CASTRO'S FAULT— Student Unable To Visit Cuba

River Falls State will have no representative in this year's Cuban revolt.

This shocking information was learned here recently by the student who almost became the college's lone delegate to the biennial flareup, sophomore Dale Swenson from Amery. Mr. Swenson was scheduled to take part in the International Farm Youth Exchange program next fall, living with various farm families in Cuba. At an orientation session in Madison, however, he was informed by state 4-H officials that the Cuban visit "definitely was out of the picture."

"At a meeting in March," he said, "I was told that it was 'questionable' if I would go to Cuba." As the rebellion spread, and the loyal followers of Fidel Castro began dropping Molotov cocktails on President Batista's front steps, 4-H leaders cancelled Mr. Swenson's proposed visit. They evidently decided that witnessing a machete fight on a

Admission to the movies sponsored by the Social Committee is free. Students will have a choice of one of the two movies, and must present their activity card which will be punched. Guests and wives are invited.

"Gift of Love," starring Robert Stack and Lauren Bacall, is the story of a happily married couple who adopt an eight-year old child. Twelve jurors review the case of a tough kid who is supposed to have stabbed his father to death in "12 Angry Men," starring Henry Fonda.

ATTENTION FELLOW STUDENTS

An amendment to or revision of the Student Senate Constitution must be approved by a simple majority vote of the student body. In this particular case a rather extensive revision is being made. The constitution, in its revised stage, is being presented to you for approval or disapproval so that you may cast a wise vote at an all-school election to be held at a later date.

Readers' Theatre Plans Three Plays For Cavalcade of Comedy May 14

"Cavalcade of Comedy" will be presented at the ninth annual Readers' Theatre on Wednesday, May 14, at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre. Three groups under the direction of Dr. Blanche Davis will give readings of "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde; "Helena's Husband," by Philip Moeller; and Christopher Fry's "A Phoenix Too Frequent."

During each of the intermissions the Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Miss Mary Laura Johnson, will perform. The admission for the evening is fifty cents per student.

In Readers' Theater presentations, members of the "cast" use scripts and are seated before reading stands. Although such programs have been given at RFSC for several years, Dr. Davis said that the idea received great impetus about four years ago when a group headed by Charles Loughton toured the country giving performances. Shortly after that, such famous dramatists as Charles Boyer, Agnes Morehead, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Raymond Massey, Tyrone Power, and Anne Baxter joined the Readers' Theater circuit.

CAUGHT AT REHEARSAL for the Reader's Theatre to be presented Wednesday, May 14, in the Little Theatre are Carol Nalberg, Bernie Brohaugh, and Kay Hendrickson. They will read "A Phoenix Too Frequent," a comedy by Christopher Fry.

The Editor Speaks

Published as a supplement to this issue of The Student Voice is a copy of the proposed constitution which the Student Senate is submitting to the student body for adoption.

Apparently few significant changes are being suggested in the document under which students here have governed themselves for a number of years. Perhaps this is as it should be, since, on the whole, our experiment with student government has been a successful one.

We believe every student should read the proposed constitution, see how it differs from the present one, and familiarize himself with its provisions.

The newspaper believes it is performing a public service in placing in the hands of the students a copy of the constitution. Not long ago a survey revealed that few Americans have read the Declaration of Independence or the Constitution of the United States—documents on which our theory and practice of government are based. Moreover, at the height of the witch-hunting period in American life a few years back, many citizens, because of their unfamiliarity with these documents, were unwilling to sign a statement that they believed in the ideas expressed in 1776—they seemed "too radical."

We repeat that we believe our experiment in student government has been a successful one. For example, the idea of a student governing body without a "faculty advisor" was a rather bold and daring one when student government was first established on this campus. Strangely enough, despite our success with the plan, it still seems like a "bold and daring" idea to other institutions and the River Falls experiment has not found many imitators.

This leads to another observation. Although with a somewhat limited knowledge of other institutions of higher learning, we would gather that River Falls is less "tradition bound," more free to experiment, and offers its students (and faculty) more responsibilities and more challenges than is customary.

We believe it is the duty of students to accept the responsibilities and challenges offered. Important among these is seeing that student government continues to function on a high and responsible level.

Much is being said and written these days about the "beat generation." "Beat" has become a catchword—a term you can apply to your cynical, I-don't-care friends. The last three issues of Esquire have carried long articles about "beat" writers in the United States and Great Britain. This month's Holiday magazine carries an intelligent appraisal of Britain's "beat" playwrights. A current Broadway hit, "Look Back in Anger," is by "beat" British writer, John Osborne. In the United States, California's "beat" are "subterraneans" (from a "beat" novel of that title by Jack Kerouac)—Britain's "beat" are its "angry young men." It has been suggested that our sharply rising urban delinquency rate, Britain's "Teddy Boy" movement (juvenile gangs) and so-called "white collar" crime are all in the "beat" tradition. Three months ago, a dozen witty and urbane Harvard students filled a book with their thoughts on life and what they expected of it—strictly "beat" comments they were. Those who get the epithet, "intellectual," flung at them are probably a little "beat."

Being "beat" seems to be a part of the tenor of these times. And there seem to be various "levels" among the "beat"—from the silent, hostile member of a New York gang, through the "professional beat" of the novels, plays and poems, to the "occasional beat" Harvard students.

Being "beat" is a state of mind—a sort of vague discouragement. It is a feeling of inaction, powerlessness and alienation. This society, claim the "beat," is what inspires these things; it is at fault, they say. Its silly, meaningless complication and the pox it casts on human relationships because of its complication—these, say the "beat," make them "beat," tired, bitter, frustrated.

The "beat generation" is a group of social critics. Juvenile delinquents, by virtue of their very existence as such, are critics of this sort. This society has become enormously complicated and cumbersome. The "beat" are calling attention to this; mutely, they stand for what meaningfulness can do to human beings.

There may be meaning implicit in our social order—someplace. But if it cannot be perceived by more or less ordinary individuals, they cannot identify themselves with the society which hides it.

Presumptuous and impetuous though they often seem to be, the "beat" are calling attention to something that is wrong with this society. And they do not call for simplification, a "return to nature." An explanation is what they are after. If the society of which they are nominally members does not give it to them—or, if they cannot find it in that society—they will find it someplace else.

The "beat" are the malcontents. Many have suggested that if a society can no longer satisfy its malcontents—when it can no longer accommodate or tolerate them—then it is doomed. And the malcontents will not be the ones who will destroy it; it will destroy its own inflexible self.

Student Senate Minutes

The April 28 meeting of the Student Senate was called to order by the Vice President, Mary Lou Jensen.

The treasurer reported a balance of $699.84 on hand.

As the first order of business, Mary Dougherty, Marie Forman and Rolfe Rodlyn appeared before the Senate to ask for new cheerleader uniforms for next year. A motion was made and carried approving the purchase of uniforms for six cheerleaders and that dry cleaning costs be paid by the Senate.

Mike O'Connell gave a report on the results of Foundation Week.

Discussion was begun concerning the formulation of some type of control for publicity on campus. The Senate is concerned particularly with the removal of posters after events have taken place and also with the fact that some organizations have posted bills over other current posters.

The WRA asked for $50.00 to finance a golf tournament. The request was tabled until further information is presented to the Senate.

Work was begun on the selection of three candidates for next year's Homecoming Chairman. The candidates will be announced at a later date.

The meeting was adjourned. Absent: Larson, Christensen and Johnson.

Falcon Golfers Trounce Stout

Five out of six Falcon golfers won all three points from their respective opponents to swamp Stout State 16-2 while posting their second victory in as many outings.

Bill Halverson from Durand shot a 71 to be medalist for the day. To prove himself a steady performer, Bill parred 11 holes and birdied three. Another Falcon, Ralph Ryan, shot a 73 and was low man on every hole except one and on that he tied his opponent.

Hilton Schroeder was not himself with an 81 although he parred 11 holes. Jim Hallen and Valmer Barrows had 82 and 84 respectively in picking up their individual three markers.

The golfers under the guidance of Coach Ben Bergsrud now have an impressive two wins without defeat. It might be interesting to note that these boys aren't practicing on their own time and when they feel like it. Under Coach Bergsrud they have a daily practice schedule and as much time is put in on this sport as the baseballers do in theirs.

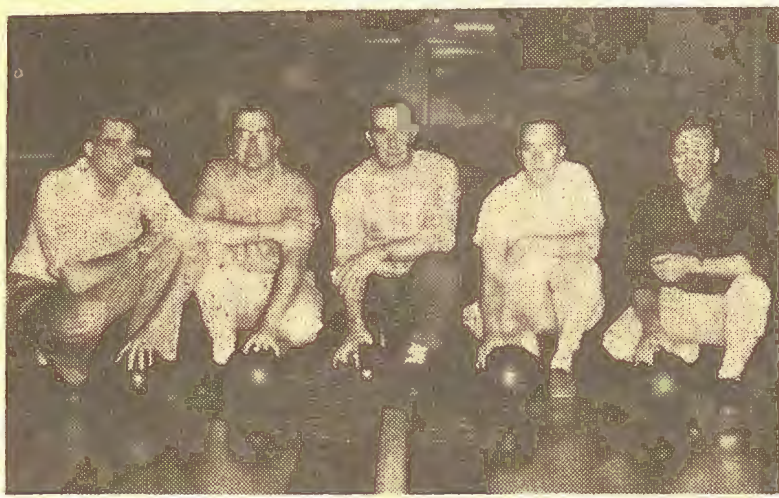

RF LOSES TO STOUT IN TENNIS OPENER

The Falcons' tennis team had its first intercollegiate meet Saturday dropping a 6-3 decision to Stout. The local boys won three of six single matches while failing to chalk up a win in the doubles. Falcon netters Steve Sandberg, Dave Peterson, and Al Rosenthal garnered victories in their singles matches.

In the doubles the River Falls pair of Joel Anderson and Bob Reguse were bested by Bluedevils Fehlleber and Soderberg to the tune of 7-5, 4-6, 7-5. Steve Sandberg and Dave Peterson also came close in their doubles match with Mlynarek and Dahlke with the score reading 2-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Next Saturday the tennis team will entertain Michigan Tech of Houghton, Mich., with five singles and a pair of double matches to be played.

The tennis team is coached by Dr. Levi Muncy, principal of the Campus School.

Splitters Drub Jets in Intramural Bowling

The Maple Splitters, led by Don Patin and Harvey Dusek took all three games from Ed Schlumpf's Jets and thereby won the intramural bowling championship a week ago Saturday.

The first game seemed to be the turning point in the playoff. The Jets lost a tough one here, losing by only two pins. After this there was little question as to what the final outcome as the Splitters got hot and the Jets cooled. Jet bowlers Jim Hallen and Ralph Green, who had sported 169 and 167 averages respectively for the season, were having their troubles while Don Patin and Harvey Dusek of the Maple Splitters were rolling in the 180's.

It proved to be an exciting climax to a long, bitterly fought season.

A pair of two-run victories over Stout Saturday boosted the Falcons' spring baseball record to 11-2 and their conference mark to 3-1 as Coach Don Page's crew continues to drive toward the best diamond season in many years.

The scores were 3-1 and 8-6, with both victories coming with the aid of homeruns. The defeats left Stout with a 0-4 league record.

Three games are scheduled for River Falls this week. Tuesday afternoon the Falcons travel to St. Paul for a nonconference encounter with Bethel College at Dunning Field. River Falls scored a decisive victory over the Bethel team earlier this year. On Saturday the red and white continue their conference campaign with a doubleheader at Eau Claire, with the first game beginning at 12:30 p.m.

FALCONS 3, STOUT 1

Jim Larson pounded a three-run homerun in the third inning to account for all Falcon runs in the first game Saturday. Larson's blow came with two out after John Gregorich had singled and Duane Teska had reached first on an error.

Lewie Johnson went the distance for the Falcons, giving up only four hits and three walks while striking out seven. Duke Webb pitched the entire game for Stout, also allowing four hits. He walked three and sent down six via the strikeout route.

Larson and Stout's Jim Sands each had 2 for 3 at the plate to lead the hitters.

FALCONS 8, STOUT 6

Falcon shortstop Al Suezaki put the clincher on the scheduled seven-inning second game when he blasted a Blue Devil pitch out of the park with Don Swanson on base in the top of the eighth frame.

Reliever Tom Trainor had eased the Falcons out of a tight spot in the bottom of the seventh when, with two out, the bases loaded and a 3-0 count on the batter, he got the man to pop up and sent the contest into extra frames.

The third inning again produced the big scoring punch for Coach Page's crew, as this time they came up with five runs. Consecutive singles by Gregorich and Swanson, followed by a walk to Suezaki and a single by Ev Glaser, started the scoring parade. Larson reached first on an error, Jim Landry walked and Bill Halverson singled to round out the inning's scoring.

Stout came back with three runs in both the third and fourth innings to take a 6-5 lead, but the Falcons notched another marker in the fifth to tie the contest and set the stages for extra innings.

Stout shortstop Harlo Bredeson rapped out 3 for 4 to take his place as the game's top hitter. Teammate Sands had 2 for 5 to finish the day with 4 for 8 at the plate. Swanson and Halverson both had a pair of hits for the Falcons in the second contest.

WHAT IS A STUDIOUS FELLOW WHO FREELY HANDS OUT HIS LUCKIES?
(SEE PARAGRAPH BELOW)

THE MENTAL MARVEL mentioned above is so studios he made Phi Bete in his junior year—of high school! When he walks into classrooms, professors stand.
