrel Johnson, and Jack Omer were picked on the Northern squad which included players from Stout, Eau Claire, La Crosse, and Superior in addition to River Falls. A similar 13-man team was chosen for the southern division schools — Platteville, Oshkosh, Milwaukee, Stevens Point, and Whitewater.
