37 Students Achieve Honor Roll Rating Last Spring Term

Claire O. Fyksen Leads Eight Straight A Students With Total of 57 Points

Thirty-seven students, more than 7 per cent of the enrollment, achieved the required number of honor points last spring to be listed on the honor roll.

The honor points are computed as follows: Grade A, 3 honor points; Grade B, 2 honor points, and Grade C, 1 honor point per credit hour. An average of 2½ honor points per credit hour is necessary for the award.

The list for the third term of 1935-36 is:

Churches Hold Mixers for New Students of College

Eighty-five Catholic students attended the party given by the Study club in the Parish Hall at 7:30, Thursday evening, September 24.

The evening's program was directed by Louis Zahradka, after which refreshments were served by the Ladies Aid. Group singing led by Francis Haugh closed the entertainment.

The Lutheran mixer was held in the church parlors last Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. About 185 students attended. A program was presented under the direction of Ruth Nelson, Leonard Hermanson, president of the Y. P. S., and Reverend A. S. Johnson welcomed the guests.

After the program, games were played and a lunch served.

All students are welcome to attend the young people's meetings which are held once a month.

Congregational church students attended the mixer given at Glen Park at 6 o'clock, Thursday evening, September 24. About fifty young people attended.

Games, group singing and refreshments constituted the entertainment.

The Methodist Episcopal church held a School Days' Party in the church parlors, Monday, September 28, at 8 p. m.

Voice Given Honor Rating by N.S.P.A.

New Writers Are Recruited In Voice Reorganization

That the Student Voice staff of the past year is deserving of commendation is evidenced by the fact that the National Scholastic Press Association has recently given the publication a Second Class rating among those weeklies published by 300 of the nation's leading teachers' colleges.

Considering the fact that this is the first year that the Student Voice has been submitted to the critical service of the association, the student body should feel a sense of pride in the achievement of their representative organ.

Entries made weekly by the colleges are judged for news values and sources, newswriting, editing, headlines, typography, make-up, departmental pages and special features.

The editorial staff of this year realizes the responsibility which weighs upon them to maintain this standard. Depletion in the membership ranks of the staff caused by graduation will be compensated for by the recruitment of about fifteen new members. With careful organization and conscientious effort they hope a similar award will be obtained next year.

Those members who have been chosen to officiate on the editorial staff include: Lauraine Isaacson, associate editor; Velma Seegerstrom, desk editor; Arthur Sletteland, sport editor; and Russell Gettinger, copy reader. Emma Lou Tubbs, acting as business manager, heads the business staff.

Miss Moss Grants Interview on English Journey

"You see, Miss Moss, what I am supposed to get is a human interest story of your trip to England this summer but I don't quite know the procedure."

To this lame beginning Miss Moss turned all her attention and gave us so many interesting bits that we don't know how to pass them all on to you.

First of all, she told us that she sailed from Quebec on the Empress of Britain and landed in Southampton on July 2.

She then went to London where she stayed a week at Crosby Hall, Chelsea, the headquarters for the British Federation of University Women. This building, she said, was part of a 15th century chapel moved from Bishop's Gate, London, and its present location was once the back yard of the Irish poet, Tom Moore.

"After London, what?" was our next question.

"From London I went to Strat-

The college social committee has planned a program of games in the Men's Union and dancing in the gymnasium. Everyone is invited to attend. An admission of ten cents will be charged.

Student Voice Staff Holds First Social Event in Park

Aspirants for positions on the Student Voice staff were ushered into the staff's social program at a picnic held in Glen Park Lodge, Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock.

Hamburger steak sandwiches and John Nelson's coffee, as only John can make it, with regular picnic trimmings made up the menu.

Stories and open discussion before the fire place completed the picnic.

Arrangements for the picnic were made by John Nelson, Marion Williamson, Gertrud Blatt, and Harry Guinn.

Student Committee to Work With Faculty in Planning College Social Events

Eugene Gossen was elected chairman and Bernice Jacobsen, secretary-treasurer of the Student Social Committee at the first meeting of the year which was held Tuesday, September 29.

The student committee will work in conjunction with the Faculty Social Committee of which Dean Irma Hathorn is chairman. A broad program of school activities for the first term will be planned at the next regular meeting of the committee.

Each class is entitled to two representatives on this committee. Representing the seniors are Dorothea Panzenhagen and Eugene Gossen; the juniors are represented by Phyllis Soderstrom and Eddie Cass; Fred Brecklan and Mary Katherine Prucha represent the sophomore class. These representatives were appointed last spring to facilitate the committee's organization. The freshman representatives have not yet been selected.

One student from each of the organizations is also a member of the social committee. Group representatives are: Agrifallians, Francis Haugh, senior; G.O.P., Dora Mae Hocking, senior; Masquers, Joyce Leonard, junior; Mathematics Club, Russell Gettinger, junior; Rural Life Club, Florence Sagstetter, sophomore; Science Club, Walter Busch, sophomore; Student Voice, Bernice Jacobsen, senior; W.A.A., Adeline Larson, junior; Y.M.C.A., Edwin Baker, sophomore; and Y.W.C.A., Mae Nelson, junior.

Office Compiles Data on First Term Registration

Final data from the office shows that students from eight mid-western states have enrolled at River Falls State Teachers College for the fall term.

Minnesota, with 17 representatives, contributes the largest number of out-of-state students. North Dakota, South Dakota, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri and also represented.

Students from 95 Wisconsin high schools are attending college here. River Falls high school heads the list with 123 representatives. Others with large representation are: Ellsworth 27; Hudson 21; New Richmond 17; Frederic 16; Cumberland 15; Amery 15; Baldwin 12; Spring Valley 12; Elmwood 10.

Each of the following high schools have five to nine representatives in college: Hammond, Osceola, Prescott, Glenwood City, Woodville, Arkansasaw, Barron, Pepin, Durand, Hawkins, Turtle Lake, Lodi, Roberts, Maiden Rock, Mondovi, and Shell Lake.

The final check-up revealed that the men still exceed the women in number enrolled, 303 to 234.

The completed data also lists the enrollment according to the departments. Almost half the students, a total of 240, are enrolled in secondary education. Science, with 76 majors, is the largest department in secondary education, but is closely followed by history, with 72 majors, and English, with 71 majors. Students majoring in mathematics number 21.

Next to secondary education, elementary education has the most students, with 98; this is followed by agricultural education with 86, non-teachers' training with 67, and the rural department with 46 enrolled.

Dr. Karges Talks on Campus Activities

Believes Mental Work Is As Necessary As Physical

Dr. R. A. Karges addressed the YMCA last Monday evening on the subject "Campus Activities Which Really Prepare You for Life".

"Most students", said Dr. Karges, "go to college for the purpose of preparing themselves for life, but they don't seem to realize that they are really living while they are in college."

The first activity in which students should participate is studying. A good mental workout does just as much good as a good physical workout.

Dr. Karges went on to say that the friendships one makes are some of the best things he gains from college. These friendships are made chiefly by participation in the various activities of the college, and by working with others.

"One thing a graduate should take with him when he leaves college," said Dr. Karges, "is a sense of religion. This is one thing which students develop chiefly for themselves, and to which college cannot definitely add."

The meeting next Monday evening will be the reception of members. President J. H. Ames will address the meeting. This is usually one of the biggest meetings of the year, and it is expected that, as far as possible, all members will attend.

ford-on-Avon where I attended the Shakesperian dramatic festival in the new Shakesperian Memorial theatre, which was, incidentally, built mostly by American money."

A quick view of Oxford came next, and then she went to Cambridge to take in three weeks of the summer meeting sponsored by both schools.

"The high spot of the course was a series of lectures on Shakespeare by Dr. Jay-Doner Wilson," stated Miss Moss.

"What", we asked, "are some of the special things that impressed you about England in particular?"

"Two things about England that greatly impressed me were the age of the architecture, and the pride and almost reverence that the people feel for the royal family."

By way of an addition, Miss Moss said that she saw the king as he passed in a car, and was assured of the fact, by the great excitement of the women along the street.

"You can always tell an Englishman by the way he handles his knife and fork. He pushes the food on the back side of the fork with what has been called the English fork-piling-technique."

"Everywhere in England the people are concerned and uneasy over the European situation. They marvel at the unconcern of Americans and feel that this must, indeed, be a happy country."

In answer to our query about unusual things, she told of streets so narrow that one could reach out and easily touch a passing bus, of roller towels in public wash rooms, and finally of chained drinking cups in one of the busiest squares in all of modern London, Charring Cross.

Finally she said that she would like to have students realize that such a trip is not nearly as expensive as we would imagine. Many young Americans, she said, buy a second-hand bicycle in England and make a tour of the country at very small expense.

Governor Landon's Words "Lack Wings"

Several students had an opportunity to hear Governor Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate for President, last week in Minneapolis. Mr. Landon expressed his viewpoint in regard to the New Deal's reciprocal trade and tariff program. Whether or not we are in accord with Mr. Landon's philosophy, he impresses us as being thoroughly familiar with his subject. His case against the New Deal's trade policy is presented as completely and as logically as possible. From a Republican viewpoint, his evidence is convincing.

Though he is familiar with his subject, the Governor appears bewildered by the whirl of campaign activities. He seems unable to accustom himself to all the attention which has been suddenly bestowed upon him. Mr. Landon would, no doubt, be much more at ease in Kansas.

The Republican candidate's chief handicap is his lack of speaking ability. His speeches are given in a conversational, rather nasal sounding tone. His words lack emphasis and fail to instill confidence in the speaker. As Vivian Thorpe expresses it, "his words lack wings." It is to be regretted that oratory has come to play such an important part in campaign activities.

Mr. Landon impresses one as being a very sincere individual. His audience is given to feel that he has weighed his words with care. He seems to strive, not so much for an emotional effect, but rather to impress his listeners with his philosophy of thought.

As a vote getter, however, we feel that the Republican party could have made a better choice. In spite of his obvious sincerity, his addresses do not appeal to the mass. They fail to create that high pitch of enthusiasm which is practically essential for success.

Are You Throwing Reason to the Wind?

At no other time in the course of our ordinary existence is there such an open season for emotional appeals unsupported by factual evidence or logical thought as is poured forth by the wheelhorses and orators of our political parties during these weeks preceding our national election. Often forgotten at such times are those mental habits which we call reliance on unbiased and expert testimony and careful thought.

The extent of the lack of clear thinking is significantly indicated by Dr. David Byrn-Jones' generalization the other day that, so far, human beings have not proved capable of rational action; and also by Harvard man Tunis' caustic comment concerning his classmates of 1911, "We are a bunch of contented collegecows."

The obvious probability that Tunis would apply the same remark to practically all the graduates and students of other colleges is not encouraging even after liberal discount of the severity of his judgment as possibly due to prejudice, a bilious constitution, or wounded vanity, the disparagement is still keen and cutting.

But how can we honestly defend college students, considering how the majority react to given issues, the basis of their opinions, and the logic of their reasoning? We put the question up to you. Will your reasoning and actions be a contradiction of Tunis' condemnation?

Personnel Portraits

The Herr Professor claims New Jersey as his home state, and Far Hills, a town near New York City, as his birthplace. Contrary to popular student belief, he is not of German ancestry. His father was a Hollander, and his mother of English descent.

He attended Bedminster Classical Academy where he became interested in the languages of the classics. Intending to be a Greek professor, he entered Rutgers College at New Brunswick. Later he changed his major to modern languages. As we might have suspected from his interest in athletics, he played tackle on Rutgers football team for three years in the days when five yards instead of ten were needed for a first down.

Professor E. A. Whitenack

After graduation Prof. Whitenack taught Latin and German two years in the Cathedral School at Pekin, Illinois and served as football coach. The next four years he taught German at Hope College in Holland, Michigan, of tulip fame. From there he went to another foreign-sounding place, Peru, Nebraska, where he taught in the State Teachers College. It was there he met Mr. Crabtree who later became President of the River Falls Normal.

After teaching sixteen years in Peru, he went abroad to study. He attended Heidelberg University in the spring and summer of 1913, and spent some time traveling in Germany, Switzerland, and Austria. He returned to take a position at River Falls where he has taught for the last 23 years. In 1930 he visited Paris, "that most wonderful city" and enrolled at the Sorbonne for the summer semester.

It was during his stay at Holland that he married Gertrude Alcott, a graduate of Hope College. He has one son, Theodore, who now teaches science at South Milwaukee High school and one grandchild, a girl, Jean.

Now Prof. Whitenack divides his recreational moments between reading (mostly French and German books) and his interest in athletic events. His fondest hope, he says earnestly, is to see again the Passion Play at Oberammergau. His slogan, advice, and motto he sums up in the one word, "massigung" - moderation; and his philosophy in the quotation of Goethe, "He only earns his freedom and existence who daily conquers them."

Faculty Vacations Spent In Travel, Work, and Play

Travelling, graduate work, and genuine resting, were the various activities of the members of the college faculty during their recent summer vacation.

President J. H. Ames spent a part of his time at his summer home in Green Lake, Wisconsin.

Miss Vera Moss was the only faculty member to take a European trip this summer. She spent ten weeks in England, and while there she attended the summer session of Cambridge University. Her itinerary also included visits to London, Stratford, Oxford, the Isle of Wight, and several sea coast towns, among them Tintagel, said to be the location of Merlin's cave. For amusement she attended theater productions in London and a Shakespearian dramatic festival at Stratford.

Two faculty members visited Mexico. They were Dr. J. Henry Owens, who motored there, and remained the entire summer, and Miss Mable L. Bridges who also visited there as a part of her summer's trip.

Miss Rhea Gibson covered eighteen southeastern states in her summer of travel. After an extended visit in Washington, D. C., she traveled through the Carolinas, Florida, and over to New Orleans.

Several faculty members spent their time traveling through the New England states and other parts of the East. Miss Schlosser, Miss Hadow, and Miss Latta visited Southern Canada, New York, and places of literary interest in New England. Senator Hunt vacationed in Vermont.

Resting at northern lakes and resorts was one of the most favored pastimes. Miss Fobes stayed at Lake of the Woods in Canada, Miss Hathorn spent some time at Lake Amnicon, Wisconsin, and Miss Green and Miss Branstad enjoyed a vacation at Hayward.

Faculty members who used their vacation to do further graduate study were Mr. William Segerstrom, Mr. Theodore Setterquist, and Miss Augusta Thomas, who studied at the University of Minnesota, Mr. J. P. Jacobson who attended the University of Wisconsin, and Miss Amy Fuller at the University of North Carolina.

Local Forensic Fraternity Casts Debate Topic Vote

The first 1936-37 meeting of Wisconsin Delta, the local chapter of the national forensic fraternity of Pi Kappa Delta, was held on Wednesday, September 16.

The meeting was called for the purpose of casting the local chapter's vote on the inter-collegiate debate question for 1936-37. Four propositions which had been formulated by a national committee were under consideration.

These questions concerned government ownership and operation of commercial banks, industrial versus craft unionization of labor, General Smedley D. Butler's proposed amendment to the U. S. constitution, and the right of the government to fix minimum wages and hours for industry.

The local chapter, which has one vote along with about 300 other Pi Kappa Delta chapters, expressed a first choice for the industrial labor unionization proposition, and second choice for General Butler's peace amendment.

River Falls Downs Macalaster 6-0 in Initial Appearance

Ken Marr Plunges Over Line To Score in Second Quarter; Frosh Make Grid Debut

River Falls outclassed Macalaster here Saturday on a rain soaked field to eke out a 6-0 victory in their first football game of the season. Ken Marr, freshman halfback, scored the only touchdown on a dash around end in the second period.

River Falls dominated the play throughout the entire game. The Falcons attained six first downs while Mac got only one. Wulf's accurate punting kept the Mac men back in their own territory during most of the game. Mac's only serious threat came late in the fourth stanza when they completed a 32-yard pass, Hanson to Helequist.

Score in First Half

The first quarter was dominated by River Falls. They kept Macalaster constantly on the defense. River Falls scored one first down this period on an eight yard run by Marr and a smash by Rendler. Twice during this period Wulf kicked to the one yard line.

River Falls threatened to score early in the second quarter when they carried the ball to the one yard line, but they fumbled. Later in the quarter Macalaster kicked to Herkal on the 48, and he fought his way back for a nice 18 yard return. The next play found Rendler smashing and squirmed his way through the center for 18 yards to the 12. Bartz and Rendler then made it a first down on the four yard line. After failing to gain on two plays, Marr, with Rendler blocking, went around end and crossed the goal line for the only score of the game. Cudney's place kick was wide.

Both Attempt Passes

Macalaster fumbled the kickoff at the beginning of the second half, and Alfonse recovered for River Falls on the 26 yard line. Marr then picked up five yards and Nystrom heaved a 32 yard pass to Stenback, who was stopped short on the one yard line. River Falls failed to gain on the next two plays; so Cudney tried a field goal which fell short. The rest of the half developed into a punting duel until the last minutes when Mac completed their 32 yard pass. O'Brien, who was at end in place of Stenback, intercepted a pass and the game ended with River Falls holding the ball near midfield.

Team Play Consistent

Coach Lowery used several substitutes in the latter part of the game, and they all gave a good account of themselves. This indicates that River Falls will have a fair amount of reserve power for the remainder of the schedule.

Tom Rendler and Ken Marr were the offensive stars of the game. Herkal carried back several punts for nice gains. Wulf's kicking kept Macalaster back in the hole during most of the game. Frank looked very good on the defense. The line, with the exception of the ends was made up of freshmen and sophomores. They were charging hard and were in the Mac-

Dan's Dope

From all reports, Ted Whereatt of Superior has licked into shape another tough veteran team. With such all-conference men back as Mundy Marcuk, Ed Tonish, and Louis Rich, end, tackle, and halfback respectively, the Yellowjackets will provide a busy afternoon for any opponent. Last Friday night they ushered in the 1936 season by trouncing Hamline to the tune of 25-6. In case you didn't realize it, Superior's to be our Homecoming guest. . . LaCrosse, the Falcon's next opponent, also has a strong aggregation. Coach Howard Johnson has 15 lettermen besides several promising reserves with which to work. His chief regret is that Johnny Watts, slippery negro halfback, is ineligible this season. That boy provided many a headache in 1935. . . Stout seems to have its traditionally weak team. Their first of a probable series of defeats was administered last Saturday when the Platteville Teachers defeated them 20 to 6.

Campus bull sessions are now chiefly concerned with a discussion of the relative merits of the Yanks and Giants. The Yanks appear to have the most backers, but some student dopesters have figured the Giants to win. The Giant supporters are counting on Hubbell to stop the Yanks twice. That's a plenty tough assignment. The Yankee bats are loaded with dynamite.

Noticed Henry McCormick, the sport commentator of the Wisconsin State Journal, picks Wisconsin to tie for seventh in the Big Ten race this season. He gives them the nod over Chicago. The Badgers opened their season impressively Saturday by drubbing South Dakota State 24-7. Made 14 first downs against 2 for S. D. It looks as if Stuhldreher has set the ball rolling. It's a long come back trail. . . McCormick also predicts that Minnesota will finish first with Iowa and Ohio State tied for second. Those are long range predictions, Henry.

"Slav" Selvig will probably be out of action for some time because of a leg injury. Selvig insists he will be in there soon, but most injuries just don't heal that fast. Tough luck. . . Alphonse is capably filling Selvig's position at left tackle. Saturday's game indicated that this boy was not omitted when football talent was dished out. While in high school, Alphonse played end, but a scarcity of tackles has caused Lowery to convert him to that position. . . Gelo, a halfback from the local high school, looks like he has the goods. Although light, he is fast, shifty and possesses plenty of football talent.

As pretty block as we saw all day was put on Prof. Junkman near the east sideline. It seemed to be a great day for the mental guides of the college, as Prof. May had a little battle with the bleachers, and from all reports, the beachers won out. . . Seen in the crowd that attended were former Captains Brickner and Simpson. . . Throne, starting fullback for the Mac men will probably be remembered by some of the River Falls high school fans, as he played football and basketball here for one year.

Swats, Swipes . . . and Snatches

One of our imaginative juniors is laying plans for the founding of a new type of institution of higher education (at least he flatters himself by hoping it will be higher).

This is the essence of the plan.

The institution will be similiar to the present colleges except there will be no classes. Students will merely walk back and forth between buildings congregating where chance may direct and discussing what fancy may inspire.

The professorial duties will be limited to guiding the thinking of these discussion groups. Thus the faculty, not the students, will do the studying.

There will be a large library but no text books. Readers will browse at will. The one rule of conduct in the library will be: "Do not stand on the tables and sing."

There will be a "mixer" or social event every evening.

Three degrees will be offered: Bachelor of Social Relations, Master of Informal Discussions, and Doctor of Impractical Theories.

In Dr. Wyman's classes the apple-polishers who sit in the front row on purpose have become so disgusted that they have moved back two rows. Walker has a habit of standing just as close as he can to the front row--no matter how many feet (besides his own) he stands on in the process.

Snatches . . . Dr. Bryn Jones likes his coffee hot and at the end of his meal . . . Two small misses from the training school were striding down the sidewalk. Their voices rose to the acme of volume over: "Of course the kids will come! My gosh! I announced it, didn't I? But what I think is that we should make it a bigger show!" . . . Why are they growing tomato plants on the front lawn of South Hall - a new project of the Ag department?

Definitions: A train . . . is two sand blocks on the radio . . . and a man-bites-dog news event at River Falls. A column . . . is a lot of printed-nothingness that is as hard to name as a baby.

Swats . . . Prexy may have uttered more truth than he intended when he said the other day in assembly that, "college is a great football game." Frosh somehow seem to have a way of giving the obvious answer. When the new biology prof asked what a certain fungus growth was doing on the limb of a tree, some apparently quiet one innocently replied, "Growing."

Falcons Face Hard Conference Game

Powerful Maroon Machine Is Next Falconite Opponent; Contest Under Lights

The Falcons will make their 1936 conference debut, Friday night, October 2, at La Crosse against the Maroons of that city.

La Crosse is again expected to put a powerful machine on the field because of the athletic talent drawn to the school. This year, however, the Maroons will be minus the services of Johnny Watts, colored star of the past two seasons, who will play professional basketball with the Harlem Globe Trotters.

The Maroons will be able to put a complete array of veterans on the field, having a large number of lettermen returning.

The Falcons and Maroons have each had one previous engagment. Friday night, September 20, the Maroons played Winona Teachers to a scoreless tie. According to reports, the Maroons outplayed the Minnesota collegians and were stopped from scoring by a fumble on the latter's one yard line.

Former Students of College Marry

Among those to forsake the ties of their Alma Mater and enter into the state of marriage this summer were some of our most active students.

Miss LaVerle DeMarce of Lake City, Minnesota, and Leon "Colonel" Larson of Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin, were married March 1, 1936, in Stillwater, Minnesota. They did not announce their marriage until late this summer, however. Mr. and Mrs. Larson were students of this college at the time of their marriage. They are at home in Detroit, Michigan, where Mr. Larson is employed by the Silver Dome Trailer Company.

Mr. Carl Nietske, Smith-Hughes agriculture instructor at Clear Lake, Wisconsin, and Eileen Finstad, of Spring Valley, Wisconsin, were married in June.

Miss Gertrude Vietor, now a senior of this college, was married in the Lutheran parsonage of this city on June 7, 1936, to Iner Isaacson of River Falls. Mrs. Isaacson will receive her degree in English this coming spring.

Mr. Harold Blank and Miss Margurite Hawkins joined the number of "those married" on July 27, 1936. Mr. Blank was formerly a star on the Falcon teams. Mrs. Blank is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hawkins of this city.

Collegiate Clippings

Governor Alf Landon is not the only Kansas male winning renown for his sense of economy.

Take the males at University of Kansas for example. The men's council there has issued a firm resolution requesting the girls of the campus to share evenly in the evening's expenses while dating the men. They have even gone so far as to formally request the cafe owners of the town to issue separate dinner checks for the women.

"Do not have a false sense of chivalry" the University men were advised by the council.—South Texan.

The YWCA membership program was presented at 7 o'clock Monday evening in the Social Room. Ardelie Hamlett opened the program with a piano solo. Ruth Sampson, a freshman, represented "Everygirl".

It's an ill wind that blows no good and a poor death that doesn't lengthen the life of two boys at Purdue University.

They now work their way through school as professional pallbearers for a funeral home. Fee: two dollars per carry.—South Texan.
