Social Science Department Plans 'Grass Roots Political Conference'

Phillip Kuehn, Patrick Lucy, and Gaylord Nelson—three top political personalities in Wisconsin—have accepted invitations to participate in a new event at River Falls: a "Grass Roots Political Conference". The announcement was made last week by the social science department of the college.

This will be the second annual meeting of this type sponsored here by that department. Last year's "Conference on Conformity in American Life" featured editor William T. Evjue of the Madison Capital Times.

The purpose of the conference, planned for Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 15 and 16, is "to stimulate political discussion and participation on campus", according to Walker D. Wyman, chairman of the social science department. Besides RFSC students and faculty, others invited are students from La Crosse, Eau Claire, Macalester, Hamline, and other regional colleges. Several events will also be open to the public.

Current plans call for a Wednesday night dinner for campus Young Democrats and Young Republicans, featuring an outside speaker. Thursday morning State Senator Gaylord Nelson, Democratic candidate for governor, will address an all-school convocation. Thursday afternoon will be highlighted by two different events: a panel discussion of grass roots politics by various political science profs from the region, and a debate between Patrick Lucy, state chairman of the Democratic party, and Phillip Kuehn, state GOP head.

The conference will be climaxed with a speech by a nationally-known Republican on Thursday night.

VACATION

Thanksgiving Vacation officially begins at 5 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 26, and term tests will resume Monday at 8 a.m.

Because of Thanksgiving Vacation and tests, the next issue of the Student Voice will not be published until Dec. 9.

Conclusion:

End of Term To Be Final

by Bob Enstad

As the finals approach, examinations are the topic of many conversations. Using the "man in the street" technique, The Student Voice has gathered a few of these random thoughts on testing.

A number of students representing varying curriculums were asked to state what they particularly liked or disliked about the finals. They were further asked to give suggestions on changes that could be made.

Many students indicated satisfaction with the present system of testing. Some felt that too much emphasis was placed on the finals and not enough on acquiring learning from the course.

On this subject, Mike Dodge, a junior from Hudson enrolled in a history curriculum said, "The factors necessary for passing an exam are not the same factors present in an education. A person doesn't need to be educated to pass an exam, primarily he needs

State Group OK's Building Plans

At a meeting of the State Building Commission, Oct. 25, action was taken in the preparation of detail plans and specifications for the new physical education and health building which is soon to be built on campus.

Along with this decision the Commission granted permission to the Board of Regents of State Colleges to advertise for bids on the laboratory school and science building at Superior.

The commission appropriated $36,900 for the River Falls Health and Physical Education building plans last August when it also appropriated $15,000 for preliminary plans for a campus school building here.

The Health and Physical Education building and the campus school will cost $1,000,000 each.

RF Debaters to Travel To Bradley University

The River Falls debate squad will leave Thursday for the national debate tournament at Bradley University in Peoria, Ill. Friday and Saturday. Approximately 73 colleges and universities from all parts of the nation will participate in this tourney.

Four teams from RFSC consisting of Arlin Albrecht, Myron Moen, Lewis Schoenwetter, Dick Waak, Louis Pape, David Madis, Muriel Peterson, and one other student still to be chosen, will participate in debate. Other events they will enter are discussion, extemporaneous speaking, and "listening."

"Listening" is a new idea being tried this year. The students will listen to an extremely biased discussion, then a test will be given to discover the accuracy of the students' ability to comprehend what was said.

Accompanying the squad will be Walter E. Simonson, debate advisor, and Wilfred C. Harris, of the psychology department. Mr. Simonson will be an "A" class debate judge and Dr. Harris will help judge "B" class debates.

Though this is the debate squad's fourth tournament this year, it is the first major debate of the season.

THE EDITOR SPEAKS-

"I've got so much to do, I don't know how I'm going to get it all done. And I'm not doing anything about it." How many times have you heard these remarks around campus in the last few weeks?

As the end of the term approaches (much too soon for most) many students are realizing that the juggling of their social, extra-curricular activities and academic schedules was not too successful. In the rush of Homecoming, flu epidemics and the like, their studies have fallen down. They have, as one could say, "met their Waterloo." Why? Rationalizing they say that this or that club takes so much of their time, or that they have to be in the mood to study. Perhaps the answer lies in procrastination.

Now, when the reports, outside readings, and term papers are due, students are coming out of their fog and realizing that they are behind. They have concentrated so on not letting people in various organizations down, that they don't consider the fact that they are letting themselves down. Education is not something that diffuses from book to brain without any effort on the part of the individual. It's easy to slide through classes not doing more than is absolutely called for, but is one getting the most out of his education that way?

Perhaps this is the appropriate time to extend congratulations to the 22 River Falls seniors who will be listed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" this year. Here are the students who have managed to juggle those schedules successfully. They have taken advantage of all the aspects of college life—they are the "leaders of tomorrow."

In the last few days of this term, take a few moments out and take stock of what you have accomplished. If you are disappointed, perhaps a few good resolutions on Dec. 1, rather than on Jan. 1, would prove helpful.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS BY BIBLER

Toe-Tapping Mood Caught At 'Doc' Evans Jazz Concert

by Gary Madson

"Doc" Evans and his seven man Dixieland band had most everyone in a toe-tapping mood last Wednesday evening as he and the band described "The World of Buddy Bolden."

In his description of Buddy Bolden, Mr. Evans used quite a lot of interesting background concerning the beginning of jazz. Along with this, the band played several different types of jazz as they were originally played in the 1890's in New Orleans. He told stories about where and how jazz was played in its place of origin.

From this point, "Doc" began quite a lengthy and detailed explanation of the part that each instrument has in the make up of a modern jazz band.

Mr. Evans went on to explain that the jazz norm is built on New Orleans style, and that the new developments in jazz today are just steps in one direction or another, from this norm.

The band played selections which included everything from "cakewalk" to funeral music. Every mode seemed equally accepted by the audience.

At the conclusion of a very enjoyable and informal program, Evans asked for requests from the audience. It seemed inevitable that one of the songs requested should be, "When the Saints Go Marching In", which proved to be the most popular piece of the evening.

This type of convocation was a welcome change from the usual lecturer or dance-group type of thing that we are so accustomed to having in the past.

Knowledge for College

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving means many things to many people. To some, food. To others, a football game; a family reunion; an all-day sleep; a trip; but to a few (a very few) it brings back memories of amateurish hunting excursions at the old farm.

In memory, the day is always a perfect one conforming to a mental pattern of details arranged as they should be. Let's see! There should be a fairly sharp tang in the air; a bright sun; a thin covering of snow; corn shocks in rows; new rabbit tracks; a whir of wings through the wood-lot trees; a woodpecker sounding off on a dead oak; a shot at a bounding bundle of fur that keeps on bounding, and finally a return back to a house full of gay visiting relatives intent on filling each passing minute with laughter, flowing conversation, and trips to and from the kitchen where the turkey and the pies await the dinner hour.

The greetings are, "What did you get?" "Fine hunters you are!" "You couldn't hit a barn door!" etc., etc., but the morning has been complete. The traditional Thanksgiving hunt! Oh boy! Wasn't it great to be free of pavements, cars, elevators, telephones and radio? Three hours out of the year's total, but three hours to remember for another 12 months.

You say, "Thanksgiving should be a day of spiritual appreciation and not a day to engage in trivial activities." Yes, you are right, but sometimes activities that seem trivial have meanings that do serve spiritual needs. So it is with the three-hour morning trip! With every step one adds a little to the appreciative state of mind and to the emotional peace that Mother Nature gives to those who seek close communion with the eternal scheme of things.

Alumni to Return In Theatre Group

Two former River Falls students will return to their alma mater this winter as members of a theatre group production of Robinson Jeffer's version of "Media". Lorraine Steiner (class of '50) and Alan Peabody (class of '51) have the leads in the play, which was first presented last spring at the University of Minnesota as Miss Steiner's production for her master's degree.

Miss Steiner, from Ellsworth, will receive a master's degree in theatre this fall from the University of Minnesota. Mr. Peabody is currently working on his Ph.D in speech there. He is from Star Prairie.

Seven people are included in the cast for "Media", which starred Judith Anderson when presented on Broadway. This will be the first time that Miss Steiner's production has been presented away from the University. The tentative date of the evening performance here has been set for early January. The production will be given in the Little Theatre.

The play is being sponsored on campus by the college drama department, and arrangements are being handled by Dr. Blanche Davis.

Education Has Lost Face Ballentine Warns Students

"American education is sort of hanging its head a little; it has lost face a bit," William Ballentine, former superintendent of schools in Menomonie, told approximately 400 students at River Falls Thursday, Mr. Ballentine, who has devoted 47 years to the education field, spoke in North Hall in connection with National Education Week.

"There are two new stars in the firmament, and we didn't put either of them there," he said in reference to Sputnik I and II. "They were put there by someone else—our very worst enemy. Everyone in the education business feels a little bit to blame."

The Wisconsin educator felt that the Russian Satellites proved something, something that has been hard for Americans to admit. That is, "that there are other people in the world who are just as smart as we are." He said that if the satellites taught Americans one thing—that there are other smart people in the world—they will be worth all they have cost us.

Speaking on "A Primer In Education," Mr. Ballentine pointed out that anybody can learn anything he wants to know. "The purpose of schools is for learning. The fundamental duty of a teacher is to create a desire on the part of the children to learn." He remarked that there ought to be something a little startling in teaching. "Nothing is so damaging as dullness. Something has to happen in the classroom"

Mr. Ballentine stressed that the teachers should teach the boys and girls what they can learn. "If you're going to be a school teacher, never get so old that you can't see the world through the eyes of a child. You need to see it as the child does."

"I believe that children want to learn and that they can best be taught by teachers that have learned. The schools of tomorrow are going to be just as good as the teachers that man the classrooms in the schools. They are going to be just as excellent as the teachers are excellent," Mr Ballentine said.

On Thursday afternoon townspeople and other interested area persons toured the campus, and visited classes.

Four From River Falls At Book Observance

Clifford Fortin of the library staff and Miss Marion Hawkins of the English department attended a Pre-Book Week Observance Tuesday at the University of Minnesota. Also attending were Mary Leschisin and Carole Lagerstrom, enrolled in the Children's Literature course.

Approximately 400 persons attended the activities which included book exhibits, a dinner and reviews of new books for children. Author Phyllis Fenner of Manchester, Vt., was the guest speaker at the dinner in Coffman Memorial union. She has written 24 books for children, the latest being "The Proof of the Pudding."

Special dinner guests were Minnesota authors of children's books, Dolly Boga, head of UNESCO pilot library for children at Delhi, India, and Amy Rustomji of Karachi, Pakistan.

ACEI Sponsors Book Display

A book fair will be sponsored by the ACEI Wednesday, Nov. 20, in observance of National Book Week, Nov. 18-23.

Books will be displayed in the Campus School from 1 to 4 p.m. Wednesday. The displays will be arranged on tables according to grade level in the hall outside the door of the appropriate class rooms.

College Sponsors Conference for H. S. Journalists

"Confessions of a Columnist", a talk by "Paul Light" of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, was a highlight of the River Falls State College, High School Publications Conference, Saturday.

Roy Dunlap, widely traveled Pioneer Press columnist Paul Light, gave his talk at a luncheon for high school students and faculty in the college cafeteria.

The conference was divided into two groups, the yearbook and newspaper.

Yearbook layout, formal and informal, were explained by Jerry Brown of the Greene Engraving Company, St. Paul F. G. Terpstra, representing the Inter-Collegiate Press of Kansas City, Mo., told the high school students and advisors what to look for in buying a yearbook.

College students participating in the conference were: Arlin Albrecht, Richard Doetkott, and Jim Laue. Mr. Doetkott covered photography for the yearbook and Mr. Albrecht for the newspaper. Mr. Laue spoke to both groups on sports coverage.

River Falls State College faculty members participating in the conference were: Walter J. Engler, who spoke on "To Report or Featurize", Hugo Hartig, "Developing a Nose for News", and Wayne Wolfe, "Making the Headline Do Its Job."

The day was concluded by a coke hour for students in the cafeteria and a coffee hour for advisors in the Calico Room.

Kalantari Wins Ping Pong Tournery

by Dick Enstad

After four hectic days of activity, River Falls State has found a ping pong champ—but not a new one. Iranian born Fred Kalantari successfully defended his crown Thursday evening by erasing young Don Thompson in the best-of-three finale, 21-19, and 21-18. Although Kalantari's success failed to raise many eyebrows, quite a bit of concern was centered around Thompson who up until this year was a relative "unknown" in the table tennis ranks.

In reaching the finals, the Hudson sophomore had to eliminate some of ping pong's best. Sam Perry, Don Swanson, Roger Raguse and Mike O'Connell all fell by the wayside in Thompson's surge. O'Connell, whose style was severely criticized by this writer in last week's Voice, put up the most heroic battle of the group. After losing the first game and falling behind 10-0 in the second (11-0 represents the proverbial "skunk"), Mike rallied to win and push the series to its limit before finally submitting.

Kalantari's road to victory was also blocked by many a formidable contender. Jack Neurer, Homer Aynazzadeh, Byron Botts, and Cliff Lindsay all made themselves known before conceding defeat. Fred emerged from a field of 27 hopefuls who had begun play on Monday afternoon. O'Connell and Lindsay who had lost to the runner-up and champion, respectively, in the semi-finals, squared off in the third place battle which saw O'Connell winning, 21-17 and 22-20.

Finally it must be recalled that the "frustrated forecasters" of the Student Voice sports department, although not picking a specific winner, predicted three of the four semi-finalists. This amounts to a phenomenal 75% accuracy which must rank this group among such all-time greats as Leahy, Lescoulie, Hickman, and Nesbitt.

Out on a Limb

by Dick Enstad

When the football season finally closes its doors this fall the sportswriters across the country will undoubtedly take it upon themselves to commit one of their yearly injustices—the selection of "coach of the year."

Some studious young mentor, who took 11 all-Americans in September and molded them into a winning team, will be singled out as the champion of his profession. He will be paraded down fraternity row and showered with confetti torn exclusively from the sports page of the local newspaper.

At the same time another coach, who took a handful of lettermen and a truckload of green sophomores and raised them from the also-ran category to the contender bracket, will go unnoticed.

Last year, Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee was accorded this honor for leading his Volunteers to the national crown. Few observers were surprised with Wyatt's success—however many an eyebrow was raised over Ara Parseghian's late season showing at Northwestern and the astounding climb of the Iowa Hawkeyes under Forest Evashevski. Evashevski and Parseghian are just a few. Will history repeat itself?

From here it looks as though the Rose Bowl may result in the greatest mismatch of the century. Ohio State or Michigan State will be "stunning" when they meet the Pacific Coast entry—probably "Oregon."

In the South, due to segregation laws, the Sugar Bowl will be nothing more than a backyard battle between two "rebel" elevens. Tennessee and Mississippi or some Southwesterner appear to be likely choices. Highly ranked Auburn is ineligible.

Falcon Fanfare

by Jim Laue

The switch from football to basketball season makes little difference in the athletic activity of Mick Lauber, for the Glenwood City sophomore is one of several RFSC athletes who excels in both sports.

LAUBER

After leading the Falcons in yards gained, punting and punt returns on the gridiron this fall, Mick is now being counted on to repeat the splendid performances he turned in on the hardwoods last winter. Lauber gained 272 yards rushing and 113 passing from the halfback and quarterback spots, punted 18 times for a 35.5 average and returned six punts for an average of 18.5 yards to rank himself as top River Falls offensive back in the 1957 season.

HIS ANTICS on the basketball court last winter were no less impressive. He scored 299 points in 19 games for a 15.7 average, second only to center Dave Herum, who led the league. Mick hit 42 percent of his field goal attempts to rank third on the team, cashed in on 70 percent of his free throw tries for second place and was the team's third high rebounder.

BASKETBALL ROSTERS TO BE TURNED IN

All captains of intramural basketball teams are urged to get their complete rosters handed in to the athletic office no later than Friday, Nov. 22. Intramural director, Ben Bergsrud, said that action will not start until after the quarterly exams. Rosters are to include the full name of each player plus the team nickname which should be kept as short as possible.

Lauber is one of those players who always seem to have a "good year." His good-year policy began at Glenwood City high school where he earned a record 13 letters — four each in football, basketball and baseball and one in track. The 6-1, 180 pound athlete led the Glenwood City cage team in scoring for three seasons, playing every position on the club. In 1955 he tallied 43 points against New Richmond, a record which still stands as the third highest single-game point total in Middle Border conference history.

TOP SPORTING thrills in college include the 37 points he racked up against the Mankato cagers last winter and his 65-yard punt return for a touchdown against Stout this fall.

Predictions of things to come in Falcon athletics? Lauber frankly admits that next fall should be the year for a football championship. And, though hampered by inexperience now, the basketball team should be "running its opponents to death" by mid-season.

Bowling Team Captains Will Meet Wednesday

A meeting of all intramural bowling team captains and all prospective team captains will be held in the Calico Room Wednesday at 11 a.m. Don Patin announced that ABC bowling rules will be reviewed and that plans for a second bowling league will be discussed. If captains are unable to attend, a team member must be sent.

College Starts Basketball Season Nov. 21 With Macalester Cagers

by Milan Brecka

The River Falls State College basketball team will get its first taste of near-game conditions November 21 when they play Macalester in an afternoon scrimmage at Macalester. Coach Don Page said he could not announce a definite starting lineup for the opener November 28 at Augsburg until he had seen the players perform in the Macalester scrimmage. He did, however, name nine men who have the inside track on the starting positions.

Either Griff Howell (6'3") or Manley Olson (6'8") will receive the call at the pivot position. Howell is one of four returning lettermen and has looked impressive in pre-season drills. Olson still needs a lot of grooming, but Page feels with a little experience he could become one of the top-notch centers in the league. Olson's defensive and offensive play have improved steadily and he will definitely see action in the Augsburg game. Should Olson start at center, it is likely that Howell will be shifted to a forward spot to give added height and experience to the lineup.

Darrell Hart, Mick Lauber, and Mick Collins will share duties at the forward position. Hart, a 6'4" sophomore from Mondovi, is the second tallest player on the squad and is counted upon to be one of the top rebounders. Collins, though only a freshman, has impressed the Falcon coaching staff with his shooting and rebounding ability. Last season, Lauber averaged nearly 18 points per game which was second only to Dave Herum. The Glenwood City lad may be called upon to play guard as well as forward.

Any two of the four guard candidates may start in the Augsburg game. Jack Omer, a 5'9" sophomore letterman, is the most experienced of the group. Although he did not see much varsity action in the 1956-1957 campaign, he was a starter on the freshman team. Em Crowley possesses a deadly outside set shot and is a good ball handler. Vern Parker also handles the ball very well and will see considerable action. Freshman Mike Rice shows a lot of desire and is especially noted for his drive-in layups from the left hand side.

With so few lettermen returning, the Falcons cannot be rated a definite title-contending team. Page said he would certainly like to improve on last year's overall record of 10 wins and 10 defeats, but said he could promise nothing but an all-out effort by players and coaches alike. Much depends on the improvement of giant center Manley Olson. If he develops faster than expected, the picture might look considerably brighter.

MEET OUR COACH

Page comes to River Falls after compiling an impressive coaching record at Edgerton and Madison West high schools. Last year Madison West went all the way to state finals before bowing to Shawano 66-61. The team finished with a 21-5 record. The new coach graduated from Madison West high school in 1945 after playing on the state championship basketball team that year. After a year in the Navy, he enrolled at the University of Wisconsin. While there, he earned two letters in basketball and two in tennis. Page graduated with a B.S. degree in Phy Ed in 1950. He returned to get his master's degree in 1953. He and his wife have three children.

His first coaching duties were at Edgerton high school where he served as head basketball and baseball coach for three years. In two of the three years, his team reached the regional finals. The 1951-52 squad compiled an 18-3 record while winning the Southern 10 League title. The following year his team won the newly formed Badger Conference crown and finished with an overall record of 19-3.

During his three years at Edgerton, the baseball team won 26 games while losing only 13. In 1953 they reigned as conference champs and got as far as the section finals of the state baseball tourney.

In 1953 he took over as head basketball and tennis coach at Madison West. Page's basketball teams showed steady improvement reaching their peak last year when West finished second in the state as previously mentioned. The four year overall record for Page's tennis teams at West shows 42 dual meets won and only eight defeats with one meet ending in a tie.

Coach Page is looking forward to the coming WSC race as a real challenge. Never having coached college basketball before, he confessed that there was some doubt in his mind as to what it would really be like. However, after three weeks of practice, about the only difference that he notes is that college players need not drill so long on the fundamentals of the game as high school boys.

Stevens Point and Milwaukee are rated by Page to be the two toughest teams in the circuit this year but he said Eau Claire might also prove to be a title contender. The new coach feels that with so few lettermen returning to this year's team, improvement on last season's 10-10 record is questionable. However, he said it presents a real challenge but feels that with the co-operation of the entire team, Falcon fans will see plenty of exciting basketball this winter.

Bill Urban, a social science senior from Thorp, objects to courses that base the grade almost entirely upon the final exam. This practice permits a person to "cram" at the end of the quarter and get a decent grade on the test.

Gary Jensen, a senior agriculture student from Amery said, "Under our present system of finals, a student can easily "crib." We need better rooms to give the tests."

Ella Mae Taylor, sophomore from River Falls enrolled in speech and English said, "I don't like having more than one two-hour test in a row. I also dislike classes that continue until noon of a day when the testing begins at 12:30 p.m."

Another River Falls sophomore, economics student Dave Knott said, "I like a test that can be easily covered and checked over in the allotted time for testing. But the test should cover all phases of the course covered during the term."

Mike Smoczyk, physics and math senior from Stanley, dislikes tests during the noon hour, after supper, and on Saturday. He says, "We cannot do our best on a test when we are hungry or are tired." Final exams are certainly not on the way out. No one seems to be able to devise a suitable substitute.

RF Cheerleaders Prepare For Basketball Season

Four new cheerleaders and two returnees from last year are practicing their cheers these days in preparation for the coming basketball season. The newcomers, Marie Forman, Rod Rodlund, Kathy Martin, and Bev Ramacier aided veterans Charlene Wedlund and Mary Dougherty in providing spirit during the football games this fall.

Marie Forman is a junior enrolled in lower elementary with a phy ed minor. She is originally from Cadott where she was a cheerleader in high school for three years.

Kathy Martin led Hudson athletic fans in supporting their teams for two years after having served as a cheerleader for one year at Glenwood City. Now a freshman at RFSC, Kathy is enrolled in general education.

The only out-of-state member of this year's team is Bev Ramacier who hails from West St. Paul, Minn. Bev is a sophomore who is working towards a major in both English and psychology.

Probably the most experienced and undoubtedly the most invigorating to watch, is sophomore Rod Rodlund, the only male member of the group. After leading yells for two years at Menomonie high school, Rod joined the Navy. While stationed at Norfolk Naval Base in Virginia, Rod was a cheerleader for two years for the Norfolk Bluejackets football team. Upon his discharge from the service, Rod enrolled at San Diego State College in California and led cheers there for one semester. This is his first year of cheerleading at River Falls. Rod hopes to attain a degree in history.

Now in her second year of cheerleading at River Falls is Charlene Wedlund, a sophomore from Balsam Lake. Balsam Lake students followed her cheers for three years. Charlene is enrolled in upper elementary.

Mary Dougherty is leading cheers for the third straight year here at RF. Mary served as a cheerleader for four years at Spooner high school prior to coming to college. Besides leading Falcon rooters this fall, Mary held down the head majorette position for the Falconettes. A junior at RFSC, Mary is working toward a degree in lower elementary with a minor in library science.

Rodlund said this week that the cheerleaders were planning to hold a pep fest before basketball season gets in full swing so that all students, freshmen especially, will get to know the River Falls yells.

All of the cheerleaders' uniforms except Rodlund's are furnished by the college. However, the cheerleaders are responsible for finding their own way to ball games. The cheerleaders would appreciate rides with students who will be traveling to out of town games this winter.

Wurman to Read Paper Before National Group

Dr. Eliahu Wurman, of the soils department, will present, "The Formation of Certain Types of Soil in Michigan," at the national meeting of the Soil Science Society of America, at Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 18-22. The paper is an excerpt from his Doctors Thesis.

"By publishing three periodicals, the organization coordinates and promotes information in soil science," Dr. Wurman said. He is a member of the group, which has a membership of 3,500.

Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson will also speak at the annual affair.
