THE SERENDIPITY SINGERS IN CONCERT.

1,800 Attend Serendipity Concert; Senate Loses 'Few Hundred Dollars'

"We only lost a couple of hundred dollars on the Serendipity Singers' concert," Sen. Tom Schaffer told the VOICE today. This is not really as bad as it sounds, Schaffer said, because it is about what the Senate expected to lose.

Schaffer said that approximately 1,800 students attended the concert last Wednesday.

After the concert the Serendipity Singers talked with many Wisconsin State University - River Falls students.

Schaffer said that Senators he has talked to are happy about the turnout for this big-name event. Repeatedly in the past, the Senate has lost money on events of this type.

Last year after the Senate lost money on a big-name concert, a Senator pressed for a resolution prohibiting more events of that type for the remainder of the year.

11 To Contest Senate Seats

Eleven students will vie for seven seats on the Student Senate this Wednesday, it was announced at the Senate meeting last week.

The 13 candidates include five incumbent senators--Jim Kubiak, Keith Rodli, Tom Schaffer, Ann Schleicher and Harv Stower. David Taube, Linda Farris, Marilyn Nielsen, Burton Potocnik, Tom Socha and Marlin White are the other candidates.

Also to be decided in this election is the fate of the Senate referendums which failed to pass when voted on earlier. Sen. Hampton Wilnot stated that the referendums were not ratified because one-third of the student body did not participate in the election, thus voiding the election. If the referendums carry, they will become effective for the 1965-1966 school year.

Election of Senate officers will be held two weeks after the election of class officers or no later than the ninth week of the quarter. Class officer elections are scheduled for Thursday, April 29.

Burton Potocnik, representing the Legislative Action Committee, introduced a proposal asking the Senate to endorse the aims of the newly formed Better Government Committee. Leo Binkowski, BGC chairman, said the purpose of his committee is not to back a slate of candidates but to establish issues in elections for candidates to discuss.

Senator Wilnot asked that the BGC draw up a constitution and become an official organization. The Senate moved to endorse the aims of the Better Government Committee.

Helen Avery, Meletean editor, appeared before the Senate to request travel expenses to an annual publications conference held April 2 in Menomonie, Wis. Senator Wilnot moved that the Senate give the publication staffs $10 to cover these expenses. The motion carried.

Sen. John Bruce re-opened the issue saying that if the Senate allotted ten cents a mile for travel expenses, the publications staffs should receive $25. Senate President Gene Smith released the gavel to Sen. Keith Rodli and stated that he felt the publication staffs should not be reimbursed for travel expenses as they were on yearly budgets and should plan ahead to meet such expenditures.

"Maybe missing a trip will teach them to budget their money better," Smith said. The Senate defeated the publications' request in a 5-4 vote. Senator Bruce termed the action "regretable."

In its final action the Senate voted $50 to the Young Republicans to cover travel expenses to their state convention to be held April 30 and May 1 at Wisconsin Rapids.

Brass Quintet Re-scheduled For Wednesday

An all-school convocation featuring the New York Brass Quintet, originally scheduled for today (Monday) at 11:35 a. m. has been re-scheduled for Wednesday, April 7, at 11:35 a. m. in North Hall Auditorium.

The reason for the change in schedule was not given.

Recruiting Team Coming April 20

A recruiting team from the U. S. Air Force Officer Training School will be on campus April 20 from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. to interview seniors interested in applying for a commission in the U. S. Air Force.

Men interested in becoming pilots or navigators or women interested in becoming officers in the WAF may see the recruiting team in the Student Center.

SCLC Leader Calls for Non-violent Solution

"Whatever we do is dependent upon freedom now and this crisis must be solved by Christian non-violence," said the Rev. C. T. Vivian in a speech here last Tuesday.

Vivian, the director of affiliates of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, spoke before an all-school convocation in the Karges Center. He is a member of the SCLC's executive committee, as is James Bevel, the speaker originally scheduled. Bevel is currently tied up with matters in Alabama.

"What we are doing is completing a circle that started in Montgomery about 8 or 9 years ago," said Vivian. George Wallace had invited people to go to Alabama before the 1964 election, he said. "There were 50,000 that went last week only to find that he wouldn't let them in."

The Civil Rights Bill was the outcome of the movement, but at the present time bills are secondary, he said. "The clash is now between the federal government and state power," said Vivian. "The Confederacy still exists in Montgomery. We intend to win the last battle of the Confederacy."

"The central problem in the Civil Rights movement is of the Allies," he said. Vivian went on to say that the struggle cannot be won by Negroes alone. Churches must affirm man's right to live decently. The movement also needs the support of labor.

Vivian, an active youth worker called for the need of the intellectuals. "Come and present yourself bodily and be involved in this movement," he told the students. The latent liberals in the South would move if they felt they had support but the southern "Cotton Curtain" cuts them off from the rest of the world, Vivian said.

"This is not a struggle between the white and black, it is a struggle of justice and injustice," said Vivian. In 1961, he was on the first Freedom Bus to enter Jackson, Miss. He and four ministers were the first group of clergymen ever to be arrested in the northern hemisphere for challenging the system of segregation.

Vivian pointed out that there is a correlation between the poor Southern white man and the Negro. The poor white must be awakened through the alliance of latent liberals. The poor whites back Wallace because they are blinded by segregation.

"We are now in the era of basic needs," states Vivian. These needs are decent housing, good paying jobs, schools, and the vote, or political power to determine one's own destiny. These needs are not only for Negroes but for everyone, he said.

The speaker gave the unemployment statistics in the United States. Negroes now have 18 per cent unemployed. He cited that Negroes have about 30 billion dollars stolen from them every year through unemployment. If things continue as they are today the Negro in 1970 will be in the bread line, he said.

Pledges Said To Be Lagging In Their Studies

Dean B. J. Rozehnal sent a letter to the Student Senate and the Greek Letter Council last week that pledges were lagging in their studies because of their fraternity activities.

Rozehnal also questioned the practice of pledges wearing hats inside the campus buildings.

The dean referred to this as "sloppy dressing and violation of social behavior" and questioned whether this was consistent with the stated purpose of fraternities to upgrade this campus.

Rozehnal said that he had heard from faculty members that students had told them their pledging activities had prevented them from being prepared for classes.

LaVerne Cook, representing the Greek Letter Council, told the Senate last Monday that he does not see how the dean could complain this early in the quarter when few tests had been given.

S. Hawkins Weekend Includes Hootenanny

The third annual Sadie Hawkins weekend, sponsored by Sigma Tau Epsilon fraternity, will begin Friday, April 23, with a hootenanny from 8 to 11:30 p.m. and will conclude with a dance Saturday evening from 8 to 12 p.m. Both events will be held in the Student Center dining area.

Five campus women are candidates for the title of Queen Daisy Mae. They are Candy Carlson, Ann Sjowall, Sylvia Wears, Sherry Kane and Loretta Knoepker.

The winner of this title will be determined by students who place money in jars bearing the candidates' names. The candidate whose jar contains the most money by the end of the three-day voting period, April 20 to 23, will be the winner.

Friday's hootenanny will feature folk groups from area colleges and the intermission period will be a show-case for local talent competing for prizes. Anyone who wishes to participate may contact either Jim Torano or Dave Jensen.

Dance decorations Saturday evening will feature a Dogpatch,

U.S.A., motif and will be enhanced further by the attire of those attending the event. Prizes will be awarded for the most outstanding man's and woman's costumes.

Advance sales for both events will begin Wednesday, April 20. Singles for Friday are 60 cents and couples are $1. Tickets for the dance Saturday are 70 cents for one person and $1.25 for a couple.

A package ticket deal will be offered, enabling one person to attend both events for $1.10 and a couple to attend them for $2.

Customarily, the woman has asked the man to the dance, members of Sigma Tau Epsilon explain. When she buys a ticket for the events she also receives a patch to pin on her escort.

College of Agriculture Acquires New Farm

The College of Agriculture took possession on April 1 of its new farm, which is located about one mile west of River Falls in Mann Valley on Highway MM.

"The land will be used primarily for additional cropland and the production of feeds, said Dr. James Dollahon, dean of the College of Agriculture. He added, "We plan to move our beef cattle to the new farm, also one unit of our sheep enterprise, and in time our brood sows."

The 293-acre farm consists of 185 acres of cropland and 108 acres of pasture. The pasture acreage will be used to graze the beef cattle. Dollahon said about 100 acres of corn will be planted and the remainder of the cropland will be used for alfalfa hay and grain.

Dollahon said that plans are now being constructed by the Bureau of Engineering of Wisconsin for additional buildings that will be added to the farm.

Various buildings to be constructed include: a hay storage unit, 30'x70'; a steer feeding barn, 52' x105'; a beef cattle housing barn, 40'x65'; a farrowing unit for swine, and a small bull barn.

The farrowing unit for swine will consist of 12 farrowing stalls and be unique in the fact that it will contain an observation room, to keep visitors from entering the farrowing area with the idea being disease prevention.

The steer feeding barn will be divided into seven lots, with eight to ten steers per lot. Dollahon said that the beef will be moved to the new farm between May 1-15.

The "grend shed" located behind the ag buildings, will be moved to the new farm and used for sheep housing.

Dr. Dollahon said one of the old buildings on the farm has been there since prior to the Civil War. It is 104' long, with some of the timbers in the barn measuring 54' in length. He added that a lot of it is pegged together with wooden pegs and that there is only limited nailing in it.

428 New Teachers Earn Degrees in 41 States

New faculty members at the nine Wisconsin State Universities earned their degrees in 41 states and three other countries, the board of regents office in Madison reports.

The personnel office has just completed a study of the records of 428 faculty members who are in their first year of teaching in the State University system. They joined the faculties last September to fill new positions and as replacements. The system now has approximately 1,750 faculty members and 29,000 students.

The 428 new faculty members earned their highest degrees at 93 universities and 29 colleges and other schools. Only 67 came direct from the schools granting the degrees. The others were hired from colleges, universities and other schools where they were teaching.

Ninety of the new teachers earned their highest degrees in Wisconsin--58 at the University of Wisconsin, 26 at the State Universities, 5 at Marquette University, and one at Beloit College.

The 338 other new teachers include 41 who earned degrees in Iowa, 38 in Illinois, 35 in Michigan, 33 in Minnesota, 21 in Indiana, 16 in Colorado, 15 in New York and 12 each in Missouri and Ohio. Thirty-nine earned degrees at the University of Iowa, 26 at the University of Minnesota, 16 at Michigan State, 15 at the University of Michigan, 13 at the University of Illinois and 11 at the University of Indiana.

The search for new faculty members is a year-around project, said Robert A. Alesch, Madison, personnel director. A former college president, Robert C. Williams of Whitewater, is now visiting university placement offices to help Wisconsin State University presidents hire an estimated 500 to 600 faculty members needed as replacements and to fill new positions next fall, Alesch said.

The State Universities are at Eau Claire, La Crosse, Menomonie (Stout), Oshkosh, Platte-

Physics Instructor in Research At Du Pont Summer Program

Neal Prochnow, physics instructor at Wisconsin State University-River Falls, has accepted an appointment for the summer as a research participant at the Savannah River Laboratory near Aiken, S. C. He will begin his duties June 7 at the laboratory operated by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

Prochnow will be assigned to the experimental physics division, in the general area of reactor physics. Primary activities at the laboratory are concerned with the physics and engineering of nuclear reactors, chemical process design and development, metallurgy and the physics and chemistry of isotope production.

The Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, which was chartered in 1946 to stimulate and assist in the development of research and educational programs in nuclear science, administers the program in cooperation with several major Atomic Energy Commission installations. Since its inception, 710 faculty members from 186 colleges and universities in 40 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia have engaged in research under the Research Participation program.

A reactor at the Savannah River plant recently set a world record for production of neutrons. The previous record was held by a Russian reactor.

SAC Meeting Set For Wednesday

Hyman Receives Grant For Minnesota Work

Bernard Hyman, instructor of social science at WSU-RF has been informed that a project of which he is director has received approximately $4.5 million in federal aid.

Hyman helped draft a project under Title V of the Economic Opportunity Act. The project was undertaken in Ramsey county, Minn., in connection with the Ramsey County Welfare Department.

The grant is for one year. Hyman anticipates that the program will be extended to cover a three-year period.

The project is an experimental employment coordination program in Ramsey County. It works with the head of families. Social workers and employment counselors are assigned to each family in the project to help the head of the family become employable.

Physics Wins College Bowl

The fifth annual Chemistry, Mathematics, Physics, Biology College Bowl Contest of WSU-RF was won Tuesday by the Physics Club.

Teams of four from each of the participating clubs attended to answer questions submitted by faculty of the four areas plus English, social science, and art. In the past, questions on music and philosophy have also been included.

The first half-hour saw the Math Club matching wits with Chemistry in a very close contest. In the second period Physics defeated Biology. In the final round Physics was victorious over Chemistry to win for the first time.

The event, begun in 1961, and won for the first three years by the students of the Chemistry Club, was taken last year by the biologists.

4 MONDAY, APRIL 5, 1965 WISCONSIN STATE UNIVERSITY-RIVER FALLS

AT ALL-SCHOOL CONVO-

What Will They Say?

One of the most important open forums held this year will be conducted tomorrow in Karges Center gymnasium at 1:25 p.m.

Student Senate candidates will congregate there in an all-school convocation, perhaps the first one of this type in the history of WSU-RF, to discuss issues of the current Senate election campaign.

We urge all students who have an interest in how the student government is run and who wish to make the Senate election more than just a popularity contest to attend this open forum and hear campaign issues and promises.

We might suggest that the 10 Senate candidates consider a few questions that occur to us.

1. Some students (including one or two Student Senators) have complained of a "power clique" in the Senate. Are some decisions made before arguments on the issues have been heard in the open at the meetings? Are the necessary votes lined up by Senators before all interested parties have aired their views in front of the Senate in a regular meeting?

2. Is the agenda for the coming Senate meeting made available to all interested students, faculty members and Senators before the gavel falls and the meeting is called to order? Understandably, some issues of primary concern to students, faculty and, unquestionably, Senators are discussed at each meeting. Some persons have indicated they cannot find out what items are on the agenda until the meeting is held. Might there not be at least a tentative schedule of issues to be discussed available in the Senate office a few days before the Monday meetings?

3. Should a line be drawn which the Senate cannot cross in investigating matters relevant to the student body?

The senate is now, through on of its numerous committees, investigating the Associated Women Student organization. Last year it investigated the University Food Service, a flop proving only that a few persons would listen to the facts of life, namely that more money makes for more variety in food (but Jock Couteaux, Ace food manager, has done admirably despite the Senate).

Soon the Senate may be able to pass resolutions on issues of national and international importance.

Is there a limit? Should the Senate be able to applaud or condemn actions by faculty members and the administration, surely matters just as relevant to the student body as food and the AWS?

4. Should there be more contact between the students, particularly those in government, and the faculty and administration?

The first step has been taken in this direction by President E. H. Kleinpell, who has instituted the University Round Table discussions. Is there a need for more close contact in an institution which has grown by more than 110 per cent in 10 years?

Because of the time limitation, not all issues will be thoroughly discussed. But we hope Senate candidates will indicate their reactions to some of these and other questions at the convocation Tuesday. And we hope many students will be there to hear the discussion.

WE GET LETTERS

'Rights' Legislation Favored by Instructor

To the Editor:

On March 22, I read Roger N. Schaller's letter about "the Negro Problem in the South." It concerned the question whether persons not directly affected by the injustices in various racially-troubled areas should be present at such demonstrations. It was hardly a stimulating letter and it certainly deepened my concern for human behavior.

One cannot help but sympathize with Mr. Schaller. Despite his statements, his emotions were clearly aroused and no amount of hackneyed excuses and statements of "sympathy" for the Negroes could conceal the true nature of Mr. Schaller's racial opinions.

So, what is involved in the case of the South? It is not just passing laws against all the institutions and symbols which represent the Negro as an inferior being, but (here we disagree, Mr. Schaller) also the stronger enforcement of existing laws in a just manner. (The President, the majority of Congress and the attorney-general all expressed this in the past week or so, and such representatives of government are not to be dismissed lightly.)

The real battle, the ultimate goal of overcoming prejudice cannot be won with sticks and stones, as you say, Mr. Schaller. But who, Mr. Schaller, are using the sticks and stones? Who are committing acts of murder? Certainly not the members of the Civil Rights movement. The present attempt to change Southern social patterns does not necessarily reflect indifference to their source; only that these Southern patterns have been engrained for far too long a period and have to be changed NOW! (Witness the innumerable changes in science and technology in a hundred-year period, and compare that with the snail-like pace of progress in human relations. Isn't that a shame?) And these changes will have to be made now, despite the threats of violence to innocent people, for, as you say, Mr. Schaller, "this is the very nature of insigent revolution." Except, you have not yet seen the violence of revolutionaries (I hope we won't have to), but only that of the reaction-

Venice Boats Suggested For Wet WSU-RF

To the Editor:

Students attending Wisconsin State University-River Falls are beset with a problem. Sidewalks and streets on campus are flooded with water from melting snow and ice. Someone must devise a method which will allow students to get to their classes in a dry condition.

For the sake of bettering student living conditions I have undertaken this task in this "best of all possible universities." Much floor-pacing and soul-searching accompanied my decision concerning this matter. First I thought that the university Superintendents of Buildings and Grounds could curb the annual overflow of melted snow and ice by digging drainage ditches. After more sober thought I realized that such a plebian solution could never be put into operation at Wisconsin State University-River Falls. True to its nature this institution must pioneer in aries.

If it is fear and hate which we are confronted with, we have to combat them with continued mass protests or demonstrations, if for no other reason but that the period of sitting down and waiting ("evolution" as Mr. Schaller describes it) is all over. The whole world now is in a revolutionary phase, and the tide of change has even swept onto the shores of "God's own country" - and our's. If we are really Christians, do we merely wait for "evolution" to take its course, or do we take action against the perpetrators of injustice on our fellow citizens? As Mr. Schaller surely knows by now, people have been beaten and murdered for protesting in a peaceful manner. Yes, these basic questions must be answered, even in the face of increasing injustices.

But one thing we know: whether it be in Alabama or Mississippi, fear, hatred and prejudice are best overcome not only by acquaintance and understanding among people, but also just and enforceable laws (to check those of us who are constantly delinquent and misguided). Furthermore, it is futile to talk about justice in Vietnam, Korea or Africa, when the world's champion of liberty and equality finds it difficult to enforce the same principles at home.

'Thank You' Says Committee To Helpers

To the Editor:

In the last issue of The STUDENT VOICE, there was an editorial commending the campus spirit and cooperation during Foundation Week. The Student Foundation Committee thanks The VOICE for the doff of the hat, and extends now, by means of this letter, a sincere "Thank you" to the student body, the faculty and administration of WSU-RF.

We commend the student body for its support of the Amphitheatre Project, and student organizations for their participation in Foundation Week activities and assistance to the Committee.

This year the faculty answered our requests with work and donations far exceeding the "call to action." In particular, we'd like to thank all the people who were involved in the Faculty Frolics production of "Deadwood Dick." Sanford Syse, it is rumored, is up for "The Director of the Year Award," and Colonel Parker has been nominated for "Best Supporting Actor."

We thank the administration for backing Foundation Week and for its unceasing support of the Foundation Committee. Finally, there were many people who are not part of the campus, but who played important roles in the success of the Week. To all the downtown merchants who contributed to the project, to Toby Ailport and Louis Daniel, who conducted the auction, and to those who attended our activities, a hearty "Thanks."

We will be sending out scores of individual thank-you notes, but for now, and for all those whom we cannot personally reach, we add our gratitude to that of The VOICE.

The Student Foundation Committee.

Gondola Is The Only Answer

Weitz, Cont'd

My second solution is one which reflects the high standard of innovation and progress at Wisconsin State University-River Falls. Gondolas will be imported to the university from Venice. Veteran gondoliers will accompany the boats and row them from building to building. These gondolas will provide transportation between buildings for students.

Some individuals will claim that during summer months the canals between buildings will dry up. Ordinarily this would be so however I have solved this problem. We will flood the campus sidewalks; we will flood in the streets and on the lawn. We shall never dry up.

The assets of this problem are numerous. This problem would eliminate students walking on the grass. Vehicles could no longer speed along highway 35 endangering students. It would be much easier for young socialites to make a "splash" on campus. With this distinguishing canal system Wisconsin State University-River Falls will soon become the most exclusive university in the state.

Sells Article To N.R. Review

Dr. E. N. Peterson, chairman of the WSU-RF social science department, announced Tuesday an article of his entitled "The Nazi Party--20 Years After," will appear in the "North American Review."

Peterson termed the article a "by-product" of his study trip to Germany last year.

While in Germany Peterson interviewed a number of former Nazi leaders. He questioned the former Nazis about their lives under the new democratic regime.

Peterson said "I conclude that most--are too old and too isolated to play a significant role in future conservative government in Germany. He said that the younger Nazis he met seemed to have made "an adjustment to the new democracy."

Reading Study Program at RF

Approved by the state department of public instruction, a program of graduate study in remedial reading will begin this summer at Wisconsin State University-River Falls.

Students who are working toward a master's degree in elementary education or in English may begin during the coming summer session the course of study designed to qualify a teacher for remedial reading certification.

Certification as a remedial reading teacher requires a degree plus 12 special semester credits and three years of teaching experience. The course at River Falls comprises 22 quarter credits, all to be earned in the graduate school.

180 WSU-RF Students Listed
In Deans' List-Dr. Rozehnal

There are 180 students on the winter quarter Deans' List, Dr. B. J. Rozehnal, dean of students at WSU-RF, reported last week.

A break down of figures shows that there are 99 men and 81 women on the list. The freshman class has 61 persons on the list, the sophomore class has 44, the junior class has 41 and the senior class has 34 persons on the list.

The following is a list of persons on the Deans' List. Those persons whose names are preceded by an asterisk received straight A's.

And On Other Campuses...

By MICHAEL BRECKE

The University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee recently gave three cheers for the Greek spirit. In a letter to the editor from the Interfraternity Council, the UWM Post was informed that fraternities do not have examination files and that they are one of the chief sources for enthusiasm on campus. The IFC listed points in their favor, such as a $150 scholarship activity and worthwhile social activities.

University of Scranton paper, the Aquinas, questioned the censorship of their press recently. "Students are demanding a free newspaper, free of censorship of a moderator," the Aquinas stated. "We feel the presence of a moderator is unjustified," it concluded.

University of Wisconsin's Dally Cardinal reports that the Interfraternity Council withdrew the privileges of the Acacia Fraternity. "This was due to the failure of the fraternity to sign "Certificate P" which would end discrimination on the basis of "race, color, creed or national origin," the Cardinal said.

Sports Commentary by Mark L. Nelson

The athletic department at River Falls has had many problems so far this year but as of the instant, I think the weather seems to be the greatest. The trackmen went to Stout this past weekend not to run in the snow of course, but to try out Stout's new indoor track.

With the extended winters we have been having around this area, the Falcons may need a field house big enough to play baseball in. Probably some building like the Houston Pleasure Dome where the Houston Astros plan to play their baseball games this season. It seats only 66,000 fans and will permit daytime playing without artificial lighting, too bad Houston gets so much rain and snow.

But consequently Coach Page will just have to find some asphalt playground in order for his team to get in a little outdoor work. After the Easter vacation we hope the ice and snow will be gone so the team can get started in the open air and make up for lost time.

The weather is also ruining the chance of many freshmen to earn a top spot on the team. Coach Page will have to work with the lettermen and upperclassmen of whom he has seen work and can rely on more at the present time.

With a supposedly strong pitching staff this year as well as a good group of sluggers, the baseballers could and should win the state title again this year.

Art Johnson, who transferred here from the University of Minnesota last year should be in full power this season after a knee operation. Although pitching good ball last year, Johnson was hindered by a weak knee that affected his running to the point where it was hard for him to pick up a bunt, several times allowing an easy hit for the opponents.

Sophomore fastballer Ron Peterson returned to school this quarter hoping for a regular job on the pitching staff. Relief pitching last year, Peterson surprised many a batter with his exceptional speed and control.

Not too much can be said about the freshmen pitchers other than the great quantity of them, and supposedly there should be some quality in a group that size.

The track team seems to lack depth this season as was one of the swimming team's problems. Coach Al Evans will have nearly the same problem as last year trying to run time trials in order to get a look at some of his new men. In most cases he will have to rely on the upperclassmen.

Last season the weather was quite different at times and the trials were long between, which I'm sure hurt a few men's chance to outdo a former high school standout or a regular on the previous year's team.

Coach Ben Bergsrud of the Intramural department hopes the softball leagues will be underway by the last part of April. This year I notice the plans are to have a fast and slow-pitch league. Teams are supposed to be gathering up their men so as soon as the snow leaves everything will be set to start.

Batmen Postpone Game Moved To April 19th

Coach Don Page doesn't have to present a starting team tomorrow against Bethel thanks to Old Man Winter, but he said if he did, the team would look something like this: Third base--Al Space, shortstop--Wayne Jarvinen, second base--Randy Hall, first base--Craig Thoeny, catcher--Steve Carpenter, outfielders--Dennis Kaiser, Roger Dellenbeck, Noel Schrafnagle.

As for starting pitchers, Art Johnson and relief ace of last year, Ron Peterson, are probable, Dennis Kaiser and Tom Roelke are other pitchers from last year's team. Ten of the 12 players above are letter winners. Coach Page said he hasn't had a chance to evaluate the pitching newcomers at this time, but he hopes to find some more pitching to help the team.

The season opener with Bethel has been postponed until April 19, the Monday before school starts. Because of the snow, Coach Page predicted that our home diamond would not be ready until after Easter vacation. He said outfielders might get some practice before that if use of the high school parking lot could be arranged.

In some positions, especially catcher and second base, competition is close and Coach Page names these players as looking good in early practice: Outfielders Tom Gustafson, Dick Rude-sill, Duane Johnson and Bob Aft-dahl. Infielders: Dick Hodgkins, Bob Sommerville, Bob Eggleston, Rich Olin, and Dave Monson. Catchers: Ron Henry, Bill Schwartz and John Salek.

"If we get some good pitching, we've got enough good ball players to be real tough," Coach Page said.

Baseball candidates are continuing drills, and conditioning and are now hitting-off pitching in the double-batting cage of the dirt area. The players are going through many blackboard drills as well as gym drills in base running, signals and defensive situations.

TENNIS PLAYER RANDY KLINK'S attire just doesn't seem to go with the surroundings. The team has been using the small gym to practice in but are cramped for space with the boundary lines at each wall.

Track Team Experiences Defeat

In a dual track meet held against Stout last Saturday, the Falcon trackmen experienced a 63-37 defeat. The meet was held on the new Stout indoor track field. Although Stout dominated the sprints, dashes, and the hurdles, River Falls ran well in the distance events. Individual winners for River Falls were: Glen McNaughton running the mile in the time of 4:49, and running the two miles in the time of 10:45:2. Winning the Shot put was freshman Dick Sievert with a distance of 39'1". In the 880 yard run, Barry Halverson of River Falls came in first with a time of 2:07.7.

Commenting on the meet, Coach Evans stated that he was pleased with the performances of the distance runners, and the Falcons were just a step behind in the dashes. He also said that although the team is unfacilitated in their practices, they are improving steadily.

The next meet is next Saturday at Winona State in an outdoor meet.

Set Ten Mile Hike

Record Saturday

Phi Nu Chi Pledges set a record last weekend on their annual 10-mile hike. This was in preparation for their forthcoming project yet to be announced.

Tom Madison and Mark Nelson set the pace for the group, arriving first at the finish line with a record time of one hour 39 minutes and 44 seconds, bettering last year's record by nearly four minutes.

Just Born To The Rodeo?

They say it helps to be born to the profession on a ranch or farm, but there are stories of the tenderfoot who made good on the rodeo circuit through determination and raw courage.

However he started, you can be sure that each man who comes high-riding out of the chute has learned whatever skill he displays in these few frantic seconds through many hard lessons on "what went wrong." Part of his diet consists of arena or corral dust, aspirin and lots of pride swallowed whole. Most often, he served his apprenticeship on the blister end of a shovel and pitchfork. He has learned how to operate a bottle of liniment, and he's an expert in the care of blisters, cuts, bruises and crushed confidence. One of the most difficult things for a rodeo cowboy to learn is to limp and grin at the same time. He knows what it's like to come down to earth, yet he has seen many stars in his day.

For each winner of a rodeo event, there are always a lot of losers, and the number of men who can make rodeo competition their fulltime work is small, compared to the number who operate or work on ranches and at other full or part time jobs. But when you put all rodeo contestants, full-time, part-time, amateurs and hopefuls--together, you still have a fairly small, very special group of people, compared to the great number who would just as soon settle for the fun of watching the contests between man and animal at a fairly safe distance from flailing hoofs and waving horns. After all, what good would all that education be, if it weren't for the crowds in grandstands like those of the Falcon Frontier Rodeo. This year's rodeo promises to be bigger and better than last year's with better cowboys and better bucking stock. The big two day show will be held Saturday and Sunday, May 8th and 9th at the college rodeo grounds with college contestants from North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin taking part.

Two Women Attend AWS Convention

Barb Kahabka and Sandy Johnson were the two River Falls representatives at the 1965 International Association of Women Students at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City.

"Challenge of Creativity" was the theme for the national convention, which decided to keep the purpose of AWS as it now stands.

A new proposal had been submitted to the convention saying that the purpose of AWS would be to stimulate the development of the educated woman and to encourage her contribution in social, political and moral spheres on local and international levels.

The original purpose which still stands was to consider problems related to the role of women students and mutually develop national policies. The second proposal was voted down because it is limiting on the IAWS activities.

Another resolution passed at the national convention was that IAWS members participate in social political and academic activities that affect their campus.
