TURN TABLES ON TRACK

Stout Wins Hard-fought Ball Game

The River Falls track team paid Stout in full for the defeat handed them May 12. When the final scores were counted, River Falls led 59 to 79.

It was a perfect day for a field meet, just warm enough to keep the contestants at their best and with not enough wind blowing to affect the work of any of the participants. All events except the two mile were closely contested. Smith Taylor and Butler easily maintained a lead in this event. Gulstad easily took first in both half mile and mile.

Stout had the satisfaction of winning the last event, the relay race. Miles got away poorly and Huber led to the first passing, Gerretson lost some ground due to the cutting in of the Stout runner, and when at the final quarter Roberts took in behind Amos, it looked easy for Stout but Dave closed the gap and crowded Amos at the finish, losing by only a half stride.

Captain Gerretson was high man, winning sixteen points for his team.

SENIORS WILL PRESENT PLAY

Production to Show Exceptional Portrayal

It has been said that in the play "A Doll's House," the famous Norwegian playwright, Henrik Ibsen, has produced a perfect portrayal of a woman. He has done this through a series of incidents involving only five main characters. Many noted stars have appeared in the leading role of Nora Helmer, among them Nazimova and Madame Hammer. With such characteristics the senior class play to be presented in the Auditorium on Monday evening, June 4, promises to be something out of the ordinary as well as exceptionally interesting.

The scene of "A Doll's House" is laid in the Helmer flat in Christiania, Norway. The events take place on three consecutive days. Nora Helmer has been treated as a doll all of her life, first by her father and later by her husband. Ignorant of all business matters, she has forged a note to get money to save her husband's

ALUMNI TO HAVE BIG EVENTS

Grads to Have Closing Days of Big Week.

Seniors, alumni, and faculty members must get their tickets immediately if they wish to be sure of a plate at the Alumni banquet," said Miss Mary Carroll, who is in charge of the ticket sale. The banquet will be held Thursday, June 7, at one o'clock, in the Congregational church. Everything points towards a record attendance. The reunions of the classes of five, ten, fifteen, and twenty years ago will bring a number of alumni, and responses have been received from a number of members of classes graduated in the 90's.

The committee in charge has planned an especially good program, and no one who is eligible to attend can afford to stay away.

On Thursday evening, at eight o'clock, another of the big Alumni events, the Alumni Ball, will be held in the North Hall gymnasium, in which the ball is to be given, is still resplendent in the Prom decorations. The music will be furnished by Al. Hawkinson's orchestra, which in itself is a guarantee of a good dance. Alumni, Seniors, and faculty are invited to attend.

On Friday morning, the Normal baseball team will go up against an aggregation of stars from former classes. A good game is assured, as the alumni team will be composed of old stars, while the strength of the Normal team will be attested by those who saw the hard fought game last Saturday.

BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS

The Baccalaureate address will be given by one of the prominent ministers of the twin cities, Dr. Harry P. Dewey of Minneapolis. Dr. Dewey, one of the foremost preachers in his denomination, has been pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church since 1907. He took his college work at Williams and his seminary preparation at Andover, receiving his D. D. degree from Dartmouth. He is trustee of several colleges, has served on many of the national boards of the Congregational denomination, and has been an occasional preacher at various schools, colleges, and

PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION OF SENIORS

The annual President's reception for the Senior class will be held in the North Hall gym at 8 o'clock Tuesday, June 5. Mr. and Mrs. Ames expressed a wish to see all the members of the graduating class present, and this will be the last occasion on which they can meet the Senior class in a body.

'18 REUNION

The class of 1918 will hold a reunion in the form of a get-together and supper at the park June 6. Mr. Goble reports that there is a prospect for a dance if enough members of the class respond to the invitations which have been sent out. Every "eight-cener" is expected to be present if possible at this reunion. Make it a real one.

LIVE STOCK SHOW THIS WEEK

The annual live stock show is being held today and tomorrow. This is perhaps the largest and most important agricultural event of the community. Eleven years ago this show was organized, being purely a local affair. Only 40 head were shown the first year and most of them were grades. There has been a steady growth since then until now between two and three hundred head of pure bred cattle are on exhibition. This show is now recognized as one of the largest of its kind in the state. Representatives from many agricultural papers are here as well as live stock men from various sections of the state.

Many high class animals are on exhibition. Fay Brothers, of New Richmond are showing some Aberdeen Angus that are especially good. Animals from this herd have been winners at the International Stock Show at Chicago and the State Fairs. Theodore Corson, a former student, is showing a bull that won second place at the National Dairy Show. The very best animals in this part of the State are on exhibition, and it is worth while for all students to visit the grounds sometime during the show.

Many students in the Agricultural Department take an active part in this event. Different ones are selected as superintendents of the various departments which means that a great deal of responsibility rests upon them. These men are receiving a very valuable type of experience which should help them in conducting community shows when they become teachers.

A community banquet is scheduled for this evening in the Normal Cafeteria. An excellent program has been arranged. Judge W. P. Knowles is toastmaster. J. L. Tormy, of Chicago, and Frank Astroth of St. Paul, will be the principal speakers. An especially good number will be a reading by Mrs. Lloyd Sherman. Good music will be provided. Undoubtedly many students will attend this banquet. The price is 75 cents per plate.

AG MEN GET JOBS

Mr. May reports that all but one of the three-year Ag. men are placed, and that a goodly number of the two-year men also have received positions. This surely is gratifying and should prove an incentive for men to take the Agricultural courses.

KEEP IN TOUCH WITH OLD R.F.N.S.

This issue of the "Student Voice" will be the last before a probable summer school edition. There will be a good many of you who will be going out next year. We are trying to increase our alumni circulation, and should like very much to have your name on the mailing list for next year. In previous years we have noticed that a large number of former students who are now in the field like to get school news for at least the year after they leave, when many Junior friends are left behind.

You shall receive a letter next fall soliciting your subscription, but a better way is to have your name placed on the list NOW. Next fall when you start to work, there will be much else to take your time; consequently you are likely to neglect our solicitation. Come into the office and sign up to-day. The price, including mailing expenses, is $1.50 a year. Your subscription need not be paid for until you receive the first copy next fall.

A STUDENT'S SOLILOQUY

There are times when my ambitions
Are like a fleck of foam;
It takes nought but a gentle breeze
To cause my thoughts to roam.
'Tis then that I seek solitude,
But such a thing is rare,
For there are sure to be some girls;
It makes no difference where.
They twitter like a flock of birds.
I try in vain to study,
But who can do a bit of work
And list' to everybody.
And so I move away again,
And if the Gods be kind,
I'll find a spot where girls are not
To rest my weary mind.
Now if you girls this poem should
read,
Please take the thing to heart.
Just do your best and ask the rest
To do as well their part.

AN ALUMNUS SPEAKS

Reune in June. What do these few words mean to you? What pictures of pleasant and jovial possibilities do they convey to your mind? Imagine how void and insignificant a meaning they would assume if the River Falls Normal Alumni Association was but a creation of the imagination. But all hail to some energetic members, the Association is an active reality. It invites you to emancipate yourself from your worries and cares for a few days and enjoy the pleasures and delights of a real gathering at River Falls June 7-8.

The Association has always fostered a tender regard for all its members and as each year rolls by it adds perennial freshness and vigor to our bonds of intimacy and amity by virtue of its constant and continued efforts.

Every reunion cements the old ties that made us friends years ago. It arouses and revives the dormant reminiscences of the old days at River Falls, with all their original wealth of cheerfulness and gaiety. The Association keeps the Alumni a complete union never segregated from the old school and its present activities.

Let us make the reunion of '23 a record one.

ALL SCHOOL PICNIC

The all school picnic at Glen Park last Friday afternoon featured a base ball game between a picked team of girls and both men and women faculty members. Capt. Hayward starred for the faculty. "Esther" (alias Ernie Ziebell) pitched a good game for the girls, and pitcher Hanna, of the faculty, "laid on the English."

The faculty say the game was 10-9 in their favor, but the girls say it was a 10 to 10 tie. "Wally" Cole, who was umpiring, got in bad with Vi. White on a couple of his decisions, and, as a result, he walked home alone from the picnic.

The faculty, who were present ensemble, put on most of the entertainment for the students present. Students contested for places with the faculty in the sack races, shoe races, and bottle race. "Dad" O'Brien won the booby prize, and Prof. Whitenack ran away with all honors in the bottle race.

After the games, everybody scattered about in groups to partake of "eats", for which several missing students turned up. Coffee and ice cream were furnished by the Student Social Committee to go with the luncheon. The faculty topped the evening with a volley ball game.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT THE
PRESENT WHERE-ABOUTS
OF NORMAL SCHOOL

GRADUATES

An interesting study has been made by President Ames of the lines into which normal school graduates go on leaving the teaching profession. This study is based upon the present occupations, as given in the recently published Alumni Directory, of members of the classes graduating five, ten, and fifteen years ago.

As far as women graduates are concerned, it is only natural that a large proportion of them should marry within ten years. The figures show that after five years, 27% of the girls are married. After ten years, 54% are married, and after fifteen years 55 1/4% are married, an increase of only 1%. We might, if so minded, draw from this the conclusion that if the girls are not married ten years after their graduation, they probably never will be. This large withdrawal owing to marriage makes necessary a large replacement of teachers every year.

We might suppose that men, as well as women, trained in the normal schools would discontinue teaching in favor of one of the professions, rather than to enter business. Figures, however, prove the contrary. In the class graduating five years ago, there are 5 1/4% now in business, and 7% engaged in farming, which is really a business, as against no professional men. For the ten year period, there are 7% in business and 3% in farming against a total of 5% in the professions. After fifteen years have elapsed, we find 9% in business and 2% on farms, while only 4% are engaged in any profession. Only partial figures have been prepared on other groups, but they indicate the same tendency to enter business rather than the professions. This conclusion may come as a surprise to some of us who have had the idea that men and women trained in the normal schools become lawyers, doctors, dentists, etcetera, but the figures are incontrovertible.

Another angle of this study which will surprise some of us is the observation on the proportion of graduates who are still teaching. After five years, 55% are still teaching, but only 15% in Wisconsin. After ten years, we have 33% still in the teaching profession, but only 8% in Wisconsin. After fifteen years, 27% are still teaching and only 13% in Wisconsin. With all these Wisconsin-trained teachers leaving the schools of the state, it is easy to see why, in spite of the large graduating classes of the normal schools, there is still a shortage of good teachers.

Forenoon Game Hard to Lose

The baseball game with Stout, Saturday, looked to be safely on ice, when in the eighth inning with two down the score stood 3 to 0 in favor of the Falls. But the game had a sad ending, worse than the result of "Casey at the bat." Hyatt's wild throw in the eighth, in an attempt to catch Larson stealing, resulted in Stout's first run. From then on the "jinx" took possession of the team for the remaining innings, and the result was that Stout won by the score of 5 to 4.

Real baseball was played during the better part of the game. In the first inning Stout was promptly retired without reaching first. Shannon slammed the first ball across for a double. Miles got a life. Each advanced a base on a double steal, and Shannon scored on Gilday's error. Miles was caught stealing third. Luther was thrown out at first. Ziebell was hit by pitched ball, and he stole second. Keyes struck out.

Things looked bright for Stout in the second with men on first and second and with none down. However, both were forced out, Smith flew to short retiring the side. The locals were retired in their half via the strike out route. In the third Larson doubled and reached third on Bailey's double. Miles rescued Tomhenwig's grounder and made a perfect peg to home to catch Larson. Winters struck out. Shannon flew to center, Miles struck out, and Danberg made a spectacular catch of Luther's long drive to left. Stout was retired in the fourth by two strike outs and a fly to center. Ziebell and Keyes struck out. M. Smith picked out a good one for a pretty double, but was caught stealing third. Stout got one hit in the fifth but failed to score. Hyatt, first man up in the last half of the fifth, hit to deep right for a triple and later scored on Clafin's sacrifice. D. Smith flew to third, Shannon singled, and Miles struck out. In the sixth Bailey flew to left, Tomhenwig was hit by a pitched ball and stole second, but was caught leading off second, Winters struck out retiring the side. Luther picked a big opening in center and hit for a double. He reached third on Ziebell's sacrifice and scored on Winter's error. Hyatt struck out and Clafin popped to second. The seventh was an easy story. Knilans, Danberg, and Gilday struck out in succession. "Red" Clanton tried in vain to hit the ball, but after hitting seven fouls, he became disgusted and struck out. Shannon and Luther flied to left, but that section of the park was well covered by Danberg, who accepted everything that came that way. Things started in the eighth. B. Smith struck out. Larson reached first on Luther's error, L. Smith was out by bunting foul on the third strike. Larson stole second. Hyatt made a wild throw attempting to catch Larson stealing third, and Larson rambled home with the first run for Stout. Bailey hit to center, a hit that was worth a double. Evidently he thought he hit the ball out of the park, for he kept on running. Luckily he did so for Smith fielded the ball poorly to Shannon. Shannon started playing "ante-over" the umpire to catch Stout resumed their batting attack in their last bats and slammed the ball unmercifully. When the inning was over and the dust had settled, 5 hits and 3 runs were tallied up. In the last half Clanton tried to short, Shannon's bingle looked like a safe one, but Singard made a pretty stop, throwing Shannon out at first. Miles took three healthy swings at the ball and ended the game.

life, not realizing that she has done anything wrong. She has secretly, however, been paying off the debt with what money she can procure until Krogstead, who holds the note, threatens Nora with immediate disgrace unless she will obtain for him a position in the bank of which her husband is manager. Nora becomes desperate, for she knows that Helmer will never engage Krogstead. She must do something, or her husband and the rest of the world will discover her crime, and the consequences will ruin their home. She thinks of borrowing the money to pay off the debt from her friend, Dr. Rank, but she finally decides on the most horrible of all solutions to her problem. However, through the efforts of her friend and Krogstead's, Mrs. Lindin, the danger of the revelation of the crime is averted, and Nora tells the whole story to her husband. His reaction toward her marks the final step in the series of events which change Nora from a doll into a woman.

The caste which will present the play is as follows:
 Torvald Helmer Alan McAndrews
 Nora Helmer Mildred Heidbrink
 Dr. Rank Neil Martin

Mrs. Linden Marjory Fay
 Nils Krogstead Douglas Smith
 Anna, a servant, Georganna Green
 Ellen, a servant, Margaret Workman

This caste has been working under the direction of Miss Alle Robinson. Her success with the other school plays insures the quality of the final dramatic production of the year.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS TO BE GIVEN BY HON. M. B. OLBRICH

From "Who's Who in America," we have taken a few of his many activities of note. As counsel in a case of 1913, he assisted in blocking Governor Francis E. McGovern from ousting Insurance Commissioner H. L. Ekern from office. Mr. Olbrich was joint attorney for the late U. S. Senator, Paul O. Husting in proceedings to compel issuance of a certificate of election, 1914. At the Republican National conventions of 1912 and 1916, he made speeches nominating Robert M. La Follette as a candidate for President. In 1915 he acted as executive counsel to the governor of Wisconsin. He was special counsel for the state of Wisconsin in a litigation before the United States Supreme Court in a railway case to test the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix intra-state passenger fares.

The school is indeed fortunate in procuring a man of this caliber for Commencement Day. We feel like saying, "If you are going to get any of the graduation doings, get Mr. Olbrich's address."

Because of Dr. Dewey's capability in this field, we shall hear a most worthwhile address. In fact, it has been the policy of the school to secure ministers of ability to give the graduating students a message that is comprehensive and inspiring.
