Fills Posts Vacated By Stower, Kleinhans

On Wednesday, the Student Senate will hold special elections to elect Senators needed to fill two positions left vacant by the resignations of Harvey Stower and Kurt Kleinhans. Stower resigned so he might fulfill his academic duties in time for graduation this past fall quarter and "Kleinhans resigned for personal and probable academic reasons," according to Kleinhans letter of resignation. Polling places for this coming election will be set up in the Student Center and in the May Hall Dining area. The ID card is the only voting requirement.

first is an increasing of the representation of the students in their own student government; and second, increasing their voice in the determination of the policies of the student community. He pointed to the University Activities Board as one example of "a need for greater representation of student views." The present ban on inter-dorm transfers was one point given by Wilbur in which the students should have a greater voice.

Wayne Weiss, a senior, candidate from Merrill believes that the Senate should look more closely into the way it spends its money in regards to organizations. He also stated in an interview that "the UAB should get their money directly from the Senate and the Senate should control UAB spending because they are the students funds. In regards to the recent proposal to change the student governing system at RF, Weiss feels it would be a good idea to look into this situation. He finished by saying the campus elections should be run the senate members alone without any kind of appointed substitutes.

Tree Trim Dance Held In Ballroom

The University Activities Board (UAB) of WSU-RF will sponsor a Christmas Dance tonight in the Student Center Ballroom.

A special feature will be a "Trim the Tree" contest held during the dance. It is open to all organizations on campus. Each organization will have to provide its own tree and decorations. The individual organizations will have a ten minute time limit to decorate their entry and a trophy will be awarded for the winning trees.

There will be a slight admission charge to all RF students and invited guests.

Five RF students are being placed on the ballot for these positions. They are George Wilbur, a junior political science major; Wayne Weiss, a senior economics and political science major; Larry Hartman, a junior economics and history major; Henk VanDyke, a senior political science and business major and Tom Danhoff, a freshman agriculture major.

Wilbur has served the past two years as Senate Parliamentarian and is manager of the student government office. Both of these positions are appointative. In an interview recently, Wilbur stated he was basing his campaign on two major points. The

Guthrie Actor To Play Lead

A professional actor from the Tyrone Guthrie Theater in Minneapolis, James J. Lawless, will be playing the lead in the University Theater production "The Lady's Not For Burning".

Lawless will be playing the role of Thomas, a discharged soldier and philosophical humorist who has lost all desire to go on living. To this end he announces to the town that he has murdered a man and should be condemned to death. The town's people refuse to believe him, but to satisfy him they hold a trial and acquit him of the murder.

Soon thereafter a young girl, Jennet, is brought to trial for witchcraft. She, however, wants to live. The part of Jennet will be played by Sue Pollock, a freshman theater major. Sue has appeared in "Cry, Havoc", an Actor's Workshop production and is currently doing the role of Mary in "A Bad Play For An Old Lady" which is a Director's Workshop production. She also appeared in "The Visit".

Jim Laatch, senior theater major, will be Richard. Linda Draves and Linda Rickard, both sophomores, will be doing the parts of Margaret and Allison, respectively. Bill Paterek, a sophomore in geology, will play the Chaplain. Tappacoom will be done by Dan Heilborn, a freshman theater major.

Ken Nelson, who played the lead in "The Visit," will be Tysen. Gordon Fleury will play Skippis; Steve Lockwood, a junior, will play Humphrey; and Jim Bancroft, a freshman theater major who has appeared in both "The Visit" and "A Bad Play For An Old Lady," will play Nicholas.

Lawless will bring to the production of "The Lady's Not For Burning" a wealth of experience. His background is rich and varied. For the past three years, he has been at the Tyrone Guthrie Theater. While there, he has appeared in "King Richard III," "The Way of the World," "The Causasian Chalk Circle," "The Cherry Orchard," "The Misre," "As You Like It," "S.S. Glencairn" and "The Skin of Our Teeth."

Lawless has also worked with the Kingston Repertory Theater in Kingston, Ontario; the Brae Manor Theater in Knowlton, Quebec; and the Tanglewood Theater in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. While he was at the Brae Manor Theater in Quebec, he appeared as Humphrey in "The Lady's Not For Burning."

During his career, Lawless has studied under various people, among them Sir Tyrone Guthrie and Douglas Campbell, both presently at the Guthrie Theater.

Athletics to be Topic At Free Spirit Forum

On Wednesday of this week the second in the series of the Free Spirit Forums will be held. In this session, Bernie Allen and Rich Rollins of the Minnesota Twins will debate several faculty members on the role of athletics in education.

The debate will begin at 2 p.m. and last until about 4 p.m. in the main dining area of the Student Center. There will be an informal luncheon at 12 p.m. in the Private Dining Room. They may speak individually in the morning but this is still tentative according to Ted Fetting committee chairman for the Free Spirit Forum.

Debate will center around the place of athletics in the college community and the underemphasis or overemphasis of athletics in the university.

Bernie Allen, a second baseman for the Twins this past season, was recently traded. He has played for the Twins for several seasons. Rollins is a shortstop for the Twins and both men are noted for their speaking ability. Both men are college graduates.

In the planning stages for the future Forums are such topics as sex education and sex in the college community, student rights, and such speakers as George Lincoln Rockwell, commander of the American Nazi Party and possibly George Wallace, governor of Alabama.

These Forums are sponsored by the Legislative Action Committee, a subcommittee of the Student Senate. According to Fetting, "These forums are a realistic attempt to broaden the students scope in the field of controversial topics."

to get things accomplished is through a group effort. "It's rather hard for an individual to get things done alone." The best interest of the students should be constantly in mind, he added. One of the major planks in his platform is a complete change in the educational system at River Falls. He feels there should be a quarter of independent study in ones major area. He cited Carleton and several other schools with this plan. At the end of the quarter study a student would do a paper on his research to be used as a grading standard.

Hartman is also in favor of the Senate gaining more respect because as it is now the "Senate is a puppet, it can be over-ridden" by the faculty or administration. An improvement of the student-faculty relationship should also be encouraged.

Henk Van Dyke, a senior candidate from New Richmond, summed up his feelings for this coming election by stating that more of a joint working effort should be set up between the administration and student body. "The administration and student body are splitting apart on all issues. One suggests something and the other raises a fuss," Van Dyke feels that in the working of the Senate and administration, like a state or national government, each side should "compromise a little, each side give a little to the other." Van Dyke is also "opposed to certain bodies getting too much money and academic organizations not getting enough."

Thomas Danhoff, a freshman from Mosinee, is basically for a better image of the University being spread around the state. He thinks this could be done by 1) major that are offered could be explained better 2) encouraging athletics by improved programs and 3) working on the high school guidance counselors. He also believes the dorm transfers should be allowed and the deficiency system revised. He stated that more in depth work should be done by committees of the Student Senate. Because the Senate is the middleman between the student body and the administration, Danhoff feels, they should have a little more power and take their jobs a lot more seriously. "We should develop a spirit of cooperation and good fellowship throughout the University."

Senate Condemns Filing Of Membership Lists

A Student Senate resolution, adopted at Wednesday night's meeting, strongly urges the Faculty Council "to take the steps necessary" to remove the requirement in the Faculty Manual that all campus organizations must have membership lists on file in the Personnel Office.

Noting that Dr. B. J. Rozehnal, dean of students, recently suspended 33 campus organizations for violating the regulation, the Senate resolution stated that compulsory membership lists violate the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Also cited was the Supreme Court decision of Gehlan v. Florida Legislative Investigating Committees, in which the Court ruled that required submission of membership lists violated the right of privacy of the individual members.

In addition, the resolution noted the opposition of the American Association of University Professors, the American Civil Liberties Union and the United States National Student Association to the required filing of membership lists.

Copies of the resolution are being sent to the River Falls chapters of the AAUP and the ACLU, to the Board of Regents, President E. H. Kleinpell, members of the Faculty Council, Dr. Rozehnal and Dr. Nancy Knaak, associate dean of students.

In other business at Wednesday night's Senate meeting, attention centered on the governing bodies of the dormitories.

In a resolution approved by all Senators present at the meeting, the Hathorn Hall Dorm Council was commended for abolishing all late minutes accumulated on Dec. 1, by a large number of women "due to circumstances beyond their control." The resolution stated that the Council had shown "wisdom in the handling of this matter."

The same situation had arisen on the same date at McMillan Hall; however that dorm council had given all girls one "campus" after meeting in secret before the judiciary session, and deciding the punishment in advance. The Dorm Council of McMillan was also criticized by Senators for having no approved constitution, no parliamentary authority, closed meetings, and for being in violation of the organizational requirements of both the Personnel Department and the Student Senate.

Senator John Harter felt that the Council was not completely at fault, because "they didn't know any better." One of the Senators agreed, saying that "the strings are being pulled from Dean Knaak's office."

Upon motion by Senator Marilyn Nielsen, a copy of the resolution commending Hathorn Hall for its "wisdom" was also sent to McMillan Hall.

The Senate also was disturbed that some of the dorm councils did not have a parliamentary authority. Robert's Rules of Order, Revised, is used by the Senate and some dorms. Hathorn and May Hall were given two weeks to include provision for a parliamentary authority in their constitution. If this is not done, a motion would be voted on by Senate that would suspend their constitutions and all dorm activities until they amended their constitutions to include one.

Senator Robert Rasmussen said that he hoped that McMillan and Grimm Halls, which have not yet approved their constitutions would "take the hint."

Senior Directed Plays Slated For Dec. 13, 14

Frank Heise and Jim Laatch, two senior theater majors, will be directing one-act plays to be presented in the pit on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Heise and Laatch are doing these plays as partial requirements for the Direction class which both of them are taking. The plays are of their own choosing and each of them is solely responsible for the execution of his play.

Heise is doing John Mortimer's play, "The Dock Brief". In this play Dan Heilborn is a timid, meek, bird-lover who murders his wife because she is always laughing. Mike Norman portrays Morgenhall, an ancient, dusty, old barrister who Fowle (the bird-lover) chose blindly as his counsel. As Fowle put it, "I shut my eyes and pointed-- I've picked horses that way... never did me any good though."

"The Dock Brief" is an English play, written during the 1920's, and the cast will be wearing costumes from that period. Frank chose "The Dock Brief" because he felt that "when correctly performed it is one of the better one-act comedies". The cast will try to perform it correctly.

Laatch and his cast will be presenting "A Bad Play For An Old Lady" by Elizabeth Doolittle Johnson, a graduate of WSU-RF. This play has been performed once before. It was presented at the Tyrone Guthrie Theater in February of 1964 as part of a Rockefeller Grant for new playwrights. Evie McElroy, John Levin and Sandy McCallum, all members of the Minnesota Theater Company, took the parts of Mary, the flowerman, and Charlie, respectively.

In the Pit production of "A Bad Play For An Old Lady" Sue Pollock, a freshman theater major, will play Mary, Chris Summerfield is the flowerman, and Jim Bancroft will play Charlie.

Jim chose this play for two primary reasons, he wanted to do something "avant garde" and he "likes her plays." In this play she "comments on the different roles we all play in a lifetime".

In his production of "A Bad Play For An Old Lady" Jim is not trying to prove anything. He is going to "just let her words carry it," and "let the audience get what they want out of it."

The set is merely structural, as the play is an attempt to capture a dream. Charlie and Mary are ordinary, trouble-ridden people and the flowerman is

Christmas Concert Dec. 18, 19

Wisconsin State University's annual Choral Christmas Concert will be presented Sunday and Monday nights, Dec. 18 and 19, at 8 p.m. in North Hall Auditorium.

Under the direction of Robert Fiechtner, Robert Beidler and Conrad DeJong, approximately 100 voices and 10 musicians will make up the Men's Glee Club, Concert Choir, Chamber Singers, and the Brass Choir.

The concert will include selections from all periods of history. The selections are to range from Gregorian Chant to Benjamin Britten's "A Ceremony of Carols".

merely a "figment of the imagination" . . . the product of a dream, the by-product of insanity."

The two plays will be presented in a double bill on Tuesday, Dec. 15 and Wed., Dec. 16 in the Pit (located in the basement of North Hall) at 8 p.m. Tickets will be 50 cents for students and adults.

National Science Foundation Gives WSU-RF $93,000 Grant

The National Science Foundation has recently given a $52,000 grant and a $41,000 grant to the College of Science and to the College of Agriculture respectively.

The grants in both of these colleges will be used to improve the subject matter competence of experienced junior high school level teachers in the field of Chemistry and Physical Science and Agriculture and Science.

The chemistry department under the direction of Mr. T.E. Setterquist can this summer (June 12 to August 4) instruct 40 participating junior high teachers with Dr. Emerson Garver, associate professor of chemistry; Dr. John Hill, associate professor of chemistry; Lloyd Johnson, Ames School, junior high instructor; and Dr. Curtiss Larson, assistant professor in physics, acting as instructors.

The College of Agriculture will use their grant this summer by conducting 2 four week institutes.

The first institute beginning June 12, will deal with Mammalian Physiology and Physiology of Reproduction. The second institute, beginning July 10, will deal with the subjects of Physical Geology and Soil Genesis and Classification.

The instructors for these summer sessions will be: Dr. Richard Gray, assistant professor of animal science; Dr. Donald Hargrove, associate professor of animal science; Dr. A. J. Beaver, assistant professor of soils; and Dr. R. C. McDowall, assistant professor of geology.

According to Dr. J.C. Dollahan, dean of the college of Agriculture, these courses will be given in each of the 2 sessions in order to allow those junior high teachers to take part in the courses in either of the 2 four week sessions.

Priority to take part in these agriculture courses will be given to those who have attended 3 of the past year's institutes. If the institutes are not filled, Dr. Dollahan said, 30 new participants will be selected to complete the roster.

Federal grants totalling $532,654 to support programs at the Wisconsin State Universities were accepted Wednesday (Dec. 7) by the board of regents meeting in Madison.

Among these grants were $279,760 from the National Science Foundation which in turn was distributed between the state universities.

Ag Convocation Held Thursday

A special convocation for seniors majoring in the agricultural sciences will be held on Thursday, Dec. 15, at 7 p.m. in Rooms 201, 202 and 203 of the Hagestad Student Center. Topics to be discussed will include career opportunities, placement bureau requirements and miscellaneous items pertinent to graduation.

All seniors in the College of Agriculture are required to attend.

A Page of Editorial Comment-

Satirical Pamphlet

An interesting satirical pamphlet appeared recently on campus which the Voice feels deserves some comment. The booklet is entitled "Where the Free Spirit Prevails," and is purportedly the student handbook of this university. We feel the wags who are responsible for this little ditty might have done better to sign their own names instead of blaming it on a committee composed of Sue Finke, Ann Schleicher, Harv Stower, and, of all people, Bill Webster! Of the fact that it was composed by a committee, however, there can be little doubt.

This witty satire at times almost rivals Mad Magazine in its rib-tickling approach to life. In a discussion of campus traditions, for example, it is noted (or rather footnoted) that good ol' RF was one of the nation's leaders on the "bird-worship scene," and that River Falls used the falcon as its symbol even before the Air Force Academy did. We are uncertain just what the writer was driving at, but assume that either he was pointing out that River Falls leads the nation in at least one field (if no more), or that an analogy was being drawn between the Air Force Academy (which you may remember lost half of its football team on academic cheating charges) and River Falls. This bit of satire might have been made more clear.

Probably the most beautiful piece of satire in the leaflet is found at the bottom of page 44, where a statement is made that, "The most cynical comments have been made that the bronze falcon symbolizes the direction this university is going - straight to the less attractive afterlife." "Such cynics," it observes, "have traditionally been shouted down by the masses." (It is our feeling that these masses have long since been in the cold, cold ground!) But, the satire is especially droll in light of the many other non-traditional "traditions" which this rather witty lot has created for WSU-RF.

We don't presume to fill a position of legal adviser, but we think that both the Student Senate and the Personnel Department, in whose names the book was published (can you imagine those two groups cooperating on something?), have grounds for suit; and it is our feeling that something should be done before these culprits publish more of this drivel in the name of an official campus group. It's not that we're against satire, but can you imagine what might happen if someone who wasn't in on the joke got hold of a copy of "Where the Free Spirit Prevails?"

Worth it?

A few weeks ago, two University students were caught trying to shoplift a $1.25 magazine. These students were fined a total of $60. Was it worth it?

The editorial board of the Student Voice would like to point out the those students who feel a necessity to steal that it definitely is not worth it. Eventually they get caught.

The downtown merchants have, because of the increase in this type of theft, hired plain clothes detectives for the holiday season. This should serve as warning enough for those students who embark on this type of endeavor.

The University has a definite goal and a definite obligation to work with the community for the good of all. This type of behavior which is not only detrimental to the individual, but also to the University on the whole, should be stopped.

The best way to stop this type of behavior is to make it a law of your peers not to behave in this way. Look around the dormitories and see if you can see the dozen or types of aftershave lotion, or the guy who seems to always have some other type of cosmetic or article of clothing for sale. Ask him about it. Ask yourself about it. If shoplifting is to come to a halt only the students can do it.

Asks Why?

Why don't the women's dorms have a parliamentary authority by which to conduct business? Perhaps if they had to go by Robert's Rules of Order they would have to standardize their rules of conduct and wouldn't be able to hold closed meetings, or decide on cases, such as McMillan Hall did last week, before the girls had a chance to plead their cases.

Why was a student senator told by the McMillan Hall president that he had to see Dean Knaak before he would be able to attend the dorm council meeting?

Why does the dorm council enforce rules, such as signing out in the evening, by camping the few women they catch, when in reality virtually every woman has not signed out at times?

Why are there such strict requirements on guests in the women's residence halls that the counselor of Hathorn would have to turn a woman out at midnight one night because she had already stayed two nights, several weeks earlier? Yet, if this is such a crucial limit that must be observed, why don't the men have to observe a limit to the number of overnight guests they may have?

Why can the dorm councils go into closed session to discuss cases? It it because they consider themselves a jury? By whose authority are they a jury? It it written into their constitutions that they may try a case without the plaintiff's knowledge of what each council member is saying about her? If they not only try each case, but also level judgment, then why don't they take example from judges, who must give reasons for their decisions, because they are elected and are expected to back up what they decide?

At this time women accused of some 'crime' never know how each dorm council member votes because their "sentence" is announced as a group decision. How are the women of the dorms ever going to know who the women are who represent their interests if they never know how the women vote? Why don't the women petition their dorm council to make all of the dorm council meetings open, including the judgment of cases? Or don't the women care?

How much longer are the women of this campus going to continue to accept rules they don't believe in or follow? How much longer will it be before there will be a dorm council that will take the initiative and try to change rules they themselves do not follow?

Pennies and Lights

"Electricity's penny cheap" so the slogan goes. Yet WSU-RF is apparently suffering from a lack of pennies for campus walkway lights.

Last spring the Student Senate found themselves with a $3,800 surplus. At this time campus walkway lights as well as the radio station and the Art Department were investigated as possible recipients of the sum. Unfortunately it was not possible to remedy the need for adequate monies in all three of these areas.

According to Keith Rodli who was Student Senate treasurer at the time an inquiry into the cost of walkway lights was made, Neil Barron, chief maintenance engineer said, the installation of the lights would be very costly. The Senate also called the contractor who estimated the cost of a single light with underground wiring at $200. No doubt the cost would decrease some if a larger number of walkway lights were to be ordered.

With winter upon us and the accompanying snow and ice the walkways at WSU-RF remain dimly if at all lighted. The hazards and consequences of not being able to see icy patches at night are obvious. All students are not as sure-footed as mountain goats and wearing pillows is hardly a practical remedy to the situation.

Another point to be considered is that the University could be held liable for injuries incurred on its sidewalks. With this in mind it is imperative that something be done as soon as possible.

Who do we turn to? Shall we ask "Mother Ace" to increase the amount of carrots in our daily rations to prevent night blindness? Better yet shall we bang on the President's door and ask him to search the University's pocketbook for the "penny cheap" electricity? Yet, considering that the radio station had to be canceled due to lack of funds it is unlikely that the President will be able to pay the bill.

The VOICE recommends that the class organizations take this situation in tow. Rather than leaving a park bench or a bronze plaque behind we urge that consideration be given to walkway lights.

The aesthetic value of gayly lighted campus the year round is a major contribution to the beautification of WSU-RF.

The VOICE feels that each student should take the initiative to make his class take a responsible part in such a project by contacting his class officers and communicating his enthusiasm for such a project through the VOICE letters column.

Student government leaders of nine Wisconsin State Universities went on record recently favoring a textbook-rental-purchase system which would allow students to both rent their books and purchase texts at a discount.

Delegates, gathering at WSU-Oshkosh for the fall meeting of the United Council of WSU student governments, voted only to endorse proposals considering adaptations on a local basis, allowances for students to buy used books at reduced costs, and guidelines for these and other policies to coordinate and improve the system.

The Social Commission at WSU-Eau Claire recently sponsored a Twirp Dance. The Twirp Dance is a switch from the regular dances held at the university.

During the day of the dance, women are expected to open doors for men, carry their books, light their cigarettes, and perform all the other common courtesies which they normally expect to receive themselves. They must ask their own date to the dance and pay the 25 cent admission charge.

They must also provide a corsage made out of odds and ends. During intermission the couple with the best corsage is awarded a steak dinner for two.

In an effort to clear the air on student drinking at WSU-Platteville, the Student Governing Board sponsored a forum on that subject recently.

It was the first in a series of "Students Want to Know" forums that the Student Governing Board has been planning for the school year. The forum resulted, says the chairman Bob Luchsinger, because of student interest in the subject and questions about rules involving student drinking.

"This forum is primarily to establish communication between students and administration and clear the air on drinking," Luchsinger said. In order to gain some insight into student drinking habits and opinions, the SGB conducted a poll in the Student Center. Luchsinger said that about 1500 students replied and the results will be discussed at the forum.

Correction

To the Editor:

In your story concerning the meeting of the Student Senate with Dr. B. J. Rozehnal to discuss the inter-dorm transfer problem, I would like to correct one error. While it may seem to be a rather small correction, I believe that it is important to prevent confusion. In the story, you stated that "Senator George Wilbur" introduced a proposal for uniform interdorm transfers. While it is correct that I did make this proposal, I am not, at this time, a student senator.

The position I presently hold (among others) is senate parliamentarian, which is not quite the same as student senator. However I am hopeful that after Thursday's election, the VOICE may refer to me as "senator" without fear of correction.

Student Voice Sports New Winter Editors

A major change has taken place in the hierarchy of the STUDENT VOICE. J. Michael Norman has been named the new Managing Editor to succeed Michael Brecke who resigned to become the Editorial Editor.

Mrs. Helen Alexander will remain Editor-in-Chief. A new editorial position has also been formulated. Carol Runnoe, a freshman from Seymour, has been named Feature Editor for this coming quarter. Norman, a sophomore jour-alism and political science major from Lake Villa, Illinois is in his second year as a VOICE writer. He was a general assignment reporter and sports columnist previously. A graduate of Elmhurst High School in Lake Zurich, Illinois, Norman was also the editor of his high school paper.

As far as the Voice goes, he feels that "it should and must become a major facet in moulding student opinion if it is to be effective."

Runnoe, a freshman journalism major, has also been a general assignment reporter working basically on features. She was editor of her high school's weekly newspaper in Seymour, Wis. Runnoe will handle all the special stories for the VOICE in the forthcoming issues.

Jazz Band Presents RF Concert

The Wisconsin State University-River Falls Jazz Band, which this week played concerts at several Wisconsin high schools, will present its home concert next Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom.

Besides the sounds of the big jazz band, a small combo, which allows more freedom for the players, will also be heard.

The program will include several pieces that could be classified as "third stream" composition. This term is used to refer to a type of music that contains elements of serious music of the European tradition such as counterpoint and thematic development, as well as stylistic elements one would expect to find in jazz.

Admission to the concert is 50 cents for students and $1 for adults. Tickets can be purchased from any member of the band.

UAB Releases

Album Winners

The University Activities Board (UAB) announced today the winners of the five Glenn Yarbrough record albums. The audience which attended the recent concert by Yarbrough signed up for the drawing which took place last week.

The winners are Clayton Case, Dennis Brown, Dick O'Leary, Karol Sir and Bonnie Thiessa. The winners may pick up the albums in the Student Center Director's office upon proof of identity.

River Falls to Offer New Ave. in Speech

A new approach is being used by two members of the Speech Department, Dean Betz and Clifford Vogen in a program planned to help students and adults who stutter.

The director of the program, Betz is also the originator of the method to be used. He is instructor of speech pathology and supervisor of student clinicians in public schools. He has had 14 years experience working with people who had speech or hearing difficulties. Before coming to River Falls he has worked in public schools colleges, and schools for the handicapped in Michigan and California. Vogen was the director of stuttering therapy at Northern Illinois University speech department during the 1965-1966 school year.

There are three main areas in which are found the causes of stuttering-environment, psychological or physiological. In the latter area there are numerous possible causes of stuttering. Another theory is that stuttering is learned. There is a study being conducted at the University of Minnesota in connection with this theory.

This program is offered for both students at WSU-RF and adults in the area who stutter. Betz estimated that there is on campus about 10 to 15 students who stutter to some extent. He said that some stutterers may have received some help but which they may have thought didn't help them much. Even though some stutterers think that not much can be done for them they can be helped.

Even severe stutterers, people who stutter on 25 to 30% of their words can be helped, said Betz. And none is too old to be helped. He mentioned one man whom he had worked with who had been a severe stutterer. This man's stuttering was greatly deminished and he was 56 years old.

The method to be used in this program will be one of both group and individual sessions. There will be group meetings during the day also in the evenings so participants will be able to attend whichever meeting is most convenient for him. Each person will receive individual attention at the clinic. In addition a senior, who will be working in speech therapy after graduation, will be working with each participant. In everyday situations. In this way each person will receive individual attention and assistance in various situations and activities rather than just in the clinic alone. Any one who is interested in the program should contact Vogen or Betz at the Speech Office, room 211 South Hall or call extension 240. Individual conferences will be held between now and Christmas. The first sessions of the program will be held early in January.

"A WOMAN" by Wayne F. King.

Art Major Wins WSU Exhibition

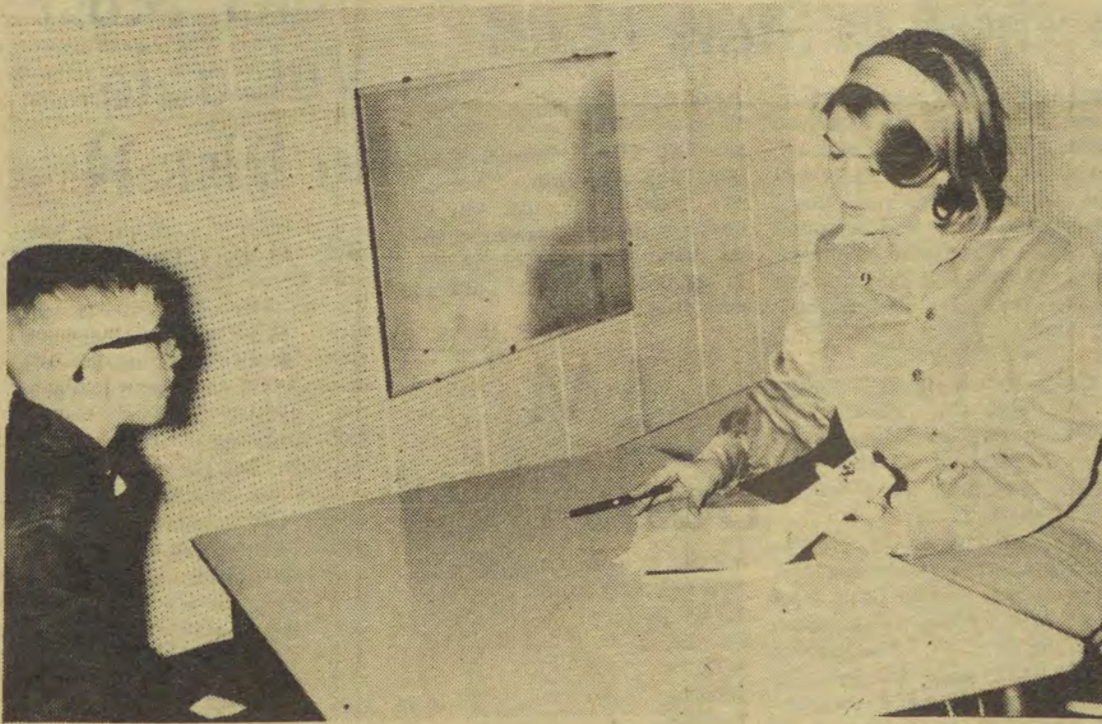

Wayne King, a senior art major from St. Paul, recently won a $65 Reeve Memorial Union prize for a textile piece entered in the first annual Wisconsin State University Craft Exhibit, held on the WSU-Oshkosh campus.

The piece, entitled "A Woman", represents "a snobbish, dirty old woman" being protected by a man. It is a tapestry done in the Gobelin technique, a traditional French method of weaving. Gordy knots and wrapping were also used. Cotton warp was used for the woof thread and cotton, wool, and silk for the warp.

Wayne, who spends much of his on-campus time at Dawson House, is teaching a class in tapestry this quarter. He hopes to enter graduate school in California at the end of this year.

Another of Wayne's works, titled "Female Beast" was purchased by the University for its permanent student gallery.

A total of 171 works were entered by students from seven of Wisconsin's nine state universities.

JEAN DALE (r), a junior, reads to Terry Weber in a session last Tuesday in the new Speech Clinic. Over 40 individuals with speech or hearing difficulties have signed up for therapy.

Falcon BB Team Drops First Five

By Steve Walters
Voice Staff Writer

WINONA 83, RIVER FALLS 80
George Voss, sophomore transfer from La Crosse State University hit 17 out of 23 field goals and added five free throws to total 39 points in a nip-and-tuck battle with Minnesota's Winona State.

The opener, played at Winona, showed Coach Bob Swander what he could look for during the season and was his initial trial as RF's head coach.

Swander started forwards Paul Kulig and Gene Ostermann, center, Jim Bloomquist, and guards Pete Palmer and Voss. The only starters remaining from last year's lineup were Kulig, junior from Independence, and Bloomquist, senior from St. Paul.

BETHEL 96, RIVER FALLS 82
With Voss' accuracy and hot streak apparently off, the Falcons cooled considerably down and had to play catch-up against Bethel. Outmanned and hurt by costly errors, Coach Swander had to watch the visiting squad widen their margin in the final quarter in the opener of RF's home season.

The first half was marked by Bethel's determined bid to foul out. No fewer than 19 personal fouls were called on the visitors in the first half. Three Bethel starters fouled out, but RF could only make 24-44 from the foul line. After River Falls cut the first-half margin to six, the half lead grew to 49-40.

Falcon high-scoring honors in the Bethel game went to forward Paul Kulig with 18, guard Pete Palmer had 15--mostly on long shots. Big gun for the visitors was 6'5" forward Ron Pederson who had 25 points, 19 of them in the first half.

Twice in the final half the Falcons narrowed the visitors' lead to four, only to have it jump back up to the final 96-82 margin.

STEVENS POINT 110, RIVER FALLS 90

River Falls opened their conference season at Stevens Point December 3 with a 110-90 drubbing at the hands of the Pointers. The loss made the Falcons 0-3 overall a 0-1 conference slate.

Strangely enough, the Falcons led for most of the opening half, leading 22-16 at the end of the first quarter. With two minutes left in the half, however, the lead dipped and the Pointers took a 45-38 halftime margin.

High-man for the visiting Falcons was freshman John Wolf with 19 points. Following Wolf was subguard Randy Hall and center Bloomquist, both tallying 16. Voss added four field goals and six free throws for 14 tallies. Scoring was balanced for the home Pointers, who had two starters with more than 20 points and two with 18.

WHITEWATER 84, RIVER FALLS 68

The Warhawks of Whitewater pulled away from the Falcons in the second half to score a 84-68 victory on Friday night.

The Falcons rallied from a 41-31 halftime deficit to overtake the Warhawks 46-44 with 15:50 remaining, John Wolf, who tossed in 19 points, put the Falcons to within one 41-40 with a layup. Jim Bloomquist knotted the score at 42-42 with a jumper with 16 1/2 minutes left. Wolf scored the go ahead points and Paul Kulig gave the Falcons their last lead with two free throws for a 48-46 lead.

The Falcons came to within three at 60-57 with 7 1/2 minutes left when George Voss poured one through. Fast breaking and easy layups let the Warhawks break away to a commanding

Sharing scoring honors for the Falcons was Paul Kulig with 19 points. Also in double figures were Bloomquist with 10 and Voss with 13.

Leading the Warhawks was Ken Ritzenhaler, Baraboo freshman, with 24 points. Dennis Brazil Milwaukee freshman, tossed in 17 points.

PLATTEVILLE 88, RIVER FALLS 71

The Pioneers of Platteville pinned the third straight conference defeat on the Falcons last Saturday night, 88-71.

The Falcons once again kept close all of the first half and the first seven minutes of the second before fading. The Falcons were still in the game with 13 minutes left down 51-49. But the outside shooting of the Pioneers clicked and when it didn't they controlled the boards.

John Wolf, River Falls freshman, led the Falcon attack with 22 points. Kulig followed with 14 and Gary Christenson, Barron freshman, and Randy Hall, St. Croix Falls senior, each added 10.

Platteville at one time in the game had three Milwaukee Lincoln freshmen in the lineup. Carl Gatlin paced the attack with 22 points, followed by Gary Olson with 20 and Greg Traupmann with 14.

The Falcons will travel to Menomonie this Thursday to face the league-leading Stout Bluedevils.

JOHN WOLF, No. 40, starts a drive against Platteville who beat the Falcons 88-71. Wolf, River Falls freshman guard, scored 22 points.

Grapplers Win 2 of 3, Place Third In State Meet

By Ed Cliver
Voice Sports Writer

The Falcon wrestling team won two of its three matches in a quadrangular meet at Oshkosh State last Saturday. River Falls dropped its first contest by a 20-9 margin to powerful Augustana College (Rock Island, Illinois) before topping Oshkosh 22-9 and Northern Michigan 24-5.

Top performers for the matmen were 130-pounder Jim Bantz who won twice--pinning once, Bob Olson who took three straight in the 137 weight class, and Ron Knutson who was undefeated, winning two, in the 177 pound weight class.

Jerry Knode, ordinarily a 191 pound wrestler, wrestled in the heavyweight division for RF in place of Steve Schmidt, Wisconsin Intercollegiate Champion, who was ruled ineligible on academic grounds. Knode won two matches and narrowly missed a third.

Results by class of the matches area as follows (RF grapplers listed first):

AUGUSTANA 20, RIVER FALLS 9

Moll, 5-3. 160--Houghdahl decisioned Howard, 13-7. 167--Nelson decisioned Hancock, 6-1. 177--Knutson decisioned Peterson, 5-0. Heavy--Knode dec. McKenzie, 5-0.

In other meet matches, Augustana beat Northern Michigan 23-6 and topped Oshkosh 31-7. Northern Michigan posted its only win of the day by beating winless Oshkosh 18-16.

In upcoming action, there will be a freshman meet with Milwaukee Institute of Technology this Friday at 7:30 in Karges Gym. Also here, Saturday night the RF varsity take on Augsburg College at 7:30.

Thus far the wrestling squad has been fortunate in avoiding serious injuries. Tom Alex and Jerry Knode both sustained ankle troubles early in the season but have been able to wrestle. The eligibility rulings, however, have accounted for two losses. Besides Schmidt, the squad lost 130-pounder Mark Leeman.

The 130-pound weight class has suddenly has become rather crowded. Competition will be stiff among Jim Bantz, who performed well in the Oshkosh quadrangular; Brian Hass, who wrestled in the Wisconsin Intercollegiate; and Jim Hammes, freshman standout last year at 137 pds.

Top team records to date are Bob Olson's 6-1 slate, Jerry Knode's 6-3, and Ron Knutson's 4-2. Both Tom Alex and Tom Madison have 4-3 records. The current starting lineup includes three freshmen, three sophomores, juniors, and two seniors.

This Saturday River Falls will host and interstate high school invitational with 15 Wisconsin and Minnesota schools entering grapplers. Action will be climaxed by the River Falls-Augsburg varsity meet.

Coach Byron James' Wisconsin State University - River Falls wrestlers took third place honors in a 12 team annual state collegiate wrestling meet held at Stout University Dec. 2, 3.

The meet was won by the University of Wisconsin with a total of 98 points, second place went to the WSUC defending champion Superior, with 66. The Falcons had 46 points which was good for the third spot. River Falls scored its points on 1 first place finish, 1 second and 3-4th place finishes.

Winning the top spot was freshman heavyweight Steve Schmidt from St. Paul. He won his first match over Baker from Oshkosh in a fall at the 6:43 mark, won the second match by default over a Platteville wrestler and won the championship match on a decision over Flesch of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Senior Bob Olson, a 137 pounder from Baldwin and a second place finisher in the conference the past season, won second in his division. He moved into the final round with wins over Boehm from Stevens Point and Tessler of Marquette. He lost to Superior wrestler Mike Gar-side in the championship round.

The WSU-RF freshmen wrestlers under Rial Smith won 7 out of 9 matches to pin Concordia 23 to 6. Winning on decisions were Ed Cliver, Craig Swenson, Dave Johnson, Bruce Christenson, Dave Olson and Will Edwards while Ed Houghdahl pinned his man. The two losses were on decisions by Glen Denk and Tom Jilek.

Baier Most Valuable In Dist. 14

Jim Baier, a hard hitting full-back who set a flock of school, state and national records playing for the Wisconsin State University - River Falls Falcons received another honor when he was named the most valuable player in the Wisconsin District 14 of the giate Athletics.

River Falls guard, Dave Imrie, shared the outstanding lineman award with Stout's Terry Hickman. Tied for 3rd with two other linemen was another Falcon gridder, Dick Slevert, who is captain elect for the 1967 season. Joe Jilek, the 1966 Falcon co-captain, tied with St. Norbert tackle Tim Houlton for the outstanding defenseman award.

5 Falcons Make All-Dist.

Five members of the Wisconsin State University - River Falls football team were placed on the 22-man District 14 NAIA All-Star football team. Champion Whitewater also had five on the squad which is made up of 11 offensive and 11 defensive men. Stout, the 1966 king, had 4, St. Norbert and Platteville each placed two players and Carthage, Oshkosh, Stevens Point and Superior one each.

Falcons selected were Jim Baier who gained over 1500 yards rushing and set a number of conference and national records, Ted Ragatz, captain elect for 1967 Dick Slevert, and outgoing captains Joe Jilek and Dave Imrie. Slevert is a junior, the rest are seniors.

Swimmers Lose to Gustavus, La Crosse

The Falcon swimming team opened up their season by dropping meets to Gustavus Adolphus 59-43 on Dec. 6 and to La Crosse 74-30 last Saturday.

The Falcons dropped the meets despite several individual firsts as depth played an important factor. Most of the swimmers, Coach Mike Davis pointed out, must come back in three separate events while the other team can rest its swimmers. "It's possible for us to take every individual first and still lose the meet on the basis of points for second and third," the new swimming coach stated.

Jim Daniels, Bayport, Minn. took two firsts against Adolphus: 160 individual medley and the 200 yard backstroke. Other Falcons taking first were: Gary Synott, St. Paul freshman, in the 200 yard butterfly and Mike White, Stillwater senior, in the 200 yard breaststroke.

White also pulled down a second in the 1000 yard freestyle while Synott took second in the 200 yard freestyle. Doug Caldwell took two thirds, one in the 60 yard freestyle and the other in the 100 yard freestyle. Phil Foster, River Falls senior, took second in the one meter diving. Brad Ruona, So. St. Paul freshman, took second in the 500 freestyle, third in the 1000 freestyle.

Al Gobert, St. Paul junior, took third in the 200 backstroke and fourth in the 200 breaststroke. Brian Petersburg, River Falls sophomore, placed fourth in the 60 freestyle, 160 ind. medley and 100 freestyle. Stan Peterson, River Falls sophomore, placed third in the 200 freestyle. The 30 points scored against La Crosse was the most ever against an Indian team which held the Falcons to 17 last year. Due to the lack of depth the Falcons had no entry in the 400 medley so RF was down before it had begun to swim. Gary Synott came in second in the 200 freestyle with his best time by six seconds in the event. Doug Caldwell, Minneapolis sophomore, took first in the 50 freestyle in a time that tied his previous best.

Jim Daniels took first in the individual medley beating his previous best time by four seconds. Synott took first in the 200 butterfly and second in the 500 freestyle. Daniels came back with a second in the 200 backstroke and Caldwell, second in the 100 freestyle.

Davis, in an attempt to build up the swimming team in the future had contacted every high school coach in Wisconsin and Minnesota and is planning a high school meet tentatively scheduled for next November.

Commenting on the team's efforts so far, Davis said that "our team is in better shape than any other--it has to be because of the lack of depth."

The swimmers travel to Menomonie this Wednesday where they will take on the Blue Devils at 4 p.m.

AN UNIDENTIFIED SWIMMER raced for the finish line in the Falcon home opener against La Crosse. Falcons took several firsts but lost to the Indians because of lack of depth.

RF Skates Against Macalester Wednesday

The crashing and banging coming from Ramer Field is not caused by a demolition crew but merely the University hockey team which has begun practice for its opening game Wednesday, Dec. 14 at Macalester College.

Organized practice began Nov. 30 when the team traveled to St. Paul to scrimmage Gustavus Adolphus College at Aldrich Arena. The Gusties were champions of the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference last year. The Falcons had not been on ice yet this season while the Gusties had been working out for three weeks. In spite of this the Falcons looked impressive. They were obviously the more rugged, hard-hitting team, even though out-skated due to the lack of practice.

Pete Boelter, all-city goalie for Harding High of St. Paul, did an outstanding job in the nets for the Falcons.

Returning veterans from last year's squad are: Jack Norquay, all-city center at St. Paul Washington High; Jon Swenson and Shorty Vogland, former teammates and stars for the South St. Paul High Packers; rugged Craig Williams from Concordia of St. Paul; Oris Abrahamson and John Humphrey, both all-city at Harding High; Gene Hoff, former captain at North St. Paul; Dave Arntzen, Johnson High of St. Paul; Jerry Coe, North St. Paul; and Keith Hoffman, Hill High School of St. Paul.

Besides this strong group of returning regulars, several newcomers are working out with the squad. Two promising freshmen are Nick DeRose and Jim Brindley.

The Pucksters are coached by Dr. Walter H. Granata, assistant professor of geology. The rink is located at the entrance to the parking area at Ramer Field.

Being a relatively new sport at this University, the hockey program has many problems. The budget is definitely limited. The entire budget for the hockey season is less than South St. Paul High School allocates for hockey sticks and tape alone! While the budget is limited the work is definitely not. All the work of putting up the rink itself, flooding it and shoveling it has been done by Dr. Granata and the team members.

The first home game of the season will be Saturday, Dec. 17 against St. John's University. The attitude and spirit of the team are high and the members are looking forward to a successful year. There is a strong possibility of an invitation to a tournament to be held later in the season at the St. Paul Auditorium. The other teams would be Gustavus, Superior State University, and Notre Dame.

The Falcon gymnastic team took second in a triangular meet held at Whitewater last Saturday. The Falcons were edged out by Milwaukee Institute of Technology 124-117. Whitewater placed third with 108 points.

Bill Driscoll, New Richmond junior, paced the Falcons taking second in the free exercise; second on the trampoline; third on the high bar and tumbling; fourth on the still rings and third on the Parallel bars.

Wayne Schrubbe, Franksville sophomore, took first on the side horse and fifth on high bar. Larry Cipov, Chetek sophomore, took second on the long horse and third on the side horse.

Jim Newman, Milwaukee junior, pulled down second on the parallel bars and fifth on the still rings. Bruce Hendricks, Luck sophomore, placed second in tumbling, fourth in free exercise, trampoline and fifth in the long horse and sixth on the still rings.

The Falcon gymnastics lost their first conference meet to Eau Claire, 98-37, on Saturday, Dec. 3. Bill Hastings, Lombard, Ill. sophomore, took first on the trampoline and second in tumbling to pace the Falcons.

Sports Commentary

by Chris Becker
Voice Sports Writer

There are times in the career of any sports writer when he feels he must throw his objectivity and himself out the window. The football season has ended and my time has come. And so, let the following serve as my farewell to football.

Five years ago this week the student body at the University of Marquette in Milwaukee was given a severe jolt. The school's administration announced that they had decided to drop football. The student body was irate but the administration remained firm. They had little choice. For several seasons Marquette football had been operating in the red.

I happened to be on campus the day after the decision was announced. It was pathetic almost as if the entire school had closed down. In the cafeteria I overheard two students discussing their reactions to the decision. Finally there was a pause as if neither of them knew what to say. Finally one of them remarked, "You know, it was like hearing that your best friend had died."

For four years I have been chasing the Falcon football team up and down the sidelines. I would like to say that I know them well. But I don't. All I know is that football players are motivated by many things.

Ted Ragatz was a fantastically stubborn player for an enormous amount of pride. He liked to gamble, and if his gamble didn't pay off he would try all the harder the next time.

Then there was Joe Jilek. As co-captain Joe did something none of his recent predecessors have ever done--he took charge. He assumed the entire responsibility for making sure the team was "up" for each game.

Ed Pohl. In the four years I have known Ed Pohl I have never heard him say an unkind word to or about anyone. If there ever was a player in the history of the game who could knock an opponent flat on his back and do it in a kind way, it was Ed Pohl.

Dick Sievert. Along with Steve Rhiel, Dick is the most soft-spoken man on the team. His enjoyment of the game came from blocking for Jim Baier. Dick set up at least half of "Chubby's" touchdowns this year. I'm sure Baier would be the first one to agree with me.

And finally, Jim Baier. What can I say about "Chubby" that hasn't already been said. He loves to win, but if the team loses, he doesn't let it eat at him the way some of the other players do. He knows how to laugh, even if the joke's on him.

What was most important about this season was not the Falcons' second place finish. It goes much deeper than that. It was the fact that the team as a whole made a committant and lived by it. They made up their minds to truly love the game and play it for all it was worth. In the past individual players have made this commitment but never the team as a whole.

In years past many players who made their committments felt betrayed when after one loss the team fell apart. These players then began blaming each other or blaming the coaches, which further aggravated the situation. The rest of the season the team just went through the motions.

If any of these players are reading this column, I would say to you that you need not hold your bitterness any longer. Your sacrifices have been justified. You have helped the team over the hump. They have conquered their greatest opponent--themselves, and their own vulnerability. From now on they can be beaten, but never broken.

No sir! My best friend isn't dead. He is smiling and laughing because he never felt better in his life.

Art Is Sideline

Perhaps one of the greatest football players in the state of Wisconsin and indeed the best ever to come out of WSU-River Falls is a young man named James "Cub" Baier. His feats of prowess are known far and wide on the gridiron but Baier has a little known sideline. He also happens to be an artist. He is "strictly amateur" as he puts it and doesn't have any desire to be a professional but would rather keep it as a hobby.

The red haired, freckle faced Baier, who was recently named the most valuable player in the conference, has been dabbling in art for two or three years and has art as a minor. "I concentrate basically in drawing and prints. I'm not too good in any one area but I like to dabble around," he said.

Baier, unlike many artists, does not have one deep vein of symbolism running throughout his work but draws objects that befit his mood at a certain moment. "I don't try to really express something but I just sit down and start drawing."

As the nation's small college rushing leader, "Chubby" has gained a certain notoriety as a violent man to run up against. Off the field, however, Baier remains basically a quiet, unassuming individual. The only clue to his athletic ability is his powerful frame meaty frame.

Baier's art in some cases reveals his character when he draws pictures of his fellow teammates. He has also done some drawings of pro football players but like his other work it is for his own enjoyment and he has no ambition to sell it or do it for a living. Instead, he will become a physical education teacher and perhaps a coach. "Cub" has a unique philosophy when looking at his art work. "If it's good I keep it, if it's bad I'll throw it away." Not like on the gridiron where he is a man of few mistakes.

Feeling "Out of it" Lately?

By Le Verne Herberg
Voice Staff Writer

Have you been feeling "out of it" lately? Are you beginning to think that you just don't fit in anywhere? Well, I've got the answer for you--join the Ski Club, and you'll feel right at home. Membership in the Ski Club is only $3, which is very inexpensive for the amount of fun that can be had throughout the year. A few single-day trips and perhaps even a weekend trip with ski clubs from other universities are just some of the many events being planned by this organization. The annual ski day trip is perhaps the biggest event sponsored by the club. On this day, all interested students are invited to travel with the Ski Club to a ski resort for a fun-filled day of skiing and dancing at a chalet rented for the occasion. Reduced rates for transportation and tow tickets are made available to Ski Club members for the various trips.

One of the most important features to be noted about the Ski Club is that you do not have to know how to ski before joining. Members of the club will gladly give lessons to anyone interested in learning the sport.

If you would like more information regarding the Ski Club, please feel free to attend the meetings held the 2nd and 4th Tuesday of every month at 6:30 p.m. in Room 208 of the Student Center, or talk to the Ski Club officers who include: Dave Sharpe, president; Chuck Uhrhammer, vice president; Cleo Goers, secretary; and Sonny Knole, treasurer.

Prologue to be Released in Jan. Due to Delay in Printing Order

It was announced today by Chris Becker, co-editor of the fall Prologue, that the fall issue will not be in the student's hands until after the holiday vacation.

According to Becker two of the major factors relating to the delay were "changes in the state printing laws requiring all copy to be sent to Madison before a printing order is granted (has resulted) in a delay in copy" and "we could not decide as to makeup we wanted until after we received student contributions."

Along with Becker as the Prologue editor for this fall was Ann Yoost. She resigned, however, and Libby Miller, junior from Clintonville, Wis. has been named to replace her.

The Prologue, which is an anthology of original writing published and paid for by the students of WSU-RE, operates on an annual budget of $1500. "It is not the job as co-editor to praise the work of some students at the expense of others. However, I cannot help but feel particularly proud of the general high quality of recent contributions . . . Frankly, right now I feel like an expectant mother," Becker said.

Becker also stated that freshmen have as much chance of having their works published as anyone. "Freshmen are generally given the benefit of the doubt when it comes to works that fall on the borderline between acceptance and non-acceptance.

400 Attend College Day

Over 400 high school seniors, parents and high school guidance counselors registered Saturday morning December 10 in the Student Center ballroom for the annual "Go to College Day".

At 9:15 a.m. the University Jazz Band under the direction of Charles Dalkert started off the days events on a happy note. At 9:45 a.m. the Student Senate president Keith Rodli and the Administrative Vice-President Dr. Wayne Wolfe officially welcomed the seniors, parents, and counselors to the University and to the events of the day.

At 10 a.m. the program took on a more serious and informative aspect for seniors and parents with a panel discussion by four professors representing various departments. Mrs. Lois Heilborn, assistant English professor, Dr. Daniel Brown, education professor, Dr. Richard Swenson, chemistry professor, and Dr. Leland Wittwer, animal science professor discussed what courses are available at the University for incoming freshmen and how these courses of study can be applied after graduation.

The high school counselors at this time were in an informal meeting with the academic vice-president and the financial aids director discussing the new dimensions in the University curriculum and the various sources of financial aid available to high school seniors. At 11:15 a.m. the counselors again met informally with the University personnel to discuss how to better help freshmen with problems common to their first year of higher learning. Directly following this session a high school college information exchange took place, in which the high school and university guidance personnel met to discuss how to improve counseling service on both levels.

After the luncheon the counselors, seniors, and parents met in Karges Center for a panel discussion moderated by Dr. Nancy Knaack, assistant dean of students, along with four upper classmen discussing the students view of college. In the courses of the discussion Dr. Knaack cleared up many of the problems of both parents and seniors which often arise when it is time for the prospective freshman to enter a college atmosphere.

At 2:30 p.m. an audience participation program entitled "Quiz the Deans" was scheduled for parents and counselors only. Composed of the deans of arts and sciences, education and agriculture, this panel was available to answer any questions asked of them regarding the past events of the day or any other matter that was not clear concerning the policies of the school. The seniors at the time were invited to attend interest group sessions to talk with University faculty members representing 24 departments and subjects. Prospective students were given an idea of how a regular college class is conducted.

At 3:30 p.m. a coke and coffee hour was scheduled in various hospitality rooms in the Student Center. All guests were invited to the 8 p.m. basketball game with admission by name tags. River Falls played Platteville in Karges Gymnasium.

Melvin Germanson registrar said this is the first year that the American College Test (ACT) and College Day took place on the same day. He also said that if a senior was unable to attend Saturday's session there will be another "Go to College Day" on Feb. 4, 1967.

PROSPECTIVE FROSH? . . . A member of the science department talks to a group of high school seniors during the Go-to-College program sponsored here last weekend.

JIM LE BEAU from John F. Kennedy High School, Bloomington, Minn., was among the first to register at the WSU-RF College Day. Ann Sjowall (foreground) and Becky Peterson from River Falls are assisting in registration.
