W. Klanderman, John Dzubay to Manage Voice

Succeed Hanneman, Olson as Leaders; Arrangement Gives Seniors Time

Plan Improvements

Walter Klanderman, '33, and John Dzubay, '33, have been appointed managing editors of the Student Voice to succeed Albert Hanneman, '32, and Orvis Olson, '32, retiring editors. Other staff members take office in the fall.

The new editors will serve until the middle of next year. The retiring editors will be added to the editorial writing group, where they may write at their leisure.

An Aid to Seniors

The new arrangement, effective this year, will give the seniors more time for the crowded activities that keep that group busy during the last months of their graduating year.

The new editors are well qualified for their responsibilities. For the present, Klanderman will do most of the news editing, Dzubay will edit the editorial page and features.

On Honor Roll

Both are members of the honor roll. They have had experience on the Voice staff and either a course in journalism or printing experience as a background.

Klanderman is a former Baldwin high school student, Dzubay comes from Clayton high school, Hanneman hails from Edgar, and Olson is from Holmen, Wisconsin.

The editors have pledged themselves to work for the continued improvement of the school paper. Some minor changes will be made soon.

Checker Tournament Moves Slowly

The checker tournament has reached a characteristic stall.

Robert Mills and Emil Schieser have reached the semi finals and are confident of capturing the honors. This however is disputed by several others who are backward in moving.

Luberg Quizzes Pupils With Unique Invention

LeRoy Luberg, class of '29, and instructor at West high school at Madison, has invented a map for use in his geography classes in teaching the names and locations of state capitals and other important cities.

The map is wired so that the instructor can test his students on their knowledge of principal cities. When Luberg wants to test his pupils he places a pointer into a plug marked for a certain city. The pupil then points to a spot on the map and if his pointer is on the right place, a bulb lights. If he is wrong about the location, the light is not turned on by the pointer.

Ames Comments on Progress of Inspection

By J. H. Ames

Some time ago, announcement was made in the assembly in regard to a survey of the College by North Central Association representatives. During this month two members representing this association have visited the college, Dr. Reeves and Mr. Hugh C. Gregg of the University of Chicago. These gentlemen spent one day at the college early in the month, and Mr. Gregg spent Monday and Tuesday of this week inspecting at school.

These gentlemen are particularly interested in the administration, academic and business. They find that a state supported institution is very different in its administration from that of a private or denominational college. The system of accounting used in a private school which handles its own funds is very different from that employed by the State of Wisconsin in its public supported institutions.

The purpose of this survey is to

Student Social Group Plans Dance Friday

The Student Social committee will sponsor an all school dance Friday night after the Superior game in the South hall gymnasium. The college cafeteria will be open to serve a menu of sandwiches, pastry, ice cream and coffee. The freshman members of the committee, Lester Seng, Elsie Erickson, and Leona Weber, are in charge of this dance.

Dean, Bridges Entertain Girls

Give Tea For Elementary Group; Play Parts as Washington Hosts

Miss Bridges and Miss Hathorn entertained the students of the Elementary Department at a Washington tea Monday afternoon in the social room. George and Martha Washington, impersonated by the hostesses, were most graciously hospitable, the students say.

Patriotic music was supplied by the Misses Phyllis and Helen Glass. Miss Dasher, sixth grade critic in the training school, read several delightful patriotic poems. Rucille Wallin played Paderewski's "Minuet L'Antique" as a concluding number on the program.

The room was decorated with American flags and red, white, and blue candles in candelabra. The favors were small red hatchets, guaranteed to be harmless. Macaroons, cookie hatchets, and tea were served. Miss Armstrong poured using a Russian samovar.

All departed happily appreciative of the southern hospitality of the "Washingtons" they said.

Debate Team in "Round Robin" at St. Thomas

Two debate teams, composed of Lucile Garley, Horace Merrill, Jim Henry, Robert Smith, and Leslie Libakken left Tuesday for St. Thomas college where they will take part in a three-day "round robin" debate with representatives of ten colleges.

The question is: Resolved that Congress should enact legislation for centralized control of industry. Each team must debate both sides of the question.

Lucile Garley and Horace Merrill debated with two St. Thomas speakers Wednesday afternoon. This debate was broadcast over K. S. T. P.

"Aggies" and Rurals Hold Annual Party

The Agrifallians and the Rural Life club held their annual party in South Hall gym, February 20. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson were chaperons.

Dancing to Arnie Kuss' orchestra and card playing in the social room furnished the entertainment of the evening. Refreshments were served at the college cafeteria.

Chinese Visitor Talks Thursday

No Yong Park, Harvard Alumnus, Will Explain Problems of Orient

"He throws a new light on the present day problems of China as few men can", says Senator Shipstead of No Yong Park, the man we will be privileged to hear at assembly on February 25.

No Yong Park is a graduate of Harvard university and of the University of Minnesota. He is the author of "Making a New China", a clear and penetrating exposition on the present-day conditions in China and a frank, vivid and forceful presentation of Nationalist struggle for freedom.

A humorist often characterized as "the oriental Mark Twain" for his delightful humor and rare gift of expression is this No Yong Park. He is a lecturer on Far Eastern problems who has lectured at about a thousand universities, colleges and secondary schools, and hundreds of civic clubs, and is also a prize winning student in international relations. These are the facts given by the advance agent.

Christian A. Herter, chairman of the Foreign Policy Assn., Boston, says of No Yong Park: "He knows the orient and its problems well and always presents an extremely interesting point of view. He has a most delightful way of tempering his serious remarks with flashes of keen wit, and possesses the rare gift of keeping his audience thoroughly aroused and interested from beginning to end. His opinions are his own, and he has the courage to state them without mincing words."

A Knotty Story "Knot" as Hard as It Looks

"And the dragon poked his head up from the lake and started for the princess-----, but just then King George came along and rescued her."

A primary student studying storytelling? Oh, no, a future Girl Scout leader practicing a bowline knot by the method taught by Mrs. Juhre. Maybe it isn't scientific, boys; but just the same, it works. Ask the girls to show you.

And tying knots isn't all. Mrs. Juhre promises hints for games, picnics, and, best of all, how to cook over an outdoor fire. This looks like more and better spring picnics with plenty of eats as all the girls will want to demonstrate their new skills.??????

Student Voice Staff Members Edit Paper

Members of the Student Voice staff are experiencing the thrills and sorrows of editing the paper.

As practice work, competent members are allowed to take charge of the Voice for one week. Those who have had experience to date are Nellie Roese, Ila Johnson and Rachel Beard. Walter Beebe, Ella Polgar, Agnes Carlson, Earl Sumner and Anthony Runte are among those who have signed up so far.

The experience is valuable, students say.

WOMEN STUDENTS

Please look in your mail boxes frequently, for this system has been installed for your convenience. At this time of year seniors should give special attention to this matter.

Squad Meets Moorehead Here in Debate Tonight

The River Falls State Teachers will debate the Moorehead State Teachers, Thursday, February 25, at 8:00 p. m. in the high school auditorium. The question is: Resolved that Congress should enact legislation embodying the essential features of the Stuart-Chase Plan for the stabilization of industry.

There will be no admission charge.

Girl Scouts to Learn Art, Lore

Organize Into Patrols; Plan Saturday Hikes, Learn Outdoor Life

Mrs. Juhre of St. Paul is conducting a Girl Scout leaders' training course for senior girls in the various courses. The first meeting was held Tuesday at 3:10 with an enrollment of 35.

Mrs. Juhre told the girls about the origin and aim of the Girl Scout movement. She then directed a get-acquainted game and the organization of the group into patrols. The tying of various kinds of knots was learned and practiced for the rest of the time. The meeting closed with the singing of Girl Scout songs.

The other five meetings will be held Thursday at 4:10 and Saturday morning at 9:30 this week and Tuesday and Thursday at 4:10 and Saturday at 9:30 next week. The Saturday meetings will be in the form of hikes if weather permits.

"Flu" Epidemic Keeps Students From Classes

The flu epidemic, which has been taking heavy toll at the high school, hit the college the latter part of last week.

Justin Williams was unable to meet his classes last week and this week. William Edwards has been absent since Thursday and James I. Malott has been ill since Friday.

Dean Stratton reports 45 absences among the boys Monday. He says that there have been about the same number absent for several days. Dean Hathorn reports a large but not an alarming number of absences among the girls.

Dean Hathorn urges everyone who has the flu to remain at home until recovery is complete.

BRIDGE CHALLENGE

The St. Croix Valley Bridge Club, composed of the members of the R. F. T. C. faculty, challenges the winners of the Men's Bridge Tournament through its representatives, Messrs. Hanna and Segerstrom, their champions. Those who accept the challenge have a stiff contest before them, if we are to judge by the confidence which Mr. Hanna manifested when he issued it.

Edwards Emphasizes Need to Face Facts

The first session of the group that is studying the question of war and international relations was held in the auditorium on Tuesday evening, Feb. 16. William Edwards was the speaker.

Critical study of the question since the world war has revealed some outstanding fallacies, among which are:

1. The matter of profits. The world is not going to grow rich by wholesale destruction of property.
2. The doctrine of the superman. Self-established greatness does not seem to be permanent.
3. Patriotism---the kind that runs to seed because of its own intensity.
4. Preparedness as a preventative of war.
5. The Kellogg treaty---and others.

We need to consider the causes of war in order that we may cooperate in avoiding them. We need to realize that "Making the world safe for democracy" and "Diplomatic negotiations" and other reasons of that kind are not real causes. We go to war because of certain basic urges that are inherent in our present so-

Geere Plans for Annual Music Contest in April

Marvin Geere Announces New Order of Events; Judges are Specialists

Business Men Aid

The Seventh Annual District Interscholastic Music Contest will be held at the college April 27, 28, and 29. The event will be larger than usual, according to Marvin D. Geere, director. The extra day will give more time but will not necessitate a longer stay.

Prizes will be awarded as usual with an additional cash prize of $50 given by the River Falls Chamber of Commerce to the best marching band and a $25 cash prize to the second prize winner, regardless of class. The marching contest will take place on main street after the contest numbers have been given.

An effort will be made to schedule all organization events for the same day so that members of organizations will not need to remain over night. There will be no preliminaries this year in any event. The music memory contest will be run as before.

A change will be made in judging this year. It is planned to have a specialist judge for the vocal events and a specialist judge for the instrumental events. The judges will be provided with a secretary who will take notes and criticisms from the judges on each number. These criticisms will be given to the directors immediately upon the announcement of the winners.

A luncheon has been planned during the period of the contest in which all directors, supervisors and principals will get together and talk over plans for the future.

This contest is under the auspices of and is sponsored by the college, but the financial responsibility rests wholly with the director who is responsible for all its assets and liabilities.

The state makes no provision in its educational budget for any activities of this kind.

Masquers Present Play Before College Assembly

Phyllis Glass opened the assembly program last Thursday with two violin numbers. She was accompanied by her sister, Helen Glass.

"The Travelers", a one-act play by Booth Tarkington, was given by the Masquers under the guidance of Miss Nellie Schlosser. It was very well received by the student body, according to numerous comments.

Those taking part in it were: Aileen Fitzgerald, Elsie Erickson, Imelda Farrell, Gwen Dopkins, John Sweasy, John Dzubay, Walter Howard, Kenneth Brandt, and Byron Holtz.

cial structure. The problem is essentially an economic one. Economic rivalry--the profit system--is the driving urge. Commerce, as someone has well said, is "war in suspension". We strive to accumulate wealth but inevitably it becomes concentrated in the hands of the few and lowers the purchasing power of the many. We need to scrutinize carefully the profit system if we ever expect to eliminate war.

We need to study certain emotional sets that can be created for war purposes. There is the matter of patriotism. Whether right or wrong it is the most dynamic emotion that can be called forth--even stronger than religion. Under its influence men will willingly make the supreme sacrifice--life itself. If a man is loyal to his own family and his own community, why must he kill men, women, and children who live in other communities? It would certainly seem that the emotion of patriotism would need to be checked--or expanded.

More Equipment Needed at Men's Union

It is more blessed to give than to receive. This statement rings as true now as it ever did before. For the men of the school, especially for groups of men in organizations, there is a splendid opportunity to put this time-worn proverb to test.

The Y. M. C. A., thus far, has taken leadings steps, and rightfully so, because of its wide support from the men of the school, in helping to fit the Men's Union with games and room furnishings.

There is, however, much more that can be added from time to time. The most urgent need at the present happens to be some sort of rack or cabinet on which students can dispose of the checkers and cards that are left lying on chairs, radio, piano, window sills, and even occasionally, on the floor.

With the addition of some such furnishing where the games could be orderly placed when the men are through with them, and with an accompanying cooperation on the part of the men to make use of it, the room could be made much more effective in serving its purpose--- that of helping to turn out teachers who can give and take in a sportsman-like manner.

Undoubtedly funds are more scarce this year than ever; but, as a general rule, in times like this money has to be spent to the best advantage. What better use could any surplus, over bare organization necessities, be put to than toward making the Men's Union of more value to the men of the school?

Class officers should keep this in mind when they have extra funds. Put to such work they would serve a noble purpose and help exhilarate the spirit of the group in giving. J. D.

God offers to every mind its choice between truth and repose. Take which you please; you can never have both; between these, as a pendulum, man oscillates. Emerson

There is Sanity in Student Views

JAMES J. GREEN, a Yale senior, representing the Intercollegiate Disarmament council and the Student Christian movements of Great Britain and the United States at the Disarmament Conference, said in part:

"Fourteen years after the armistice the glamor and heroism of that period fails to impress us. We respect the war dead, but we question the judgment of those responsible for their death. Organized slaughter does not settle a dispute. We would substitute juridical control by the World Court and executive action through the League of Nations. We of my generation are fighting for our lives; we will become targets for machine gun bullets and victims of poisonous gas; we will be commanded to commit suicide and be requested to destroy the best of human culture, perhaps civilization itself for an erroneous cause.

"We desire to live and live at peace; to construct a world society providing freedom, equal opportunity and a sense of security."

And the students of the River Falls State Teachers college answer, "Amen, Brother; your word is truth."

The average spirit of the energetic class is good sense, acting under certain limitations and to certain ends. Emerson

What Shall It Be; Roads or Education?

DURING the past year in thousands of city, village and district schools the year has been shortened, salaries cut, and the teachers load has been increased. Additional reductions are threatened this year. The degree of budget-cutting in the future depends upon how active teachers are in the defense of education.

There is a coincidence in the fact that one rod of concrete for road construction costs exactly the same as one year of schooling in the elementary institutions. We take great pride in our roads. There is no appreciable cutting of the state's road building program. If we must choose between the construction of a rod of new road and the delay of a child's education, which shall it be?

An open-minded public would not let its educational facilities suffer and go on building roads for speed maniacs to try their latest models on. The tax payer would not vote for a cut in the school budget if he realized how little he spends for the education of his children in comparison to the other expenses he has to contend with. O. A. O.

The greatest of all feelings is an utter forgetfulness of self. Ruskin

One Quality of a Good Teacher

What quality do high school students look for most in their teachers? First of all, perhaps they look for a manifest spirit of impartiality and honesty.

Is the teacher absolutely on the square in his dealings with the individual students? Does his preference for certain students sway him in awarding grades? Does he let the preferred students off easy and hold the others rigidly to the required work?

A teacher is a human being and it is very easy for him to let the personal element enter. He cannot help liking some pupils more than others, but should always keep the question of showing partiality before him.

No other factor in his work, the teaching profession, will mean more toward success or failure.

When you * * * class you are harming no one but yourself.

Of course if you are one of these individuals who take school as a big joke, or as a good place to spend dad's pay check, your presence in a class is of little value. Why go to school at all? I'm sure you can find better jokes elsewhere and that dad can find other uses for his money. B. M. E.

Isn't the cost of our annual somewhat out of proportion to the benefit we gain? We contribute to it through class and organization dues. We buy a directory. The price of the annual itself is quite high. Maybe my Scotch blood is boiling, but it seems that the annual costs more than it is worth. Some schools are substituting an annual edition of their school paper; others are dropping the annual idea. Why not hand down the reduction of expenditure to the students? G. G.

"First in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen," is a statement often applied to George Washington's ideal character. Certainly more cannot be said in proof of a man's good qualities than that he was first in the hearts of his countrymen.

Today, during this campaign for peace, has this attribute of George Washington's, first in war, a tendency to remove part of the public approval? Washington most likely considered that the liberties sought in his time were worth the tremendous cost of the colonial-day war, which was small in comparison with the possible losses of war today.

If Washington were living today, his military ability would easily enable him to see that any war that might occur in this era would be one of extermination. There is no doubt, were Washington subjected to the conditions of our age, the phrases symbolizing his noble character would have to be changed to "first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." Professional Questions

Should a teacher or a prospective teacher attend summer school?

Summer study is beneficial to both mental and physical health, says a faculty member.

Each year the professional and technical requirements for teachers are being advanced.

A bachelor's degree has become a universal requirement for high school teachers.

Three months with nothing to do is too long a vacation.

You should fit yourself so that you will be ready for the highest and best in the teaching profession when the opportunity comes.

New Books Worth Reading OUR AMERICAN MUSIC

John Tasker Howard

HERE is a volume of interest to River Falls student music lovers. Merely to open the pages of this attractive volume will reveal its scope and authority. The author has approached his task not only as a critic and historian, but as a writer of intense human interest. He is widely known as a contributor to magazines, and as a lecturer, both on the stage and over the air. His work on American music does not rest upon preceding work, or works, but goes back to original sources.

It is, therefore, a distinctive contribution to its subject. It begins with the first colonists and their crude musical expression, and comes down progressively to the present year. Almost five hundred composers are discussed, the more important ones at some length. The lay reader, as well as the music student, is kept in mind, and humor, narrative, and other story-telling qualities all have their place in its pages.

An appendix contains two valuable features--a complete list of chamber music and orchestral compositions by American composers, with the names of their publishers, both here and abroad, and a bibliography of over five hundred books and magazine articles on various phases and periods of American music. This is followed by a very full index of fifty pages or more, referring at once to every important citation in the book.

other number from this period was the "Moonlight Sonata" played by Rucille Wallin.

The later romantic period was also opened by Mary Jane Larson who gave Schumann's "Traumerei", and Debussy's "Galliwag's Cake Walk," a very modern selection. The next number was "Serenade", Chaminadi, given by Byron Betterly, cellist, Phyllis Glass, violinist, and Mary Jane Larson, pianist. Christi Njos then played "May Night", "Palmgren", and two difficult Chopin numbers "Black Key Etude" and "Revolutionary Etude." Rucille Wallin closed the program with Grieg's "Norwegian Bridal Procession", and MacDowell's "Woodland Sketches".

The Three Arts

By M. L. W.

The cast of The Travelers and their director Miss Nelle Schlosser deserve all the favorable comments made on the production they gave before the Thursday assembly.

John Swesey gave a remarkable interpretation of LeSera, the affable Sicilian courier. In his dual role of the Chauffer and Salvatore, an Italian, John Dzubay did a fine piece of work. Walter Howard, as Mr. Roberts gave a splendid portrayal of the American traveler portrayed in the customs and languages of the Continent. The part of the nervous and excitable Mrs. Roberts was well taken by Aileen Fitzgerald. Elsie Erickson, as Jessie Roberts was charming as the independent, self-willed American daughter. Imelda Farrell gave a wholly amusing and satisfactory interpretation of the hysterical Mrs. Slidell. The part of Freddie, her son, young, handsome, and in love, was well carried by Kenneth Brandt. Byron Holtz made an impressive Luigi in the part of the Italian inn keeper. In the role of the Italian Maria, Gwenith Dopkins was appealing and picturesque.

Compliments are in order to Miss Schlosser for her selection of the play and coaching the cast.

The players presented in a piano recital by Miss Cara Wharton last Wednesday evening in the Social Room were well received by a small but appreciative audience.

Mary Jane Larson, student in the local high school introduced the early romantic period of music with Beethoven's "Sonata Fantasia." The

Local Five Trips Maroons; Defeats Eau Claire and Stout in Succession

The Falcons defeated the La Crosse Maroons February 12 38-33 in a game marred by consistent fouling on the part of River Falls.

La Crosse Leads

Both teams started playing fast ball and La Crosse soon counted when Kuss fouled Schwaegler. River Falls saw little of the ball for about the next ten minutes as La Crosse with a great burst of skill and luck ran the score up to 12-2. Both teams then scored alternately with the Falcons gradually closing the gap.

Score Tied

Warwick tied the score at 16 all with a free throw, and immediately put his team in the lead with a field goal. Smart of La Crosse tied the score 18-18 and just before the half ended Morrow contributed a basket and a free throw to give River Falls the lead 21-18.

In the second period River Falls continued to pile up a lead, although La Crosse made many gift shots. With the score at 32-21, Kuss was taken out of the game on personal fouls, and Rieck, Morrow, Novak, and LaDusire followed in succession.

Helixon's great floor work was an important factor in the River Falls victory. Morrow lead the Falcon scoring while Rieck and Schwaegler starred for La Crosse.

The Eau Claire team, which has not won a game this season, put up a strong defense which kept the two teams close together during the first half. With the start of the second period, the Falcons seemed to score at will and had little trouble in running up a substantial lead.

A feature of the game was the scoring spree put on by Warwick and Kuss. The two made 36 points, Warwick getting 21 and Kuss 15.

Numerous substitutes were sent in during the closing minutes. Every man on the squad saw action.

Plan Baseball Squad

At a meeting of interested men of the school it has been definitely decided that the school support a baseball team. Possibilities for a schedule are excellent.

With the R club sponsoring the concessions at the basketball tournament, sufficient funds will be provided to sponsor a team.

W. A. A. Sports World

By M. C. McM.

In a recent business meeting the W. A. A. elected the officers for the remainder of the year. These are: Helen Stewart, president; Francis Amundson, vice president; Volberg Haga, secretary; and Leona Hill, treasurer.

The basketball tournament is nearly completed, and in a series of games just finished several upsets occurred. The combined Y. W. and W. A. A. team was overpowered by the husky Sophs, and were eliminated early in the series.

In a very close game combining fine team work and accurate playing the Frosh beat the Sophs. In a second game the Sophs turned the tables and won from the first year girls in a fiercely contested battle.

A third game to decide the supremacy of these two teams will be played soon and from all accounts will be a fine, hard fought game from beginning to end.

Due to the series of six lessons in Scout leadership which will occupy many of the sports-minded girls for the next two weeks, the first volley ball practice will not be held until the second week of March.

the start. Stout had a four point lead before the Falcons counted. The half ended 13 to 7 in favor of Stout.

The second period was a steady uphill fight for the Falcons. With 35 seconds left to play Morrow sank a long shot that tied the score at 27 all.

It was anybodys ball game during the remaining seconds until Warwick made a beautiful pivot play and the winning basket.

Warwick again led the Falcon scorers with eight points. K. Anderson and Stori tied with seven each for Stout.

Falcons to Meet Superior Quint Friday Evening

Both Teams Out to Win as the Season Closes for the Falcons

On Friday evening River Falls faces Superior in what will be the deciding game for both teams.

River Falls has an opportunity of going into a tie for first. For this fact alone the game holds plenty of promise for lots of action. According to the buzzing of fans there is some question as to whether Superior has the best claim to the position they appear to have.

Falcon Win Expected

The Falcon team is of exactly a similar opinion and expect to tip Superior off the top. Chances for the Falcons taking this game look real good.

The Falcons lost a one point game to Superior early in the season. In this long awaited return engagement the Falcons expect to reverse the result.

Falcon Chances Good

Possibilities for a Falcon win are good. Since they dropped the game by only one point in enemy territory, circumstances favor the Falcons. The home-floor advantage and the home crowd give the Falcons further advantage.

Visitors Coming

With the race closing and the percentages of six teams so close that it is hard to know who will be the winner of the conference race, much depends on the outcome of this tilt. Feeling at Superior is becoming more intense. Superior, anxious for a conference title, will send a large delegation. Already a large block of tickets has been reserved and a packed house of fans will witness the game next Friday.

Karges Reviews Life of First President

"George Washington was a great man but a human man, one we can admire and love. He was not a democratic individual but a single-minded man in his devotion to his country," said Dr. R. A. Karges in his address on the "Life of Washington" at Monday's assembly.

The speaker has read extensively on Washington's life and has traveled in the East visiting Mount Vernon and Valley Forge which is now the Pennsylvania State Park.

Dr. Karges expressed his disapproval of the "marble statue" idea of Washington and proceeded to point out his human qualities. These qualities were discussed under the four general heads: his love affairs, his attempts to get rich, his relations with his own step-children and children generally, and his qualities of leadership.

Rural Life Notes

The conditions of the roads Monday morning Feb. 15 made travel to the practice schools difficult. The car carrying the cadets to Elm Grove made the fourteen miles in three hours. The girls pushed on the last lap, but horses had to be resorted to on the last mile and a half.

The Glass Valley cadets made the trip with a sleigh both Monday and Wednesday.

The Rural Life Club met Thursday, Feb. 11 with a small attendance. A short business meeting was carried on and the meeting adjourned.

The new officers of the Rural Life club are: Thalia Jenson, Ellsworth, president; Vivian Simon, Turtle Lake, vice president; Maynard Thoreson, Baldwin, secretary; and Olive Moline, Pepin, treasurer.

The Glass Valley cadets had some good experience last week. Their critic, Mrs. Murphy, was called home by the death of her grandmother, and the cadets had charge of the school.

The following students returned to school after absence due to illness: Bessie Palmstein and Ione Beryl of Osceola, and Lloyd Fox of Plum City. Lloyd went back out to practice on Monday.

Training School Notes

The training school children gave a Washington program for the teachers in the practice school and the students in history methods. The event commemorated Washington's birthday. Much of the preparation was done in the regular classes. The teachers kept in close touch with the Bi-Centennial Committee and as many of their suggestions as possible were carried out, they said.

An important part of the program was the flag salute which was given according to the directions of the American Legion and sixty-eight other patriotic organizations in the United States. At the time of the program an Auxiliary from the American Legion was present.

Because the members of the Americanization Auxiliary are anxious that all students of the elementary department know how our flag should be displayed, they have distributed a flag code and other literature among the elementary students.

From the Pulpits

At the Congregational church, the sermon subject at the morning worship at ten-thirty Sunday morning is "The Great Essentials in Life's Chassis".

The service of fellowship and worship for young people in the evening begins at five o'clock. After the recreation and the luncheon the devotion will begin at 6:30. All young people of high school age and above are invited, says Clyde C. Harris, pastor of the church.

The Methodist Young People's Society will spend next Sunday afternoon at a convention at Ellsworth. This will take the place of their regular Sunday evening fellowship hour.

The Young People's discussion group of the Congregational church and their leader J. P. Jacobson were delightfully entertained at a Leap Year Valentine party given by Rev. and Mrs. Harris in the parsonage on Thursday evening, Feb. 18.

Unusual and fascinating games made the evening pass quickly. All the guests went home happy and well fed, after a delicious lunch.

The radio class of the Eau Claire State Teachers College is assembling a radio receiving set and broadcasting set. It will be operated on a short wave amateur schedule and it will be possible under favorable conditions to broadcast around the world.

During the past semester 922 new books were added to the library of the Milwaukee State Teachers College. The books cover all fields, the largest number in sociology, literature, and philosophy. Some of them were added as gifts, and some were requested by instructors.

With only 1420 students now enrolled at Milwaukee, the enrollment may fall short of the mark of 1E58 set in September 1931. It still exceeds that of February 1931.

Carroll College has some new dormitory rules. Until this time the town girls have had free use of the dormitories. Restrictions have been placed on their visits in an attempt to provide better study opportunities for students.

The West Wisconsin Schoolmaster's Club held its annual meeting in Eau-Claire last Friday, assembling at the State Teachers College in the forenoon and afternoon and at a banquet in the Hotel Eau Claire in the evening.

Amos and Andy are dead! Amos died at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, Feb. 9, and Andy died three hours later.

Amos and Andy were goldfish. They belonged to two Littlefield dormitory girls, University of Texas, and they were buried under the windows of the owners. The exact cause of their death is unknown. "It must have been starvation or exposure," one of the girls asserted.

A Kentucky university man finds that teachers give girls better grades than the men students receive. He states that marks have no particular meaning only that they show personal feeling as a reward.

More than half the students at the University of Minnesota earn all or part of their college expenses according to a study just completed by J. G. Umstadd, assistant professor of education at the university. Dr. Umstadd found a law student cutting hair in a campus barber shop, a miner looking after a paper route, and an engineer employed as a soda-jerker. Employed students get just as good grades as those who do not work and they take just as much interest in athletics and campus activities, it has been discovered.

Richard Mooney entertained at a Sunday dinner oyster stew the following friends: Dorr Snoyenbos, Karl Korting, Steve Prusak, John Sweasy, Kenneth Brandt, John Dzubay, and James P. Jacobson. The stew was reported especially tasty. It's little wonder since the "bean soup specialist" was on hand.

Gunnard Engelbrecht and Gurnum Niccum showed a splendid social spirit when they bore the brunt of the burden of building and finishing two fine card tables for the Men's Union. Mr. Jacobson lent his able assistance where needed also.

John Sweasy was host to his sister Alberta who came up from Amery to get a sample of collegiate activities at the La Crosse game and dance recently.

Ralph Schneider spent the week end at Hudson with Norman Kavool. The boys took in the ski tournament Sunday.

Harley Borgen has spent the last week end in River Falls. Why shouldn't he? His wife is spending a few weeks here with him.

William Hawkins, Robert Fritz, and Betty Dodge, all graduates in '31, spent the week end in town.

Ben Patterson has left school for his home at Deer River, Minnesota, because of ill health.

Mr. Stratton has received a letter from Clifford Noreen, '33. An x-ray has revealed an injury to a bone in his back which will mean a slow recovery; he says he is feeling better at present.

The Y. M. C. A. bridge tournament is in its third round. As yet there has been little superiority indicated in the Lenz or the Culbertson system.

Stout Institute just started weekly dancing lessons. It was discovered that more men than women sought the training.

TO MY POCKETBOOK
Why, oh why are you so thin
Dear pocketbook?
Why are you so shrunken and small?
Once you were filled to bursting,
But now you hold nothing at all.

We've had happy times together

When you talked to me in golden tones,
But now that your voice is silent,
I'm wearing rags and chewing bones.
