

Nelson and Neal, piano duo.

Nelson and Neal Bring Own Pianos For Concert Thursday Night

When a piccolo player gives a concert at the college, he's expected to bring his own piccolo. However when a concert pianist arrives, he seldom comes equipped with a piano. So it's even more unusual for a piano duo team to bring two pianos. Nevertheless, Nelson and Neal, duo pianists scheduled for a concert here next Thursday, will drive into River Falls in a specially built truck with two grand pianos nestling in the back.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal, along with their matched grand pianos, have recently amassed the staggering total of 153 performances for a year's tour. At each performance, Nelson and Neal request special arrangements for their pianos. Wherever possible the pianos are placed on the stage by 10:00 a.m. with the heat turned on so that they will be properly tuned in the evening. A period of three hours is necessary for the artists to tune their pianos. Six men are needed to work for nearly an hour to load and unload the truck.

Before coming to this country, Nelson and Neal visited Australia as a two-piano team and gave over a hundred performances for the Australian Broadcasting Commission, touring all over the country, playing recitals and concerts.

Once acclaimed as soloists, Nelson and Neal now combine their splendid genius, youthful charm and devoted teamwork to inspire and enchant all lovers of really fine music.

CHISHOLM IN RADIO SERIES

Dr. Francis P. Chisholm will be heard Wednesday, February 11, over Radio Station WHA, Madison, and the State Radio FM Network, in the first of a series of ten lectures entitled "Language and Human Behavior". Dr. Chisholm is chairman of the English department.

Student Senate Recommends $2.50 Raise in Activity Fee

A $2.50 raise in the price of the student activity fee card has been recommended to the faculty administrative council at River Falls, the Student Senate has announced.

The suggested increase would raise the price of the activity fee each student pays to $10. The increase would include $1.00 for the Meletean and $1.50 for general activities.

If the increase in the fee is adopted, RFSC students would receive their Meleteans without paying the yearbook staff anything for them.

Jean Allie, treasurer of the Student Senate, has released the expenses and receipts of the Senate thus far in the 1952-53 school year. Expenses include $1,055 for

Art Exhibit Here Stresses New View

The 1951 Gimbel "Wisconsin Airscapes and Landscapes" art collection will be exhibited at Wisconsin State College from February 16 through March 2. This collection of 30 paintings, the fourth in a series of art collections planned by Gimbels, Milwaukee, has received nationwide acclaim this past year. Not only does it represent the response of Wisconsin artists to the challenge of a new "airborne" viewpoint, but it also represents the first time in the United States that the "airscape" theme has been used as subject matter for an art collection.

The paintings which will be shown here include ten of the oils and the twelve watercolors purchased for the permanent Gimbel collection, and eight honorable mention winners from the Gimbel 1951 Art Competition. "Madison From the Air", a purchased oil by Warrington Collescott, has been temporarily withdrawn from the collection to be exhibited with the Pittsburgh International exhibition this year, while "Winter Landscape" by Santos Zingale, is on tour with the Big Ten Exhibition.

ten dances, $46 in janitor fees, $25 for a square dance caller for the freshman mixer, and $81.45 for cheerleading outfits, handbills, dance tickets, and miscellaneous expenses.

"Homecoming expenses this year amounted to $318.85," reports Jean, "and we took in about $200. The Winter Formal cost $203.71; we took in about $60.00. Expenses for the Winter Carnival amounted to $180.95 and the Senate received $46.30."

Before acting on the proposed increase in the activity fee, the administrative council wants students' opinions on the matter. The Student Senators are therefore requesting that students who wish to comment on the suggested raise in the fee get in touch with them.

Debaters Earn 4-2 Records at Moorhead

Heather Dopkins, senior, won first place in extemporaneous speaking at the twentieth annual Red River Valley Tournament in Moorhead, Minnesota, this past week-end.

Topic for the impromptu speaking was "How Can We Best Combat the Threat of Communism?"

River Falls was one of 21 colleges, representing five states, to participate in the speech event. On the program were events in impromptu speaking, original oratory, and six rounds of debate.

Two men's teams and one women's team entered in the debate section from River Falls had identical results of four wins and two losses each.

The women's team of Margaret Helmer and Heather Dopkins, debating at Moorhead State Teachers College, defeated St. Olaf, Luther, St. Catherine's and Mankato and lost to St. Olaf and St. Catherine's. St. Catherine's won first place in the tourney.

Rehearsals Near Climax For Staging of 'Macbeth'

"Out, damned spot!" This phrase is not only one of the more famous from their coming production, "Macbeth", but it is also being uttered frequently by the College Masquers as they scrub their floor after a late session of set painting in getting ready for their big performance.

KAAA to Broadcast 'Macbeth' Wednesday

The first in a series of broadcasts from the college will be heard next Wednesday from 1:30 to 2 o'clock over radio station KAAA in Red Wing. The programs are to be heard weekly at that time until the series is complete.

A half-hour cutting of the play "Macbeth" has been selected as the opening broadcast. The series will be broadcast by means of tape recordings made on the campus.

"Macbeth", starring Lee Parker, Dorothy Binkowski, and Betty Wiskerchen, is being presented by the Masquers on February 17, 18, and 20 in the North Hall auditorium. The Shakespearian tragedy features Dorothy and Betty doubling in the role of Lady Macbeth and Lee in the title role.

Rehearsals for the play have been in process since early January, and Dr. Blanche Davis, director, is spearheading the final week's work on it.

"Macbeth" is Shakespeare's briefest tragedy," said Dr. Davis, "but it also poses the most difficult staging problems. We're using a formalized stage setting, which means pillars, many stairways, and a gloomy atmosphere suggesting a primitive Scottish castle. 'Macbeth' takes place in about 1040 in Scotland and the whole play is filled with ghosts, witches, and all sorts of apparitions."

Senate Protests Kohler's Proposed Increase in Tuition

RFSC's Student Senate has sent twenty-two letters to state legislators from this area concerning Governor Walter Kohler's proposed fifty dollars per year increase in fees for students at the Wisconsin State Colleges, which he made in his budget message to the state legislature on January 27. Excerpts from the letter which was sent follow:

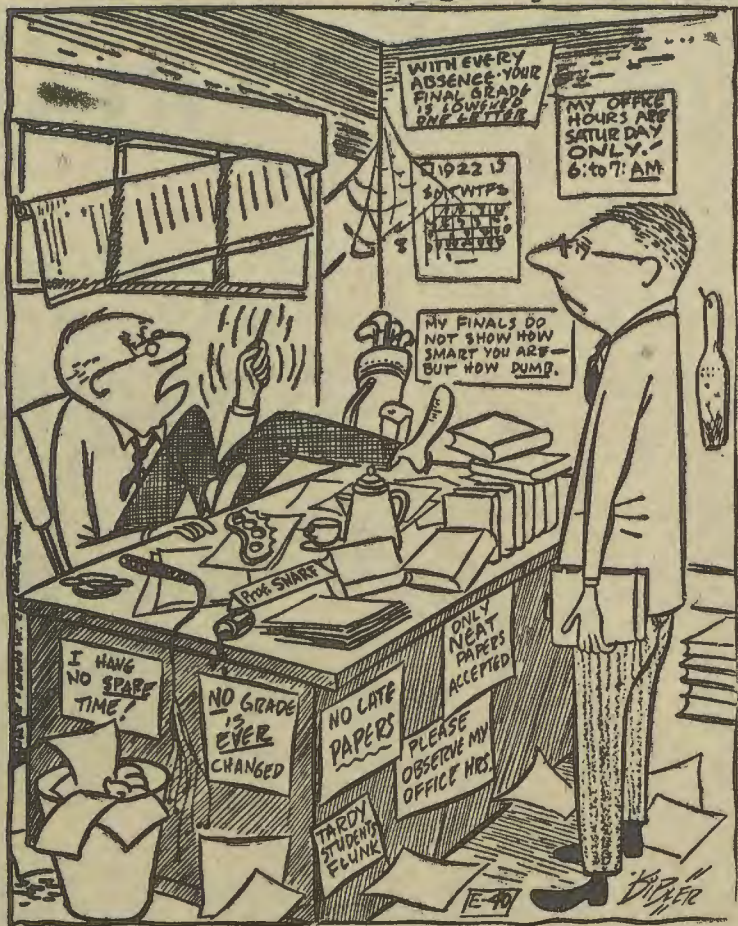

"Governor Kohler's proposed fee increase has caused a great deal of alarm among the students here at River Falls. . . . All of us have been rightfully proud that education here is not the privilege of the wealthy but the right of all. Any Wisconsin young person has been assured that a college education will not be beyond his financial reach. . . . (River Falls students) are not from wealthy families but the children of farmers, small businessman, laborers and teachers. Even with the pre-

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

"Just forget about tenure for awhile—it comes as a result of being a good teacher."

Colleges Spend $629 Per Student

It cost the State Colleges $629 to give an average student one year of education in 1951-52, according to the biennial report published this month by the Board of Regents.

When veteran fees, paid by the federal government, are considered the average student paid less than 13 per cent of the expense. State tax revenue covered 76 per cent of the cost, federal government five per cent, investments five per cent, and other sources took care of the rest.

The colleges operated on a total budget of $6,667,881 last year. Instruction took half this amount and operation and maintenance of the plants took more than one-eighth. Another one-eighth went for administration, libraries, and off-campus classes.

For this money the people of Wisconsin may point with pride to 7,361 college students, 2,235 children in laboratory schools, and 5,039 teachers in off-campus classes given instruction last year. The college students come from every county in Wisconsin, from 24 other states, and from 12 countries and territories outside the state.

The Editor Speaks

The Governor Wants a Raise

You, the River Falls College student, are going to be paying fifty dollars a year more in fees at this college if the plan Governor Walter J. Kohler has recommended to "balance the budget" is adopted by the Wisconsin state legislature this year.

Governor Kohler suggested the fifty dollar raise in tuition rates for the state's institutions of higher learning in his budget message to the legislature on January 27. The budget he suggested amounts to $263,133,000. The available balances and the revenues expected amount to $236,985,000. This means an unbalanced budget, of course, and the Governor has recommended several methods by which Wisconsin could raise enough money to balance its budget without increasing the state's income tax.

The tuition increase at the State Colleges is one of these ways of raising more revenue, says Governor Kohler. A fifty dollar increase would bring in $2,500,000 for the 1953-55 biennium. But this $2,500,000 would not be earmarked for the State Colleges and the University of Wisconsin. It wouldn't be used for education costs; it doesn't mean we at River Falls are to get a fieldhouse or a men's dorm faster. This money would go into a general fund to help Governor Kohler balance his budget!

"This amounts to a use tax on education to support the operations of state government," says the Madison Capital Times of February 4. "The burden will fall on those citizens of Wisconsin who want their children to have the benefits of higher education. It will not be a tax on those upper income people who can afford to send their children to exclusive private schools."

The River Falls Student Senate has written letters to the legislators from this area of Wisconsin discussing Governor Kohler's proposal to increase tuition. This letter is printed on Page One of the Student Voice. Please read it. You may not agree with the Student Senate that a fifty dollar raise in tuition will actually prevent students from enrolling in the state colleges. Your agreement depends on your financial status. But fifty dollars can be a lot of money, especially to the college student who works part-time. This means one hundred extra hours of work for him if he is paid on the college wage scale for student help. And fifty dollars can mean just that much more sacrificing to the parents whose savings are going toward their children's college education.

Maybe you feel that most students could somehow raise an extra fifty dollars if they wanted a college education badly enough. But then consider this: That fifty dollars you are going to raise somehow doesn't have to be used to give you better educational facilities, to raise your instructors' salaries, or to buy you more textbooks! This means that whenever there is a bill due, this money can be used to pay it. It may go for the state's welfare institutions, for pensions, or wherever it is needed. You or your parents, then, would be paying fifty dollars a year more for your education at RFSC because Governor Kohler has to balance his budget and would rather put a "head tax" on the college student and various other groups that raise the state income tax, so that everyone would have to help foot the bill.

This budget measure need not be passed. Governor Kohler says he will welcome any suggestions from Wisconsin voters on the budget matter. And naturally the legislators will too. The Student Senate has written letters. Why don't you write a few too? Or better still, explain the matter to your parents and let them write their state senator and assemblyman. Perhaps if enough letters are written in objection to the increase, the Governor will reconsider and the legislature will realize that when an increase in funds is needed to balance a budget, it is fairer to get that needed money from the persons who can afford the money to pay for it, rather than take it from the student, who cannot afford it all.

Marines, Navy To Be at RFSC

Representatives from the U. S. Navy and the Marine Corps will be on the campus this month to discuss their particular branches of the service with River Falls students.

The Marine Corps Officer Procurement team from Minneapolis will be here tomorrow, February 10, from nine to four to discuss the programs for college men leading to a commission in the Marine Corps Reserve.

On February 24, from ten to twelve, a representative of the U. S. Navy will be at River Falls to interview students and give information concerning commissions available in the United States Navy.

been established. Fresh air units have been installed downstairs, too. Oh, by the way, every room in the new library will have a fresh air ventilating system and fluorescent lighting.

Just take a little tour through the place for yourself some day. You'll find it's kind of interesting to see what the library looks like now, before they move the books in.

Reporter Braves Maze to See New Library Basement

by Myron G. Moen

Did you notice a lack of activity on the new library project a few days ago? Well, don't let it worry you because the work's been going on even though you couldn't see it. Cold weather sent the men into the basement where they could work on the construction without spending valuable time trying to keep warm.

Library To Be Completed in Fall

Ernie Doe, construction foreman, sticks by his former prediction that the library will be completed sometime next fall. He feels confident that the entire roof will be on the building in about three months. There are 17 regular construction men, two plumbers, and four electricians working with their combined skills to complete the complicated project.

Wandering through the maze of bricks, steel girders, sand, and busily working men one sees many things that can't be noticed from the street or from the windows of South Hall. The basement part of the project looks huge, like one of those downtown underground parking lots.

Electricians, Plumbers at Work

If you really want to see something, go downstairs. Don't trip on the way, though. The electricians and plumbers are interwinding the whole place with pipes and wires. The tile setters are laying the beautifully glazed gleaming white tile on the walls and room partitions are being set into place.

Theatre Will Seat 202

The basement contains the "little theatre" which will seat 202 people, and these people won't have to worry about "madam's ostrich feathered hat" blocking their view because the floor slopes at an angle to prevent this.

You might wonder what keeps the basement so warm right now before they get the heating apparatus in. Well, it is in! Yes, connections from the heating plant in South Hall have already

by Bo Peep

Flash, friend reader, flash, flash, flash! "First Flight," the college's now defunct literary publication is being resumed this month under financial auspices of the C.W.A. (Creative Writers of America)!

Meeting secretly in booth 13 at Harrison's cafe one night week, this group of literary intelligentsia (including yours truly, who is broad) amalgamated plans for coming issues of the new publication, to be called "Last Leap". Contributions to "Last Leap" must be accompanied by at least one rejection slip from a known publisher as proof that the would-be author has really been trying.

Officers were elected at the premier meeting of the C.W.A., and they include some of the more prolific writers on campus. Editor-in-chief of the revived publication will be the girl who writes the menus on the blackboard in the cafeteria. Her writing experience is unchallengeable at RFSC. Rewrite girl will be a faculty member who has unlimited experience in adulterating Shakespeare, Shaw, and Moliere. Keeper of the keys (in charge of original manuscripts) will be Hathorn Hall's custodian, who keeps more keys than anyone. Censor impretorium will be a member the English department, if her literary commitments in Madison don't become too pressing.

To raise money for this admirable undertaking the C.W.A. plans a series of money-raising activities for the month of February, which will include a small charge for toilet paper in the lavatories, a bake sale sponsored by the Faculty Mothers, and a return concert by those popular entertainers, the Kailu Brothers, Hawaiian guitarists.

The first issue of "Last Leap" will unfortunately be mimeographed. This inexpensive method is necessary because the C.W.A. hasn't raised enough money to pay a printer. To reassure the first issue of "Last Leap" for early March, application was made this morning for use of the college mimeograph machine in the professional education director's office on February 23 and 24, after hours. The required petitions for paper and ink are now making the rounds of supporters of the publication.

Because four hundred signatures are needed to secure a ream of paper and a bottle of ink, officers of the C.W.A. will have a booth in South Hall where sympathetic students may sign up. This petition will never reach the Deans, so don't worry about your grades.

"Cleanliness will be the watchword in "Last Leap", the editor-in-chief has declared. "Absolutely no pornographic pictures will be used and no four-letter words will be permitted. All sentences must be in exactly eight words, to assure lucidity and strength of purpose."

Several spicy contributions have already been promised for the C.W.A.'s first edition of "Last Leap". First and foremost will be a dissertation by members of the Biology department, entitled "Earthworms Inside Out." Hand-drawn illustrations will accompany the article.

Members of the physical education department will collaborate on "Games for the College Student with an I.Q. of Less than 80." These games will include ring toss, chess, and tiddley winks.

Heading the fiction section of the first "Last Leap" will be "Weekends at the Hotel Euclid," by a bachelor member of the RFSC faculty.

The poetry division of "Last Leap" will include several limericks by members of the foreign language department, which will contain choice foreign phrases. A sample follows:

An instructor who came from Eau Claire
Once said to his pupils, "Beware
Of a certain young lady
Whose actions are shady
She has what you call savior-faire."

"Wartime Washington", by a person who was on the spot, will be the "Play of the Month" in the first "Last Leap." She has promised a sequel about her home state for the second issue, called "Iowa, I Love Thee."

The first installment of a hitherto unpublished doctoral thesis by a member of the education department will also appear in "Last Leap" soon. Its title (abbreviated here because of lack of space) is "A Functional Investigation of the Structural Abilities of the Five-and-One-Half Year-Old in the Manipulation of Concrete Building Blocks." This will be published with extra-wide margins, double spacing, and headings in red. It will be punctuated.

The cover design of this first "Last Leap" will be done by the art department on a linoleum block gouged from the floor of the Knotty Pine Room.

In the book review section, a member of the social science department will review "Should Schoolteachers Have Children?", which has been appearing in monthly installments in the magazine "Trial Marriage". The review is expected to be quite favorable, with certain reservations, such as suggesting marriage before attempting parenthood. The professor emeritus of the library staff will review "Daily Journeys Up the St. Croix", by a head member of the staff.

An expose of affairs at the Health Hut, describing sanitary conditions there, has been written by a local sanitary engineer. It is titled, "Between Two Sheets." A local housemother has promised a piece to be called "Beds I Have Changed."

Senate Letter

(Continued from page one) sent fees, more than half the students must do part time work. Some support themselves entirely. Mr. Kohler's proposal will mean an additional burden. Many students will not be able to attend college.

"There is a serious teacher shortage in the state. . . a shortage which will continue for a number of years. If students are discouraged from attending the State Colleges, the chief source of teachers for Wisconsin's schools will dry up.

"We feel sure we may rely on you to consider all aspects of this proposal before voting on it."

Kenneth Nehmer, Student Senate President, said today, "While the letter we have sent may have some influence, it is important that students themselves, or better still their parents, write assemblymen and senators telling them their views on this issue."

Kuss Bags 172 Points in Last Four Games!

Falcons Down Blugolds, Superior

Scoring 200 points in two games, Wisconsin State college at River Falls moved into second place in the conference last week. February 2 they stamped over Superior 102-84. January 31st they pushed into a three way tie for second position with Milwaukee and Oshkosh by defeating Eau Claire 98-92. Milwaukee lost to Stevens Point February 2. The Oshkosh team had no conference game scheduled. Platteville leads the conference.

Rog Kuss, Falcon center, racked up a total of 92 points in the two games, scoring 50 against Eau Claire and 42 against Superior. He is reported by NAIA as leading the nation in percentage of free throws made. The report was prior to the last two games in which Kuss made 28 out of 33, bringing his average to approximately 38 per cent.

Rog Kuss paced the Falcons with 50 points in the win over Eau Claire Saturday, January 31. Stan DuFrane of Eau Claire hit 38 for the losers. River Falls took a quick lead and held their own in all four quarters.

Kuss racks up two of his 24 points in the Superior game as Bob Williams looks on.

River Falls Drops Thriller To LaCrosse Indians, 71-69

River Falls' Falcons dropped a conference thriller to LaCrosse Saturday night on the Indians' court by a score of 71-69. It was the Falcons' third conference loss.

Kuss Breaks Record As St. John's Beats RF

Records fell at the St. John's College fieldhouse in Collegeville, Minnesota, Thursday night, but they weren't enough to keep the Falcons in the winning column.

St. John's defeated the River Falls team 80 to 75 as Rog Kuss sank 46 points--the most a college cager has registered in Minnesota this year. It was also the most a player has ever made in St. John's gymnasium. Bill Christopherson, St. John's forward, set a school scoring record, going over the 1,000 mark for four years of competition.

LaCrosse, with the home court advantage, took an early lead and held it throughout the first half. Going into the third quarter River Falls was behind 12 points. Three quick field goals for LaCrosse widened the margin to 18 points. River Falls came to life and began hitting from all around with an excellent display of rebounding, and narrowed the lead to three points at the close of the third quarter.

The entire fourth period was a hard fought battle for both teams. LaCrosse hit for two quick baskets to take the lead again with less than a minute to play. The Falcons, trying desperately, fell short with a last second shot, and the game ended 71 to 69 for the Indians.

This loss gives River Falls a five-won, three-lost record for conference play. The Falcons play two conference games this week, meeting league-leading Platteville on Friday, February 13, and Stevens Point on Saturday, February 14. Both games are at home.

by students working on costumes, stage settings, and other phases of production to get everything in shape for the opening night.

Special organ music will be provided for "Macbeth" by Bill Ramey, a 1951 graduate of RFSC and now an instructor at River Falls High School. Mr. Ramey will include in his selections several old Gaelic songs.

"Macbeth" is probably the Shakespearian tragedy with which students are most familiar, because it is so frequently read by high school students. This will make the play particularly interesting to the students who have been invited to attend the special "high school night" performance of "Macbeth" on February 17.

"The response to our invitation to high school students from the surrounding area to attend "Romeo and Juliet" last year was very large," said Dr. Davis, "and so this year we've set aside a special night for them." Their admission price will be 25 cents. Admission will be 50 cents at the two performances of the play for the student body and the town-people on February 19 and 20.
