NO. 2

College Trying New Basic Skills Plan This Year

A new co-ordinated plan for a basic skills program in English and mathematics is now in effect at Wisconsin State College at River Falls.

APPLYING especially to freshmen, the plan provides for a file of all first-year student's names in the Dean's office. This file is a record of individual achievement in such skills as reading, spelling, sentence structure, organization of ideas and basic mathematics.

Every entering freshman will have to demonstrate his proficiency in all of these areas. Almost every student needs some additional help in at least one area. Students are individually responsible for seeing to it that any deficiencies have been removed during the first year.

AT THE REQUEST of the students will be assigned to special by the instructors concerned, if the instructor believes that adequate skill has been demonstrated. In the cases where adequate skill has not been shown, students will be assigned to special clinics for help in areas of weakness.

It is hoped that this plan, by putting students on the same level, will encourage more attention to the personal basic skills problem. The professors in charge of the program feel that every student should make it his business to take every opportunity to develop these skills that are important to the satisfactory performance of college level work.

R F ENROLLMENT TOPS 1000

REGISTRATION FORM number 1000 is being handed to Kay Ostby, junior from Hudson, as she enrolled Friday morning. She is receiving the blank from Cletus Henriksen, business manager of the college. Late registrants this morning brought the total enrollment to 1011.

New Record Set At Registration Includes 400 Frosh

Enrollment at Wisconsin State College in River Falls passed the 1000 mark last Friday, for the first time in the school's history. Late registrants brought the total to 1009 students before the business office closed Friday afternoon.

REPRESENTING an increase of about 10 percent over last year's record-setting total of 914 students, the new high enrollment includes about 400 freshmen.

Latest tabulation shows that registration of freshman women is approximately 33 percent higher than last year.

Registration figures from 1955 show an increase in enrollment of 19 percent set last year's record.

Previous to last year, the all-time high had been 901 students which was set in 1949.

INCLUDED in the new high enrollment, is a record number of students from outside Wisconsin. The largest number of out-of-state students come from Minnesota, home of approximately 60 River Falls students. Other states include Maine, California, Nebraska, Iowa, Ohio and Michigan. Both the territories of Hawaii and Alaska are listed as "home" by River Falls students.

Best represented by students from abroad is Iran with eight students. Also represented are Mexico and Nigeria.

If There's Sufficient 'Yen for Pen' New Campus Group May Be Born

A new club for would-be writers, poets and cartoonists on campus is in the process of getting organized.

If there is student demand the group will be planned as a kind of study club to give students who have the "urge to write" a chance to develop skill in their fields of special interest, and an opportunity for exchange of ideas.

OPEN TO any student at River Falls, the organization will be advised by Jim Crane, art; Hugo Hartig, English and Wayne Wolfe, journalism.

With Student Senate approval, the club will also produce some kind of literary publication, possibly a quarterly supplement to the Student Voice, according to Mr. Wolfe.

Topics which the club will consider may include the writing and selling of magazine articles, short story writing, poetry appreciation, reviewing of books and plays, publication art, writing for professional publications and literary criticism in general.

THE ADVISORS stress that this is not an exclusive club for "longhairs," but rather that it is open to anyone who has an interest in creative expression. Experience in writing or publication is not necessary.

An organization meeting will be announced soon. In the meantime, any student who is interested may contact Mr. Wolfe in the Student Voice office.

STUDENT INSURANCE IDENTIFICATION CARDS

Students who have paid their student insurance and have not received identification cards can obtain them by contacting Don Laue, phone 2364.

The presentation is in memory of her two sisters, Mrs. Anna Davis Bjerke of the Class of 1914, and Mrs. Josie Davis Huntoon of the Class of 1917, Hudson, Wisconsin. The piano will be placed in the Social Room.

Mrs. Bjerke accompanied group singing and did solo work while in school.

FIRST REHEARSAL SET FOR GIRLS' BAND

The first practice of the 1956-57 school year for the Falconettes, the girls marching band, will be today at 6:30 p.m. in the North hall auditorium.

Organized for the first time last year, the marching band appeared at football games, Homecoming and other special events. Lucille Dahm, in charge of organizing the Falconettes, said that enthusiasm for the group is high and it is probable that a large number of old and new members will turn out for the first practice.

Miss Dahm said that girls interested should bring their own instruments if they have them and if not, instruments will be provided. Prospects of appearing at the La Crosse football game look good said Miss Dahm.

Vocational Ag Instructors To Convene Here Saturday

The annual Fall Agricultural Conference will be held at the college Saturday, September 22. Featuring speakers from the Universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota, the meeting will be attended by vocational agriculture teachers throughout the state.

Starting at 9:30 a.m., the conference will continue into the afternoon. The sessions will be held in the Little Theatre.

DEALING with all phases of agriculture, the conference will pay special attention to the subjects of Dairy Husbandry, Ag Economics and Agricultural Engineering.

John May, director of the Division of Agriculture at River Falls, has organized the conference which will be sponsored by his Division. Mr. May will serve as chairman of the meeting.

APPROXIMATELY 80 ag teachers are expected. This is about the same number that attended last year.

Listed according to their topic, the following persons have been invited to address the ag group: L. F. Graber, Agronomy and E. E. Heizer, Dairy Husbandry, both from the University of Wisconsin. Two professors from the U. of Minnesota, S. A. Engene, Ag Economics and P. Manson, Agricultural Engineering, have also been asked to speak.

Squad to be One of Largest, New Debate Coach Predicts

The first meeting of the year for the River Falls debate squad, expected to be one of the largest in the Midwest, will be held Wednesday, September 19. Starting at 6 p.m. in 212 S., the meeting is to organize the year's activities and give the squad an opportunity to discuss plans with the new Coach, Walter E. Simonson.

Mr. Simonson is expecting approximately 35 students to be out for debate this year. If so, River Falls will have one of the 20 to 30 largest debate programs in the nation. The only other schools having as many students in their programs in this area of the United States are the University of Minnesota and Michigan State.

The new coach predicted that the program at River Falls will be larger than in any of the big ten schools or in the other Wisconsin State Colleges.

The major part of last year's debate squad will be returning this fall. Mr. Simonson expects to lose only three students from the 1955 squad.

The Editor Speaks . . .

Man is but a reed, the most feeble thing in nature, but he is a thinking reed. The entire universe need not arm itself to crush him. A vapor, a drop of water suffices to kill him . . . All our dignity, then, consists of thought. By it we must elevate ourselves, and not by space and time which we cannot fill. Let us endeavor to think well: that is the principle of morality. By space the universe encompasses and swallows man up like an atom; by thought he can comprehend the world.

—Blaise Pascal, "The Philosophers" (1670)

The true object of education, as often professed but too seldom practiced, is to stimulate the mind into thought, particularly original thought. An individual's capacity for thinking should be constantly enlarged while in college—this is obvious. The direction in which a person's capacity is increased is often times less distinct, but infinitely more significant.

A generalization will divide thought along two main avenues. The one concerned with the economic aspects of life—the other with the business of living in today's world. Higher education is designed to educate students along these levels. Obviously, and unfortunately, instruction along economic lines receives far more formal attention.

A vital part of our education is thus left largely to chance. The mere fact that students have opportunities to practice human relations does not mean they will be schooled in the art. Students should be REQUIRED to learn how to live in addition to being taught how to earn a living.

The solution is a simple one. More stress must be placed on the social sciences. This is the tool with which today's world problems can be solved. After all, most problems can be simply described as a lack of proper human relations. Many wonderful and powerful things have been developed by making use of the physical sciences. The social sciences could be equally successful in developing human relations necessary for the wise use of our technological achievements. The power of the atom proved decisive in the last war. WHY hasn't it been developed for peacetime use? Science can cure the potato rot—it can also be used to cure the brain rot.

The physical sciences have advanced many times farther in our culture than have the social sciences. Technically, this is known as our "cultural lag." It seems high time that we picked up a few credits to bridge the gap. The prevention of future world conflict will come through a race for knowledge in human relations rather than a race for the biggest bomb.

Mathematics, chemistry, physics and their counterparts have provided the means to live. We must now turn to sociology, psychology and the like to find the way to live.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

'NOW GET IN THERE AN' FIGHT!'

GAD BOOKS!

HAGESTAD

The issue of William Inge's play, "Bus Stop" (Bantam Books, 25c) as a motion picture by 20th Century-Fox, occasions, I think, a consideration of the art of that writer.

INGE, author of "Picnic" and "Come Back Little Sheba," has also had both of these plays made into movies. The qualities in Inge's work that attract Hollywood would seem to be the rich descriptiveness — the color, movement and truthfulness that lie in all of the man's plays. It is a fact that these qualities do exist very pronouncedly in all of Inge's work, but the quality, or device, perhaps, that makes this author's plays truly significant is not so largely recognized as the other, more evident characteristics I mentioned above.

This quality of which I speak is recognizable in "Come Back Little Sheba" and "Picnic," but entirely obvious in "Bus Stop." That quality of Inge's is the exploration of loneliness.

"PICNIC" is a play that has to do with the effect of a handsome, irresponsible braggart, Hal Carter, on a group of women in a lonely Kansas town. "Come Back Little Sheba" is about loneliness in the lives of Doc and Lola — two people who have their lonely existence shattered by Marie and Turk, two young people. "Bus Stop" is capsulized loneliness: a bus and its load of people marooned by a storm in a little one-horse Kansas town.

All the people on the bus and in the town's restaurant (which serves as the bus station and rest stop), lead intensely lonely lives.

Inge subjects these lonely existences to some, very moving or vibrant outside force: in the book under review, it is the force that brings these bus-riders together; in "Come Back Little Sheba," it is the force emanating from the young people; in "Picnic," it is the force of Hal Carter's physiognomy and personality.

THIS PATTERN of circumstance, this distinctly Inge device precipitates a very true, logical resolve, which distinctly climaxes every Inge play, Hollywood or not.

This Inge characteristic of probing loneliness is, I think, far more significant than those for which Hollywood takes his plays. These later characteristics lend themselves to dramatization, certainly — that one of which I speak does not.

This characteristic is significant, I think, for it illuminates and comments upon a reality that exists in all of our experiences—loneliness.

The Tamburitzans, performing before a capacity audience, presented an entertaining program of folk music from the Baltic countries.

Attired in colorful costumes of the Baltic peasants, the Duquesne University group showed a marked precision in all the dances. The playing and singing was suitable for the style necessary in presenting folk music.

The over-all presentation gave a fine picture of folk music from the Balkan countries.

Concluding the long program were two selections of American jazz. Although jazz is a form of folk music, it was not complementary to the rest of the program.

Letters to the Editor...

Falcons Take Augsburg in Season Opener

GET HIM, BILL! Stretching to make the block on Augsburg's Carl Hellgen (15) is Falcon end Bill Kraft. Coming around end with the ball is RF halfback Darreld Johnson (36) protected by Bucky DiSalvo (63). The other River Falls player in the picture is John Rutter (29). Other Auggie defenders are Dick Green (17) and Jim Horn (30).

Foes on One-Yard Stripe As Contest Closes 14-6

by K-Don Tibbetts

River Falls won the season's opener in the Minneapolis parade stadium 14-6 by holding off a desperate last-minute stand by the Augsburg Auggies.

The Falcons dominated the first quarter of play but were unable to push across a touchdown. An Augsburg punt at the end of the first quarter rolled dead on RF's three yard line. Bucky DiSalvo then carried to the 10 yard marker.

Two plays later RF fumbled and Augsburg recovered on the nine yard line. Jerry Martin crossed the goal from a yard out four plays later. Tod Guberman blocked the try for extra point making the score: Augsburg 6, River Falls 0.

Steffen returned the kickoff 20 yards to the 35. From there it took the Falcons just four plays to take the lead. Steffen's pass to Darrell Johnson was good for 30 yards. Steffen then passed to Tom Shields for 12 yards and another first down.

DiSalvo carried the ball to the five for an 18-yard gain and then bulled his way over for a TD on the next play. Steffen's try for extra point was good and the Falcons led 7-6.

Augsburg returned the kickoff to their 38 and marched to RF's 31 yard marker before losing the ball on downs. Johnson carried for three yards and caught a pass thrown by Steffen that was good for 19 more. DiSalvo picked up 15 yards on the next play for another first down. Johnson's pass to Shield was incomplete. Steffen picked up seven yards and DiSalvo added eight more for a first on the 20.

Following DiSalvo's carry for no gain, Frank Sprenger, playing his first seven seconds of college football, sprinted around the left end, sidestepped two would-be tacklers and crossed the goal for pay dirt. Steffen's kick was good and RF led 14-6.

The second half saw both teams fumble a lot and lose passes through interception. With less than two minutes left to play, RF's second team fumbled and Augsburg recovered on the Falcon's 40 yard line.

Pass interference was called on the next play and Augsburg had a first down on the 10. River Falls Coach Phil Belfiori sent in the first stringers again and they managed to stop the drive on the one yard line just before the game ended.

DiSalvo was the leading player at rushing for the Falcons with 107 yards in 21 attempts. Steffen was next with six yards in 16 carries. He completed three out of 10 passes for 52 yards to bring his total yardage for the night to 113 yards. Johnson completed one pass for 12 yards and picked up 39 more in eight carries.

Kraft and Shield gave the Augsburg quarterback trouble at times and kept the Auggies from trying many end runs. Jack Omer substituting on defense for an injured John Rutter proved himself to be a good prospect.

The Falcon's line was occasionally unsteady, but they came through when the chips were down. If the Falcons can recover from the epidemic of colds that has hit the squad, they should be ready to battle La Crosse next Saturday on even terms.

Falcon Fanfare

K-Don Tibbetts

Playing the fullback position for the Falcons this fall will be Anthony "Bucky" DiSalvo. Bucky, a 5", 210-pound senior, hails from Cumberland. While in high school, he earned four letters in football and one in baseball.

Bucky has already earned three letters in football at River Falls. Although he has seen a lot of action in the past three years, Bucky was never a regular starter until the last five games of the 1955 season.

Undecided as to whether he was coming out for training this year, Bucky, when pressed said, "It's too much work trying to keep up with the rest of the backfield when their combined weight is about the same as mine."

Usually an easy-mannered guy, Bucky can occasionally become a little less easy to get along with on the football field. Superior can attest to this. Two years ago the team members made the mistake of telling each other to "get that fat boy in the backfield." Bucky was heard to mutter in each huddle, "give me the ball, just give me the ball." When the smoke cleared from that 33-0 slaughter, Bucky had scored two touchdowns and lateralled for another. No other team has made the same mistake since.

Outside of football Bucky is a social science major with a physical education minor. He likes cowboy movies and, although his size doesn't show it, likes girls better than food.

OFFER TO SERVICEMEN

The Student Voice will send copies of this year's publication free of charge to any former student of River Falls State College who is now in the armed forces.

Participants Needed For Cross-Country Track Team Events

Candidates for the first River Falls cross-country track team are urged to report immediately to track coach Fran Polsfoot in the coaches' office, North hall. Athletes with track experience or anyone else interested in the three-mile event are asked to report.

If enough interest is shown in the event so River Falls can produce a squad, they will be the second Wisconsin State College to do so—La Crosse already participates. Milwaukee, a state college before it became affiliated with the University of Wisconsin last year, also fielded a squad. Most Minnesota schools participate in cross-country. It is quite evident that a schedule can easily be arranged, perhaps as soon as this fall.

Freddy Falcon Says —

Beat LaCrosse

La Crosse to Be One of Season's Toughest

The River Falls Falcons will probably be heading for one of their toughest tests of the entire season when they face the La Crosse Indians in the home-season opening game Saturday night, September 22. Game time is set for 8 p.m. at Ramer Field. Last year the Falcons beat the Indians, 21-13, while both teams finished the season tied for second place with records of 4-1-0.

Post-season reports from the river city indicate that they were hurt through graduation with the loss of Little All-American back Willie Berzinski, back Jerry Tuska, quarterback Jimmy Mason, and tackles Gollnick and Mett-lach. However, they do have a total of 17 lettermen returning, including a fine crop of sophomores which show great promise of filling in the gaps. Otherwise, the team is composed of experienced men. Frank Granger is slated to replace Mason in the ball-handling department.

The La Crosse offense is expected to be a smooth combination of passing and running, with head Coach Vickroy trying several different teams of backs.

Three new coaches have been added to the Indians' staff this year. Robert Steuck and Robert Batchelder played on the 1951 Cigar Bowl champion team, while Robert Kime quarterbacked the 1953 Cigar Bowl co-champion squad.

River Falls is expected to present the same starting eleven which faced Augsburg.

Three New Buildings in Prospect For Campus; Will Cost $2,200,000

Construction of a Health and Physical Education building, men's dormitory and Student Union worth nearly $2,200,000 is on the horizon for Wisconsin State College at River Falls. The big question is, "How soon?"

It is assumed by reliable sources that both the Student Union and the men's dorm will be started before this year's Commencement.

Over three million dollars was appropriated and set aside by the federal government for the building of Student Unions on Wisconsin State College campuses. River Falls is to receive $500,000 of this amount. The Board of Regents last week requested an additional $1,940,000 from the Housing and Home Finance Agency. River Falls' share of this is $150,000, bringing the total to $540,000. Plans have been approved, but construction cannot start until the money has been released.

The situation is much the same concerning the dormitory for men. The building will get underway as soon as the federal government makes the money available. A total of $650,000 has been allocated for the dorm.

The Health and Physical Education building at River Falls was given number two position in a list of the 15 most urgently needed buildings in the State College system when members of the Board of Regents submitted a revised priority list recently.

At the same time, the Board increased the estimated cost of the building from $850,000 to one million dollars. The single request preceding that of River Falls is for a laboratory school at Superior.

It seems very likely that money for the new health and physical education structure will be appropriated in the next legislative session. The state legislature convenes again in January.

If it allocates a total of $8,325,000 or more for new construction at the university and state colleges, River Falls, according to the revised priority list, will be in line for the new gym. This amount includes over a million dollars for normal repair at the university and state colleges as well as the funds needed for all the buildings that are ahead of the Health and Physical Education building on the priority list.

Predictions are that the legislature will make approximately 16 million dollars available for new structures.

Architects for the Student Unions at River Falls and La Crosse are Schubert, Sorenson and associates of La Crosse. This firm has also designed the men's dormitory to be built on campus.

The local Union Building design is by an alumnus of River Falls, Milton Monington, who is employed by Schubert, Sorenson and associates.

The men's dorms throughout the Wisconsin State College system are identical.

Approximately 60 students turned out for the first concert band rehearsal. According to B. J. Rozehnal, director, this is the largest number at a first meeting since he took over the band 25 years ago.

There will be a larger percentage of freshmen in the band this year than in previous seasons. A total of 26 first-year students were at Thursday afternoon's rehearsal.

Mr. Rozehnal said that the band should have a well balanced instrumentation. He feels that the group can "really go to town." Several short and one longer tour is planned for the year. One concert per quarter will be played on campus by the band.
